ELEVENTH ANNIVERSARY.

THE American Home Missionary Society held its Eleventh Anniversary in the Tabernacle, New-York, on Wednesday evening, May 10th, 1837. In the absence of the President, the chair was taken by Hon. N. W. HOWELL, LL. D., Vice-President of the Society, and the meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. M'Auley.

The Treasurer's Report was read by Mr. Knowles Taylor, Treasurer of the Society.

Portions of the Eleventh Annual Report were read by Rev. Absalom Peters, D. D., Corresponding Secretary.

The following resolutions were adopted, viz :

1. On motion of Rev. A. D. Eddy, of Newark, N. J., seconded by Rev. F. W. Graves, of Alton, Illinois,

Resolved, That the Reports now read be adopted and printed, under the direction of the Executive Committee.

2. On motion of Rev. Albert Barnes, of Philadelphia, seconded by Rev. Theophilus Smith, of New-Canaan, Conn.,

Resolved, That the history and the present aspects of Divine Providence, in regard to the church, indicate that Christianity will soon become the religion of all nations, and that this country is to bear an important part in its universal diffusion.

3. On motion of Rev. Dr. Patton, of New-York, seconded by Rev. Dr. Pond, Professor in the Theological Seminary, Bangor,

Resolved, That while the financial distresses of the community afford ground for apprehension that the Missionaries may be obliged to defer for a season their drafts on the treasury ; and, while the Society would cherish a fraternal sympathy for them in the embarrassment to which they may be thus subjected, they would pledge themselves, and earnestly solicit the friends of the cause throughout the country, promptly to adopt such measures as shall, under God, furnish the means of immediate relief.

The meeting was one of uncommon interest and encouragement. The resolutions were sustained by eloquent addresses, by Rev. Messrs. Eddy, Graves, Barnes, and Dr. Patton, and the exercises were diversified by appropriate sacred music. The manifestations of attachment to the Society and its work, were strong; and specific pledges of pecuniary aid were made on the spot, by clergymen, on behalf of themselves and their people, and by others.

The Society proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year, and made choice of the following, viz:

ELEVENTH REPORT.

THE Anniversaries of Benevolent Societies are privileged seasons. At whatever point they are considered, those labors of love which are blessed to the salvation of men are objects of unspeakable interest; and to those who have planted, or watered, or in any way contributed to the benign results of such labors, it is delightful to pause at stated periods and group them together, that they may be contemplated as a whole, to the praise of Him who giveth prosperity to his people.

We cannot, it is true, in the moral as in the natural world, hold a "feast of ingathering at the end of the year," and rejoice over the collected fruits of a harvest fully ripe. In the kingdom of Christ there will be no such privileged day until the harvest of the world shall come. There is here no succession of seed-time and of reaping, marked by the seasons of the year. The Sun of Righteousness never sets; and under his genial rays, equally propitious in winter as in summer, the field is always productive, and seed-time and harvest are intermingled; "the ploughman overtaketh the reaper, and the treader of grapes him that soweth seed," and there is no rest for the people of God, till each in succession shall have numbered the years of his life. In presenting, therefore, the ELEVENTH REPORT of the AMERICAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY, the Executive Committee meet their numerous friends and fellow-laborers, not to celebrate the triumphs of an enterprise already completed, but to set up their EBENEZER at another point in its progress, and to record upon it, that it may be known and read of all men, "HITHERTO THE LORD HATH HELPED US."

The last Annual Report brought the history of this Society down to the 11th of May, 1836. There had then been employed, during the whole or some portions of the preceding year, in the United States and the adjoining Territories and Provinces, 755 Missionaries, to which were added 17 Pastors and Evangelists in France, towards whose support this Society had contributed important aid, making the whole number reported at that time 772. During the year which has since elapsed, the Committee have aided in the support of 810 Missionaries and Agents, of whom 764 have been employed in the United States and Territories, 22 in the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada, and 24 in France, in co-operation with the French Evangelical Societies of Paris and Geneva. The names and locations of the Missionaries, and other important particulars, are presented in the following

RECAPITULATION.

Of the Missionaries and agents enumerated in the preceding tables, including 17 in France, 578 were in commission at the commencement of the year, a large proportion of whom have been reappointed, and are still in the service of the Society ; and 232 new appointments have been made, making the whole number aided within the year, including 24 in France, under the care of the Evangelical Societies of Paris and Geneva, 810. Of these, 595 are settled as pastors, or are employed as stated supplies in single congregations, and 191 extend their labors, either as pastors or stated supplies, to two or three congregations each, and 24, including agents, are employed on larger fields.

The number of congregations, missionary districts and fields of agency thus supplied, in whole or in part, during the year, has been 1,025, and the amount of ministerial labor performed under commissions from this Society, since the date of our last report, has been 554 years.

From a general review of the correspondence, we judge that the congregations aided have enjoyed a greater amount of spiritual blessings, and a greater number of revivals, than in the year preceding the last. The number reported as added to the churches aided, making proper allowance for the imperfection of a portion of the reports, is about 5,933, viz: 2,181 by letters from other churches, and 3,752 on profession of their faith. This last number, added to those reported in former years, makes the whole number reported as received into the churches aided, on profession of their faith, during the short period of this Society's operations, 31,917. And this number is probably several thousands below the fact, as it has been found impracticable to obtain perfect reports from all the Missionaries, and the committee have been careful to estimate the deficiencies each year, below what they have believed to be the real number, while the number of conversions under the labors of our Missionaries has far exceeded the number reported as added to the churches, and may be safely estimated at more than 40,000. To have been the instruments of turning from the error of their ways, and of saving to "the life everlasting" so many thousands, is itself a result most cheering and animating to those whose contributions and agencies, under the blessing of God, have produced it. But the salvation of 40,000 souls is but a small item in the calculation of good which has been, and will hereafter be, derived from the gifts and labors embraced in the operations of this Society. The Sabbath schools sustained in the congregations aided, during the last year, have embraced, on a low estimate, more than 60,000 scholars, and the Bible classes under the instruction of the Missionaries, not less than 20,000 pupils of all ages. The cause of Temperance has also been efficiently promoted in most of the congregations, and the number of subscribers to the principle of total abstinence from the use of intoxicating drinks, on all the fields occupied by our Missionaries is probably more than 150,000.

STATE OF THE TREASURY.

Several causes have contributed to diminish the receipts of this Society during the past year. Among these, the large balance of nearly $15,000 in the Treasury at the commencement of the year has exerted its influence. This fact having been published in our Annual Report, the impression became general throughout the country, that the current demands upon this Society were already provided for, and the necessity of increased contributions to its funds appeared to be less urgent than in former years. In the mean time, the existing embarrassments and necessities of the Education Society and the Foreign Missionary Board, were urged upon the public with special earnestness. The result has been that a larger proportion than usual of the contributions of the benevolent, has flowed into those departments of the general cause whose necessities were the most urgent, while that which was better supplied has been comparatively neglected. Of the propriety and duty of this discrimination we do not doubt. Several of the members of our own Committee have acted in accordance with it. In ordinary times, this would probably not have resulted in any embarrassment to the cause of Home Missions. But as the tide of affairs has turned in the commercial world, the pecuniary pressure upon the country became alarming, before the actual wants of our own Society urged upon the Committee the necessity of extraordinary measures to supply them. And when this necessity became apparent, it was too late to realize any immediately favorable returns from that portion of the public, on whom alone we have been accustomed to rely in such emergencies. The pecuniary embarrassments, and the prostration of mercantile credit, had already begun, which have since been thickening around us, until they have resulted in the unparalleled desolation and alarm which now exists.

The Committee have accordingly been under the necessity of allowing the rapid expenditure of their funds in hand, to meet the current demands upon the Treasury, without any immediate prospects of its being replenished. The balance in the Treasury at the commencement of the year, as appears from the Treasurer's Report, was $14,930 15, while the receipts, since the last anniversary, have been $85,701 59, which is about $1000 more than the receipts of the preceding year, exclusive of a large legacy received from the estate of the late Joseph Burr, and makes a total of $100,631 74. This sum has all been expended, excepting $1,102 02, now in the Treasury, and this balance is all due at the present time to meet the drafts and bills which must be cancelled within the coming ten days.

In this state of our finances, there would be nothing alarming, in ordinary times of commercial prosperity. It has not unfrequently occurred, in the progress of this Society's operations, that our Treasure has been overdrawn from five to ten thousand dollars, and at one time the balance against us had reached the sum of $14,000. But individuals of the Committee did not hesitate to render themselves personally liable for the amounts necessary to supply the deficiencies, and the drafts of the Missionaries have never failed to be promptly paid. Our condition, however, is widely different at the present crisis. Every day brings us intelligence of the failure of individuals on whose subscriptions, (remaining unpaid,) we had relied for temporary relief, until efficient measures could be perfected for opening new sources of income, and the difficulty of obtaining temporary loans on individual responsibility, has rendered it impossible for the Committee to avail themselves of those facilities, which they have readily secured to the Society on all former occasions of necessity.

In these circumstances of embarrassment, the Committee apprehend, though with great reluctance, that they may be under the painful necessity of soon addressing a circular to all the Missionaries of the Society, requesting them to withhold their drafts on the Treasury, or to draw for only a portion of the amounts due them, until we shall have had time to make our appeal to the friends of the cause and to the public at large, in the hope of soon securing the means of continuing the payment of their much needed dues.

The Committee are aware that nothing but considerations of the most urgent necessity could justify such a measure. But this necessity may exist, and we throw out the painful suggestion, that, by the prompt and efficient aid of our friends, the apprehended crisis may, if possible, be avoided.

It should also be borne in mind that, besides the amounts now due to the Missionaries for labors already performed, the Committee are pledged, to the amount of more than $50,000, in commissions yet to be fulfilled, the whole of which will become due in the coming twelve months. In the mean time, new and inviting fields are constantly opening for enlarged operations; and it remains to be determined whether this Society shall be furnished with the means of going forward in its twice blessed work. We throw ourselves with confidence upon the benevolence of the Christian public, and the blessing of God, and feel that in urging upon the consciences of American Christians the present embarrassments and the constantly growing necessities of the cause of Home Missions, we are pleading for a department of benevolent effort, whose efficient prosecution is not only highly important, but indispensable to the best interests of our country and the world.

That the grounds of this appeal, and the immense interests involved in the success of it, may be the more distinctly seen and appreciated, we proceed to present some additional facts and considerations connected with the past operations of this Society, and which have an important bearing upon its future prospects of increasing usefulness.

AUXILIARY SOCIETIES AND AGENCIES.

MASSACHUSETTS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The receipts of this Society, during the year ending April 1, 1837, have been $15,667 16, which, added to a balance of $5,868 74 in the Treasury at the commencement of the year, makes the whole amount at the disposal of the Society, since its last annual return, $21,535 90. Of this sum $9,059 51 have been expended in the support of 67 Missionaries in that state, and $5,349 90 have been paid over to the Parent Society, leaving a balance in the Treasury of the Massachusetts Society, April 1, 1837, of $7,126 49.

Other sums have been received from that state, amounting to $4,840 29, which have been contributed directly to the Parent Society, making the whole amount reported to us, as contributed to Home Missions by the friends of the cause in Massachusetts, $18,157 55, which is $3,717 82 less than was contributed to the same cause in the preceding year. This may be in part accounted for by the pecuniary embarrassments of the times, and in part from the fact that our Agent and Associate Secretary on that field, the Rev. R. S. Storrs, D. D., has been obliged, on account of ill health and the cares of his congregation, to withdraw from the active agency which he had prosecuted with great energy and success during several preceding years, and his place has not until recently been supplied.

MAINE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society, like the preceding, has also been affected by the reverses of the times, and by the removal of its General Agent, the Rev. Samuel Johnson, by death. He died in the midst of his labors, and in the full tide of his extensive and increasing usefulness, November 16, 1836. The receipts of the Society for the year ending April 1, 1837, have been $7,198 36, which added to a balance of $201 47 in the Treasury at the commencement of the year, makes the whole disposable means of the Society, since its last annual return, $7,399 83. The expenditures of the Society during the same period, have been $9,190 91, leaving the Treasury overdrawn, on the first of April, $1,791 08. The amount contributed by individuals in Maine directly to the Parent Society has been $300; making the whole amount derived from that state to the cause of Home Missions, within the year, $7,498 36.

The number of Missionaries supported by the Maine Missionary Society has been 107.

CONNECTICUT MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The number of Missionaries sustained in Connecticut, by this Society, during the last year, has been 34, and the number of congregations aided, 40. The receipts of the Society have been $4,026 22, which added to the balance in the Treasury, April 1, 1836, makes a total of $6,986 18, of which $1,000 are the avails of a legacy received, the interest only to be expended. The disbursements during the same period have been $4,826 26; leaving a balance in the Treasury, on the first of April, 1837, of $2,159 92, all of which, excepting the legacy above named, was then due to the Missionaries for labors already performed. Besides the receipts above named, there have been contributed directly to the Parent Society from the Fairfield County Domestic Missionary Society, and derived from the payment of legacies and the contributions of individuals, associations and congregations in Connecticut, the sum of $5,146 85, making the whole sum contributed in that state to the cause of Home Missions, during the last year, $9,173 07, more than one half of which, including $500 contributed in aid of the Rhode-Island Missionary Society, has been expended by the Parent Society in sustaining Missionaries in other states, especially in the West.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The receipts of this Society during the past year, ending April 1, 1837, have been $6,638 55, which is $1,883 more than the receipts of the year next preceding. Balance in the Treasury, April 1, 1836, $849. This increase is doubtless to be attributed to the continued labors of the Agent in that state, the Rev. Isaac Willey, whose services appear to have greatly increased the efficiency and usefulness of that Society. Its expenditures, during the same period, have been $7,350 80, leaving a balance in the hands of the Treasurer, April 1, 1837, of $136 90. This Society has sustained 60 Missionaries in New-Hampshire and 1 in Lower Canada, and is increasing in usefulness and in the extent of its operations. The amount received by the Parent Society from New-Hampshire, in addition to the sum above reported is $573, making the whole amount derived from contributions in that state to the cause of Home Missions, $7,211⁵⁵.

VERMONT DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The number of Missionaries reported by this Society within the year ending April 1, 1837, is 46, and the number of missionary fields occupied in whole or in part, 51. Amount in the Treasury at the commencement of the year was $5,230 69, which was the avails of a legacy then recently received. Its receipts during the year have been $4,339 95 ; making, in all, at the disposal of the Society, $9,570 64. Of this sum $4,152 have been expended in sustaining the operations of the Society in that state, leaving in the Treasury, April 1, 1837, a balance of $4,625 11. The sum of $239 72 has been contributed directly to the Parent Society from that state ; making the whole amount derived to the support of Home Missions from the friends of the cause in Vermont, within the last year, $4,579 67.

PHILADELPHIA BOARD OF AGENCY.

The report of this Agency for the year ending April 1, 1837, is highly interesting and encouraging. "In no preceding year," says the report, "have our endeavors to promote the momentous interests committed to us been so signally prospered." The receipts of the year from this Agency have been $6,901 41, being an excess of $1,070 92 over those of the year preceding, and, in addition to the above, subscriptions have been obtained, but not yet paid, sufficient to make the whole amount secured to the Society, within the last year, more than $8,500, which is $2,000 more than the amount secured the preceding year. The number of Missionaries sustained within the bounds of this Agency is 34, who have been employed in the states of Delaware, Maryland, New-Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Several of the churches aided on these fields have been blessed with special tokens of the divine favor in revivals of religion.

For further particulars of this Agency, we refer to the interesting report of our Agent and Associate Secretary, the Rev. G. N. Judd, in the Appendix.

CENTRAL AGENCY IN THE STATE OF NEW-YORK, UTICA.

Sixty-one Missionaries have been sustained within the bounds of this Agency during the whole or a part of the last year, who have bestowed their labors upon 70 congregations, and have performed, under commissions from this Society, 39 years of ministerial service. Several of the churches aided have been blessed with special revivals, and while the report of the Agency presents the most cheering evidence of the usefulness of our operations on that field, it exhibits also the most urgent necessity for their continuance and increase. We give the report entire in the Appendix, to which the reader is referred, not only for a more detailed account of proceedings, but for several suggestions worthy of the consideration of our Missionaries generally, and deeply interesting to the friends of the cause.

The receipts of the Agency, during the year, have been $3,315 21, and the amount appropriated on the same field, $3,985.

WESTERN AGENCY IN THE STATE OF NEW-YORK, GENEVA.

The number of Missionaries sustained during the whole or a part of the last year on the field of this Agency has been 67, and the number of congregations aided in their support, 99. During the year 12 new fields have been taken up, 10 new places of worship have been erected or commenced, and 24 churches have reported revivals, and 883 have been reported as added to the churches, 615 on profession of their faith. Soon after the last anniversary an effort was commenced to collect $20,000, nearly the whole of which has been subscribed, but owing to the embarrassments of the times, only about $11,000 has been actually received by the Agency. Of this sum, $2,339 has been contributed by 87 churches which have been aided by the American Home Missionary Society.

The foregoing results indicate the great efficiency of our Agent on that field, the Rev. J. A. Murray, to whose report, in the Appendix, we refer for many other details of a most interesting and encouraging character.

THE CANADA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society, whose formation and connexion with the American Home Missionary Society were announced in our last Annual Report, has hitherto expended its principal efforts in searching out and supplying, through the aid of the Parent Society, the destitute churches, and Protestant settlements in Lower Canada. The centre of its operations is Montreal, and its efficiency, during the last year, affords promises of great usefulness in future. The number of its Missionaries is 18, a large portion of whose support is supplied by the Parent Society. The receipts of the Canada Society, through the labors of the agent, the Rev. W. F. Curry, have been increased to $1,562, and the prospect of an annual increase of receipts on that field, is encouraging; while the blessing of God upon the labors of our Missionaries there has been signal. Our Agent expects soon to visit the Upper Province, where the field is also inviting, and where the few Missionaries of the Parent Society, who have already been appointed there, are laboring with encouraging success.

THE WESTERN RESERVE DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY, OHIO.

The returns from this Society are incomplete. Its operations have been conducted as usual, and with the usual tokens of the divine favor. The labors of our Agent on that field, the Rev. O. P. Hoyt, have been commenced within the year, and promise much usefulness.

CENTRAL BOARD OF AGENCY FOR THE WESTERN STATES, CINCINNATI, OHIO.

The receipts of this Agency during the year have been $3,584 84, which added to a balance of $250 in the hands of the Agency April, 1836, makes the whole amount at its disposal since that date, $3,834 84, all of which, excepting about $500, appropriated to other laborers in the West, has been expended in the support of 25 Missionaries whose commissions were granted on the recommendation of the Agency. The great usefulness of this Board, and the happy results of the labors of our Agent on that field, the Rev. Henry Little, are every year more and more apparent. [See report in Appendix.]

INDIANA MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The receipts of this Society, not before reported, have been $1,256 77, all of which has been expended in the state of Indiana in aid of the support of the 31 missionaries of the Parent Society in that state. Our Agent there, the Rev. Samuel G. Lowry, has pursued his labors with increasing usefulness during the last year, and the prospects of the cause in that state, though attended with some embarrassments, are encouraging. The field is white unto the harvest, and many more laborers are needed.

AGENTS IN ILLINOIS.

The Rev. Theron Baldwin and the Rev. Albert Hale have divided the Agency of this state between them during the last year, each of them devoting about half of his time to the service of the Home Missionary Society. Their reports are highly encouraging. Their labors have been abundant, and have been attended with much success, not only in the collection of funds and the strengthening of feeble churches, but also in the promotion of revivals and the conversion of souls. Their receipts for the Society have been about $2,000. For other interesting particulars, we refer to a letter from Mr. Baldwin, in the Appendix.

OTHER AGENTS IN THE WEST.

The Rev. Joseph Lane, the commencement of whose agency in Kentucky was announced in our last report, continued his useful labors on that field, until about the 1st of October, 1836. From the 1st of March preceding to that date, he had collected for the Society $436 08. During the same period, he remarks in his final report, "I have preached 81 discourses, and attended 12 protracted and sacramental meetings, some of which have been very interesting; and I hope to meet above some who during these meetings submitted to God and commenced their journey towards heaven. In these labors I have had the satisfaction to meet with a cordial reception, and only in a few instances have I met with any unpleasant expression of feeling. I have labored as a Missionary more than as an Agent, and have made it my object to preach to the churches and acquaint myself with their wants, more than to ask them for their money. This course I have pursued with the expectation that, in the present state of destitution, which is every year increasing in this state, the churches would accept with cheerfulness any judicious measures which might be adopted, especially by the Committee here, for the purpose of supplying the destitute with the bread of life. But to my surprise, these churches are now recommended by the Presbytery not to receive the ministerial services of any brother receiving pay from the American Home Missionary Society; and this, too, in a state where 45 or 50 counties remain destitute of any Presbyterian preacher."

The resolutions of the Presbytery and Synod of Kentucky, which rendered it expedient for our Agent to retire from that interesting and extensive field, have been extensively published, and need not be reported here. The following only, (adopted by the Presbytery,) concerns the conduct of our Agent, viz.: "Resolved, That the Rev. Joseph Lane, Agent of the American Home Missionary Society for Kentucky, so far as our knowledge extends, has uniformly conducted himself amongst us, as becomes an upright Christian minister."

In view of the resolutions above referred to, and which have suspended our operations for the present, we can only express our deep regret, while we cordially sympathize with the destitute and the many friends of the cause in that state, with whom we have co-operated in the labors of love in past years. May the Lord prepare the way, and direct our future course!

SABBATH SCHOLARS' MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

These juvenile associations in aid of the cause of Home Missions, which have been reported in former years in terms of so much commendation and encouragement, continue to increase in number and usefulness. No less than 15 of our Missionaries during the last year have been sustained by the contributions of Sabbath Scholars' Associations. The oldest of the associations is that of the Duane-street Church, which has lately held its tenth anniversary, and whose payments to the Parent Society, during the past year, have amounted to $394, which has been appropriated to the support of 7 Missionaries. The associations connected with the South Dutch, the Murray-street, the West, and the Fourth Free Presbyterian Churches, and the First Church in Brooklyn, have also continued their labors, and some of them with increasing efficiency and success.

BOARD OF MISSIONS OF THE GERMAN REFORMED CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES.

The co-operation of this Board has been continued during the year on the plan announced in our last report, and the Committee have granted aid, under this arrangement, to 3 congregations in the support of ministers of the German Reformed Church, whose names and locations are embraced in the general table. Our correspondence with this Board has been conducted with reciprocal kindness, and promises interesting results as to the missionary spirit and efficiency of the important denomination which it is designed to benefit.

CENTRAL MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THE LUTHERAN CHURCH.

Our co-operation with this Society has been of so recent date, that great results were not to be expected during the last year. Something, however, has been done in the way of preparation for more efficient action hereafter, and 2 Missionaries of that denomination have been in part sustained by the aid of the Parent Society. The plan of co-operation is similar to that adopted with other large auxiliaries and agencies, who take the entire supervision of their appropriate fields, and through whose recommendation the appointments of the Parent Society are made.

THE EVANGELICAL SOCIETY OF PARIS.

Our last Annual Report contained an account of an appropriation of $3,000 in aid of the Evangelical Society of Paris. The lively expressions of gratitude with which that first appropriation had been received by our brethren in France, and the faithfulness and economy with which it had been expended in the support of 17 Pastors and Evangelists in that country were also fully stated, with the reasons which seemed to urge a continuance of the aid of this Society to the Evangelical Churches in France, and also its extension to other nominally Christian countries. In pursuance of the principles and objects then advanced, and in answer to the earnest appeal of the above named Society for continued aid, this Committee, in January last, made another appropriation of $1,500, and in the communication accompanying the transmission of it to the Committee in Paris, we expressed the hope that the receipts of the Society would justify us in making another appropriation of the same amount, ($1,500,) near the close of the year. This hope, however, has been disappointed. The exhaustion of the Society's treasury, and the embarrassments which at present exist, render it wholly inexpedient for us to attempt, at this time, to comply with the expectations which our former communications have excited. Yet we cannot but regard our introduction to the work of Missions in France as highly propitious to the cause, and would express our profound gratitude to the Father of Mercies that we have been enabled to commence a work so important and interesting. May the same gracious Providence enable us to resume it, at no distant day, with increased efficiency.

The number of Missionaries under the care of the Society in Paris, who have been aided in part by our contribution above named, is 17—whose self-denying labors have been attended with the most animating and encouraging success.

EVANGELICAL SOCIETY OF GENEVA.

This Society is scarcely less important to the cause of evangelism in France than that of Paris. It has been about four years engaged in the work of missions, having previously made considerable progress in the distribution of the Scriptures and of religious tracts. The great necessities, as well as the extensive usefulness of this Society, being urged upon our consideration by the Rev. Mr. Baird, in the early part of the year, a correspondence was opened with its Managers, and $1,000 transmitted by this Committee in aid of its operations. The promptness with which our donation has been acknowledged, and the accuracy of the report of the doings of the Society which has been returned to us, together with a description of the extent, the desolation and the urgent necessities of the field which they have begun to cultivate, are such as to make us deeply regret our inability to double the appropriation which we have already made, and which has been supplied in part to support 7 Missionaries in Burgundy, where the Papal superstitions have held an almost uninterrupted sway for more than a century. For further particulars of this interesting and important Society, see Appendix.

GENERAL USEFULNESS OF THE SOCIETY.

The importance of its operations to the universal spread of the Gospel.

In view of the position occupied by this Society, and the tendency of its operations, the Committee feel constrained to commend it to the patronage of American Christians, as an instrument of pre-eminent importance to the universal establishment of Christianity not only in this country, but throughout the world. In addition to the particulars which we have already enumerated, the benign results of the labors of our Missionaries may be distinctly traced in the impulse which they have given to the cause of general education, the improvements they have promoted in common schools, and in the several colleges and other seminaries of learning, both literary and theological, which they have been the chief instruments of establishing. Their influence in these respects, according to their number, and the time of their employment, will not suffer in comparison with that of the evangelical clergy of our country generally; while their ministry has been almost universally acceptable to the people whom they served, and has been owned and blessed of God. Their labors also have been widely diffused, and have exerted their influence, directly or remotely, upon almost every department of well-doing in the nation, whether designed for the special benefit of our own people, or to bless and save the millions of other lands; and the few who have labored in the neighboring provinces, and in a distant country, have been hailed with gratitude as among the first fruits of an enterprise, which, having its origin in the benevolence of a great and a free people, is destined to expand and to multiply its influences until, in co-operation with those of the same precious faith in other nominally Christian countries, it shall give to the doctrines of the gospel their rightful control, and thus secure a support to the cause of Foreign Missions, adequate to the necessities of the whole world. Considered in all their relations and probable consequences, therefore, our operations assume a magnitude and an importance, which far exceed their present visible results. The position occupied by this Society, in common with other benevolent institutions whose efforts are expended on the same field, is a vantage ground assigned us for the benefit of all nations.

The first consideration in support of this assertion is that our country is comparatively new and free. Though much advantage may have been already lost by our neglect, as a people, to cherish and increase, in proportion to the increase of our population, the religious influences and institutions of the early fathers of this republic, it is also true that the counteracting and opposing influences have not yet obtained the triumph which they have sought. The fundamental principles of our government remain. Our institutions are nominally, at least, and professedly, those of Christianity; and our young and growing population are within the reach of those Christian influences which exist among us, and which, if wisely directed and faithfully applied, may yet, with the blessing of God, subdue the nation to the obedience of faith.

The appropriate territory of this republic is also extensive beyond the example of most other nations. It embraces a fraction more than one twentieth part of the land surface of the globe; and we see no reason to doubt that its population, in less than two centuries, will bear an equal proportion to the millions which shall inhabit the earth. If, therefore, this country were destined to stand alone, in the exertion of its moral influence upon other nations, it might still hope, by becoming itself pervaded with the spirit of Christianity, to attract all the "Gentiles to its light," and their "kings to the brightness of its rising." But the millions of this country will not stand alone. They are associated by blood, and by the principles of a common Christianity, with the vast population of another nation, whose territories, dependencies and relations are, at the present time, much more extended and multifarious than our own. United by the ties of kindred, of a constant intercourse and a common language, these two nations, Great Britain and the United States, in all that pertains to the advancement of society in knowledge and religion, are substantially ONE. Their intellectual researches and moral improvements are quickly reciprocated, and the discoveries of the one are immediately, without the labor or the delay of translation, communicated to the other. In these respects, whatever is attained by the one is the property of both, and is extended by their common language throughout the immense territories of both. The English language is now spoken, and is the prevalent medium of intercourse and of publication in portions of Europe, Africa, Australasia, the United States, South America, Texas, the West Indies, British America, and Newfoundland, embracing, in all, more than 8,000,000 square miles, which is one sixth part of the area of the globe, and sustains a population of 50,000,000. In addition to this the same language is partially spoken, and is constantly gaining in comparative importance and use in other portions of the old world, embracing territories of more than $1,000,000 square miles and 150,000,000 of people. The only other national languages which approach this estimate of extent are those of the Russian and Chinese empires, and the Spanish and Portuguese colonies. But none of these countries is likely to sustain a permanent population so numerous and efficient as that of the British dominions and the Anglo-American States, which are rapidly advancing to the exercise of an influence on the other nations of the world, equal, at least, to that of the Roman empire in the time of the Apostles.

But it is not by the extent of its use alone, that we are to estimate the power and importance of the English language. Not that it is spoken by 50,000,000 of people, and is partially in use among 150,000,000 more; but it is that the English language embodies more of scientific research, of practical invention, and of theological and moral disquisition than any other language. Nations of other tongues, therefore, in pushing their inquiries on these subjects, are feeling, and will continue to feel more and more, the necessity of resorting to this medium of thought and communication for the materials of their own improvement. The English language also, in the opinions of those who are competent to judge, from its origin and structure, is peculiarly adapted to receive accessions to its stores of knowledge by means of translations from other languages. In this way, the literature and the discoveries of other nations are becoming rapidly incorporated with our own; and the greater the extent and variety of these foreign accessions, the greater will be the attractions of English literature and science, and the more will it invite the study of the learned of all countries, who by the acquisition of this single language may be introduced to the thoughts of men of every age, of every clime, and of every tongue. A full investigation of this subject would show it to be more than probable that the English language, by means of the advantages which it possesses over the other languages of Europe and of our own continent, is destined soon to become the common language of European and American science, civilization, literature and religion. And who can cast his eye upon the map of the world, and contemplate the comparative moral and intellectual condition of its many nations, without perceiving that almost the only influences which are adapted to pervade and enlighten, to civilize and elevate the millions of the earth's population, are to be found in Europe and America. But if all the advancements of these nations in knowledge and religion are to be embodied in a single language, and if that language is to serve as the medium of communication with all the rest, and act as the interpreter of their knowledge to all the nations of the world, how immense is the power of that language! To possess it vernacularly, to be trained in the use of it, is to have our hand upon the main-spring of the intellectual and moral improvement of our race. It is to enjoy a medium of thought and of expression, through which we may send out the lights of science, the refinements of civilization, and the impulses of virtue and religion, to the utmost verge of man's habitation.

In the light of these suggestions, how interesting is the field of Christian enterprise, assigned, in the Providence of God, to the American Home Missionary Society! The language possessing all these unrivalled advantages is our own. During our brief existence as a nation, American intellect and piety have contributed their full share to the richness of its treasures. It will soon, therefore, be less appropriately denominated the English, than the Anglo-American language; for, while England retains her long-enjoyed and established pre-eminence among the nations of the old world, our own United States are entering upon a fresh career of advancement, which is destined to exert a still more controlling influence upon the new. Our field is less encumbered by long-established political and social usages adverse to improvement. Our institutions possess the freshness of youth, are accordant with the spirit of the times, and highly adapted to the condition of the new state of society which here exists. In addition to these advantages, we have access to all the riches of literature, science and religion, which are possessed by our elder brethren beyond the Atlantic. If, then, their prospect was the reverse of what it is, if they should fail to maintain and extend the benign influence which they now exert over the other nations of Europe, "if England should fall before a new irruption of barbarians," and the influence of her numerous colonies be lost upon the Mohammedan and heathen countries in which they have been planted, still the English race would remain with its characteristic enterprise, and the English language, with whatever in its literature and religion is adapted to affect the higher interests of humanity,—rich in its native stores, and multifarious in its foreign acquisitions collected from every region under heaven. "America," then, in the language of an eloquent English author,* "would soon fill up the blank and take the lead in the advancement of society" universally. "The enlightened and the brave of the old world would withdraw from the slavery of their native lands, and with the same ardor, on another side of the globe, would follow the pursuit of truth and enlarge the boundaries of science; and native Americans, beginning where Europeans had ended, would pursue the same career of improvement and explore new riches of mind."

In less than twenty-five years the United States double their population, and more than double their resources. In a little more than a century they will contain a people "ten times more numerous than has ever yet been animated by the spirit and energy of a free government." The other nations, provinces and colonies upon this continent contain less of the elements of improvement; and the increase of their population, if we judge from the experience of the past, as well as from the operation of existing adverse causes, will be far less rapid. The United States, therefore, by the increase of their political strength, as well as the superior advantages which they already possess, are destined to anticipate and control the other American governments, in the career of improvement. The institutions of the latter will be modelled after those of the former, and the character, improvements and language of the Anglo-American race, will pervade the nations of the new world. Then, in the language of the same author, "in less than a century and a half, the new world will not be able to contain its inhabitants, but will pour them forth, straitened by their overflowing numbers at home, upon the shores of less civilized nations, till the whole earth is subdued to knowledge, and filled with the abodes of free and civilized men."

If therefore the world is to be converted by the blessing of God upon the leading influences which now exist in the church of Christ, it would seem that this country is destined to bear a conspicuous part in the work. The race of men who, at present, possess these influences, is our own; and millions of this race, and of other nations of Europe, who emulate their improvements, are rapidly making their home in these states. A sympathy is thus created and constantly augmented, which no power can crush. Every year's emigration to our shores enhances the motive for a larger emigration the next year, and thus contributes, at once to increase and to Americanize the British race. The time, therefore, cannot be far distant when the majority of this race will be clustered upon our own continent. Here they will possess, in their own tongue, the literature, the science, and the religion which are destined to enlighten and save the world. In the mean time, by the commercial enterprise of this race of men, by the colonies which have already been planted and will probably be maintained and multiplied, and by the labors of British and American Missionaries, scattered in great numbers among all the nations of the earth, every country will be in some degree prepared to receive the vastly accumulated influence which the British and American race will then possess, and will be ready, through their common language, to extend, with unexampled rapidity, over the whole world.

Among all the means, therefore, which could be devised for the universal spread of the gospel, the sanctification of the English language is one of pre-eminent importance. If this language be not consecrated to the service of God, it will soon become universally, as it is already to an alarming extent, the medium of infidel communion, and the vehicle for the spread of vice and irreligion among the nations. The vastness and variety of its treasures, in this event, would, at once, increase its attractions and greatly enhance its power to corrupt and destroy. On the other hand, if the English language, in all the extent of its use, were baptized with the spirit of Christianity, what an instrument might it become in the hand of God to subdue the nations to obedience and love ! Its literature and science would soon be pervaded with the sentiments, while its instructions would inculcate the spirit of Christian missions, wherever mercantile enterprise, the acquisition of knowledge, or the impulses of philanthropy, should extend its use. This vantage ground has already been, in some measure attained. The British and American churches are far in advance of all others in prosecuting the work of missions. A vast majority of the heralds of salvation who are now pioneering their way among the heathen, have received their training in the language of these churches ; and though they deliver their instructions in other tongues, it will be impossible to suppress the sympathy which their benevolent labors will excite in the breasts of all the enlightened and the converted among the nations where they are holding forth the word of life.

If then we would prepare the most effectually to sustain the Foreign Missionary enterprise, and increase the number and the moral power of those who preach the gospel in distant lands ; if we would prepare our merchants and sailors, who are extending their voyages, their traffic, and even their residences to every country, to exert an evangelical influence upon the people with whom they mingle, it becomes the duty of American Christians at home, a duty which yields to none other in importance, to purify the sources and the channels of instruction, which are to give character to the teeming millions of these states. This can be done only by the universal inculcation of the doctrines and duties of the Christian religion.

Here, then, we are called on as Americans, as philanthropists, and as Christians, to exert every energy and improve every advantage. It is a duty which we owe to ourselves, as a nation, and to the nations and provinces which border upon our own in the North and the South, among whom the spirit and the imitation of our own institutions are rapidly advancing. It is a duty which we owe to the widely dispersed and enlightened race of men, already numbering from 50 to 100 millions, who speak, with us, a common language. It is a duty which we owe to the whole world, to use every endeavor and employ every facility within our reach, and at every sacrifice, to engraft upon the American language, and, through that, upon the American mind, the spirit and the teachings of Christianity. And what is inculcated here will exert its direct and immediate influence in ever widening circles, upon those who speak the same language, in all other countries. Then, if our hopes shall be answered, if what we now confidently anticipate shall become a reality, and these states and provinces shall be full of people, they will turn back upon the old world, the stream of emigration which they now receive; and re-uniting with the descendants of a common ancestry, in their wide dispersion among the nations, they will quickly extend a controlling, an enlightening, and a sanctifying, influence throughout the world.

The field of our operations, therefore, is full of encouragement, the most animating and glorious. Every plant of righteousness which is reared upon it, will soon become a tree, whose leaves shall be for the healing of the nations. To preach the gospel in such a country, to inculcate its doctrines in such a language, and among such a race of men, is, in the highest sense, to labor for the benefit of man universally; while the efforts which we have already commenced and prosecuted to some extent in other nominally Christian nations, are in themselves important, and most timely and appropriate in strengthening the bonds of sympathy between the European and American nations, and in preparing the way for the ultimate and universal spread of those healthful and saving influences which are produced, on a still broader scale, by our efforts at home.

Shall these efforts be intermitted? As we have before remarked, it is a time of unexampled pecuniary embarrassment. A great and strong wind has shaken our political and social fabric, and "rent the mountains" of our earthly dependence. But lately, our "merchants were princes," and some of them gave princely donations to the cause of God. They were strong pillars of our benevolent enterprise, and we leaned upon them. Now, they stand amid the crush and the wreck of their worldly wealth, with "feeble knees," and their hands hang down. We ask, then, not in despair, (for "the Lord liveth, and blessed be our Rock,") but we do ask, with earnestness and solicitude, shall the appropriations of the Home Missionary Society be intermitted? Shall we change the voice of our communication to the needy in our own and other lands? Shall we withdraw the encouragements which we have already given to the feeble and struggling churches in France, and thus disappoint the hopes which our past efficiency has excited? Shall we write to our 600 missionaries in the United States, and the adjoining provinces, and ask them to withhold their applications, and bear their poverty unaided, until the indignation be overpast? We put these questions, not to the Christians of this city only, but to the friends of the cause throughout the country. We press them upon the hearts and consciences of 400,000 professors of religion in the denominations who have hitherto sustained this Society, all Americans, all Christians. We urge them upon our intelligent and enlightened countrymen generally, who, by enjoying the advantages which it is the object of this Society to confer upon the destitute, have learned rightly to estimate their immense importance. We ask all these, in the midst of the possessions and blessings which yet remain to them, notwithstanding the embarrassments of the times, to decide in the fear of God, whether the Home Missionary Society shall fail to accomplish what its hitherto prosperous operations have promised? Shall the hopes of the church and of the world be obscured by the suspension of its life-sustaining disbursements? The impulse of our own hearts is to answer, No! not for a single month. We throw out this response to the inquiries we have been constrained to raise, that it may be caught and communicated and reiterated by a benevolent community; and we seem to hear it come back to us, in lengthened echos from the North and the South and the East and the West, "No, NOT FOR A SINGLE MONTH." The possessions of the church, notwithstanding the little wrath in which they have been scattered and diminished, are yet ample for this and every other enterprise of Christian benevolence which has been projected. If many who were once rich can no longer contribute of the abundance which they seemed to possess, it is but an indication in providence which should impress upon the poor the duty of giving of their poverty, to supply the lack of service which an unpropitious change of times has occasioned. And there are still left among us some men of wealth, who have retained their possessions amid the desolation which surrounds them. May we not expect that, in answer to the fervent prayers of his people, the Spirit of God will concur with the teachings of his providence to melt the hearts of some of these into gratitude, which will express itself in generous thank-offerings to his cause? Shall we not have learned, as a people, by the reverses we are called to suffer, what we had failed to derive from long lessons of unexampled prosperity, that there is no profit in wealth, but in its use for the promotion of worthy objects? Let this sentiment pervade and control the public mind, let it be cherished with power to expel from the bosom of the church the sordid love of gain, and the pride of wealth, and there will be no lack of means to sustain the cause in which we labor. In the "great trial of affliction" which our churches may be called to endure, like those of Macedonia, "the abundance of their joy, and their deep poverty," shall abound "unto the riches of their liberality;" and before another year shall have passed away, joy and gladness shall be in the midst of us, "more than in the time when their corn and their wine increased;" and "they that dwell in the wilderness shall bow before the Lord." "For he shall deliver the needy when he crieth," "and they of the city shall flourish like grass of the earth." "Men shall be blessed in him: all nations shall call him blessed," and shall sing to his praise in every tongue, "Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things. And blessed be his glorious name for ever, and let the whole earth be filled with his glory."

ANNUAL REPORT.

During the year ending May 1, 1837, the Board have commissioned 70 Missionaries, to preach 68½ years in 71 churches. The sum voted to sustain them is $6779. The whole number of Missionaries in the service of the Board, including those previously commissioned whose commissions extended into the present year, has been 76; and the whole number of congregations aided during the year has been 99.

Results. The gospel has been preached to the poor. The feeble churches have been strengthened and encouraged. They have been supplied with ministers, who, with few exceptions, have been useful and acceptable. With their Sabbath schools, temperance, and other benevolent societies, they have moved forward in the work of God. A visible and cheering progress has been made. Upon many of these little churches the Spirit has been poured out from on high; and a song of praise to the Lamb, is now bursting from the lips of many, who, until lately, saw no beauty in the Saviour that they should desire him. During the year, 12 new fields have been taken up, 10 new places for worship have been completed or commenced, and 24 churches have reported revivals. From the reports of the Missionaries it appears that 883 have been received into the churches, 615 on profession. Had complete reports been received from all the Missionaries, bringing up the statistics of their churches to the present time, the number of additions would have exceeded 1,000. Nearly two-thirds of the sum granted the missionary churches have already been returned by them to our national benevolent societies. Of this sum the A. H. M. S. received $851. These little churches, to sustain the gospel among themselves, and to send it to others, have raised $10,000 or $12,000 more than they would have done had they not been aided and encouraged by the Society. These are some of the immediate fruits that have followed the labors of our Missionaries the past year; but eternity alone can unfold the good that shall hereafter appear from the sacred influences thus put in motion, and which will long bless the land and the world.

Disbursements. The expenses of the Agency during the year will not be far from $6,250, which is the average of the pledges voted by the Board for the last two years. It will probably fall short of this sum, as all the Missionaries do not fulfil the whole time of service for which they are commissioned. This sum has been contributed by 43 individuals in sums varying from $1000 to $100. So that all donations of less than $100, may be considered as aiding the Parent Society in building up feeble churches in other parts of our land.

Receipts. In June an effort was commenced to collect $20,000,—a sum sufficient to sustain 150 Missionaries in addition to those employed on this field. This sum has not been collected, but has been obtained in receipts and subscriptions and pledges, which it is thought will ultimately be redeemed. The sum collected has been $10,677 35. In these receipts we have two donations of $1000 each. More than $10,000 have been obtained in subscriptions during the year, that have not yet been paid, including one pledge of $5000 from an individual, which will not, however, be immediately realized. The past year has been one of unparalleled expensiveness. Churches have been obliged to do more for their own ministers than in former years. An unusual emigration to the West has thinned and weakened many churches, and the scarcity of money has been so great, that the agency could collect only the sum above specified.

It was proposed to the churches in Western New-York that have been aided by the A. H. M. S., to collect $5000,—a sum thought sufficient to sustain the feeble churches in this portion of the state. Of this sum only $2339 have been raised from these churches, as only 87 of the 240 churches sent in their donations. Thus, this part of the effort has failed from the remissness of more than 150 churches, who it was presumed would have stepped forward at once, and sustained the Board by raising their proportion of the contemplated sum.

The churches that have paid the largest sums are the following :

General Principles. To satisfy inquiries that are often made, and for the information of churches in Western New-York, it has been deemed important to mention some of the principles or rules by which the Board is governed, in reference to churches asking aid, to the Missionaries for whom commissions are asked, and the appropriation of funds committed to them.

Missionary Churches. The Board require satisfactory testimonials that the church asking aid is needy—that the church is really needed in the place—that the prospect is fair of ultimately gathering a congregation that will sustain the ordinances of the gospel—and that the sum asked is the smallest sum that will secure their minister. The Board aim to assist only those churches that cannot sustain the gospel without help. They wish to be enabled to say, when enumerating the churches aided, “in all these churches the gospel would not have been statedly preached but for the missionary aid granted them.”

Missionaries. Satisfactory testimonials are required that the minister for whom aid is asked is in good ecclesiastical standing—of fair reputation—that he is the choice of the people among whom he labors—and that he has efficiency, talents and education that will render him useful. Quarterly reports are also required from every Missionary, containing information that determines his qualifications for a Missionary; and after a suitable trial, if little or no good results from his labors, the Board think themselves bound to decline further appropriations of aid in his support.

There is generally entire unanimity in the final result of each application. Where it is otherwise, the application is deferred until increased light or information lead to a unanimous decision. They keep aloof from denominational or party considerations. They aid Presbyterian and Congregational churches with equal cheerfulness. Did they act otherwise, they would split into many parts a Society which is uniting the energies and piety of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches, and which is moving in harmony and efficiency in building up the moral wastes of our land.

When, therefore, an application is not granted, it is, commonly, because the Board are of opinion that the church is not sufficiently needy—or that there is no fair prospect of building up a congregation—or that the Missionary for whom aid is asked is not of suitable character or efficiency.

Appropriations. The Board are averse to large appropriations. Their rule is to give the smallest sum that will enable a people to secure their minister. As a general rule, if a church is unable to sustain a Missionary with $100 aid, they are of opinion that the church had better unite with a neighboring church in the support of a minister. The exceptions to this rule are, when aid is asked for some important place where there is a prospect of soon building up an efficient congregation—or for some region of peculiar moral destitution; and although by this rule some congregations are not built up as rapidly as they would be if they enjoyed all the services of a missionary, yet with the same expense, a greater number of congregations are aided, and it is believed the interests of Home Missions are more generally promoted.

When, therefore, churches apply for more than $100, and their application is not granted, the above is the rule that has influenced the Board to deny them aid.

The Board adopt the principle that they ought not to aid a church or Missionary, that they would not be willing to aid by their own individual contributions. And as nearly half the sum expended on the Western Agency is contributed by the men who compose the Board, it may be said that the Board sustain by their own contributions nearly half the missionary churches in Western New-York. This insures a judicious management of the funds committed to them—for it cannot be supposed, that they would vote away their own donations, without care whether their donations accomplish good or hurt.

An acquaintance, therefore, with the Missionaries will lead to the conviction that with few exceptions, they are efficient, humble, self-denying and regularly educated; and that in piety and usefulness they will not suffer when compared with an equal number of other ministers of our denomination. This is contrary to what many would expect, as our missionary churches are generally very feeble, and cannot hold out the inducements of a temporal character for ministers to settle among them, that richer churches can. It would not, therefore, seem strange if on this account the richer churches had the choice of ministers, and the feebler churches were obliged to take up with the others, or be entirely destitute. But God seems in many instances to have fired the choicest spirits with a love for the destitute, which causes them to turn away from the tempting offers of rich churches, and to say "Let me live and die in the feeble churches of our land, where the Lord has showed me his salvation." The rich blessing that has rested on the labors of our beloved Missionaries is abundant evidence of this.

In Western New-York, God has lately displayed his glory in the upbuilding of Zion. Many churches have been revived and many sinners have been hopefully converted. A work has been wrought that has caused joy in heaven, and which, it is believed, will tell powerfully upon the cause of righteousness in this part of the state for years to come. "God has gone up with a shout, the Lord with the sound of a trumpet." He has turned the captivity of his people, and they are saying "the Lord has done great things for us, whereof we are glad."

ANNUAL REPORT.

In presenting their annual report, the Central Agency would unite in a tribute of gratitude to God for his forbearing goodness—for presiding in our councils—for prospering our enterprise—and for sustaining and guiding us another year.

Missionary labor has been bestowed the past year upon 70 of our churches by 61 Missionaries. Only 21 of these, however, have spent the whole year upon the same field. Under the sanction of the Parent Board we have commissioned 42 Missionaries. Of these, 20 were not in our service the previous year. It gives us pleasure to state that 20 of our Missionaries are now settled pastors, including two who expect soon to be installed. Eight of these have been installed the past year. Not one who was installed has left his field of labor except for want of health. 20 under commission last year have not been re-appointed. 6 of these have left our bounds—2 on agencies; 11 are laboring in churches which are able to sustain the gospel, and we are called upon to sympathize with 3 whose health has become so impaired as to subject them to the painful necessity of relinquishing their respective charges. 9 of our churches, which have hitherto been aided, now sustain themselves; but, with one exception, they do it by the union of two churches under one minister. 39 years of pastoral labor have been performed by our Missionaries within the year. They have broken the bread of life to about 3,000 disciples of our Lord, and presented Christ crucified to more than 20,000 perishing souls. In 21 of the churches the regenerating influence of the Spirit has been felt, bringing from 1 to 37 hopefully to submit to God. Sabbath Schools, Bible Classes, the Temperance reformation, and the various benevolent operations of the day, are sustained, we believe, with undiminished interest. We have received into our treasury $3315 21, and we have pledged to our feeble churches $3995 00.

The necessity of the Home Missionary enterprise was never more evident in this region than at present, and its importance was never more deeply felt. A single word, DESOLATION, would have described the condition of scores of our churches, had it not been for the sustaining influence of this Society. The tide of worldly speculation, which has for years been rolling through our great thoroughfares,—keeping our canals, and rivers, and lakes in foaming agitation,—raging in our cities and large villages, and driving hundreds of thousands of our citizens through the forests and over the prairies of the wide West, has never before spread its influence so powerfully over the mass of our churches, as the past year. We have felt it before; but now the pillars of our Zion are trembling and falling under its crushing weight. We will notice it only under a single aspect. Almost every communication from our Missionaries and churches has recognized the prostrating effects of emigration. A vast amount of property, talent, personal influence, and professed piety, have been borne away from our churches by this means. The churches under our patronage have dismissed not far from 500 members, principally by emigration to the western valley within 12 months—enough to form 10 churches with an average number greater than those they have left. And what is peculiarly important to the West, and disastrous to us, the emigrants generally have been from the most enterprising class of church members. Several of our congregations, which before could not raise more than $300 annually to support the gospel, have lost on their subscription from $50 to more than a $100; and though the churches have received nearly as many members as they have dismissed, but few of them have increased in number or pecuniary strength; most of them have diminished, and 3 or 4 have lost their visibility. Our labor the past year has been in a peculiar degree, "to strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die."

Were we sure that all our beloved brethren and sisters, who have bidden us adieu, had carried with them their Christian profession, their piety and their love of souls, among the crowds who are thronging those fertile regions, and there, with the wisdom which is from above, were laboring to establish and sustain the Redeemer's cause, we would not only follow them with our prayers, as we now do, but thank God for taking them. Yes, gladly would we send beyond the mountains our annual recruit of 500, with more diligent hands, wiser heads and warmer hearts, to aid our western brethren in driving from their intrenchments the Papal beast and the Father of lies. Many, who have already gone, we doubt not, will be vastly more useful there than they could be here, and we shall be grieved to learn that any have become the disciples of Demas, "who loved this present world," and, for the sake of "gain," left the service of Christ.

Another cause of the prolonged debility of our churches is the want of a settled ministry. Some of the churches are becoming aware of this, as the statistics of the past year clearly show. And we consider the so destructive an evil that we are constrained to invite the attention of our Missionaries and churches to the following considerations, in the hope that they will ponder the subject thoroughly, and, by the grace of God, be guided in the path of duty.

I. We will mention a few of the ways, in which a minister who means to be a pastor, is injured by frequently changing his field of labor.

It increases the expenses of his family. None of our Missionaries get more for their services than to meet the necessary expenses of the year. Every removal, by loss of time and consumption of property, increases his expenses from $50 to $100. This must embarrass him and diminish his usefulness. The funds we distribute, were not put into our hands to pay such expenses.

Neglect of study is another evil tendency of a changing ministry. In this day of commotion and reading of ephemeral productions, there are but few ministers of sufficient self-command to pursue a course of theological research, which requires mental agony, but which is indispensable, would they grow in knowledge and be able to feed their flock—so long as they can depend on the labors of former years. We are aware that some churches prefer to have their minister spend the whole year in visiting. Experience, however, proves that, with few exceptions, a people never know the worth of their minister until the last old sermon is used up or burned up, and he begins to draw afresh from the stores of eternal truth "things new and old." Such a people may know what they have got, but they never can know what they have lost.

It diminishes a minister's consciousness of responsibility, and makes him indifferent about the distant results of his labor. A minister is "a man of like passions" with others, and needs every possible influence to induce him to seek the path of duty and hold him in it. We cannot doubt that the perpetually recurring thought, "I shall probably remain here but a year," will tend to make him reckless. How is it possible to avoid it? A man, were he as pure as an angel, needs the hope of success as well as the love of doing good, to kindle his zeal and prompt him to watchfulness, forethought and industry. But often he is a mere annual hireling, with but a few months at most to begin and close up all his labors in a given place. And the agreement which holds him there has, on the face of it, evidence that his people regard him with very limited confidence, and his prospects are withering rather than refreshing. We need not wonder if a man, held by the church in such circumstances, should do or neglect to do, what would render him unpopular or his labors unproductive.

It prevents a minister from carrying into effect any important plan for gathering and building up a congregation. Would he accomplish what a minister, by the grace of God, may do, all the various circumstances and wants of the whole church and congregation are to be sought out,—the children and youth are to be gathered around him and taught to remember their Creator,—parents are to be instructed how to command their children and households to keep the way of the Lord,—the church is to be purified by discipline,—her understanding enlightened, her affections directed, her energies combined and all her powers enlisted in the enterprise of the world's conversion. Who can accomplish such a work in one year—or two years—or five years? How is it possible for a man, even the best, to clear and prepare the soil, sow the seed, and bring in the ripe harvest, short of ten or fifteen years? He may do something, yea much; but can he show what a faithful pastor is capable of doing? Can he carry a church through the school of Christ? Can he train a generation for the service of God?

It prevents a minister from acquiring the habit of patient endurance, which is so important to an ambassador of Christ. A minister, who would exert a solid, holy and lasting influence in this world, may depend upon being severely tried. He cannot escape trials by changing places. They must and will come. If he attempts to run away from them, and is overtaken at last, he will be likely to imbibe a petulant, fault-finding spirit. If he meets them manfully, and endures them patiently, it will chasten his spirit and increase his meekness. The easiest way to dispose of ministerial trials, whatever be their nature, or number, or magnitude, is to endure them. The habit of endurance, which this course will strengthen, greatly diminishes the severity of trials, and, in the apprehension of the subject, it will probably diminish their numbers. But what is of more importance still, trials, well endured, raise a minister vastly in the estimation of his people, while they increase his confidence in the grace of God, and thus the way is prepared for his exerting a more powerful, salutary and permanent influence.

II. We will name a few of the ways in which a church is injured by frequently changing their minister.

It will, almost invariably, lead to the neglect of discipline. This is one of the most important and painful duties a minister has to perform. When he supposes his residence with a people is merely temporary, it has often presented a fatal temptation to pass over this self-denying duty. His successor takes the same course, until that church which might have been united, flourishing and strong, is alienated, few and feeble.

It tends to divide and distract a church. Some churches seem to imagine that the most safe and certain way to dispose of the great mass of their parish difficulties, is to dismiss their minister, especially if any serious opposition appears against him. But the people of God never may hope to get a minister who will build them up without they are tried and proved, as well as their minister. They must be with him, and heartily with him. They must labor with him, and suffer with him, or the cause of Christ must suffer, and languish, and die. Now, suppose that a congregation has secured a minister, and a faithful one; suppose that congregation is in the habit of dismissing their minister as often as any serious difficulty arises, and suppose the truth of God has chafed the consciences of some of his people so that they feel uneasy. What is the consequence? These restless spirits know what has been done more than once in similar circumstances; by a little artful manœuvring the minister has been dismissed. Their course is plain and their work is easy. They know the church will not "endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ," but will shrink from opposition raised against their minister, and, though they profess to love him, will part with him rather than do their duty. Some of the church, however, are willing to hazard any thing necessary to retain him; but he must go, leaving the church to contend about him. When such a scene has been acted over, again and again, and another, and still another party is formed in a church, their affections, instead of being united and settled upon one, are divided among nearly as many ministers, as there are members in the church.

It makes them fastidious and fault-finding. Called as often as some of our churches are, (and some of them do it oftener than once a year,) to hear candidates, (not for settlement, but to be hired for a year or two,) they unconsciously acquire the habit of criticising every thing they see a minister do or hear him say. And as one great object of changing is to get something new—something that will arrest attention, they are led to attach an undue importance to novelty, and this begets a disposition not to be satisfied with any thing. This habit, aside from its destructive influence in neutralizing the truth, has led the way to numerous complaints, which have been the cause of bitter regret to the authors of them, and have injured the reputation and wrung the heart of many an affectionate minister.

It prevents a church from acquiring that confidence in her minister, which, next to the truth of God, is one of the most powerful and delightful instruments of pastoral usefulness. When a minister has been in a congregation for a course of years; has often wept with those that weep, and rejoiced with those that rejoice; mingled in all the families, and sympathized with them in the various circumstances through which they have passed; the people then begin to know him and love him and confide in him as their pastor. When he has followed the child from the baptismal font, with the instructions and counsels, warnings and entreaties of a yearning father; been with him when convicted; answered his inquiry "What shall I do to be saved?"—led him in prayer when he knew not how to pray, and mingled his tears of joy with the penitent before the mercy seat; that youth will never forget his pastor. He knows his pastor loves him. No voice is more sweet to him than the one which taught him how to be saved.

When a congregation has been thus educated by their pastor; when they have tried him and proved him; when they have labored with him, and wept with him, and rejoiced with him; when they have seen and felt his salutary influence on their own souls, in every family and every department of society; they reverence and love him as children do an affectionate father, and are prepared to follow him as their spiritual guide. But frequent changes forbid the formation of this endearing bond and shut out a people from its benign influence.

It destroys the character of a church. It is not yet to be learned that a church has a character as well as a minister. It is not unfrequently that we hear the following inquiries, when persuading a minister to go to a particular parish: "Have they ever had a settled pastor?" "Do they often change ministers?" "Do you know whether they wish to hire by the year or to settle?" These and similar inquiries are made to decide one question, viz. "Can I be useful there?" If a minister, especially one of the better sort, gets the impression that the people are slow to settle a pastor, and rather contemplate changing once in a year or two, he will be likely to pity the people, but, despairing of success, he will pass on.

IN VIEW OF THESE CONSIDERATIONS,

1. Resolved, That we earnestly recommend to the churches needing assistance, to employ such ministers only as they are desirous of retaining permanently among them.

2. Resolved, That in the appropriations of this Board, preference will be given to those churches which ask aid to sustain settled pastors.

EXTRACTS FROM THE ANNUAL REPORT, APRIL, 1837.

God has been using the A. H. M. S. these last ten years to accomplish a glorious work in the West, and every passing year gives new evidence of the wisdom and efficiency of its organization.

It is but a few years since the Eastern States and the Old World began to direct their attention westward; and when a pious man thought of his privileges at home, and the consequences of educating his family without them, he turned away his eyes, fully determined not to expose the souls of his children, where they could not enjoy the institutions which had been so rich a blessing to himself. There were only a few neighborhoods where there were pious men enough to sustain these institutions, and no Missionary Society sufficiently efficient, to meet the necessity; consequently, the proportion of emigrants who cared little for these privileges, was fearfully great. But when the A. H. M. S. promised to open its ear to the cries of the whole country, good men considered it safe to leave the comparatively barren shores of the Atlantic, and the crowded countries of Europe, for these wild and fertile regions.

The Society, by its pen and the living voice, has given its descriptions, and made its appeals in the hearing of the best of men in several denominations, which has resulted in the emigration of multitudes, who have literally come out to bless the land. It is not uncommon to meet men whose principle design in emigration was to assist as laymen in doing good in the West. Two young men of this character took up their residence in one of our towns where there was very little religious influence exerted. Shortly, a good Sabbath school was in operation. Each of them subscribed $100 for the support of a minister. Their example induced others to assist them, so that this town was blessed with the regular preaching of the Gospel. Their names have not been told to the world, but when the "great book" is opened, and men know as they are known, their influence will be declared, and on the same page, too, we shall see that the A. H. M. S., which was formed to send out and sustain Missionaries, has indirectly sent thousands of pious laymen to assist in the moral culture of this interesting field. And this Society has not only done much to bring a virtuous community from abroad, but it has reclaimed or preserved many. A large proportion of professors of religion have not been able to resist the temptations of a new country, and stand alone. They have been obliged to struggle hard with the difficulties of locating their families, and securing conveniences for them, and the tendency has been to neglect the Christian duties, and go back to the world. This statement is so lamentably true, that the Missionary often finds in a town or township, ten or twenty such, wandering away from the fold. Beside these there are many who have been religiously educated, but have strangely forsaken the institutions of their earlier years. Multitudes of both these classes have been sought out by the Missionaries, and blessed through their instructions. Others, who would have taken the same steps of apostacy, have been preserved from the fatal abandonment; and this is not all, many who have not been favored with a religious education, have been associated with these good men, or have come directly in contact with the Missionaries, under different circumstances from what they had ever before seen connected with good men or ministers; and their prejudices have disappeared—their errors have been corrected, and they been brought to repentance. The circumstances around them being changed, they have not felt bound to maintain their former characters or principles—have opened their hearts to receive instruction, and have given themselves to God; so that it is not strange to see a Unitarian, a Universalist, or an Infidel, from the eastern States, or Christian Europe, find a Saviour here in the wilderness, where the Home Missionaries point him to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sins of the world."

Many towns and settlements which have enjoyed the labors of a missionary from their commencement have been preserved and sanctified, which otherwise, like Sodom, would not have found ten righteous men in them. When we tell, in your report, of temperance members secured, of Sabbath schools and Bible classes formed, and of the hundreds born again, it is impossible to show our readers by such facts, the immense and happy influence of the 200 Missionaries which we are assisting this side of the mountains. It is more strikingly true than in other things, that the religious efforts in so new a country, will be felt through all the generations that follow.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The Board of Agency for Home Missions for Philadelphia and its vicinity, on reviewing the labors and results of the year on the field assigned them, find abundant cause for thanksgiving to God for His goodness. In no preceding year have our endeavors to promote the momentous interests committed to us, been so signally prospered.

On various destitute portions of our field, 34 Missionaries have been employed in dispensing the word of life; one of whom has labored in the state of Delaware, one in Maryland, five in New-Jersey, and twenty-seven in Pennsylvania. The Committee are happy to have it in their power to state that they have satisfactory evidence that the men whom they have commissioned, have prosecuted their work with exemplary zeal and diligence. Nor have their ministrations been unattended with the tokens of the presence and blessing of their adorable Master and Lord. The usual attendance upon their preaching on the Sabbath has been good. Weekly lectures and prayer-meetings and the monthly concert of prayer for the conversion of the world, have been maintained and frequently blessed to the reviving and spiritual enjoyment of the Lord's people. "The voice of rejoicing and salvation" has been heard "in their tabernacles," where else would have been grief and lamentation for lack of divine ordinances.

The Missionaries have also labored to advance the cause of temperance, and shed the light of divine truth into the minds of the rising generation through the medium of Sabbath schools, and Bible classes. To most of the churches under their care, considerable accessions have been made, and several of them have been blessed with "times of" special "refreshing from the presence of the Lord." These, however, are only some of the first fruits of their labors. He only, who sees the end from the beginning, and has a perfect knowledge of the perpetually augmenting and forever enduring results of moral causes, can accurately estimate their importance. To us they will not be fully known till the ransomed of the Lord shall come to Mount Zion above, "with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads, and sorrow and sighing shall" forever "flee away."

God has also graciously smiled upon our efforts to increase our means of sending forth the laborers into the fields spread out before us, which "are white already to harvest." During the last quarter of the missionary year, which closes with the month of March, the most wealthy and liberal of the churches to which we look for aid, make their annual contributions. The latter part of this period, the present year, has been marked with distressing pecuniary embarrassment. For a season, a dark cloud overspread our prospects. But it has disappeared. He, in whose hands are the hearts of all, and "whose is the earth and the fulness thereof," has disposed our patrons to come forward promptly and cheerfully to our aid. The receipts of the last quarter amount to $3527 15. During the same period rising of $1600 more have been subscribed, most of which, but for the pecuniary distress, would, ere this, have been paid into the treasury. The amount secured by the labors of the last three months, exceeds $5000. The actual receipts of the year amount to $6901 41, being an excess of $1070 92, over those of the year preceding. The pledges still to be redeemed, added to what has been paid into the treasury, make the amount secured to the cause during the year rising of $8500, being an increase over that of the previous of more than $2000.

For these tokens of divine favor toward the cause we are laboring to advance, let Zion's God be praised. "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us, and blessed be His glorious name forever and ever."

We would not, however, rest in what we have already attained. Compared with what remains to be done, we feel that we have but just commenced doing our duty. Many portions of the field assigned to us, still present scenes of distressing moral desolation. In order to bring them under divine cultivation, many more devoted laborers are needed, and a great increase of liberality on the part of the churches to sustain them. And even were this labor of love accomplished; a work of vastly greater extent would demand our efforts. We are part of a great and rapidly growing nation, in which the people are the fountain of power and authority. Upon their character, depend the destiny of our republic and the cause of freedom throughout the world. Provided they are enlightened and virtuous, the amazing interests committed to them are secure. If ignorant and corrupt, these interests must inevitably be sacrificed. At this moment a large proportion of the rapidly multiplying millions of this land, are forming characters for eternity, unblessed with Gospel ordinances and influences. Unless aided by the benevolence of those more favored in the providence of God than themselves, many of them must live, and die, and go to the judgment, destitute of these divinely appointed means of blessing men for this world, and preparing them for eternal glory in the next.

We feel that we cannot, without subjecting ourselves to the charge of blood-guiltiness, withhold the efforts which God has given us ability to make toward providing them with an adequate supply of devoted preachers of the Gospel. Upon our doing this depends, not merely the everlasting welfare of millions of our citizens, but in a most important sense the conversion of the world to God. Were we, as truly a Christian nation as we should be, by our labors, our contributions and our prayers, we might be instrumental, in a single generation, in giving the Gospel to every kindred and people under heaven. It is because we are not—because so many millions, in this land, are ignorant of the principles and strangers to the spirit of the Gospel, that the world's conversion is delayed. In view of these spirit-stirring considerations, remembering that the period for action is short, and encouraged by past success, we seal up our testimony for the past year, that we may enter upon, and prosecute with increased diligence the work which our country, the world, and our Master in heaven, demand of us.

AGENCY IN ILLINOIS.

Extract from the Report of Rev. Theron Baldwin.

During the past year, Brother Hale and myself have both of us labored a part of the time in behalf of the A. H. M. S. We are of the opinion that we had rather the labors of any other year should be blotted out than those of the last. Illinois is vastly indebted to your Society. Within a little more than a year, $80,000 have been subscribed to the funds of Illinois College within the bounds of this state; and almost all this sum is from churches which in their infancy were nurtured by the fostering care of the A. H. M. S. We are resolved on an effort to throw back into your treasury for the coming year, a full equivalent for what we receive.

FRENCH EVANGELICAL SOCIETY.

Paris, March 21st, 1837.To the Secretary to the American Home Missionary Society, New-York.

Reverend and dear Sir, and Brother in the Lord—

We have learned through our esteemed brother and friend, the Rev. R. Baird, that the Lord has put it into the hearts of the Home Missionary Committee, to vote us a fresh grant of $1500, and thus to give us a new proof of their fraternal sympathy. We bless the Lord for this most seasonable help, and for the encouragement afforded to us by your brotherly love. We confidently hope that you not only help the cause of God among us with your money, but that we have also the benefit of your prayers.

About the end of next month, we hope to send you some copies of the Report which will be read at our next General Meeting on the 19th of April. You will see that we have great reason to thank God for the progress which the cause intrusted to us has made during the year, and for the signal blessings he has bestowed upon our feeble labors. Several souls have been added to the church of Christ, and our Society begins to gain an influence which is gradually increasing. But you will perceive also that the Lord sees good in his wisdom to continue to exercise our faith, on the one hand, by the scarcity of laborers, and on the other, by the poverty of our treasury. The field is open, and we are called upon from all sides to occupy it. With ampler means we could do much more than we do. But we have not, thank God, been for one instant discouraged; we look up to Him who guides us better than we could guide ourselves, in whose delightful service we are engaged, and who has never yet suffered a draft drawn upon him with faith, to be protested. We are confident he will send us the means in his own good time, and in proportion to our wants. Among his blessed instruments, we look to you, dear American brethren. You have generously associated with our work, which is thus, in some measure, become your own; and the brotherly ties which bind us to you, will we doubt not, prove, by the grace of God, a blessing to both countries.

With this feeling we place with confidence under your eyes the following summary statement by which you may judge of the present situation of our Society.

[Here follows a statement embracing the following facts, viz: 14 Pastors, 5 Evangelists, 11 School Masters, 10 Colporteurs. Deficit of funds, fr. 4000. Estimate of expenses of coming year, fr. 54,000: total wanting, fr. 58,000. Expected income in France, fr. 30,000. Leaving 28,000 francs which they solicit from abroad.]

You will observe that this calculation is founded upon the supposition that no new laborers should be sent next year into the field, and that the sphere of action of the Society should in no wise be enlarged—which God forbid! Our situation would be discouraging indeed, if in any measure we looked to ourselves, or labored for our own glory; but thanks be to God, we look to him, we labor for his glory, and we rejoice in every extension of our labors. To evangelize France is one of the most necessary, and most important undertakings that can be imagined, especially in these days when a movement most unequivocally manifests itself among our population to seek for something which can counteract the fatal consequences of materialism so generally spread in this country.

We thus call upon you, dear brethren, in the name of our common Master, praying the Lord to promote the accomplishment of his will, and the advancement of his kingdom through you, and through us.

May the Lord unite us closer and closer in these the best of bonds, to his glory and our mutual edification, is, reverend and dear Sir and Brother, in the name of our Committee, the prayer of your faithful brother in the Lord,

F. MONOD.

EVANGELICAL SOCIETY OF GENEVA.

[Translation.]

Extracts from a letter of M. Tronchin de Savigny, President of the Evangelical Society of Geneva, Switzerland, to the Cor. Sec. of the A. H. M. S.

Geneva, March 7, 1837.

Rev. Dr. PETERS,

Sir:—I have been informed by the Rev. Robert Baird that your Society, who take such interest in the progress of God's kingdom in Europe, are about to hold their anniversary meeting, for the purpose of receiving a report of their operations. Although it is necessary that my letter go in a few hours in order to reach the packet before her departure, I make it my duty to transcribe for you some details.

Four years ago, our Society was the first that essayed the sending forth of Missionary ministers, or Evangelists in France. This was after having previously sent out a considerable number of Bible and tract distributors. The countries to which we turned our attention, (ancient Burgundy,) were Papistical; and, (except at a small chapel erected 12 years since at Dijon,) in this country of 2,000,000 inhabitants, the gospel has not been preached since the revocation of the edict of Nantes, more than a century ago. We have not desired to mark out our own course, but leave that care to the Lord. As we perceive some portions of the population evince a sincere desire to hear the only way of salvation, we believe it to be our duty to use all possible means to answer to their wishes. It is then to this beautiful valley of the Saone and the Rhone that we have directed our laborers.

We have received much encouragement, although we have had to sustain a lively conflict against the Popish clergy. But in our present circumstances, thanks to the Lord, we do not much fear this strife; for the more the Popish clergy show themselves hostile, the more they inveigh against the preaching of the gospel, and the distribution of the Scriptures, the more our Missionaries find auditors. We fear indifference and unbelief much more than the Popish religion. During the course of this winter we have sustained 62 laborers; not all of them, however, in active employment, as a part are young men, whom we are obliged to train in our theological school. We have formed five principal stations, which constitute so many centres around which our Missionaries travel. We have besides numerous colporteurs, or distributors of Bibles, who go before; and we intend, this summer, to form some new stations in districts wholly Papistical. We have sent some other evangelists into Dauphiny; and next month, if the Lord will, we shall be able to announce to our Christian friends, that some progress has been made in that part of France. You perceive the Lord has shown us that we ought to concentrate our means of action in particular districts, and not disperse them over several remote points. This manner of proceeding has been blessed, as you will presently see, for it produces a general movement among the people. In the region of Louhans, (Burgundy,) during two years, the fruits have been apparently few; and now for some months, almost a general movement, not merely the result of curiosity, has begun to manifest itself. Our Missionaries are obliged to preach at least every day; and the peasants come from six to nine miles, although the roads in this part of France are very bad in the winter. Often when the service is closed, new auditors arrive and entreat the Missionaries to explain the word of God. This movement in the hearts of the people promises a happy result, for they are principally the lower classes, the small and humble in the estimation of the world, who form the bulk of these assemblies. There have been some remarkable facts. You are not unaware of the ignorance of the French peasantry, generally; and especially, in those regions where Popery reigns undisturbed, the priests have done all in their power to prevent their parishioners from learning to read. We have thought it our duty to send them instructors, for the purpose of forming schools, and enabling these poor people to read the Bible. We now see some people 40 and 60 years of age, who have made sufficient progress to be able not only to read themselves, but to understand the Scriptures, and explain them to others who are less instructed. Latterly, a great number, some thousands of inhabitants, where we sent to distribute Bibles and tracts four years since, and who have appeared to sleep the sleep of death, have expressed to one of our evangelists, a desire that they would come and preach to them the good tidings; and thirty people have declared their wish to follow the religion of Christ. The great difficulty which we have to surmount, is to find ministers of the word in sufficient number; for we believe that in the actual spiritual condition, we ought not inconsiderately to send Missionaries who have not completed a course of study. This we regard a good reason for the formation of our theological school, and for sustaining it with activity and perseverance. We count already a goodly number of faithful Christians, who wish to prepare for active effort, and who are anxious to finish their studies, so as to commence new stations. In the towns of Chalons, Macon, Tournus, Givry, and Vienne, appearances promise an abundant harvest. We have already a hundred souls who appear to be serious and are turning to the Lord.

In this state of things, our Society, obliged to sustain more than 60 persons, has been led to encounter great additional expenses, but it reposes on the Lord, knowing that the gold and the silver belong to him, and it will give us pleasure to reflect that we are remembered by our American brethren, and to receive the proofs of their interest for us.

Our position as Swiss is an advantage to us, by the independence it affords of having nothing to do with the question of patronage of the churches by the French Government. We all have liberty to do as seems good to us. Besides, the facility of affording a good course of study to our Missionaries, in a city like Geneva, possessing great scientific resources, is worthy to be appreciated by the Christians of America.

We shall be happy to learn that your respectable society interests itself in us, and comes to our relief.

Accept, sir, the expression of sentiments of Christian affection, of &c.,

TRONCHIN DE SAVIGNY, President.

APPLICATIONS FOR AID.

THE Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society request that all applications, made by feeble congregations for aid in supporting the Gospel, contain the following particulars, viz. :—

1. The name of the church, or congregation; the number of communicants, and the average number of attendants on public worship; the denomination and size of congregations immediately contiguous; the total amount of salary which the applicants propose to make up; the portion of that salary which they can raise for the given time, and the least amount that will suffice from the Society for that period. These statements should be signed by the trustees and elders, or by a committee of the congregation, and confirmed by the certificate of some clergyman acquainted with the facts.

2. The name and post-office address of the minister whose services they desire to secure, his credentials, and the certificate of one or more ministers of known standing, as to his general character for piety, zeal, and acceptableness as a minister of the Gospel.

As a general rule, the appropriations of the A. H. M. S. are for twelve months from the date of the application; at the end of which, if further aid be needed, a new application must be made.

It is desirable that applications be addressed to the care of the Agent, Committee of Correspondence, or Auxiliary Society of the A. H. M. S. for the region where the applicants reside; but in case of doubt as to the name or residence of such Agents or Committees, applications may be sent directly to the office of the Parent Society, addressed to one of the Secretaries.

5. On motion of Rev. Lyman Beecher, D. D., of Lane Seminary, O., seconded by John Tappan, Esq., of Boston,

Resolved, That the present struggle of this Society to sustain the stated ministry where it is already established; and to give it, with all its attendant influences, to the new and needy settlements, is one whose success is of vital consequence to religion and to the republic.

6. The Executive Committee having recommended the adoption of the following alterations in the constitution, it was

Resolved, That the constitution be so altered as to read, in the 3d article, "two Secretaries for Correspondence," instead of "a Corresponding Secretary," and in the 4th and 7th articles, "the Secretaries for Correspondence," instead of "Corresponding Secretary."

Appropriate and highly effective addresses were made by Rev. Messrs. Adams, Shepard, Cleaveland, and Dr. Beecher; and the exercises were diversified and rendered impressive by sacred music under the direction of Mr. Thomas Hastings. TWELFTH REPORT.

AGAIN, the Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society come to render its annual history to their friends and fellow laborers. They come—but not all. Some familiar faces, accustomed to greet you on such occasions, are this night sought for in vain. These places, which knew them once, will know them no more for ever. Since the last anniversary of the Society, two members of the Executive Committee have heard the voice of the Master, saying, “Go up higher.” Mr. WM. A. TOMLINSON was removed from this scene of action on the 19th of December, 1837, and Mr. JOHN NITCHIE on the 3d of January following. While for their sakes we may rejoice, in view of their probation accomplished, and their reward attained, the Committee, both as individuals, and in their associated capacity, feel themselves to be deeply afflicted. The dispensation of Providence is mysterious, which has removed, in such quick succession, two coadjutors, whom mental and moral worth, the gravity of years, and the endowments of grace, rendered so dear to their friends, and so valuable to the cause. Mr. Tomlinson, though long known and respected in other relations, had been but recently connected with the Committee. But for more than a quarter of a century, Mr. Nitchie had been associated with the work of Home Missions. He belonged to the youthful band, who, in 1809, constituted one of the associations which eventually resulted in the formation of this NATIONAL SOCIETY; and, through all the changes of organization, he continued, with the exception of a year or two, a member of the Executive Committee until his death. And it is with a mournful pleasure, that his associates recall his intelligent and consistent piety, his sound and discriminating judgment, his sweet and pacific spirit, as well as his faithful labors, for so many years, in this and other departments of Christian enterprise.

During the past year, also, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Society, the Hon. SAMUEL MILES HOPKINS, and one of the Directors, the Rev. Dr. GRIFFIN, have ceased from the labors by which they were known and honored on earth, and entered on their eternal reward.

The last Annual Report brought down the history of this institution to May 10th. 1837. The year which now closes has been an eventful one to this Society—a year marked with trials, peculiar in number, in character and in severity. Scarcely had we entered upon its labors, before a tempest of commercial embarrassment burst upon the community, sweeping before it the resources of many of the most liberal patrons of the Society, and not only carrying disappointment and distress into hundreds of families of the Missionaries, but filling the hearts of all with fear of the things which should come upon the earth. In the midst of these difficulties, resolutions were passed in an important church judicatory, discountenancing the Society from receiving the support, and relieving the needy churches of a large denomination of Christians, whose ministry it had sustained, and whose waste places it had cultivated in their time of need. Under these circumstances, before half the year had rolled away, and when the interests of the Society seemed to require all that wisdom and skill to guide it which experience imparts, the Corresponding Secretary, who had so long and so ably directed the operations of this institution, was called, in the providence of God, to another sphere of labor. And ere the transfer of his responsibilities to other hands had been fully completed by the Committee, their own circle was invaded by death; and in the short space of fifteen days, both the brethren already alluded to, were taken away from our councils and labors.

Thus, through the past year, has the Society struggled with difficulties without and sorrows within—has been afflicted, yet not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed. Though causes like these could not but hinder the extension of missionary operations, in the ratio of past years, and even cause a reduction in some respects, yet these results have been felt much less than they were feared. In every emergency, God has interposed with deliverance; and, above all, he has richly bestowed upon our missions the influences of his Spirit. And we are here to-night, to bear testimony to his faithfulness, and call upon all who love and labor for his kingdom, to praise his name, and trust him more firmly than ever.

The details of the Society's operations during the past year, are, as usual, thrown into a tabular form.

RECAPITULATION.

The whole number of Missionaries enumerated in the foregoing table is 684. Of these 561 were in commission at the date of the last Report, and 123 have been appointed during the year. They have preached in 840 congregations and missionary districts, and the aggregate of their labors has been equal to 438 years.

The number of Missionaries employed, during the year, has been less by 102 than in the year preceding, exclusive of the 24 who were sustained that year in France. This diminution has been occasioned—(1.) by the fact, that during a large part of the year, the Committee have felt obliged, by the state of the funds, to decline making new appointments, except in a few cases of special urgency. (2.) The general disaster that has befallen worldly enterprises, has in many cases so crippled the energies of feeble churches in infant settlements, as to put it out of their power to continue a partial support for the preaching of the gospel, and there being no hope of increased aid from the Society, the Missionary has been obliged to abandon his work, and seek his subsistence in such ways as the providence of God should open before him. In such cases, applications for renewed appointments have not been made. (3.) The circumstances of the Society soon became extensively known, and many churches that in ordinary times would have had hope of aid, have withheld their applications and have sought for such occasional supplies as their own resources might command, or have remained with none to break to them the bread of life. Arrangements, too, which were in contemplation, or were partially completed, for securing the ordinances of the Gospel, have been arrested. The work of evangelizing the land has, in some sections, made no advances; in others it has been rolled back upon us with augmented pressure. Causes like these, have made the number of Missionaries in Maine and in Western New-York alone, less by 50 than were reported the last year.

But while God in his providence has thus diminished the number of laborers in these and other portions of the field, he has shown unwonted favor to those who have remained. As they have prophesied over the valley of death, the breath of God has come from the four winds, to inspire life and immortality. Seldom has it been the privilege of the Committee to record so many revivals, in proportion to the number of Missionaries employed, and revivals of so interesting a character, as have been reported the present year. 84 Missionaries, in their reports, speak of their churches enjoying the special presence of the Spirit of God. The souls converted in these revivals, many of which are still in progress, we cannot number, and the amount of sanctified influence secured by them to the kingdom of God we cannot compute ; but we doubt not, that in the day when their results shall all be told, every benefactor of this Society, himself among the redeemed, will rejoice with joy unspeakable, in the opportunity which this year has afforded him, of connecting his humble name with the heavenly inheritance of multitudes of his fellow men.

Though the fruits of these revivals have as yet been but partially gathered, our reports, making proper allowance for the imperfection of a portion of them, show an addition to the churches of 5,638 during the year ; 3,376 on profession of their faith, and 2,262 by recommendation from other churches.

The pupils in the Sabbath schools, connected with the missionary churches, number about 50,000 ; and in the Bible classes about 17,000

The number of subscribers to temperance pledges in the congregations of the Missionaries, is not far from 70,000 ; and the amount contributed to various benevolent objects, in only 166 congregations, is $9,893.

These are a few of the results of a single year.

If we look back over the twelve years that have elapsed since this Society was organized, we find the Gospel preached by its Missionaries to destitute congregations, numbering from 196 to 1025 annually—the Gospel preached to not less than a million of our fellow countrymen ; and an aggregate of service performed equal to 4,265 years. Under the labors of these Missionaries, it may be safely estimated that not less than 45,000 souls have been born into the kingdom of God. Hundreds of churches have been organized, some of which have already become the most efficient helpers in extending the blessings of salvation ; hundreds of houses have been erected in which these churches pay their vows unto God ; and hundreds of young men, nurtured in these churches, are in training for the ministry, or have already entered it. Enlightening and redeeming influences which no man can number—which neither space nor time can limit, have gone out in every direction from these spots blessed by the benefactions of the people of God ; and when the final issue of them all shall be disclosed, and we see no longer through a glass darkly—then shall we know, as we cannot know now, the magnitude of the work which God has given us to do.

FINANCIAL HISTORY OF THE YEAR, AND STATE OF THE TREASURY.

It was to be expected, that the peculiar embarrassments of the year would seriously affect the receipts of the Society. The resources which it had been accustomed to receive from cities and large towns, were, through the pressure of commercial distress upon such communities, greatly diminished. The general destruction of confidence; the apprehension of still greater evils; and the derangement in the currency of the country, which rendered it impracticable for the Society to avail itself of collections made at distant points—have contributed to the same result. Meanwhile, many friends of the cause who were not prostrated by the storm, withdrew for safety till it should be overpast; and hundreds more, who had been accustomed to make their humble, but willing and regular contributions, were thrown out of employment. In this time of embarrassment, other societies have likewise suffered, and their agents have been in the field with ours, and appealed to the same Christian public for relief. Add to these the fact, that the estimated engagements of the Society, at the commencement of the year, were larger than at any previous period, and that much of this became due about the time of the greatest pressure. Under such circumstances, it will not be thought strange, that the Executive Committee were compelled to decline many applications for new appointments, and to diminish the amount of aid to laborers already in the field; nor, that in prosecuting their work, faith has often had to perform the work of sense.

For a time, had they regarded merely the aspect of things around them—had they not turned their eyes away to the throne of God, and rolled their burthen upon his gracious arm—they could have anticipated, for this beloved cause, nothing but disaster and defeat. But, thanks to our Almighty Helper! out of six troubles he has delivered us; yea, in seven we have been upheld. He who multiplied the widow's oil, and made even the birds of heaven purveyors for his prophet, has given the Society, day by day, its daily bread, and led it, by ways it knew not, safely on through all difficulties to the present hour. Notwithstanding the hindrances which have been mentioned, the receipts of the last year have amounted to $86,522 45; (or $820 86 more than the collections of the year preceding;) which, added to a balance of $1,102 in the treasury at the last anniversary, makes the resources of the year $87,624 47. The expenses—the amount which has become due within the same period—has been $95,878 31. Of this sum $85,066 26 has been already paid; and towards cancelling the remaining $10,812 02, there is a balance in the treasury of $2,558 21, (so lately received, that the drafts of the Missionaries to whom it belongs have not yet had time to reach us;) leaving $8,253 81 of present debt, for the payment of which immediate provision must be made. Besides this amount, the Society is already pledged to the Missionaries, for the coming year, in the further sum of $10,874 80, portions of which are every day falling due. The expenditures of the past year have been large compared with the number of appointments made within the year. In explanation of this fact, it should be remarked, that the year was commenced under an unusually heavy amount of pledges made during the previous year, the payment of which has come within the period now reported.

In view of the foregoing statements, the Committee earnestly appeal to all who themselves know the preciousness of the Gospel, to interpose their benefactions, and thus prevent the bread of life from being taken away from the lips of the feeble and dependent, whose only hope of supply, under God, is on the aid of this Society.

That this appeal may be more fully appreciated, we call attention to the following facts in the history of the year.

CIRCULAR TO THE MISSIONARIES.

Early in the year, the Executive Committee were under the necessity of issuing a circular to the Missionaries of the Society, requesting them, if practicable, to defer their drafts upon its treasury until the receipts should warrant their payment. This measure was adopted with reluctance, because it was feared that great embarrassment must attend its operation on the Missionaries. Nor was this apprehension groundless. In many cases the appropriation from this Society forms a most important part of the Missionary's receipts ; and to have this withheld at a time when pecuniary distress was entering every congregation, and consequently other resources were failing, was peculiarly trying. And yet the sacrifice was cheerfully made. Though the Missionaries were not required, but only requested to withhold their orders on the treasury ; yet, in almost every instance, a regard for the Society, and sympathy for others who might possibly be more needy than himself, led each one to suffer rather than to increase the embarrassment of the Committee. This occasion will not admit of the affecting details which might be given, of families of Missionaries surrendering the ordinary comforts of life, and reduced for weeks to a bare subsistence ; of their parting with articles of taste, and the pledges of affection, and even with portions of their clothing, to procure bread for their children. And yet they have gone down to these depths of privation without complaint ; nay, more, they have evinced a generous readiness to be foremost in bearing the burdens of the Society. Nor have their sacrifices been in vain. They have been the means of carrying the institution through its greatest straits. When the commercial horizon was filled with clouds and gloom, and adequate funds could not at the time be obtained, either by collections or by loans—the Missionaries may be said to have stepped forward to the rescue, and virtually advanced the needed amount, by omitting to press their claims. From their scanty tables and wardrobes, from the toil of their companions and their children, their deep poverty has abounded to the riches of their liberality. The Committee have not witnessed the exemplifications of this spirit, so becoming the missionary character, without deep emotion, nor without having their souls stirred up to every practicable effort to extend relief. And that Saviour, whom his ministers have thus honored by walking in his footsteps, has evidently accepted their sacrifice, and shown his approbation by the effusion of his Spirit in connexion with their labors.

EFFORTS TO EXTEND RELIEF.

To diminish and remove, as soon as practicable, the embarrassment of the Missionaries, the Committee made early appeals to the agents and auxiliaries of the Society, and to the public generally. In many cases, special correspondence was opened with churches and individuals ; and full and frequent statements were made through the religious papers. In this work, the usefulness of the Society's periodical, "THE HOME MISSIONARY AND AMERICAN PASTOR'S JOURNAL," has been quite equal to that of any other single instrument. Grateful mention should also be made of the faithfulness and energy of the principal agents of the Society, who have entered into the views, and co-operated in the plans of the Committee, besides devising appropriate measures on their respective fields, in executing which they have spared neither time nor strength. From the blessing of God upon these various means, relief has begun to flow in ; so that, recently, a second circular has been issued to remove the influence of the first ; and this anniversary finds us in the process of rapidly liquidating the claims of the Missionaries upon the treasury.

It is a fact, too prominent in the experience of the year to be passed over in silence, that not many rich, not many noble, have been honored in sustaining this work, but God has taken the gifts of the poor, and brought forward friends who were before comparatively unappreciated or unknown. Instead of a few fountains gushing forth with copious streams, he has given us the small rain and the refreshing dew, compensating for the minuteness of the drops, by their number and extent. The generous gift of wealth has not been withheld ; but it has been chiefly from the widow's mite, the savings of the domestic, and the industry of the mechanic—from the collected offerings of God's people in the country, rather than in cities, that the resources of the year have been derived. And could we present the expressions of interest, the language of deeply-moved Christian emotion, with which these offerings have been laid upon the altar of God, we should show that they left, in the hearts of the donors, a still richer boon than they conferred on others, and should confirm the words of the Lord Jesus, when he said, it is more blessed to give than to receive.

AUXILIARY SOCIETIES AND AGENCIES.

MAINE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The operations of this Society have been much restricted by the general derangement of business, which forms so prominent a characteristic in the history of the year ; and its Missionaries have consequently been subjected to peculiar trials and embarrassments. But while they have submitted themselves in meekness to the dispensations of Providence, and steadfastly prosecuted the work assigned them, their condition and wants have awakened the tenderest sympathies of the friends of the Redeemer, and called forth efforts for their relief, no less praiseworthy, if they have been less striking in their results than those of former years. The Rev. Dr. Gillett, the Secretary of the Society, who has so long been identified with its prosperity, has, in addition to his other labors the present year, performed a most important service to the cause, by spreading out the claims of the missionary churches in the Christian Mirror, and bringing them home to the hearts and consciences of those who love Zion. The receipts of the Society during the year, have been $6,889 61, and the expenditures $8,711 31, making an excess of the expenditures above the receipts, of $1,821 70. The number of Missionaries in commission during the year has been 71, and their labors have been accompanied with manifest tokens of the divine favor. The Secretary of the Society, in concluding his report, remarks, that "a good proportion of the Missionaries are now laboring in the midst of revivals of religion more or less extensive. The number of hopeful converts cannot be stated with much accuracy. I should judge there were from two to three hundred."

NEW-HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

In August last, the Rev. Isaac Willey, who had for several years served this Society as its Secretary and General Agent, with great fidelity and success, resigned his office. He was succeeded in September by Rev. Benjamin P. Stone, who has been actively employed in visiting the feeble churches, examining into their wants, and soliciting from the more favored churches the requisite means for their relief. The receipts of the Society for the year ending April 1st, 1838, have been $5,815 12; which is $823 43 less than the receipts of the previous year. But by deducting from the receipts of the previous year, $1,341 67—the amount of a legacy received during that year, it appears that the collections from the churches, the last year, have been greater by $518 24 than in the year preceding. The balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1837, was $136 90, which added to the current receipts, makes the whole amount at the disposal of the Society, during the year, $5,952 02. The expenditures of the year have been $5,836 66, besides $115 forwarded to the Parent Society, leaving a balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1838, of $115 36. The whole amount of contributions from that state to the cause of Home Missions, the past year, has been $5,932 87. The number of Missionaries in commission during the year, including the Secretary and General Agent, has been 56, one of whom, Rev. Ora Pearson, has been sustained in Compton, Lower Canada, where his labors have been blessed, and where his prospects of continued usefulness are highly encouraging. These Missionaries have rendered during the year, an aggregate of 36 years of missionary service, and 13 of the churches to which they have ministered have been visited with interesting revivals of religion.

For further particulars we refer to extracts from the Report of the Secretary, which will be found in the Appendix.

VERMONT DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Rev. Ira Ingraham, whose labors have contributed so much to the efficiency and extended usefulness of this Society, remarks in his report, that when we consider the pecuniary embarrassments of the past year, and the spiritual dearth which prevailed almost universally through the early part of it, "the results of the year afford no equivocal testimony that the cause of Home Missions is taking stronger hold of the affections, and receiving more promptly the attention of the Christians in Vermont, than ever before." The receipts of the year have been $4,189 54; which added to $4,625 11 in the treasury April 1st, 1837, makes the whole amount at the disposal of the Society for the year, $8,814 65. Of this sum $4,065 51 have been expended within the state, and $257 44 paid over to the A. H. M. S.; leaving a balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1838, of $4,491 70. There have been also received into the treasury of the Parent Society, from that state, $164; making the whole amount contributed to Home Missions during the year, $4,353 54. The number of Missionaries in commission during the year has been 52, who have occupied in whole or in part, 65 fields of missionary labor. The number of Missionaries employed is greater by 6, and the number of fields occupied greater by 14 than in the preceding year. During the last six months, many of the churches have enjoyed the reviving influences of the Spirit of God, imparting vigor and beauty to the plants of righteousness, increasing the strength and giving promise of the permanency of the institutions of the Gospel.

MASSACHUSETTS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The receipts of this Society, during the year, have been $12,837 85; which added to $7,126 49 in the treasury, April 1st, 1837, makes the whole amount at the disposal of the Society, for the year, $19,964 34. Of this sum $9,041 66 have been expended in the support of 76 Missionaries in the state, and $3,100 have been paid over to the Parent Society; leaving a balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1838, of $7,822 68. There have also been contributed directly to the treasury of the Parent Society, $2,762 79; making the whole amount realized from the state for the cause of Home Missions during the year, $15,600 64. Although this amount does not equal the annual collection for several preceding years, yet when the peculiar character of the year is taken into view, as well as the pressing claims of other benevolent institutions, and the fact that almost no public agency has been performed for the purpose of solicitation, these voluntary offerings of the churches are an assurance, that the cause of Home Missions is interwoven with their best affections, and will not soon cease to receive its share of their liberal benefactions, and a remembrance in their prayers.

But while we state that so much has been collected by the free-will offerings of the benevolent, it is not forgotten by the friends of the cause, that it has been by the labors of a most zealous, energetic, and indefatigable agency, continued through a series of years, that the attention of the churches has been called to the magnitude and importance of this department of Christian benevolence ; and that, if the resources of the churches in this state are henceforth to be secured undiminished to the advancement of this cause, we must look for their development, under God, through a like instrumentality.

The $3,100 paid into the treasury of the Parent Society, as well as a large portion of the $800 contributed during the year by the Hampshire Missionary Society, were promptly forwarded during the summer, at the period of the Society's greatest straits, and were the means of essential and grateful relief to many a devoted servant of Christ, who was pursuing his patient toil amidst self-denial, suffering and want.

CONNECTICUT MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society has assisted, within the year, thirty-three feeble churches within the limits of the state, in sustaining the institutions of the Gospel, and appropriated $800 in aid of destitute churches in Rhode Island. The receipts have been $4,415 59, which, with the balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1837, makes the whole amount at the disposal of the Society for the year, $6,726 43. The expenditures during the year have been $5,082 41 ; leaving a balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1838, of $1,044 02. There have been received into the treasury of the Parent Society, during the year, $1,433 38, in part payment of a legacy of the late Dr. Perkins of Norwich ; and from the Home Missionary Society of the Western District of Fairfield county, and the Home Missionary Society of the Eastern District of New Haven county, and from various congregations and individuals, $4,233 86, which, with the receipts of the Connecticut Society, makes the total amount contributed to the cause of Home Missions from that state, during the year, $10,082 84 ; which is $909 77 more than the collections of the previous year. The only agency employed in the state for the purpose of collection, has been that of the pastors of the churches, a number of whom have generously consented to act as agents within their respective Associations, and to seek, by personal intercourse, correspondence and pulpit exchanges, to bring the claims of the cause distinctly before the churches for their beneficent regard. The year had so far elapsed before this arrangement was completed, that returns have as yet been but partial. But much, it is believed, has in this way already been accomplished, and more may be hoped for, the year to come.

WESTERN AGENCY, (N. Y.,) AT GENEVA.

The hindrances which have been already mentioned, as operating against this Society during the last year, have been peculiarly felt within the bounds of this agency. The pecuniary pressure, and the border war, have especially had a disastrous effect. When these causes are borne in mind, it will not be thought surprising that the number of Missionaries, and the results of their labor, the last year, have not been quite equal to those of the peculiarly prosperous year which preceded. Seventy Missionaries have labored on this field, and under their ministry 438 persons have been added to the churches, 268 of them on profession of their faith. It is a matter for gratitude to God, and speaks well for the efficiency of this, the oldest agency of the Society, and for the diligence of the Secretary and Agent, Rev. J. A. Murray, that notwithstanding the commercial distresses of the country, the collections of the past year have amounted to $10,685 57, which is more than the income from the same field of any previous year. Early in the season a proposal was made by the Agent to the churches, to sustain the Home Missionary cause, by raising at least one dollar from each communicant. The simplicity of this plan commended it to the favor of many, and doubtless contributed in no small degree to raise the amount of collections. It is an interesting fact, also brought to light by the report of this agency, that churches which have formerly been sustained by the A. H. M. S. on that field, now contribute for this cause nearly enough to sustain the feeble churches, which, within the same bounds, have applied for aid during the last year; so that it may be said, that the former are now sustaining the present beneficiaries of the Society on that field. See Report in the Appendix.

GENERAL AGENCY, (N. Y.,) AT UTICA.

In speaking of the difficulties of the year, and the largeness of its work, the Agent of this branch of the Society, Rev. A. Crane, says: "We had no time to spend in murmuring and complaints, nor have we yet found time to begin." In conformity with this spirit the efforts of the year appear to have been conducted. Although the number of Missionaries, 49, is not quite as great as last year, yet more labor has been secured to the feeble churches than in any previous year. The agency render grateful acknowledgments to God for an increase of interest in this blessed work, and a growing attachment to the A. H. M. S., as the channel through which relief should flow to the needy. This is manifested in the receipts of the agency, being $3,787 81; which, with other contributions from the same territory, makes the sum of $5,049 77, received the present year. Further particulars are given in the Report in the Appendix.

CANADA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The number of Missionaries in commission in the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada, during the year, has been 24 ; 6 of whom have been sustained by the Canada Home Missionary Society. The receipts of this Society, during the year, with the balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1837, amount to $980 21. The expenditures have been $602 82 ; leaving in the treasury, April 1st, 1838, $377 39. The Secretary of the Society, Rev. Wm. F. Curry, has visited many of the feeble churches, preaching to them the Gospel, and encouraging them to put forth all the efforts in their power to help themselves, in the hope of receiving such aid from the benevolent, as would secure to them the privileges of Gospel institutions, and transmit them, as the richest of inheritances, to their children.

In consequence of the civil commotions in these Provinces, some of the Missionaries have been obliged to abandon their work, and others have labored in circumstances of peculiar difficulty and discouragement. Plans of doing good to the destitute have been defeated, iniquity has abounded in its most appalling forms, and the day of the redemption of many souls, has, in all human probability, been put far distant. And yet the plenitude of God's grace permits us to speak of places long waste and desolate, where the ordinances of the Gospel have this year been established ; and of churches that have been increased and strengthened by the reviving influences of the Holy Ghost. We are encouraged to hope that the coming year will be more propitious for missionary efforts in these Provinces, and that the afflicted churches that are scattered over them, as well as the multitudes that have no Gospel privileges, will share largely in the sympathies and the benefactions of the people of God.

PHILADELPHIA AGENCY.

This is a Board of agency having its centre at Philadelphia, and extending its operations over the Middle States, with the exception of New-York. Although the denominations of Christians uniting in this Society have long been established in those states, yet few fields stand in greater need of the fostering care of Home Missionary societies. Besides many waste places which have never been subjected to a correct moral cultivation, others have become "fields of dreariness and moral desolation," by the dilapidation of the institutions of former days. On these and other accounts, the prosecution of an agency on this field has been a work of delicacy and much labor. This board was organized four years since, and its operations, under the judicious and efficient labors of the Associate Secretary and General Agent for those states, Rev. G. N. Judd, have been attended with marked success. The receipts from that field have been, in successive years, $5,539 65 ; $5,830 49 ; $6,901 41 ; and in the year now closing, $8,349 93 ; which is an increase over the previous year of $1,448 52, notwithstanding the unprecedented pecuniary and other embarrassments. The income of the past year, from this agency, has not only sustained its 30 Missionaries, and the expenses of the agency, but also furnished between one and two thousand dollars to the treasury at New-York for the general purposes of the Society.

But that species of success, which most deeply affects the heart of piety and causes it to throb with devout thanksgiving, is the spiritual blessing poured out on many of the missionary churches on this field. The number of those who are supposed to have been born again within the last year, is estimated at 500 ; of whom not less than 400 have already been gathered into the churches. For the interesting details we refer to the Report of the Agency, which is given entire in the Appendix.

BOARD OF MISSIONS OF THE GERMAN REFORMED CHURCH IN THE U. S.

Several ministers of the German Reformed Church, have received missionary aid from this Committee during the year—their names and locations are embraced in the General Table. For want of the requisite returns at the time of making up this Report, we are unable to state what additional appointments have been made by this auxiliary in conformity with the plan of co-operation between it and the Parent Society ; but from the growing spirit of evangelical enterprise evinced by the churches to which it belongs, we confidently expect an increase in this department of well doing.

CENTRAL MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THE LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The receipts of this Society, the last year, have been $497 59. Owing to the fact, that the ministers of this denomination have hitherto found a speedy settlement in such of their churches as do not require missionary aid, it has not been practicable to appoint many to feeble and destitute regions. Four have been thus appointed within the last year, three of them in Pennsylvania, and one in Maryland. Besides these, four have been appointed by this Committee, on recommendation of the Lutheran Society.

WESTERN RESERVE DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

At the time of the Annual Report in October last, there had been 32 Missionaries in commission during the year on the field occupied by this Society. These Missionaries had ministered stately to 40 congregations, and their commissions embraced a period of above 30 years. The Rev. O. P. Hoyt, the Secretary of the Society, having resigned, in the progress of the year, the agency on which he had entered, and his place not having yet been supplied, very little service of this kind has been performed, except such as Mr. Hoyt has been able to render in connexion with other duties. In addition to this, the unexampled embarrassments of the country have been severely felt within the limits of this Society, rendering it almost impracticable to make collections even for objects that are embalmed in the affections of the disciples of Christ. The receipts of the Society have consequently been small, and the Missionaries have borne the heat and burden of the day, amidst discouragement and privation, with a spirit which has not been unnoticed, and we trust, will not be unrecompensed of heaven. Their wants have, so far as was practicable, been relieved by the Parent Society; and the blessing of God has attended their labors.

MICHIGAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Within the last year, a State Missionary Society has been organized in Michigan, connected with this Society. The Secretary of this Auxiliary, Rev. J. L. Tomlinson, is also the Agent of the Parent Society. The Committee gratefully acknowledge the liberal efforts of the friends of Home Missions in Michigan to relieve the Society, as much as possible, from the expense of the Missions in that state—a large proportion of all the pledges made for that field having been met from its own contributions.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF AGENCY FOR THE WESTERN STATES, AT CINCINNATI, O.

“The past year,” says the Secretary of this agency, Rev. Henry Little, “has been a year of much success in this part of the missionary field. Many important congregations are open to us this year, which have not been before; and in many other respects it has been a year of great prosperity.” Through the blessing of God on the indefatigable labors of our Agent, the receipts amount to $3,868 81, which is a larger sum, by nearly $300, than in any previous year. On this field the number of Missionaries, the past year, has been 32. Encouraging additions have been made to the churches; the cause of temperance, on the principle of total abstinence from all that intoxicates, has evidently advanced in the missionary congregations. Upwards of 1,700 Sunday scholars, besides Bible classes, are instructed; and it is estimated that the communities aided within this agency have, during the year, poured back into the treasury of the Lord, more than half as much as they have received. Further particulars will be found in the Appendix.

OTHER AGENCIES IN THE WEST.

The Rev. Albert Hale has continued to prosecute his labors for the Society in Illinois. The amount of funds raised on this field has been $1,500. But, encouraging as this may be regarded, considering the circumstances of that new country, the benefits of the agency, in visiting and encouraging the feeble churches, in teaching them the amount, and assisting them in the development of their own resources, have been still more valuable to the cause than the mere amount of pecuniary collections. It is in contemplation to organize a Board of Agency for this state, and its immediate vicinity, similar to those which operate with such happy results on other parts of the great field.

In Indiana, in connexion with the Missionary Society of that state, Rev. Samuel G. Lowry has continued to prosecute his labors for this Society. The embarrassments which have arisen from the severity of the commercial pressure, and other causes affecting the ability of the feeble churches to aid in sustaining themselves, and the pressing need of more laborers, as well as the sickness of the Agent, have tended, in some degree, to prevent the advance of the cause in that state. Much good has, however, been done, and the foundation laid for increased efforts in future.

EVANGELICAL SOCIETIES OF FRANCE AND GENEVA.

The friendly relations and correspondence of these Societies with the A. H. M. S., have been kept up during the past year. We are persuaded that Christendom presents few examples of missionary enterprise prosecuted with a nearer approach to apostolic simplicity and spirit. Owing to the unexampled embarrassments of the past year, the Committee have not been able to respond to the earnest appeals for help to these Societies, in any other way than by the expression of their sympathy, and their prayers for the arrival of the time when, consistently with their pledges to the Missionaries in their own land, they may again make appropriations for France.

A SETTLED MINISTRY—AT ONCE THE AIM OF THIS SOCIETY AND THE INTEREST OF THE CHURCHES.

The spirit of our country is, by general consent, characterized as singularly active and tending to innovation. This should not be a matter of surprise. It was to be expected, that such a system as Protestant Christianity, when freed from alliance with the state, and operating on the untrammelled minds of freemen, would create new developments of philanthropy, and attempt the reform of many things which received their mould in ages of darkness and under the sway of despotism. That this should happen, is no more strange than that the energy of vegetation, which lies dormant during the frosts of Winter, should burst forth in new forms of beauty under the breath and sunshine of Spring. Nor should we too severely rebuke this redundant activity. Something may be pardoned to the spirit of liberty—some allowance made for the action of such elements as the sons of the Puritans, when set in motion by the impulsive force of Bible principles. But while this concession is made, let us beware of the tendency to extremes. The greater the momentum, the greater is the need of a balancing power. An influence is wanted, not to check, but to steady the action of the age—not to oppose, but to guide the spirit of improvement, lest, in the rapidity of its revolutions, the human mind should sway from its orbit. This regulating, conservative power, is to be found in the sanctified influence of the living ministry. Philosophy once contemptuously styled it, “the foolishness of preaching.” But he who instituted it knew, that in its efficiency, it would be “the power of God.” In such an age as this, who does not perceive that the standard of intelligence must be raised—that the purity of Christian doctrine must be carefully guarded, and sound morals diligently and extensively inculcated? If a substantial and enduring piety, in distinction from an erratic and momentary zeal, is to prevail, a holy and permanent ministry must be the means. Everywhere throughout the community, there must be established fixed centres of steady moral influence. The Gospel must not only be published to men, it must abide with them. Many of its best effects can be produced only by long contact with the soul. Men need not only to be converted, but also progressively sanctified; the moral sense needs to be trained to the skilful discrimination of good and evil. The Gospel must meet the child on his entrance into life, and shed its holy influence over his very cradle; must form his character in childhood; go forth and stand by him in youth; and incite or restrain him in the affairs of life. These results can be attained only by a settled ministry. The true moral economy and interest of the churches, is, therefore, the same with the object of the American Home Missionary Society. Not only are the conditions on which aid is granted by this institution framed with that view, but the personal influence of the officers and agents, and the publications of the Society, all tend to counteract the tendency to a fluctuating ministry—to place the ark of God, not in a transient tabernacle, but in an abiding temple.

It is a fact worthy of deep consideration, that a large portion of the ministry of this country is not receiving a support sufficient to separate its thoughts and cares from worldly concerns. There is a growing temptation to forsake the altars where they minister, and to give their consecrated strength to secular toils, for the sake of bread. But for this Society, hundreds would be obliged to do this—a fact, of which the partial interruption of our operations the past year, has given painful proof. Whoso will observe these things, even he shall understand the loving kindness of the Lord, in raising up this and similar institutions just in season for the present crisis. Should this aid be withdrawn, how many would be driven from the ministry to the toil and strife of commercial or political life ! How would the sanctity of the sacerdotal office be thus impaired, and those who remained in the discharge of its duties be shorn of much of their influence on the public conscience ! Let the churches remember, then, that the appeal for Home Missions, is not simply a call on their sympathies in behalf of a few necessitous ministers, or feeble congregations, considered as so many individual objects of charity. The subject has larger bearings ; it is a grave question of church economy—it is whether the ministry shall be sustained in permanent relations ; or whether it shall be compelled to become migratory and changeful—whether it shall resemble the flitting torchlight, gleaming at intervals across the surrounding darkness ; or whether it shall be like the light of day, that shines statedly, and shines upon all. If Home Missions are upheld, the stated ministry can be sustained. And if the ministry, in its life and spiritual power, be rendered permanent and all pervading, then, under God, the interests of truth and morals, of our churches and our country, ARE SAFE.

THE PROSPECT BEFORE US.

In view of considerations like these, we turn to the prospect before us, and inquire, with deep solicitude—shall an enterprise thus identified with the perpetuity of our civil institutions, the honor of the Redeemer, and the salvation of multitudes which no man can number, be sustained ? Shall the work upon which we have entered so auspiciously be carried forward by the faith, and prayers, and benefactions of the people of God ; or shall it be suffered to languish and decline ? Hundreds of feeble churches are now looking to this Society for continued aid in sustaining the institutions of the Gospel ; and if this aid be not rendered, the voice of salvation must die away on their ears. Hundreds of destitute churches are turning towards us the eye of hope ; and if the bread of life is broken to them, it must be by those whom we shall commission to break it. Numerous and broad, also, are the regions of desolation where no churches exist—where no prophet's warning voice is heard—where men live and die without the restraints, the consolations, or the hopes of the Gospel. Nearly one half of the population of our country is yet but inadequately supplied with the means of grace. And this population is increasing with a rapidity almost without a parallel on the globe.

It should be remembered, also, that while we have been doing less the past year than the year previous to evangelize the land, the work to be done has been greatly increased. The same causes which have impoverished the rich, and kept back their accustomed offerings, have made the poor still poorer. Many congregations that, by strenuous efforts, have hitherto kept themselves above dependence on charitable aid, have been so reduced, that they must either be enrolled as beneficiaries of this Society, or see the sanctuary of God closed against them and their children. Others, too, that had been placed by this Society in a situation to sustain themselves, by the reverses of the times are again thrown upon our charity. Shall we say to them, Be ye instructed and blessed ; or shall we give them those things which are needful for their salvation ? Shall we speak to the destitute and the desponding in the language of encouragement and hope ; or shall we tell them that our resources are exhausted, and there is no help for them out of Zion ? Shall our missionary brethren, who have remained at their posts, bearing their privations without a murmur, for Christ's sake, and the kingdom of heaven's sake, be cheered on in their labors by our beneficence ; or must they yield to their necessities, and leave their little flocks to be scattered as sheep upon the mountains ? Shall we prosecute our purpose of making this whole land Immanuel's, or shall the great work cease ?

We throw out these inquiries for the serious consideration of the friends of Home Missions. We wait to be directed by those whose servants we are, with respect to the duties they imply. We have no power to supply the wants of the needy but such as we are to derive, day by day, from those to whom the Lord has intrusted his goods. We ask, then, every friend of his country and every friend of Christ, whether this Society shall still be the almoner of his bounty ? What is wealth, hoarded up or spent in sumptuous living, when it may be employed in blessing God's poor, and in peopling heaven with redeemed men ? And who is so impoverished or embarrassed, even now, by all the reverses which he has encountered, that he has not something still to be invested where a cup of cold water shall in no wise lose its reward.

Could we entertain a serious doubt of the manner in which these appeals will be received, or of the responses which they will call forth from the friends of humanity and of God, we should enter with sadness and despondency upon the labors of another year. But the providence of God gives a cheering aspect to the past, and his promises encourage us for the future. By the very embarrassments and perils which he has thrown around his cause, he has been binding it to the hearts of his children. He has been disciplining them by privation, and self-denial, and sacrifice, for the great work of a world's conversion. He has been teaching them that the silver, and the gold, and the cattle upon a thousand hills, are his. And in their great trial of affliction, they have rejoiced in the recollection that they were but stewards of God. And these cheerful offerings of pious hearts, from the highest to the humblest walks of life, embalmed with tears, and sanctified and made mighty, through God, by the effectual, fervent prayer, as they left not unblessed those who gave, so they have not been received unaccompanied with the favor of heaven. The outpourings of the Spirit of God which have marked the history of the year, we love to record in connexion with the self denial and faith with which its operations have been sustained. The promptness and liberality with which the claims of this cause have been met, while its friends have been pressed with their own wants, and darkness has hung over their prospects, are grateful pledges that it shall not soon be forgotten. The large place which this year has shown it to have in the hearts of God's people, and the tokens which it has received of his approbation, inspire us with higher hopes, in reference to the future, than could an overflowing treasury. If sanctified affliction may but cluster around the work in which we are engaged—if the Lord of Hosts may but be with us, and the God of Jacob be our refuge, then will we not fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea. The fig tree may not blossom, neither fruit be in the vine—the labor of the olive may fail, and the fields may yield no meat—the flock may be cut off from the fold, and there be no herd in the stalls—yet will we rejoice in the Lord, and joy in the God of our salvation.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The Board during the year have been called to mourn the loss of one of their number, who for several years has been associated with them in the discharge of the duties of the agency. The Hon. Samuel M. Hopkins, the profound lawyer, the upright judge, the conscientious Christian, the devoted friend of Home Missions, has rested from his labors in the midst of us. He needs not our eulogy. He came to his grave, like a shock of corn cometh in his season. His death is a public loss. A great man has fallen in Israel. We are distressed for thee our brother; very pleasant hast thou been unto us. We sorrow that we shall see thy face no more; yet not as others who have no hope.

The step which the Executive Committee at New-York were obliged to take, near the commencement of our missionary year, in requesting the Missionaries not to send in their drafts on the treasury, as they could not be met, has affected the feeble churches on this agency in the following ways:

1. Several churches have been obliged to give up their pastors. We have occasionally received information like this from our Missionaries, "I have been obliged to ask a dismission from my people, in consequence of not receiving my missionary appropriation."

2. Some churches have been unwilling to apply for aid, lest they might add to the embarrassments of the Society. A letter received from a church in Steuben Co., enclosing $8 for the A. H. M. S. says, "There are few in our church that can pay a dollar for Home Missions as has been proposed. Many of us have not a dollar at our command in the whole year. And knowing the embarrassments of the Missionary Society, we have been under the necessity of doing without preaching the greater part of the time, rather than solicit aid. We have had but 14 Sabbaths' preaching for a year and an half; and this we have been enabled to pay for ourselves." This feeling we should judge has been deep and wide spread, and the preceding year we granted 70 commissions, while during the year under review we have granted but 45. The preceding year 12 new fields were taken up; this year only 3. Our moral wastes have been left almost untouched. In these wastes we are told, "the morals of the people are becoming more loose, and the Sabbath more and more desecrated." A Missionary in Allegany county writes, under date of March 30, 1838, "There are many in this county that seldom hear the Gospel preached. I have travelled through a number of the Western States, and think this and Cattaraugus Co. more destitute than the far West, in proportion to population. If some of the brethren who are going forth laden with the bread of life would turn their attention to this field, they might find hundreds of famishing sinners." The preceding year, 10 new meeting-houses were erected or their building commenced; but this year we have heard of but 3 that were building by the churches receiving aid; and the building of some of these has been suspended. A letter received during the year, after stating that the Missionary had been obliged to leave, in consequence of not receiving his missionary appropriation, adds, "And our meeting-house which we had commenced building is suspended." Such works do not ordinarily advance where there is no minister.

3. The Missionaries in the service of the Society have been greatly embarrassed, and have been obliged to turn their attention, in a painful degree, to secular concerns. Says one, in a letter to me, on receiving the request not to send in his draft, "I feel as much disconcerted as those who have failed for thousands; how to pay my debts, and support my family, I know not." Said another, in Chautauque Co., "Much of my salary for 1836 remains unpaid, and I have received but little the present year; I am therefore deeply involved in debt. My health leads me to expect an early termination to my labors. I cannot but have anxiety to leave my family free from debt. May I be permitted to draw on the Society for the missionary aid now due me?" Another, in Erie Co. writes: "Don't forget us longer; my wife is going to the grave, and my expenses must, in consequence, be increased. A bill was presented to me, three months ago, of $25, by her physician, not a dollar of which have I yet been able to pay; and to pay the hired help of my house, I had to dig potatoes from my garden, and carry them in a little wagon to Buffalo, 18 miles, and peddle them from door to door. In this way I raised $25." Another writes, whose people can only give him $125 per annum, "that he tilled a small piece of ground, and raised his own vegetables, and obtained most of his own wood during the year, some on his back, and some with his horse, and that he was not able to take any periodical but the Home Missionary, which was sent him without charge." When the churches neglect to help the Missionaries who are struggling to build up the Redeemer's kingdom in places like the above, the iron of want enters their very soul.

4. There have been fewer conversions and additions to our missionary churches than in some former years. This is what would be expected from the diminished number of Missionaries, and from their embarrassed circumstances. The preceding year, 24 revivals were reported in our missionary churches on this field, and 883 additions, 615 of whom were on confession; but in this year only 9 revivals are reported in our missionary churches, and only 438 additions, 268 of them on confession. The troubles in Canada, which have strongly excited many parts of this field, have also had their influence in hindering revivals, and in diminishing the number of additions to our churches. Hopeful appearances, and even revivals, have been suddenly checked by the "border war."

"The Spirit, like a peaceful dove, Flies from the realms of noise and strife."

When the churches shall contribute so generally and liberally for Home Missions, that Missionaries shall not be obliged "to leave the word of God, and serve tables," then, as on a former occasion, it may be added, "And the word of God increased, and the number of disciples multiplied. Acts, 6:2-7."

5. An unusual number of churches have made an effort to do without missionary aid by sustaining the Gospel themselves. We rejoice to have churches take this stand, when they have the ability to sustain the Gospel, and to "quit themselves like men." But we do not think the great cause promoted by churches' taking the stand, when, in consequence, they have preaching only a part of the time; or when it is at the expense of their ministers, who do not realize the amount aimed to be raised, and are obliged soon after to leave; or when it is at the expense of the benevolent institutions of the day. We do not rejoice that some churches who have thought they would sustain the Gospel themselves, have determined that they could do nothing for the benevolent institutions of the day, as all they could collect among themselves was needed for their minister. Unless the church that adopts this course is "a peculiar people, zealous of good works," their minister will receive but a poor support the first year, and a worse support the second year; for "there is that scattereth, and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty." It is a peculiar excellence of the A. H. M. S., that nearly as much as it gives to the struggling churches, is immediately paid back by these churches to the different benevolent societies; when, were it not for the encouragement given them by the H. M. Society, but a small part of what is now contributed by these churches, would be contributed to these societies, and but a few of the churches would have pastors.

Such have been the ways the feeble churches on the agency have been affected by the request the Executive Committee at New-York were obliged to make to the Missionaries of the Society. If requesting Missionaries not to send in their drafts to the treasury for want of means to meet them, had a similar influence throughout the United States, it might truly be said, a wave of moral desolation has rolled over the United States, and the Home Mission cause has sustained an injury which it will require years to repair.

The receipts on this field have been $10,685 57. In these receipts we have one donation of $1,000, and one of $500. Six churches, that in ordinary years, with little effort, would have contributed at least $3,000, have not been visited during the year, and their donations have not been received. The receipts of this year are, notwithstanding, an advance on those of former years.

The churches which have been sustained by the agency on this field during the twelve years of its operations, now contribute to this cause nearly enough to sustain all the feeble churches, which, within the same bounds, have applied for aid during the last year; so that it may be said the feeble churches are sustained by those who a few years ago were aided by the Society.

The missionary operations of the year under review, show, in a new light, the importance of the A. H. M. S. Let it cease its operations, or let it be merely hindered in its onward course by the want of means to carry on its operations, and the cause of Home Missions, and of the Redeemer, suffers an irreparable injury. The waste places of Zion are suffered to increase in desolation and wildness. The feeble churches are left to pine without a preached Gospel. Ministers of the Gospel are oppressed and burdened with anxiety to know how they can subsist. Distress and want enter their homes, and to a painful degree they are compelled "to leave the word of God and serve tables." As a consequence of this, there are not so many revivals in our little struggling churches; not so many hopefully converted and added to these churches; not so many raised up in them to preach the Gospel; and not so much done in them to carry forward the benevolent operations of the day. We are, therefore, prepared to say, that the A. H. M. S. MUST BE SUSTAINED AT ALL EVENTS. Neglect this cause, and our country will groan with the prevailing and abounding wickedness; the feeble churches in our land will bleed; and the best interests of the world will be retarded. For, as the moral wastes of our land are built up, and our nation becomes truly converted, the cause of Christianity will advance in the earth. Neglect Home Missions, and the Foreign Mission cause will pause; the pious youth of our land will not have that encouragement to enter the ministry that they otherwise would have, and the Sun of Righteousness would enter a cloud that would soon shroud our land and world in gloom. We feel thankful to God that he has taught us this lesson, although at so great an expense. Let it now be written, and "known and read of all men," that the A. H. M. S. MUST BE SUSTAINED AT ALL EVENTS.

The Board are of opinion, that the A. H. M. S. ought to be enabled to enlarge greatly its efforts. It is believed the effort might be advantageously made to double its operations. It is a question whether this cannot be done, although there is such a dearth of ministers. Let the best men in our country, the men of the most commanding and extensive influence, who have piety and zeal to engage in this work, be sustained over the destitute churches in large and important fields. We need the best men in our land, in regions where the Redeemer's cause has made but small progress, and where the little churches are almost crushed with the abounding wickedness and prevailing errors. Let men be selected with great care from the churches of our American Israel to take charge of one or more of these almost destitute counties; to rally, encourage, and give influence and respectability to the feeble churches in them, and a vast deal more, with the blessing of God, would be accomplished for Home Missions; and, probably, in the end, with less expense, although it would demand at first a great increase of funds. An effort like this would tend not a little to raise up the men; and with the blessing upon the effort of him who says, "Open thy mouth wide and I will fill it," the men of suitable character, and in suitable numbers, will be found.

But can the means be raised to double the operations of the A. H. M. S.? We unhesitatingly answer yes. Should every communicant who professedly favors this Society, contribute but $1 per year, the necessary amount would be raised. Some single theatres in our large cities are yearly sustained by a larger sum than is now contributed by the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in the U. S. for the American Home Missionary Society. It is believed, that if a single day should be selected to take up a collection for this Society throughout the U. S. in all the churches who favor the Society, and that each church then make the effort to raise at least $1 for each communicant, that as large a sum might thus be raised in a day as is now raised throughout the year. The plan of setting apart a single day for a general, simultaneous effort, was rather privately tried on this field in a number of the churches that the Secretary could not visit. He requested those churches to take up a collection for the A. H. M. S. on the first Sabbath in January. And although the request was sent principally to the feeble churches, and only to those who during the year had not forwarded their donations, yet still it is believed that several thousand dollars were subscribed on that day which will be ultimately realized to the Society. The experiment, it is thought, is in favor of its trial on a more extended scale.

It is believed the A. H. M. S. has that hold on the confidence and affection of the Christian community, that it will be sustained in all judicious attempts to increase its operations. As large a sum can probably be raised for this Society as for any other—not even excepting the American Board for Foreign Missions, if the necessity of raising so large a sum exist. Many would not be content to give merely one dollar a year to this cause. Many would yearly make themselves or friends Life Members, or Life Directors of the Society, by payments of $30, or $100. Many in the U. S. might be influenced to sustain a Home Missionary, by a yearly donation of $100. And some others might be found who would give the Society at once $1,500, and thus lay a foundation to have the Gospel preached in some feeble congregations for many generations, if not to the millenium. No man of wealth, who loves his Saviour, ought to think himself prepared to die, and appear before his Great Benefactor, without laying such a foundation. When Judge Hopkins was on his death bed, he made an arrangement to have the Gospel sustained a year in some feeble congregation. It was one of his last acts in behalf of a cause that lay near his heart, and whose interests he considered identified with the true interests of his country. Through his liberality a feeble church enjoys the stated ministrations of the Gospel, and “thus being dead, he speaketh.” A donation of $1,500 to the Society, at once would enable the donor to do for many generations, what Judge Hopkins, by a donation of $100, did for a single year. Are there not many in western New-York, and in the United States, who, by a donation of $1,500, will lay a foundation to have the Gospel preached in some feeble church or churches to the latest generations?

ANNUAL REPORT.

The year on whose verge we stand, and from the events of which we collect the materials for our present Report, will long be remembered. It was entered upon in view of the resistless wave of commercial distress which was then careering through our large cities, prostrating alike the strong and the weak, and threatening to derange and embarrass, if not to overwhelm, every department of human enterprise in our land. Confidence was failing, credit ceasing, business stopping. And while our compassions were yearning over our friends, and others, whose dissipated fortunes had left them helpless, under crushing responsibilities, and our hearts were aching in view of the gloomy prospects of our feeble churches and poor Missionaries, the storm of ecclesiastical displeasure broke upon us from our highest court. Most of our churches were thrown out of fellowship as unworthy of an inheritance, a place or a name, in the "Household of Faith." Our beloved Society, also, which has sent out half of our ministers who are preaching the Gospel to the 5,000,000 in our western valley; which had broke the bread of life to more than 2,000 of our churches, and to which more than 1,500 churches were then looking for help, or were receiving help from it; this Society, with more Missionaries and churches then under its patronage than any other society in all Christendom, and which was called into being by the cries of the neglected suffering portions of God's family, which had always been "passed by on the other side;" this Society, which had expended $600,000, doing the office of a neighbor to the perishing millions, and which had been blessed of God in bringing back from hopeless rebellion more than 30,000 souls to the obedience of faith, and the bosom of the church; this society was held up as a nuisance, and the churches called upon to withdraw their confidence and contributions from it!

With such prospects before us; with such embarrassments around us, and with the responsibilities that were upon us, we had no time to spend in murmuring or complaints, nor have we yet found time to begin. It was soothing to be still and think, "The Lord reigns." We did not doubt that all these things would work together for the good of our injured churches, and the increased prosperity of the missionary cause, if we would humble ourselves under the mighty hand of God, love him more fervently, and serve him more faithfully.

Our pecuniary prospects imposed the necessity of diminishing the number and amount of our pledges. We never before felt the pain of withholding from churches which asked and needed assistance. We have issued but 30 commissions, and have given pledges to the amount of only $2,587 50, since the commencement of the closing year. The number of Missionaries who have labored on this field the past year, including those who were previously commissioned, is 49, and the number of churches aided is 53. Though the amount of labor we report, as performed by our Missionaries, is but 32 years—considerably less than formerly; yet there has been more labor bestowed upon our feeble churches than during any previous year. Twelve of the churches we have aided, and some of which we shall have to aid hereafter, by a special effort on their part, and special sacrifice of the part of their ministers, have sustained themselves a part, or the whole of the year. At least 8 years pastoral service has thus been secured, making the amount 40.

Much as we apprehended from the commercial embarrassment of our state, and the distracting influence of ecclesiastical censure, we have experienced no harm. And we feel called upon to render grateful acknowledgments to the God of Missions for the merciful disposition he has made of these portentous events. Instead of alienation of feeling from this blessed work, there has been an unusual development of mutual sympathy for the millions of our countrymen who are still unblessed with Christian ordinances, and an increased manifestation of confidence in the A. H. M. S., as the appropriate channel of sending relief. And instead of diminished funds, the receipts from our churches exceed those of any former year. Including a few of the eastern churches visited by the Cor. Sec., and an unusual number of others, which, on account of the pressing necessities of our western Missionaries, and the exhausted state of the parent treasury, sent their collections, amounting to $1,400, directly to New-York, the income of our agency the past year has been more than $5,000.

We are unable to say how much good has been done. We never attempt to describe the beneficial effects of giving the Gospel of Christ to any portion of mankind, without a consciousness of an utter incapacity for the work. Thousands of God's poor, we know, have been cheered and strengthened in their pilgrimage by the stated ordinances of Christ's house. Thousands of the unconverted have been taught their danger, and directed to their Saviour. The refreshing and regenerating influences of the Spirit of God have descended upon several of our little churches and congregations. Hundreds, who were last year dead in sin, now hope they are alive in Christ. Considerable accession has been made to the number and strength of some of our churches, and an increasing solicitude for a permanent ministry is more and more manifest. Our Missionaries, as a body, we believe, are powerful, studious, self-denying, laborious men—men who can honestly say to their people, "We will very gladly spend, and be spent for you, though the more abundantly we love you the less we be loved." About five thousand times these brethren have preached that Gospel which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." But who can gather from the thousands they have addressed, and hold out to human view the results of these labors? They have attended not less than 3,000 conferences and prayer-meetings, and they have made from 5,000 to 6,000 family visits, carrying the precious Gospel treasure into every neighborhood, and from house to house, commending it to all, rich and poor, young and old, living and dying; but the bearings and final issue of these influences upon the present and future generations, who but Omniscience can tell? They have portrayed from week to week the melting scenes of Calvary, and the fearful scenes of the judgment before the minds of 3,000 or 4,000 children and youth in Sabbath schools and Bible classes, and they have met from 400 to 500 times, with a few of the choicest spirits, in their respective churches, at the different Monthly Concerts, to join in special prayer to God for his blessing on Sabbath schools and Bible classes—on the oppressed millions of our land—on those who do business on the great waters, and on the labors of the church for the conversion of the heathen world. We cannot doubt that some of these labors have been blessed, and some of these prayers have been heard by him whose thoughts and ways are as much above ours as the heavens are above the earth. And the good he will secure to his church by these humble means, may be "exceeding abundantly above all we can ask or think."

ANNUAL REPORT.

To the Philadelphia Agency for Home Missions, the events of the year which has just closed have been made up of shadows and lights, trials and consolations, discouragements and success. So far as pecuniary aid was concerned, they commenced the labors of the year under discouraging circumstances. The tide of prosperity which for a series of years had rolled in upon the nation, had ebbed away, and, in many instances, had borne with it, not merely the profits of previous years, but the capital also of many of the friends and patrons of the cause of Christ.

Difficulties and Trials.

With these disheartening prospects before them in regard to funds, the Committee were under heavy responsibilities to the Missionaries, and feeble and destitute churches were looking to them for aid in introducing and sustaining the ministrations of the Gospel among them. And notwithstanding the amount of our receipts has far exceeded our expectations, and furnished decisive evidence of God's benignant guardianship of our cause, the Committee have been pained to learn that some of the devoted Missionaries in the West, from the inability of the Society to pay their drafts, have been subjected to great privations and sufferings.

During the year, this agency has experienced a deeply afflictive bereavement in the death of the Rev. James Patterson. The interest which he took in the extension of the Redeemer's kingdom, and the salvation of men, furnished resistless evidence of the depth and fervor of his piety. But while we mourn his removal from us, we bless God for the consoling belief, that freed from labor, suffering and sin, he is felicitously employed in the nobler services of the sanctuary above.

We might speak of other trials which have come upon us from a quarter from which we ought to have received sympathy and encouragement. But we would rather forget them, or call them to mind only as furnishing a fit occasion for the exercise of that "charity" which "suffereth long and is kind—is not easily provoked," and constitutes the very elements of Christian forgiveness.

Increase of Patronage.

But while we speak of trials and difficulties, it is not less our duty to make mention of "the loving kindness of the Lord." He has indeed tried our faith, submission and perseverance, and he has also signally owned and blessed our labors.

The reverses in business and pecuniary distress, have tested the reality and strength of the attachment of the Lord's people to his cause. Appeals to their benevolence and willingness to deny themselves for his sake, have not been made in vain. Many of them have made their contributions to the cause with a cheerfulness and liberality which have done honor to their Christian profession. New friends and patrons to it have likewise been raised up in places from which we looked not for them.

Receipts into the Treasury, and comparative results.

Owing to providential causes, the contributions from some of the churches within our bounds have been delayed beyond the usual time, so that they could not be included in the receipts of the year just closed. But notwithstanding this failure, the sum of $8,349 93 has been paid into the treasury; exceeding that of the previous year, $1,448 52.

Pledges have also been given, which are to be redeemed in the progress of the ensuing season, to the amount of $1,200 more, making the aggregate secured to the Society during the year, more than $9,500. The Committee also feel peculiar pleasure in stating, that the contributions from the churches in Philadelphia have nearly doubled in four years, and that from the state of Pennsylvania, during this period, they have increased more than a hundred per cent.

Number of Missionaries, and success of their labors.

On this field, during the year, thirty Missionaries have been employed in discharging the sacred duties of their office as ambassadors of Jesus Christ. With lively emotions of joy, and fervent gratitude to God, the Committee would state, that notwithstanding the pecuniary embarrassment, they have been able, with scarcely an exception, to honor the drafts of the Missionaries when presented for payment; and after defraying all the other expenses of the Agency, to pay into the treasury in New-York between one and two thousand dollars toward enabling the Society to meet its heavy responsibilities, and relieve its suffering Missionaries in the far West. For what we have been able, by the blessing of God, to accomplish for his honor, and the salvation of men, let his name have all the glory. Especially would we record his goodness in setting the seal of his approbation to the labors of the Missionaries. The attendance upon their preaching has uniformly been such as to inspire the hope of usefulness; and the cause of Sabbath schools and temperance has steadily advanced under their labors. Most of the churches which have not been visited with special seasons of refreshing, have enjoyed the gentle distillations of divine influence, and received considerable accessions.

The churches which have been most signalized by the work of the Holy Spirit, are Marple, Carbondale, the Western and Twelfth Presbyterian churches of Philadelphia, the congregation worshipping in the church in Cedar-street, and the churches of Fairmount and Lower Providence. In the two churches last named, and especially in that at Fairmount, God has made signal displays of the riches, power and sovereignty of his grace in the conversion of sinners. Some, who, to human appearance, were farthest from righteousness, and least likely to embrace the purifying and ennobling hopes of the Gospel, in the judgment of charity, have been brought nigh to God, and are now actively employed in his service. Habitual neglecters of the day and worship of God, now reverence the Sabbath, and attend upon the services of the sanctuary with punctuality and cheerfulness. New family altars have been set up in many habitations in which God was before acknowledged by no social act; and lips before accustomed to the language of profaneness, are now employed in prayer and praise.

These seasons of gracious ingathering have already resulted in an addition of 41 to the communion of the Western, and 42 to the Thirteenth Presbyterian churches, Philadelphia. At the last sacramental season, 40 were added to the church in Carbondale. During the year, 60 have joined themselves to the Lord's people under the labors of the Rev. Mr. Ramsay, and to the churches of Fairmount and Lower Providence, each between 80 and 90. To the churches on this field aided by us, the additions during the year cannot be less than 400, and the number of supposed conversions in them, it is believed, amount to nearly, if not quite 500.

Who, with limited understanding and heart but partially sanctified, can duly estimate these results of the labors of the year? Who can calculate the extent of their influence in promoting the glory of God and the salvation of men? It may, and we doubt not it will, widen and extend through successive generations, and result in planting large colonies of redeemed sinners in heaven.

Call for increased effort.

While the Committee record the signal blessing of the Lord upon the labors of the year, they would not be unmindful that both themselves and the churches by whose liberality they have been encouraged and assisted, have but just commenced the work demanded at their hands. Within the bounds of this agency, fields of dreariness and desolation claim their notice, which, under the culture of divine ordinances, might be made "to bud and blossom as the rose." And were they all supplied with spiritual husbandmen, our work would not be done. Our aims and efforts should be limited by no sectional, state, and territorial boundaries. We are connected with a great national institution, which, with kindred organizations, aims to supply the nation with a competent, evangelical and faithful ministry, and all those benign influences which invariably attend it. Much, indeed, toward the attainment of this momentous object by the blessing of God, has already been accomplished. But "there remaineth yet very much land to be possessed." On the eastern slope of the United States, large districts are but partially supplied with the means of grace, while others present a scene of total destitution. West of the Alleghanies, is a territory equal in extent to all Europe, unrivalled in the fertility of its soil and commercial advantages, whose population is increasing with unprecedented rapidity. In a few years, its five millions of inhabitants will be augmented to fifty millions, having at their disposal the destinies of this nation, and the liberties of the world. All of them, too, are to enjoy the everlasting bliss of the life above, or suffer the endless agonies of the death beneath, according to the character which they shall form during their period of probation. They must likewise, of necessity, exert a prodigious influence in retarding or speeding the flight of "the angel, having the everlasting gospel to preach to them that dwell on the earth." Efforts far in advance of any which have hitherto been made, are demanded in order to meet the wants of the present and prospective population of our country.

Why then should the work cease, or those engaged in it, make their past the measure of their future efforts? Increased action is called for, and the blessing of God upon the labors of the past year, encourages us to make it with enlarged expectations of success.

Shall the work cease or even be retarded, because the channels of commerce are obstructed, the profits of industry diminished, and the community generally feel the pressure of pecuniary embarrassment? Surely those redeemed by the blood of the Son of God, and sustained by the immortal hopes of the gospel, will not deem these sufficient grounds for withholding their contributions. Gratitude to him for his illimitable love in dying for their redemption, and benevolence to those who are perishing without the Gospel, should influence them to retrench their expenses, that they may increase their donations to this cause. Dry seasons are most favorable for sinking unfailing wells; and we doubt not times of difficulty and embarrassment are for reaching the deep springs of Christian benevolence. Who can doubt that the success of the last year, under God, is mainly attributable to the fact that the offerings of his people have been connected with more self-denial and prayer than those of previous years?

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform,"

and may have arrested the tide of worldly prosperity in order to try the strength of his people's love, and give them an opportunity to become more conformed to the example of their Redeemer, "Who, though he was rich, for their sakes became poor, that they through his poverty might be rich."

Efforts to evangelize our own country directly and powerfully tend likewise to spread the Gospel in pagan countries, and hasten the conversion of the world. Every church planted at home and properly instructed and trained, will become a nursery for the foreign field. The claims of home, and kindred, and country—of millions in this nation destitute of God's appointed means of saving sinners, and of six hundred millions in other lands, urge us to close the labors of the year, only to engage in those of the year to come with more singleness of purpose, and a zeal more in accordance with the magnitude of the amazing interests which we are called upon to promote.

EXTRACTS FROM THE ANNUAL REPORT.

THE past year has been a year of much success in this part of the missionary field. Many important congregations are open to us this year, which have not been before; and in many other respects it has been a year of great prosperity. All the facts of our experience go to show that the salvation of lost men calls for just such an organization as the A. H. M. Society. Our population comes from the four winds, with every shade of prejudice and opinion, and we must have ministers of as various origin and training, and a society that can efficiently cover nearly the whole ground of Calvinism. The fact that three or four denominations of Christians can contribute to this Society, and that ministers who are in regular standing in the orthodox denominations can be assisted, is of vast importance in building up the Redeemer's kingdom in a country so new, and population so mixed as ours. We are a hearing and talking people, and every thing must be carried by the living countenance and voice. The candidate for office understands this. He knows that his election depends upon his personal intercourse and stump orations with the voters of his district. If political opinions are to be moulded; internal improvements to be made; the system of education to be improved; or even if the author or editor is to find circulation for books or papers, the living eye and voice must be the instruments of these results. If in the older states, and societies well established, it is through "the foolishness of preaching" that God saves men, much more is it true here. The Sabbath school is important; but the personal presence of the minister is necessary to commence, sustain, and make it useful. He may use the tract; but if this is made an important auxiliary, he must often sit down, and read, and explain, and enforce its principles. Even the Bible itself will be comparatively useless, unless attention be centred upon it by the living pastor. If the religion of Jesus is to pervade this whole land, the minister must be at the wedding and at the funeral; he must exhibit a kind of omnipresence in the streets and houses of our bustling towns. He must be at the prayer meetings, and in the lecture rooms, whether the topic be education, morals or religion. Especially is the pulpit indispensable to defend the outposts of Christianity, and to extend experimental piety through the land. The organization of this Society is just fitted to do this work, and is now doing it successfully. "The wilderness and the solitary place" are already "glad" for its operations, and we hope our eastern friends will continue to assist us.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Extract from the Secretary's Report.

Though the number of Missionaries in our employ is somewhat less than reported the preceding year, yet we never, perhaps, have been favored with a greater amount of permanent, efficient missionary influence, than we enjoy at the present moment. The diminution in the number of Missionaries has been owing to two facts. The first is, we have not employed so many as usual for a limited time; the second is, not so many churches as usual have asked or received aid from the Missionary Society, having become able to sustain themselves without charitable assistance. The number of feeble churches in this state now destitute is 30, of which only about one third are able, with an ordinary amount of aid, to sustain a permanent ministry.

While the report of the treasury shows a small decrease (not deducting the legacy received the year previous) in our receipts the past year, it is a matter of devout gratitude to Almighty God, that we are permitted to say that our operations were never in a more healthful and prosperous state. The Great Head of the Church has graciously owned and blessed the labors of some of our beloved brethren. During the year he has poured out his spirit upon 13 stations. Most of the revivals that have occurred on our field are of recent date, and some of them continue with great interest. They will, doubtless, result in the addition of many to the churches, and in the strengthening of the Redeemer's kingdom. We trust that a glorious work of divine grace is extending in New-Hampshire, and that, before our anniversary, it will be our happiness to praise God for what he has done for many more of our feeble churches.

APPLICATIONS

By feeble congregations, for aid in supporting the Gospel, should contain the following particulars, viz :—

The name of the church, or congregation; the number of communicants, and the average number of attendants on public worship; the denomination and size of congregations immediately contiguous; the total amount of salary which the applicants propose to make up; the portion of that salary which they can raise for the given time, and the least amount that will suffice from the Society for that period. These statements should be signed by the trustees and elders, or by a committee of the congregation, and confirmed by the certificate of one or more clergymen acquainted with the facts. Also—

The name and post-office address of the minister whose services they desire to secure; his credentials; and the certificate of one or more ministers of known standing, as to his general character for piety, zeal and acceptableness as a minister of the Gospel.

As a general rule, the appropriations of the A. H. M. S. are for twelve months from the date of the application; at the end of which, if further aid be needed, a new application must be made. And each congregation applying for renewed aid should furnish, in addition to other testimonials, the certificate of the Missionary that they have fulfilled their previous pledges for his support.

MODES OF AIDING THE A. H. M. S.

1st. By stated, annual collections in churches, at the Monthly Concert, on Thanksgiving days, &c. &c. $1 a year, or two cents a week, from each church member, would give the gospel to this whole nation. 2d. The donation of $30 constitutes a Life Member, and $100 a Life Director. Members and Directors for life, and donors of $10 a year, are entitled to the publications of the Society gratis. 3d. Contributions of individuals, Female Cent and Working Societies, Praying Circles, Young Men's and other Auxiliaries. 4th. Assuming the support of a Missionary by contributing the amount voted to him. 5th. Subscribing for and circulating the Home Missionary and Pastor's Journal, published at the Society's Office monthly, at one dollar a year.

A VOICE FROM ENGLAND.

"The object of your zeal must be your own country—to supply her rapidly increasing population with able, faithful ministers. Your religious policy must be a home policy. On your land hang, in a great measure, the future interests of the globe. If it were necessary, in order to supply you people with pastors, one half of your male members should become ministers, while it should be the chief business of the other half to support them."

"These are my deliberate views of the duties of the Christians of America."—Rev. Mr. James, of Birmingham, Eng.

THIRTEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

The AMERICAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY held its Thirteenth Anniversary in the Broadway Tabernacle, New-York, on Wednesday evening, May 8th, 1839. Rev. THOS. H. SKINNER, D. D., one of the Vice-Presidents, took the chair, and the meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. T. M. COOLEY, D. D., of Granville, Mass.

The Treasurer's Report was read by Mr. KNOWLES TAYLOR, Treasurer of the Society.

An abstract of the Annual Report was read by Rev. MILTON BADGER, one of the Secretaries.

The following resolutions were adopted.

1. On motion of Rev. A. Crane, of Clinton, N. Y., seconded by Rev. T. S. Clark, of Stockbridge, Mass.,

Resolved, That the Reports now read, be adopted and printed under the direction of the Executive Committee.

2. On motion of Rev. Wm. F. Curry, late Agent for the Society in Canada, seconded by Rev. Asa Hillyer, D. D., of Orange, N. J.,

Resolved, That the needy condition of the people, and the embarrassed circumstances of ministers, in many parts of our country, require that this Society should be liberally patronized.

3. On motion of Rev. H. G. O. Dwight, Missionary to Turkey, seconded by Rev. David Smith, D. D., of Durham, Conn.,

Resolved, That this Society, while endeavoring to secure to our own countrymen the preaching of the Gospel, is operating, in a most important sense, on the whole world.

4. On motion of Rev. S. H. Cox, D. D., of Brooklyn, N. Y., seconded by Rev. A. E. Campbell, of Cooperstown, N. Y.,

Resolved, That the sphere of the Home Missionary Society is appropriately excellent, and itself worthy of the support of all American Christians.

Appropriate and interesting addresses were made by Rev. Messrs. Curry, Dwight and Dr. Cox; and the exercises were diversified and enlivened by the performances of the choir, under the direction of Thomas Hastings, Esq. Profound attention and deep interest were evinced by the audience, undiminished to a late hour.

THIRTEENTH REPORT.

BRETHREN OF THE A. H. M. S.,

THE work for the advancement of which you have labored for THIRTEEN YEARS, is one of the noblest philanthropy. To save immortal souls, and thus to honor him who laid the plan and bore the expense of their redemption, is an enterprise which brings us into sympathy and co-operation with heaven. It is the only work for which the Son of God ever left his throne—the only occasion furnished by the whole history of the universe of such dignity and urgency, that for it the Godhead came forth from its eternal, mysterious abode, in the visible investiture of flesh and blood. To labor in such a cause, is the greatest honor we can enjoy—an honor, in comparison with which, to shine in senates or on thrones, or to lead victorious armies, are but the toys of infancy.

But the dignity of this work, is also the measure of its responsibility. Sacred and awful as the judgment seat, are the relations of those who stand so near the ark of the Lord, as do the conductors of the missionary enterprise. And as the Executive Committee come to night, to render to you the annual account of their stewardship, they have a most solemn impression that their doings have already gone up to the tribunal on high, and received the unerring and irreversible decision of the Infinite Mind.

The general features of the missionary year have been those of gradually returning prosperity. God has blessed your Committee, in their attempts to remove the evils which had arisen from the commercial disasters of the previous year; so that, from this evening, the Society may prosecute its labors, in a good degree freed from embarrassments; and go on its way of usefulness, with new buoyancy of hope and energy of zeal.

RECAPITULATION.

The whole number of missionaries and agents enumerated in the foregoing table, and in commission during the year, is 665.

The fields of labor which they have occupied are to be found in 23 different states and territories, and in Canada.

Of the missionaries in commission, 531 have been employed as pastors, or stated supplies, in single congregations; 102 have extended their labors to two or three congregations each; and 32 have occupied larger fields.

The whole number of congregations and missionary districts which have thus been supplied, in whole or in part, during the year, is 794; and the aggregate of ministerial labor performed is equal to 473 years.

In making appointments, the Committee have ever been deeply impressed with the conviction, that the providence of God, and the true interests of the church alike call for a high standard of character and qualifications in the missionary of the cross—that those, especially, who are to labor in our new settlements, in laying the foundations of gospel institutions, in guarding the interests of education, and in moulding the whole structure of society, should be men thoroughly furnished unto all good works. The number of new appointments, therefore, has been less than it would have been, if the Committee had had different convictions of the nature and relations of the work to be done. Still, however, they have the pleasure to report 204 commissions issued, during the year, to missionaries who were not in the service of the Society at its commencement; which exceeds, by 81, the number of new appointments in the preceding year.

Another consideration which has influence with the Committee, is this: that the success of the Society is to be estimated, not so much by the number of churches aided, as by the number that cease to need aid. They have been specially careful, therefore, so to appropriate the funds intrusted to them, as to have them tend, most directly, to this end. They have examined, with more than ordinary strictness, into the necessities of applicant churches, that aid rendered might not palsy, rather than invigorate their remaining strength. They have required evidence to be furnished of their having made every reasonable effort to help themselves—of their having fulfilled their stipulations with those who have ministered to them, before granting them renewed aid. They have set before them such motives, as seemed best adapted to impress them with the importance of their dispensing, at the earliest practicable period, with all charitable aid. These efforts, the Committee believe, have been attended with favorable results. A more than usual number of congregations have, during the year, assumed the support of their own pastors; and the pledges of the Society have thus been transferred from the older to the more recently settled, and more destitute states. So great has been the number of missionaries whose commissions we have not had occasion to renew, that notwithstanding the large increase of new appointments, the whole number in commission is less, by 19, than it was the last year, while the actual amount of service rendered is greater, by 35 years; showing that the average term of missionary labor has been longer, and that the appropriations of the Society have tended to establish the institutions of the Gospel on a more permanent basis.

Revivals of religion, under the preaching of the missionaries, have not been so numerous as in some former years; yet we are not without the most pleasing evidence, that God has affixed to their ministrations the seal of his approbation. More than 60 make mention, in their reports, of the special effusions of the Holy Spirit on the congregations of their care. In many instances, too, the missionaries speak of the revivals which they have enjoyed, as remarkably powerful and extensive, bringing a large portion of the children and youth in their Bible classes and Sabbath schools to the foot of the cross, and adding 40, 60 and 70, to individual churches.

The number added to the churches during the year, on profession of their faith, is not far from 2,500; and by recommendation from other churches, 1,420.

The number of pupils in Sabbath schools and Bible classes, is about 58,500.

The number of subscribers to temperance pledges in the congregations of the missionaries, is about 78,000, and the amount contributed to various benevolent objects in 147 congregations—the number from which we have received reports on this point—is 7,582 13.

These are a few of the results of the labors of these men of God. A full disclosure of them can be given only by Him, who has appointed the ministry and the church for the diffusion of his infinite mercy, and the brightest glory of his eternal name. It cannot be doubted, that when we see, in the clear light of the judgment, the nature and design of these institutions—their relations to human happiness, and to the lustre of the mediatorial crown, we shall acknowledge that the work which the missionaries of this Society have performed, is one which angels might well have coveted ; and that the expenditure, in their support, of a few thousands of dollars—or of hundreds of millions, if it had been requisite—is unworthy of a thought!

STATE OF THE TREASURY.

The past year, following immediately one so signal for pecuniary distresses, has not been without its serious embarrassments to the collection of funds. At its commencement, these distresses, in their severest form, had but just reached some of the most distant parts of the field ; and in others, they had scarcely begun to abate. The receipts from the newer states, and from the missionary churches, have been less, therefore, than those of the preceding year. And to most of our commercial cities, the times of prosperity have not yet so far returned, as to enable us to realize so great an amount as formerly from the large subscriptions of individuals. During the last twelve months, too, the sympathies of the christian community have not been awakened, so deeply nor so extensively, for the missionaries in immediate want. There has been no special appeal to the churches—no extra efforts for calling out their pecuniary aid. But our reliance has been upon their enlightened and systematic benevolence—upon the usual exhibition of the principles and motives, which seem fitted to call into beneficent action, in furtherance of such a cause, the Christian and the philanthropist. And yet, the receipts of the year, have amounted to $82,564 63; which, added to a balance of $2,558 21 in the treasury at the last anniversary, makes the resources of the year $85,122 84. The amount due at the beginning of the year, together with what has since become due, is $93,086 35. Of this sum, $82,655 64 has already been paid ; and towards cancelling the remaining $10,430 71 there is a balance in the treasury of $2,467 20, leaving $7,963 51 of present indebtedness to the missionaries, for the discharge of which our dependance is on the voluntary contributions of the benevolent. In addition to this, the pledges of the Society for the coming year, portions of which are daily becoming due, amount to $16,005 58 ; and in consequence of the greater number of new appointments, exceed the amount pledged at the last anniversary $5,130 78.

To discharge, therefore, the present pecuniary responsibilities of the Society, and to give a cheering response to the appeals that are almost daily received for continued aid or for the occupancy of new fields, white already to the harvest—to prosecute the work of evangelizing the land, as its importance, and the pressing necessities of its destitute population demand, it is indispensable, not only that the contributions of the past year should be renewed, but that the resources of the Society should be greatly increased. Our appeal, is to those who have borne the interests of this institution on their hearts, and sustained it by their bounty ; and our hope, is in Him, who has upheld us hitherto, and whose are the silver, and the gold, and the cattle on a thousand hills.

SICKNESS IN THE WESTERN STATES.

At our last anniversary, your Committee were called upon to speak of the sufferings of the missionaries, in consequence of the financial embarrassments of the country ; and of the efforts for their relief, which had then been so happily begun. These efforts have been continued through the year with a good degree of success. It is with unfeigned gratitude to God that we announce, that so far as the punctual payment of the pledges of this Society is concerned, the missionaries have been relieved.

But while it has pleased the Lord, no longer to permit the embarrassments of this institution to be the occasion of suffering to his ministering servants, he has, in his inscrutable wisdom, visited a portion of the missionary field with sore afflictions from other sources. Besides the causes of pecuniary distress, which did not, until lately, develope their full action in the West, the population of some portions of the new states—many of whom were but newly arrived strangers, their improvements but just begun, with every thing to buy, and nothing to sell, and living, in many instances, in rude and hastily constructed dwellings—were visited with a dry and unfruitful summer, a scanty harvest, and, last and heaviest of all, with an extensive and desolating sickness. Meetings for public worship, and the auxiliary means of grace, such as Sabbath schools and prayer meetings, were either suspended, or their operations materially impaired ; and no inconsiderable portion of the time and attention of the missionaries was occupied in visiting the sick, sympathizing with the bereaved, or committing to the grave the bodies of the dead. Cases occurred where the affliction was so general, that the missionary, on repairing to the sanctuary on the Sabbath, found it literally deserted, because the entire community were either laid upon beds of sickness, or in necessary attendance on those who were. Nor did the missionaries escape the general calamity. Their own families were subjected, in common with others, to long and dangerous attacks of disease, often in places where medical skill was distant, and domestic aid, and the kind attentions of sympathizing neighbors were not to be obtained. But while they have endured the inflictions of disease, the privation of personal comforts—of things needful and becoming their station—their chief affliction has been, that their labors were interrupted, and their usefulness impaired. It has been an honor and a privilege to be your almoners in supplying to these servants of Christ, assistance and medicine, and the pledge of needed food and raiment.

When the sunshine of benevolence throws its warm beams into the window of the missionary's abode, lighting up the smile of returning joy on every pallid face, it is blessed to behold it—it is blessed to be the subject of it—but it is more blessed still, to be the source from which those rays of gladness emanate !

AUXILIARY SOCIETIES AND AGENCIES.

MAINE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This society has been in operation through a period of thirty-two years, and has extended its aid to at least three fifths of all the Congregational churches in the state. Without its fostering care, many of these churches would never have had an existence ; and others, that have become vigorous and influential, must, at the best, have remained but feeble and inefficient.

It is not strange, therefore, that an instrumentality so prominent in diffusing intelligence, in promoting evangelical piety, and in laying broad and deep the foundations of many generations, should have a large place in the hearts of the pious, and be sustained with exemplary liberality.

During the past year, the society has been recovering from the embarrassments which it experienced the previous year ; although their accustomed worldly prosperity can scarcely yet be said to have returned to the churches. The receipts of the year have been $9,863 65 ; which is $2,914 04 more than the receipts of the year preceding. The expenditures have been $8,033 72. The number of missionaries employed is 70 ; 46 of whom have labored in single congregations ; and 24 have extended their services over wider fields. Four churches, during the year, have assumed the entire support of their ministry, and ceased to require missionary aid.

The Secretary of the society, Rev. Dr. GILLET, remarks, that “ although revivals of religion have not marked the past year as the preceding, yet in several places God has manifested his power and presence in carrying forward the work of salvation. The alarm and presence in carrying forward the work of salvation. The alarm of war, and the all-exciting subject of the border difficulties, have had a deleterious influence in chilling ardor, and palsying efforts in the cause of Christ ; but, through a merciful Providence, the notes of preparation for hostilities have died away, and the churches seem returning, with more concentrated feeling and unity of purpose, to the consideration of the one thing needful. And though the means of the society are still too restricted, to meet the multiplied and increasing calls upon it from every quarter, yet, on the whole, its patrons and friends, and all who wish well to the cause, never had more reason than now to thank God and take courage.”

NEW-HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This society has celebrated its thirty-seventh anniversary, and the results of its labors have been such as call for devout thanksgiving to God, from all who love the prosperity of Zion. It has employed in its service 975 missionaries, the aggregate of whose labor is 479 years. Under the labors of these missionaries, twenty-five or thirty waste places have been reclaimed—forty churches have been organized—twenty-five houses of public worship have been erected—not far from three thousand souls have been hopefully converted and added to the churches, and, for the last few years, three thousand pupils have annually received the benefits of Sabbath school instruction.

The number of its missionaries the past year has been 48. The receipts of the year have been $4,551 96, and the expenditures, $4,983 74, leaving a balance against the society of $431 78. The amount of receipts is less, by $1,263 16, than in the preceding year; and has been occasioned, in part, by the fact, that a large number of individuals, who, three or four years since, engaged to make themselves life members, by the payment of annual instalments, had redeemed their pledges previous to the commencement of the past year; and, in part, by the pecuniary embarrassments which the farming population of the state have experienced, even more serious than those of the year preceding. To supply the place of the regular payments of those who have completed their life membership, particular attention has been given to resuscitating and extending the "Cent Institution," which has been a favorite organization with the ladies of the state, and which has paid into the treasury of the society, the last year, more than $800. The sum of $665 has been received from the state into the treasury of the Parent Society.

We trust the friends of Christ and of their country will not suffer the New-Hampshire Missionary Society to languish for want of funds; for there is much land yet to be possessed. The whole number of churches in the state that need charitable assistance is 80; about 30 of which are now entirely destitute. "Had the society the requisite means," says the Secretary—Rev. BENJAMIN P. STONE—"it might greatly enlarge its operations, with encouraging prospects of success. The old wastes, and the desolations of many generations, are yet painfully numerous, and they call loudly for the prayers, the sympathies and the liberality of all within our bounds, who love the Saviour, and the souls of their fellow men."

VERMONT DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This society has continued to prosecute its noble work the past year with energy and success; a work demanded, not only by the number of feeble churches within the state, but by the causes which are operating to keep them feeble. The most peculiar of these, perhaps, is the almost constant emigration of some of the most efficient members of these churches to the western states. No less than 150 members of the missionary churches, it is supposed, have been dismissed and removed within a year—a greater number than have been added to these churches on profession of their faith. “Of this stream, as it flows down upon the great valley,” the directors say, “we would not complain, because we have reason to believe that it will fertilize the plain. But we would awaken a deeper solicitude, lest the fountains become dry or polluted.”

The society has had in commission during the year 47 missionaries. The contributions of the churches, out of which they have been sustained, have been $3,851 78, and the expenditures $3,805 00. One hundred and eighteen dollars have also been received from the state, during the year, into the treasury of the A. H. M. S.

The Secretary of the society—Rev. IRA INGRAHAM—says, in his report, “Our prospects, in general, are encouraging. The number of missionaries employed, and the number of fields occupied, during the whole, or a part of the year, is not as large as in the year preceding, yet the amount of missionary labor performed is greater. There has been, within the last six months, more special religious interest in our missionary fields, than there had been for several years previous. Revivals are not, in general, so rapid or apparently powerful, as at some former periods; the number of hopeful conversions is not so great, as the same amount and extent of feeling in the churches might lead us to hope for; yet the whole number is indeed cheering, and the influences of the Spirit on the churches are extensive and happy.”

MASSACHUSETTS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The last anniversary of this society was its thirty-ninth. The fathers who organized it have, most of them, gone to their rest. But the churches which they established and strengthened, and the souls enlightened and redeemed through their instrumentality, are mementoes, on earth and in heaven, of the wisdom and the benevolence of the principles on which they acted.

Two interesting characteristics have marked its more recent history. The one is, its successful nurture of the infant churches within its own limits, gathered out of congregations no longer recognized as evangelical, until many of them have become vigorous and independent; and others are fast taking their places among the most beautiful of the daughters of Zion:—the other is, its large contributions, in addition to what it has bestowed upon the churches under its immediate care, to the great work of evangelizing the land. These contributions have exceeded, for several years, those from any other state—have encouraged us in our work when we must, otherwise, have been disheartened—have enabled us to distribute the bread of life to those who must, otherwise, have been unfed.

And we are happy in being able to add, that notwithstanding but little agency has been employed the past year for the purpose of collection, there have been received from the treasury of the Massachusetts Missionary Society, and from various individuals, congregations and auxiliaries of Massachusetts, including $2,500, a legacy of the late Richard Cobb, Esq., of Boston, $11,005 09, and $9,210 01 have been expended in support of missionaries within the state. The receipts of the state society, from April 1st, 1838, to April 1st, 1839, were $11,954 65, and the payments $14,814 51, and a balance remained in the treasury, April 1st, of $4,962 82.

The Rev. R. S. STORRS, D. D., having been obliged, by the failure of his health, to retire from the work of the general agency, which he has so long and so successfully prosecuted, the Executive Committee, a few months since, appointed to this office the Rev. JOSEPH S. CLARK of Sturbridge, who is now actively engaged in the discharge of its duties.

CONNECTICUT MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The churches of Connecticut have ever been distinguished by their pious concern for the spiritual welfare of their sons and daughters, who have sought a home in our new settlements. Immediately after the revolutionary war, as emigration to the North and West increased, they sent out one and another of their own pastors, to feed, for a season, the sheep that had no shepherd.

In 1788, the District Associations took up this description of missionary labor on a larger scale. In 1798, the General Association resolved itself into the Connecticut Missionary Society, and in 1802 received an act of incorporation from the legislature.

As this was the first state missionary society in the country, so it was, for many years, the only society extensively known as a missionary society, and may be considered as the parent of many others. Its missionaries were pioneers of mercy on all our frontier settlements, and hundreds of churches, and thousands of souls, in Vermont, in New-York, in Ohio, in Missouri, and in other sections of the land, will call them blessed.

This spirit of Home Missions, so early developed, has descended, from generation to generation, so that now, the small state of Connecticut is behind only the much larger states of Massachusetts and New-York, in the amount which she contributes, annually, for turning the wilderness into the garden of God.

And while Connecticut has done so much to plant the institutions of the Gospel in other states, it is a fact worthy of devout recognition, that she is herself better supplied with an educated, evangelical ministry, than any other state in the Union, and perhaps better than any other section of the globe—a beautiful illustration of the promise, “He that watereth shall be watered also himself.”

Our auxiliary in this state has aided, the past year, 34 feeble congregations, within its limits, in sustaining the institutions of the Gospel, and appropriated $1,000 in aid of feeble churches in Rhode Island. Its receipts have been $5,274 47; and its expenditures $4,217 33, and there remained a balance in its treasury, April 1st, 1839, of $3,003 64. There have also been received into the treasury of the A. H. M. S., during the year, from the Home Missionary Society of the Western District of Fairfield county, and the Home Missionary Society of the Eastern District of New-Haven county, and from individuals and congregations in other sections of the state, $3,062 59; making the total amount contributed to the cause of Home Missions in this state, during the year, $8,337 06.

WESTERN AGENCY, AT GENEVA, (N. Y.)

The report of this department of the Society is peculiarly animating. The work of the Lord has prospered in the hands of the missionaries. The number of appointments during the year has been 61, which, with 20 previously appointed, makes 81 laborers in this field. Eighty-six churches have received the benefits of this evangelical labor, which has, in all, exceeded 57 years. Sixteen of the missionaries were never before enrolled on our list, and eight of the fields occupied are new attempts to reclaim the ground to the dominion of Christ. Nine churches, and two smaller places of worship, have been erected on missionary ground. The spiritual interests of the churches aided have also been prospered. Nineteen instances of revival are reported, in several of which there have been 100 cases of hopeful conversion, and upwards of 500 have united themselves to the followers of the Lamb. The receipts of the year—notwithstanding its embarrassments—have amounted to $8,424 16, which is about $3,000 more than the pledges to missionaries on this field.

The history of the Western Agency, for the thirteen years of its operation, is a fair illustration of the practical working of our Home Missionary system, because it there enjoys, in a peculiar degree, the co-operation of the churches. Since May, 1826, when it first received the attentions of a permanent agent, this organization has been the foster parent of the congregations within its bounds. And it is a fact which ought to bind our hearts to this blessed cause, and to fill us with gratitude to God for what he has enabled us to do, that within only thirteen years, five sixths of all the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in the eighteen counties covered by the Western Agency, have been planted or nourished into fruitfulness and strength by this Board. And to what spirit the community has thus been trained, may be seen in another fact, viz. that within the same period, the contributions to the Home Missionary cause have amounted to $86,000, a sum which has sustained the missions on the field, and furnished $31,000 to send the bread of life to other parts of the land.

REV. JOHN A. MURRAY is the Secretary of this Agency, and Agent of the A. H. M. S. within its bounds. For the Report, see the Appendix.

CENTRAL AGENCY, AT UTICA, (N. Y.)

The wide region over which this Agency extends its labors, comprising the central, northern, and eastern portions of the state of New-York, includes a large share of its more destitute communities. In seven counties, containing 135 churches, only 43 are able to sustain the Gospel without assistance. Many churches have been reduced to a state of dependence by the drain of emigration to the new states. During the past year, 31 appointments of missionaries have been made, which, with 7 previously appointed, makes the aggregate of 38 on this field. These have furnished a regular supply to 43 churches, besides ministering, with greater or less frequency, to many others. The receipts of the year amount to $3,564 02, which is $314 22 more than the whole expense of the Agency, besides about $1,000 remitted from that field directly to the Parent Society. An increasing interest in the Home Missionary work is manifested by the churches generally, and especially by some of the ecclesiastical bodies. A growing estimation of the advantages of a permanent ministry is one of the beneficial results of this Agency; and though there have been few revivals, yet in nearly every church some are reported as having been hopefully born again.

REV. ABIJAH CRANE is the Secretary of the Agency, and Agent for the A. H. M. S. on that field.

CANADA H. M. S.

In our last report we spoke of the disastrous influence of the rebellion in Canada upon the cause of Missions. Our worst apprehensions from this source have since been fully realized. The Presbytery of Upper Canada, comprising seven or eight ministers, twenty-five churches, and having an aggregate of 700 or 800 communicants, has been quite broken up. The Report of the Canada H. M. S. remarks, in reference to the injury occasioned by the political disturbances in the Lower Province, "A second rebellion has extended the evil; and at this time, some of our churches are mourning over prostrate altars, on which they were preparing to offer their thank offerings to the Lord for special mercies. But these are the dark colors of the picture: it has a brighter aspect. Notwithstanding the discouragements which have been mentioned, some of the churches have been visited with seasons of refreshing from the presence of the Lord; others have made gradual, but steady progress in their course of duty, and even those who have been most severely tried, have increased in numbers and in strength. Chapels have been dedicated; pastors installed, and, in some places, a permanency given to the institutions of the Gospel."

As an illustration of the power of him who is "wonderful in counsel," to cause the wrath of man to praise him, a missionary states, that God is overruling the political disturbances, so as to bring the Catholic population into more immediate contact with their Protestant neighbors than ever before. "A spirit of inquiry, and a desire for improvement, are awakened in multitudes, which no threats or flatteries of the priesthood can effectually quell." Twelve missionaries, six of whom were aided by the Parent Society, labored within the bounds of this auxiliary during the past year. Income, $798 47. The Agent, Rev. W. F. CURRY, is transferred by the Executive Committee to the Western Reserve, O., where his labors are to commence with the ensuing missionary year. His associates in Canada speak of his efforts there with strong commendation.

PHILADELPHIA AGENCY.

In the field of this Agency, which consists of Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, there have been in commission, the last year, 38 missionaries; some of whom occupy stations, which demand a more than ordinary degree of patient endurance and of faith in God. They have, generally, been encouraged in their labors, by an increased attendance on the preaching of the word, by the active efforts of their people for the instruction of the rising generation and the conversion of the world; and some of them have witnessed the special effusions of the Divine Spirit upon the congregations of their care. One reports 30 recent cases of hopeful conversion ; another, 71 added to his church on profession of their faith ; and another, from 70 to 80 rejoicing in the hope of forgiven sin.

The friends of Home Missions on this field have also testified their favorable regard for the labors of these missionaries, and their interest in the great objects of the society at large, by their generous contributions. Notwithstanding the ecclesiastical dissensions, so painfully conspicuous within the bounds of this Agency, and the partial continuation of pecuniary embarrassments, the receipts, for the past year, have been $8,911 28, which is $561 35 more than in any preceding year,

That the liberality of these churches is not fitful and uncertain—the result of an ephemeral excitement, but of a growing conviction of the importance and magnitude of the work to be done, and is to be depended on, as a faithful auxiliary in coming years, we think is evident from a comparative view of the receipts of the Agency from the time of its organization.

In 1835 its receipts were	-	-	-	-	$5,539 65
In 1836 do	-	-	-	-	5,830 49
In 1837 do	-	-	-	-	6,901 41

The report of the Secretary of this Agency—Rev. GIDEON N. JUDD—whose labors have contributed so much to its efficiency, will be found in the Appendix.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THE EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The supply of ministers of the Evangelical Lutheran Church is so limited, that those who come forward annually into the sacred office, are usually settled in congregations able to sustain them without missionary aid. Hence only two missionaries have been appointed by this auxiliary, the last year. Several others have been sustained in Lutheran churches, by the assistance of the A. H. M. S.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THE GERMAN REFORMED CHURCH.

This auxiliary reports twelve missionaries, as having labored under its appointment during portions of the last year. Besides these, four other ministers of that denomination have been commissioned by the Parent Society. The details will be found annexed to their respective names in the general table.

WESTERN RESERVE DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

With the exception of the occasional services of the former Secretary, Rev. O. P. HOYT, this auxiliary has not enjoyed the benefits of a regular agency for nearly two years past. In consequence of this fact, and of the general embarrassments of the community, from sickness, and the prostration of business, the receipts of the society have been small; and a considerable portion of its appropriations to missionaries have been paid from the Parent treasury. Ten years of service have been performed on the field of this society by 15 missionaries. Connected with this auxiliary, and prospectively under its supervision, is an extensive region in the north-western section of Ohio, rapidly filling up with immigrants, and needing the fostering regard of this society. This new missionary field, together with the feeble churches on the Reserve, constitute a sphere of christian effort too important to be neglected, or but imperfectly occupied. Arrangements have recently been completed for transferring to this field our late agent in Canada, Rev. W. F. Curry; and, with the divine blessing, the Committee hope, at the next anniversary, to report more encouraging results from this promising, and yet, in some respects, difficult field of labor.

MICHIGAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This auxiliary, in consequence of the resignation of the Secretary and Agent, and the embarrassments which have so greatly afflicted the West, has accomplished little during the past year, except to act as the advisory correspondent of this Committee in the appropriation of funds, and the location of missionaries. Efforts are in progress to secure the constant labors of an efficient agent, which, on this field, are both greatly needed, and promise to be highly productive to the cause of religion.

CENTRAL AGENCY FOR THE WESTERN STATES, AT CINCINNATI, O.

The cause of Home Missions receives increasing encouragement on the field of this Agency. Great obstacles which had been thrown in its way are fast disappearing. Although the ecclesiastical agitations of the day, the pressure in pecuniary affairs, and the prevailing sickness in the West, have presented hindrances of uncommon magnitude, yet the prosperity of the Agency is undiminished. At the annual meeting in October last, the Agent reported that the receipts had exceeded the amount of collections in any preceding year. But the most cheering results are, "that a large portion of the congregations where the missionaries labor, has been blessed with revivals of religion, and many sinners give evidence that they are born again."

The number of missionaries who have labored under the appointment of this Agency is 28, and the receipts have amounted to $3,408 58.

Our valuable agent, Rev. HENRY LITTLE, who, for several years past, has efficiently served this Society, and the cause of Christ at large, on this field, has, during the year, felt it to be his duty to retire to a sphere of usefulness less exhausting to his health. The Committee are happy in having secured as his successor, the Rev. JAMES H. JOHNSTON, late of Madison, Indiana, from whose long acquaintance with the West, and possession of the public confidence, they hope increased usefulness may be imparted to the Home Missionary cause on that field.

OTHER AGENCIES IN THE WEST.

In Indiana, the Rev. SAMUEL G. LOWRY has continued his services, a part of the year, as the Agent of this Society. His object has been, not so much the soliciting of funds, as the looking up of the scattered sheep of the Great Shepherd—the visiting of feeble churches, to become acquainted with their condition and wants, to encourage them to put in requisition their own resources and to seek the aid of the benevolent, in securing to themselves and their children the blessings of a permanent ministry. The Literary Institution at Crawfordsville, obtained his services, the latter part of the year, as its financial agent. But we hope still to avail ourselves of his counsel in prosecuting the missionary work in Indiana, and to have the co-operation of the friends of Christ within her limits, and out of them, in extending to her destitute counties and rising villages the sacred influences of truth, and the power of the world to come.

In Illinois, the Rev. ALBERT HALE has been prosecuting a similar work—a work of great labor and self-denial, and yet vital to the intelligent and successful prosecution of the missionary enterprise. Funds cannot be judiciously expended, until the ground has actually been explored, and the results of personal observation are made the basis of specific action. It is to be ascribed, in a great measure, under God, to the active and efficient agency which the Society has been able to employ in this state, for successive years, that so much has been done by missionary labor for its moral and religious improvement. The large territory which the state comprises, and the adjacent sections of the state and territories on the west and north of it, each requiring a large amount of similar labor, make it quite impracticable for a single agent to meet the demands which are made for his services. We are happy to announce, therefore, that the Rev. FLAVEL BASCOM—well known in the state as a devoted minister, has been associated with Mr. Hale in the agency, and from their united efforts, in connection with those of the churches which have already become our efficient co-workers, we anticipate a large increase of good fruits in the field of their culture.

EVANGELICAL SOCIETIES OF GENEVA AND FRANCE.

From the reports which we receive from these societies, from our correspondence, and from the various information which we obtain of their operations, we have an increasing conviction of their importance to the cause of truth and Protestant Christianity—of the excellent spirit with which they are conducted, and of the strength of their claims to the beneficence, the sympathy and the prayers of the American churches.

No appropriations, however, have been made in aid of these societies the past year, owing, in part, to the difficulty of obtaining sufficient funds to meet the pressing necessities of the destitute at home, and, partly, to the fact that the attention of the churches has been specially called to this department of benevolent enterprise, during the year, with reference to a distinct organization for its superintendence and direction.

CONNECTION OF HOME MISSIONS WITH EFFORTS FOR THE CONVERSION OF THE HEATHEN WORLD.

It is impossible for christian hearts to be zealously affected in advancing one department of the cause of benevolence, without feeling a sympathy for the rest. The objects of the great religious charities are identical; and all their organizations, conspiring parts of a beautiful system of machinery, devised by the same Infinite Mind, and moved by the same living Spirit. Hence, the conductors of this Society, in prosecuting Home Missions, do not account themselves as laboring for this country alone, but for all the moral interests of man. They regard the work of converting the United States, as in direct fulfilment of the duty of converting all mankind. Not only is this republic a part, and an important part, of the world, and therefore covered by the command to “teach all nations,” but Heaven has given it a peculiar fitness to engage in the moral conquest of other lands. The triumph of the Gospel here, will bear to its triumph abroad, the relation of the means to the end. It is a necessary prerequisite to the great work, for the accomplishment of which we ask, when we pray, “thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven.”

This connection of Home Missions with the work of evangelizing the heathen world, is seen in the fact that a large portion of the laborers and the means for foreign missions, are furnished from this country. There are commanding points of influence, which the armies of Emmanuel, in the subjugation of the world to Christ, must gain, and must hold, in order to the readiest conquest of the whole. America is one of these points. It is the recruiting ground, where soldiers of the cross are to be enlisted; a magazine, whence the instruments of the holy war are to be supplied. That it is intended by Providence for this purpose, is evident, from its immense capabilities. It has a continent for its territory; and as has been said, "God sifted three kingdoms, to find seed to plant it." Before a century shall have revolved, its population, like its resources, must be counted by hundreds of millions. On the Atlantic border alone, its enterprise launches forth from 3,000 miles of sea-coast. The home-bred, hardy character of self-reliance and daring, which Americans derive from their country, its physical nature, its popular institutions, and the rapidity with which great events crowd its history, makes them the very people from whom missionaries are to be chosen. They are outstripped by none in commercial adventure, and in scattering abroad the elements of evil; may not the same enterprise, if sanctified, be relied on for equal activity in the diffusion of good? Whose ships are moored to the icebergs of the southern pole, and pursue their prey amid familiar haunts, in regions yet unnoted on the charts of other nations? They are Americans. Who supplies the rum, which brings back upon the half converted islands of the Pacific, the gloom of returning heathenism; and furnishes that liquid madness in the heart of Persia, and at the foot of Caucasus? Americans. Whose slave-ships hover on the coast of Africa, and, under the pretext of a foreign flag, stow their holds with human cargoes for the markets of the West? Again, the answer is, Americans! In these, and a thousand other cases, we see how much our nation is debtor to the whole world, and what her enterprise is capable of accomplishing.

Let the energies of this nation, then, be speedily and thoroughly evangelized. A people whose language contains so much of the science and literature of the world—whose commerce spreads her sail on every sea, and drops her anchor on every strand—whose Christianity is comparatively fresh from the fountain, and unmixed with the traditions, and unfettered by the establishments of men—such a people is an agent, appropriate and responsible for a large share of the instrumentality of converting the world. And it may be truly said, the WORLD IS WAITING FOR US. Doors are opened in almost every part of the earth, but America is not ready to arise and enter. Why is it, that almost in vain, nearly every missionary station abroad cries for more living helpers—or, if these may not be granted—for the means of putting the word of God, or, at least, a christian tract into the hands of inquiring heathen? America is not ready. It may almost be said, that so far as the occupancy of new fields is concerned, Foreign Missions have gone about as far as they can go, until there shall be more piety at home. This is apparent from the disastrous effect, which the late fluctuations in the affairs of this country produced on the missions in foreign lands—silencing the press, disbanding schools, and sending thousands of their pupils back to Paganism. We feel constrained, therefore, to labor for the conversion of our country, and our whole country; not merely to preserve its civil freedom, and its religious privileges unimpaired—not only to save its present or its future millions from eternal wo—not for any, nor for all these ends, merely, but also for a still larger and nobler object. Our aim is—not the conquest of America RATHER than the world—but AMERICA FOR THE SAKE OF THE WORLD!

CONCLUSION.

With such convictions of the magnitude and relations of the work assigned us, we again commend it to the prayerful and beneficent regard of all, who desire the triumphs of the Gospel over the corruptions and miseries of our race. It is a glorious privilege, to be co-workers with God in such a cause. It is infinite condescension in him, to bring it to our very doors, and permit us, in the delightful service of ministering to the wants of our own brethren, to raise up instrumentalities, and multiply resources, which are to fill the earth with the trophies of his grace, and heaven with the songs of his redeemed.

Shall we not, then, prize the privilege, and joyfully consecrate our personal efforts, our silver and gold, our faith and our prayers, to the attainment of such an end?

The field of our labor is associated with all that is endearing in home and country—in institutions, civil and sacred, that bless us in this life, and inspire us with the hope of a better. The cry of the needy falls upon our ear; those who are bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh, ask us for the bread of life. The ties of christian brotherhood, the love we bear our country, the desire we have to perpetuate its privileges, and to extend over every heart the power of truth and awaken in it the hope of immortality, urge us to action. And the population of the land, so fast increasing, so rapidly receding from our reach, and so soon to stand in the judgment, as well as all the agencies of evil that are busy for their destruction, tell us to do, whatsoever our hands find to do, quickly. This is a privileged hour of effort. The mighty mass of materials that is rolling over our country, is yet in a plastic state, and we may now lay upon it the hand of Christianity, and leave there the image of the heavenly; but if we hesitate and linger, till vice and infidelity have done their work, it will become harder than the nether millstone—the day of our merciful visitation will be past—and our land, instead of sending forth the chief instrumentality for the conversion of the world, may need itself to be converted from the darkness of Paganism.

Shall we not, then, enter upon our labors for another year, with a firmer purpose to work while the day lasts—with a deeper conviction of their solemn import—with a more entire self-consecration, and with a more perfect assurance, that the kingdom and the dominion and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, is to be given to the people of the saints of the MOST HIGH ; and that he is to reign FOR EVER AND EVER.

In behalf of the Executive Committee,

MILTON BADGER,

CHARLES HALL,

THIRTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The Western Agency, in submitting their Thirteenth Annual Report, would render grateful acknowledgments to God for his continued favor. During the year, 61 missionaries have been commissioned to perform 57½ years of ministerial service, in 70 different churches. To sustain these missionaries, $5,600 have been pledged. The number of different missionaries, including those of the previous year whose commissions extended into the present, is 81, and the whole number of congregations aided is 86.

The results are such, as call for thanksgiving to the Father of all mercy. The work of the Lord has prospered in the hands of the missionaries. Nine meeting-houses and two session houses have been reported as erected during the year. A few churches have relieved themselves from embarrassment, by the payment of debts contracted in the erection of their houses for worship. In several congregations, the things that remained and that were ready to perish, have been strengthened, and churches have been raised from the verge of extinction to vigorous life. The cause of temperance, and other subjects connected with the moral advancement of our nation, have met with a healthful and efficient co-operation. Eight new fields have been taken up; and 16 missionaries commissioned, who were never before commissioned by the board. Twenty feeble churches have been blessed with revivals of religion, several of which report 100 each, as the probable number who have passed from death unto life. As these revivals are to a considerable extent recent, the fruits have not been fully reported or gathered into the churches. The missionaries have reported 670 additions to their churches, 501 of whom were received on confession.

The receipts of the Agency have been $8,424 16, exceeding the sum pledged to the missionaries nearly $3,000. In these receipts, we have one donation of $1,000, one of $225, and a number of $100. But, as several of the most able congregations, and more than 100 churches, have failed in forwarding their donations, the receipts are somewhat less than in the preceding year. It is impossible for a single agent to visit annually, all the churches in this field. To a considerable extent, the responsibility of making collections is necessarily thrown on the pastors or sessions of churches. And although an effort has been made to obtain a donation from every church, and delinquent churches have received, during the year, several communications or visits each, yet from more than 100 churches nothing has been received.

The churches that have paid the largest sums into the treasury are the following:—

1. Geneva,	$1,648 25	6. East Bloomfield,	$252 95
2. Canandaigua,	491 09	7. Brick Church, Rochester,	241 00
3. Ithaca,	409 00	8. Vienna,	236 63
4. Auburn, 1st Church,	403 10	9. Buffalo 1st Church,	210 50
5. Pen Yan,	339 31	10. Victor,	149 45

A legacy of $200 was received from Waterloo.

As the field of this Agency is limited and stationary, and as the missionary churches become able to sustain themselves, in nearly the same numbers that new churches are organized and apply to the Board for aid, the annual results of the Agency and of missionary efforts are about the same. A great and necessary work is performed each year. Compared with preceding years, it would seem as if little advance had been made; yet when the results of several years are brought together, or when the number of new fields is considered, or the number of churches that from year to year assume the support of the gospel without missionary aid, we have abundant evidence that the signal blessing of God has all along rested on Home Missionary efforts in Western New-York.

The following will show the receipts, pledges to missionaries, number of missionaries commissioned, congregations aided and years of labor performed from May, 1826, to May, 1834, the first 8 years of this agency.

Years.	Receipts.	Pledges to Missionaries.	Commis'sns issued.	Churches aided.	Years of labor secured.
1	$2,313 36	$1,925	29	33	29
2	5,670 27	3,575	42	55	42
3	6,007 47	3,708	43	58	42
4	4,384 53	4,841	57	62	57
5	5,721 40	3,200	49	59	49
6	5,760 71	3,690	43	48	43
7	4,375 74	3,900	48	55	48
8	5,000 00	3,730	46	50	46
Total.	$39,233 48	$28,569	357		356

The Rev. Miles P. Squier was Secretary of the Agency from May, 1826, to May, 1834, and performed the duties of his office with great discretion and faithfulness. At the commencement of his agency, the greater part of this field was missionary ground. This is evident from the fact, that 5-6ths of all the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in Western New-York have been aided by the Board since 1826. During his useful agency, 357 commissions were issued, and pledges were made to secure 356 years of missionary labor, in 207 different churches. The missionaries under these commissions performed 343 years of labor. The receipts were $39,233, and the pledges to the missionaries were $28,569; so that in these 8 years, nearly $11,000 were raised by the Agency, above what was pledged to its missionaries, to carry on the work of Home Missions throughout the United States.

We here mention a fact, to show the absolute necessity of other missionary boards, than those that were in successful operation previous to the organization of the A. H. M. S. The Assembly's Board of Missions, according to its 13th Annual Report, performed in 40 years, with the whole country for its field, but 167 years of missionary labor, at an expense of $77,940. While this Board, limited in its operations to a small part of the State, in 8 years, at an expense of $28,569, performed double the number of years of missionary service that was performed in 40 years by the Assembly's Board or Committee of Missions. We have judged that this fact ought not to be concealed, as it bears on its face a confutation of the assertion which some honestly believe, and still make, that the A. H. M. S. was not needed, and that it might be dispensed with, and the cause of Home Missions suffer no detriment.

The following will show, in addition to what is shown in the table above, the additions to the missionary churches, the number of meeting-houses erected, and new fields taken up from May, 1834, to May, 1839, the last five years of the Agency.

Years.	Receipts.	Pledges to missionaries.	Commissions issued.	Churches aided.	Years labor secured.	Added on confession.	Added by letter.	Meeting houses erected.	New fields taken up.
1	$6,574 03	$5,150	59	65	56	555	186	4
2	10,635 02	5,730	63	73	57	727	298	9	25
3	10,677 35	6,779	70	78	70	615	268	9	10
4	10,685 57	3,195	45	51	42	268	170	2
5	8,424 16	5,600	62	70	58	501	169	9	8
Total.	$46,996 13	$26,654	299		283	2666	1011	33	43

Thus it appears that from May, 1834, to May, 1839, the blessing of God has continued to rest on this Agency. During these five years, and some of them years of unparalleled embarrassment, 299 commissions have been sent to 149 missionaries, and their services secured to perform 283 years of missionary labor. More than 30 meeting-houses, have been built, in missionary districts, by churches that were receiving aid from the Society. Seventy revivals have been reported by the missionaries, and 3,757 additions to the churches. The receipts have been $46,628, and the pledges to the missionaries have been $26,054. So that during these last 5 years, the receipts have exceeded the pledges to the missionaries, more than $20,000. Western New-York, but a few years ago, was all Foreign, or Home Missionary ground. In 1813, pagan rites were witnessed on the very site on which Rochester now stands. Yet, through the agency of the A. H. M. S., it has, during the last 13 years, not only sustained its own missionaries, and aided more than 250 different churches, but has raised in addition, more than $30,000 to aid in sending the gospel to other parts of our land. And it is supposed, that 20,000 persons have been received into the churches in Western New-York that have been aided and sustained by the A. H. M. S. We cannot look over this field with a knowledge of its past and present condition, without the exclamation—"Lo! what hath God wrought!"

The emigration from this part of the state is so great, that unless the churches enjoy frequent revivals, they are diminishing in numbers, and in their ability to support the gospel. This emigration makes it necessary for some churches to receive missionary aid for many years, while after having received it, and added hundreds to their communion, they are as feeble as when first taken under the patronage of the Society. Although but little good may appear to have been accomplished, yet great good has been done, and many hearts have in consequence been filled with thanksgiving and praise. These churches can tell of precious seasons of refreshing which they have enjoyed—of backsliders reclaimed—of sinners converted—of churches that have gone out from them to cultivate some neighboring or distant region. These churches have been lights in the midst of abounding darkness, and have led hundreds of lost and benighted sinners to the Lamb of God. Should these lights be extinguished, an irreparable loss would ensue to the towns where they are located. We would assure these churches, some of whom even fear to apply for aid from the little apparent improvement made from year to year, that the Board are far from thinking, that the help they have bestowed on them has been in vain. It is a privilege to lighten your burdens. The protracted assistance you have received was necessary. We have no disposition to withhold our help as long as the Gospel is faithfully preached among you, and you cannot sustain and enjoy that Gospel without assistance.

The extraordinary occurrences that have lately clothed our beloved Zion in sackcloth, demand our testimony respecting the Presbyterian churches in Western New-York. They are as sound in the faith, as pure in doctrine and practice, as Presbyterian churches in any section of the United States. They are as ready for every good work. They contribute for good objects as liberally. They are, and have been blessed with revivals of religion of great purity, and power and preciousness. Their pastors, as a body, are intelligent, pious, and laborious in the service of God. About one quarter of the missionaries in the employ of the A. H. M. S., have been blessed with revivals during the past year; and about in that proportion, during the same time, the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in this part of the state have been similarly blessed. These revivals we doubt not have caused joy in heaven, as well as an increase of the fruits of the Spirit on earth. The evils of which the Assembly of 1837 complain, do not exist in these churches to any considerable extent. These evils, it is solemnly believed, exist principally in unfounded and exaggerated rumors. The churches, as such, are lovers of order, lovers of truth, and lovers of God. There may be men in them whose zeal outstrips their knowledge; but in no part of the Presbyterian church, can churches be found of more intelligent, humble, and consistent piety, and who condemn and loathe more heartily all errors in doctrine, or practice, or heart.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The Central Agency would recognise, with devout thanksgiving, the goodness of the Lord, in mercifully defending us the past year from all painful and perplexing calamities, and allowing us to pursue in quiet our silent, unostentatious labors.

Summary of Facts.

During the year, which closes May 1, 1839, this Agency, with the approbation of the parent Board, have commissioned 31 missionaries; 26 of whom to spend the year each, in a single congregation. Two of the remainder have each two congregations, and one has three. Two, viz: Rev. S. Sweczy, of Oswego Co., and Rev. A. Taylor, of St. Lawrence Co., are county missionaries, whose duty it is to instruct and encourage those churches in their respective bounds, which we cannot furnish with a more ample supply. Forty missionaries have spent a part or the whole of the year on this field. Forty-three churches have had a stated supply, besides about fifteen, which are under the care of our county missionaries. Thirty years' service has been bestowed upon these churches since our last report. Fifteen of our missionaries are settled pastors. There is a very manifest and encouraging change of sentiment and practice, in favor of a permanent ministry. The aggregate of our pledges, the past year, is $3,070; the whole expense of the Agency is $3,249 80, and the amount received into our Treasury is $3,564 02, besides about $1,000, which has been sent, principally from our eastern churches, to the Treasury at New-York.

The business of Home Missions in Jefferson Co. has been conducted the past year by an auxiliary. They have employed several missionaries and sustained them. An unusual degree of interest has been excited on behalf of their destitute churches, and the prospect for the coming year is encouraging; but as arrangements were not made in season for us to commission their missionaries, and as we have not received their Treasurers' accounts, we are unable to embody their doings in this report.

Results.

Nothing has occurred during the year to awaken peculiar emotions, either pleasurable or painful. Our missionaries, who are a band of beloved brethren, have, we believe, been cheerfully and industriously employed in their Master's service. With their Sabbath schools, Bible classes, temperance societies, weekly conferences and lectures, monthly concerts, benevolent societies and family visits, together with the usual services of the Sabbath, they have been moving forward the work of God towards its consummation. They have encouraged and strengthened more than fifty of our little churches, which are struggling to rise in the midst of poverty and surrounding impiety; they have edified and comforted and led on towards heaven, hundreds of God's dear people; they have rebuked the sins of Sabbath breaking, intemperance and licentiousness, and done much to drive them from the world. Thousands of the rising generation they have taught to reverence the Sabbath, to read and understand the Scriptures, and to devote themselves, soul and body, to the service of God. Some souls, we trust, have been born again. Though there have been but few revivals, hundreds have indulged hope in Christ. Of this number, there are 46 in one church, 35 in another, and from 20 to 30 in another. In almost every church, some one or more has given evidence of being born of God, while the Spirit has descended in his refreshing influences, like gentle dews upon the heritage of the Lord.

Future prospects and responsibilities.

While there is no decrease of interest, of which we are aware, on any part of this field, in the American Home Missionary Society, several of our ecclesiastical bodies feel the importance of this department of benevolent effort, beyond any thing we have witnessed before. One Presbytery has pledged itself to raise, the coming year, for this object, about double of what has usually been collected within its bounds. Were the hundreds of millions of heathen well furnished with christian ordinances, and were all other parts of our own country, and of all Christendom, thoroughly supplied with pastors, the operations of the Central Agency, should be continued and enlarged. More than half of our churches are unable to sustain the Gospel, and there are several townships where there is no church, but where the Gospel ought to be preached, and must be preached, or multitudes will perish. This region continues to be emphatically the nursery of the West, which is making its annual and daily drafts upon us. Pass over the seven following counties, viz: St. Lawrence, Jefferson, Lewis, Oswego, Madison, Chenango, and Otsego, and you will find 135 churches, and but 43 that are able to support Gospel ordinances; and one fourth of these furnish but a meagre support. Ninety-two of them can have the Gospel but a part of the time, without aid from the A. H. M. S., and one half of these cannot raise, on an annual subscription, more than from $50 to $200. But many of these churches, though now so few in number, and limited in means, were a few years since, numerous and abundantly able to sustain the Gospel.

"Brethren, PRAY for us!"—

1. Because the nature of the work is such, that nothing will be accomplished, but by the Spirit of the Lord.

Men and money can do much, and the history of the world tells what that is; but they cannot regenerate men, establish christian churches, and extend the kingdom of Christ, without the Spirit of God. "We wrestle not against flesh and blood," if we did, we might "bite and devour," but we wrestle "against the rulers of the darkness of this world—against spiritual wickedness in high places." Satan, with all his devices, skill and power, is opposed to the triumphs of the cross, and with him are heartily combined the whole unconverted world. Who but God, can enable the church to conquer such a foe, and rescue such victims? Peter purposed and was powerless among the high priests' servants, Peter prayed and was prevalent on the day of Pentecost. It is not "by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord." A child can as easily roll the world, as the church convert the world without the Spirit of God, but her weapons become "mighty through God, even to the pulling down of strong holds."

God well knows that the church can do nothing without Him, and especially in the pure, spiritual work of persuading men to be reconciled to God. He cannot be deceived by our professions. Our hearts' desire must be to Him, going up from a soul deeply penetrated with a consciousness of our dependence on his Spirit, if we would be strengthened with might in the inner man. Let our souls then be pervaded and impressed with the truth, that the first and principal thing which the church needs in her missionary work, is the Spirit of God. Filled with the Spirit, she will be fitted for her work; her councils will be wise; her agents will be successful; her missionaries will be guided and sustained, and the Gospel they preach will be made the power of God unto salvation.

All this it will please and honor God to bestow, when we cry unto him for it with our whole heart. "When I am weak, then am I strong."

2. The magnitude of the work should move the people of God to pray.

After all that has been done, by the extraordinary efforts of the last thirteen years, to supply our country with the Gospel ministry, there are now several millions who have not the Gospel preached to them, either in public or from house to house; a number sufficient to form from 6000 to 8000 congregations, larger than an average of those already organized. There are also more than 1500 souls added to our population daily—enough for 700 other congregations every year. Can there be a doubt, that the Lord Jesus Christ expects the American church to make provision for these increasing millions? And can there be a doubt, unless more copious measures of the Spirit of God are poured upon the church, that our generation will go to their graves and leave the work undone? To say nothing of the demands which the hundreds of millions of other lands have upon us, to whom we ought to send thousands of christian teachers every year, how is our own home work to be accomplished? In addition to all that is now doing for the kingdom of Christ in our country, there is an immediate demand for gathering and organizing at least 6000 congregations, and furnishing them with pastors, besides making provision for an additional number of 700 every year. This is necessary to furnish the present generation with merely the primary means of grace, and to relieve the church from the guilt of allowing this spiritual starvation to remain in our land. The Lord commands us "to preach the Gospel to every creature;" and nothing would be more easy or delightful to the American church, than to carry out this gracious injunction to the extremities of our country, if the Spirit of God reigned in our hearts, "Ask and ye shall receive."

3. The past progress and present state of the enterprise, show the necessity of looking to the heavens for help.

The American church has been organized and at work for more than 20 years, to persuade parents to bring up their sons for the ministry, and to furnish aid to such as were poor while preparing to preach the Gospel. The press has continually been rolling off volumes of intelligence, through every valley and up every hill side over all the land; convocation after convocation has been called, and the thrilling influence of human eloquence has been poured forth, to bring up the church to this benign work. And besides this, commissioned agents have ranged the country year after year, visiting every branch of the church with line upon line, and precept upon precept, pressing the claims of our Redeemer, and of our fallen, dying race, upon the consciences and sympathies of the church: and what is the result? We should never cease, while we have breath or being, to render thanks to the Lord for what has been accomplished. It is beyond all price. God only knows its worth. But is the work done? Or is the Gospel preached to every creature in our land? The answer is truly startling. If we had not sent one missionary to the heathen, our whole church have not educated ministers enough within the last 20 years, to supply more than one half of the current increase of our population.

We should rejoice if fidelity would allow us to stop here. But it is a painful fact that the comparatively small number of ministers we have, are not all employed to the best advantage. We might mention scores of worthy men, against whom nothing can be said, except that they are not popular, whom the necessities of their families have driven partly or wholly into secular employments. They would greatly prefer devoting all their energies to the ministry, if they could "live of the Gospel." Whether they do right or wrong, God will decide, but it is certain that the church has lost their services. Those who have gone to foreign lands, have been compelled not only to stop their presses, which were pouring floods of light among the benighted heathen, but to turn back into pagan darkness thousands of youth whom they had gathered into christian schools. Others, who were anxious to go and preach Christ to the heathen, have been detained months or years at home. Several, who have offered their services to go into our own moral wilderness, and carry the Gospel to the poor and perishing, the A. H. M. S. has been unable to send. And others still, whom we have sent, and who, by toil and pains, have gathered churches, have been obliged to yield to necessity, and leave them to be scattered as sheep having no shepherd. And all this because the tithes were not brought in, and there was not meat in God's house.

Why are these things so? Has God allowed the church to be hunted down and slaughtered by her enemies? Has the pestilence been commissioned to depopulate our cities and villages, and roll desolation over our land? Have the ravages of war torn from the church her wealth, and the fields of battle drunk up the blood of her sons? Should we not rather say, that no portion of the church since the Christian era, has had less to hinder and more to facilitate her work of love, than the American church for 20 years past.

We throw these facts before you, beloved brethren, not to awaken a censorious spirit, not to dishearten you, but to fasten your attention upon the following inquiries. Has God been honored, by a due manifestation of our dependence on his Providence and Spirit? Does the Church pray, as she ought, and as much as she ought, in view of the perilous condition of the destitute millions on our shores? Are we receiving from on high, a full measure of what God has promised to his believing, obedient people? Do not the past progress and present state of the Home Missionary enterprise assure us, that it is too sacred—too immense—has too much to do with souls—with the spirit of rebellion—with dying love—with God and eternity, ever to be accomplished without prayer, perpetual, prevailing prayer? Can we hope that God will visit us in such abounding mercy, and do such a mighty work as to fill our land with Christian knowledge, and redeem our nation from its sins, unless the people of God, with one consent, gather around the throne, and, with their souls oppressed with the magnitude of their errand, “offer up prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears?” Would the Church give herself thus to prayer, we should have reason to hope, that God would make all grace abound towards us; that we, always, having all sufficiency in all things, might abound unto every good work.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The Executive Committee of the Philadelphia Agency for Home Missions, in presenting their fifth Annual Report to the American Home Missionary Society, and to their friends and patrons, would offer to the God of Missions and of all grace and consolation, their devout thanksgiving. By his help, they have completed the labors of another year, cheered by a deeply settled and augmented conviction of the importance of their object, and the tokens of increasing favor both with God and man. Before they enter upon the work of another year, they pause, to erect a memorial of his goodness, and record upon it the ancient, but never to be antiquated inscription, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

Receipts during the year.

While engaged in the prosecution of his work, our Agent received an injury, which laid him aside from active service for six weeks. Notwithstanding efforts were made to supply this deficiency, by correspondence with pastors, requesting their co-operation, and calling in the aid of the Secretaries in New-York, to a limited extent, it was apprehended that our receipts would fall short of those of the previous year. The result, however, rebukes our fears, and encourages us to trust in God in every emergency. The sum of $8,911 28 has been paid into our treasury during the year, exceeding the income of the year immediately preceding, by $561 35.

Missionaries.

The number of missionaries under appointment, during the year, on this field, is thirty-eight. From two of them, however, no report has been received, and it is presumed some unforeseen dispensation of divine providence, prevented them from entering upon their anticipated work. Their names being omitted, we are able to report thirty-six, who have given themselves to their appropriate work as ambassadors of Jesus Christ, of whose fidelity and zeal we have satisfactory evidence.

Results of their labors.

Most of them report an encouraging and increasing attendance upon the preaching of the Gospel, weekly meetings for prayer, biblical instruction, and the monthly concert of prayer for the conversion of the world. The efforts of the missionaries for the promotion of Sabbath schools, and the instruction of the young generally, in the great doctrines and duties of Christianity, have been attended with a manifest blessing; and in reference to the progress of temperance, their reports have never been equally cheering.

Some of our missionaries occupy stations, which demand more than an ordinary degree of faith, and patient, persevering effort. Deeply rooted prejudices and long cherished errors oppose the progress of the truth. On the Peninsula between the Chesapeake and the Delaware, where Presbyterianism in this country was cradled and nursed, the missionary is called to "build the old waste places,—to raise up the foundation of many generations,"—to be "the repairer of the breach, the restorer of paths to dwell in."

One thing ought never to be overlooked, in our estimate of the importance of the labors of a minister of the Gospel. While immediate and great success should be aimed at and prayed for, a failure in its realization is no just ground of despondency. In the circumstances in which some of our missionaries are called to labor, it would be almost unreasonable to expect it. Reigning indifference to religion, prejudice and error are powerful obstacles to their success, the removal of which is ordinarily the work of time.

Nor should it be forgotten, that the signal blessing of God upon the labors of his ambassadors, is not the only criterion of their fidelity and usefulness. Who can estimate the amount of evil, both for time and eternity, which is prevented by their instrumentality, and the amount of good secured by them, for "the life that now is and that which is to come," where great results are not at once secured? The dreariness of winter, is not at once succeeded by the verdure and bloom of spring; nor do golden harvests, follow the footsteps of the husbandman, as he scatters the precious seed. These delightful changes in the natural world, are brought about by the silent, gradual and almost imperceptible influences of the dew, the rain and the sun. Thus God, "Who is wonderful in counsel and excellent in working," often produces by the Gospel, the most important changes in the religious condition of communities.

The year, preceding the one to which our present Report pertains, to a considerable number of the missionaries on this field, was eminently "a year of the right hand of the Most High." Their labors were blessed in the revival of the graces of God's people, and the hopeful conversion of about 500 souls.

It is gratifying to learn from the reports of the missionaries, that most of the fruits of these revivals are permanent. Nor have the influences of the Spirit, in their reviving power, been wholly withheld during the year which has just closed. One missionary, recently reported more than thirty cases of hopeful conversion among his people, and the work of the Lord was still in progress. Another, has received an accession to his church of seventy-one, on profession of their faith in Christ, and a third states, that in a revival during the past winter, from seventy to eighty souls profess to have been born again.

Since this Agency was established, five years ago, two preaching stations and six churches within the precincts of Philadelphia, have been aided by the Society. Five of these churches have been organized during this period. Four of them are still dependent in part upon the Society, for the stated enjoyment of the ordinances of the Gospel. It is believed, however, that two of them, in the course of the ensuing year, will be able to assume the chief, if not the entire support of their pastors. Three of these churches have been organized within four years, one within three, and another during the past year. To them and the church previously organized while receiving the patronage of the Society, more than 400 have been added, on profession of their faith in Christ, and on the list of their communicants are enrolled the names of more than 800 members. When we reflect that these churches are located in the suburbs of the city, amidst a population greatly needing illumination and renovation by the Gospel, their importance as centres of healthful, moral influence, exceeds all finite calculation. For these tokens of divine favor, and less important ones in smaller additions to the churches, with which our missionaries have been cheered, let God have all the glory.

In order to carry forward the great work for the spiritual renovation of our country and the world, the various associations which are laboring for it need a regular and increasing income. Fitful and uncertain contributions, the result of feeling and impulse, rather than of christian principle, will not suffice. Other contributions from our patrons, the following statement authorizes us to expect. During the year ending April, 1835, our receipts were $5,539 65; do. 1836, $5,830 49; do. 1837, $6,901 41; do. 1838, $8,349 93; do. 1839, $8,911 28.

These results are the more gratifying, because ecclesiastical frowns and denunciation, and commercial embarrassment, have tended to diminish our income. Increasing patronage, in these circumstances, establishes two facts, to which the Committee attach great importance. One is, growing friendship to our cause; the other, that the principles of the Gospel, in reference to the consecration of property for its spread, are better understood and more extensively adopted by professing Christians.

Importance of increased effort.

Much as has been done, within the last ten or twelve years, for supplying the lack of Gospel ordinances in this nation, our work is but just commenced. From feeble churches in various parts of our country, especially in the recently settled and rapidly settling states and territories, the Macedonian cry is reiterated, "Come over and help us.—Send to us and to our children, pastors and teachers to instruct us in the things of the kingdom of God, and gather in the harvest around us, which is perishing for want of laborers."

Our duty as the stewards of God, and sinners redeemed by the blood of his beloved Son, should constrain us to return a response to these entreaties, which shall send joy into the habitations and hearts of those who make them.

The prosperity of this nation and the permanence of our free institutions, eminently depend upon having our destitute population supplied with the ordinances of the Gospel. Nothing else will do so much to diminish the taxation, imposed by pauperism and crime, promote all the social and civic virtues, and maintain the supremacy of law. Nothing else will so effectually guard the purity of the elective franchise, preserve public funds from embezzlement, and secure wise legislation and the unobstructed administration of justice.

The main importance of Home Missions, however, consists in their bearing upon the eternal destinies of men. Our destitute population are passing into eternity at the rate of 200,000 a year. During the same period, from the unevangelized portions of the globe, twenty millions enter upon its changeless retributions. In order to stay this torrent of ruin and death at home and abroad, greater efforts must be made to send them the heralds of salvation. Our work is vast, as the amount of means which we can furnish toward the spiritual illumination of our country and the world.

Methods of affording aid.

Let those who are waiting for the universal reign of truth and holiness among men, acquire and diffuse information concerning the spiritual wants of our own country and the unevangelized portions of the earth. Let them do what they can, to replenish our treasury and send forth laborers into the fields in which the harvest is perishing.

The children in our Sabbath schools may aid us by their contributions. The majestic river, which pours its mighty torrent into the ocean, is formed by the confluence of little rivulets, composed of solitary drops of water. Enough of small contributions united will furnish the amount needed to supply every section of our country with the preaching of the Gospel, and every neighborhood with its Sabbath school. Between $30 and $40 were received, a few months since, from the Sabbath school of the Presbyterian Church in Harrisburg, to constitute their superintendent a Life Member of the Society. During the year, the Missionary Association of the Female Sabbath school in the 5th Presbyterian Church, in Philadelphia, has paid nearly $50 into our treasury, and the first Bible class of the male Sabbath school of the church, has also made a donation. Are there not many Sabbath schools within the limits of this Agency, which will rejoice to follow their example?

We have another example to exhibit for the imitation of children, who wish to do something for the spread of the Gospel. About a year since, a son of one of our missionaries in the state of Pennsylvania, about fourteen years of age, requested his father to give him a piece of ground to cultivate for the Society. The grant was cheerfully made. He planted his little plat of ground, but it was the last work which he ever performed. He soon after sickened and died. During his illness, he spent much time in prayer. His fears of death were dispelled, and he is believed to have died an humble disciple of Jesus. The last object pertaining to this world, about which he inquired, was his missionary field, and it was the last beyond the confines of the room in which he sickened and died, toward which his languid and dying eye was directed.

Since his death, the products of his field have been sold for $5 50 and appropriated to the Society.

The privilege of giving to this sacred charity, is not confined to the rich. The blessed Redeemer does not deny it to his poor disciples. However small their donations, if proportioned to their ability, and given from love to him and the souls for whom he died, they are no less acceptable than the most costly offerings of the affluent. His commendation of the poor widow, who cast her two mites into his treasury, and his promised recompense to him, who should give a cup of cold water to a poor disciple of his from love to Him, invites the humblest offerings.

At the commencement of the last winter, after the claims of this cause had been presented to a church in the interior of Pennsylvania, a poor widow, who supports herself by her loom, came early on Monday morning to her pastor, with a donation of two dollars for the Society. The drought of the preceding summer and autumn, had greatly increased the price of provisions. Her pastor knowing her circumstances, was unwilling to receive her gift. She replied, "if the missionaries are compelled to live on bread and salt as we heard yesterday, I can very well afford to give two dollars, and trust the providence of God to provide for me and my family during the winter." Let, her spirit pervade the church, and the Lord's treasury would soon be filled.

This is an appropriate work for christian females. To the blessed influence of the Gospel, is the sex indebted for their elevation in society. Though it prohibits them to take upon themselves the office of the ministry, it freely grants them the privilege of proclaiming the unsearchable riches of its grace by proxy. Some have gladly availed themselves of it. The ladies of the Congregational Church, Philadelphia, the first year after its organization, made a contribution of $150 to our funds. The ladies of the 3d and 5th Presbyterian churches, during the year which has just closed, have each made an offering of more than $100; and of the 1st Presbyterian Church, of between $400 and $500. May their zeal and liberality excite others to go and do likewise.

How many are there of both sexes, whom the providence of God has placed between want and affluence, who might do much in aid of this patriotic and God-like work!—And the rich, did they but fully appreciate their privilege and their obligations to do what they can for the spread of the Gospel, might become the almoners of Jehovah's richest bounty to our fallen, suffering race! And how much nobler, more exquisite and enduring, the enjoyment of appropriating money for this purpose, than of expending it for mere worldly gratification!

At the ordinary rate of appropriation, $100 will furnish a destitute church and the population around it, with the preaching of the Gospel for a year. We feel a peculiar pleasure in stating, that during the past year, seven individuals within the limits of this Agency, by a donation of $100 each, are now preaching the Gospel by proxy to seven churches, which else would be unfurnished with its invaluable instructions.—Five of these contributors, belong to a single church in the city of Philadelphia, and a sixth, has made a contribution of $400 to the Society. The Lord reward them, with the abundant consolations of his grace, and make their donations the means of turning many to righteousness.

The aged and the young, the rich and the poor, persons of both sexes and of all ages and conditions, we invite to co-operate in this benevolent and blessed work. We affectionately and earnestly urge them, to lend us the assistance of their prayers and contributions, in preparing the way of the Lord through our own country, and in hastening the reign of the Redeemer over all nations.

EXTRACTS FROM THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The cause of the A. H. M. S. receives increasing encouragement within the field of our labors. Great obstacles have been thrown in the way of its operations, but they are fast disappearing. The strifes and contentions, which have prevailed in churches and ecclesiastical bodies, we hope are passing away. But we have still to struggle with straightened means, on account of pecuniary embarrassments in the community.—Our greatest difficulty, however, arises from the low state of religion in our churches. To sustain this blessed cause, and every other good enterprise, a general revival of religion in our churches is greatly needed. It is for this object that our good brethren, at the approaching anniversary, should offer their prayers and direct their efforts, more than for any thing else. That far more of our young men may be converted, and laborers, in much larger numbers, enter the field, and more ample means be raised for their support, and their labors be crowned with more abundant success, the outpouring of God's spirit, in such copious effusions as have been granted in years that have gone by, is infinitely desirable. How great an impulse would at once be given to every benevolent enterprise! But should declension continue, and discouragements increase, this cause must not be abandoned. It has never been more important than at present. We have a great—very great work to do.

NOTICE TO MISSIONARIES.

PUNCTUAL REPORTS.

In every commission, issued by the Executive Committee of the A. H. M. S. and by its auxiliaries, the following clause is inserted:—"In no case can your order [for the payment of appropriations] be accepted, until you shall have reported labor, as above required, for the full time which your draft is intended to cover."

Notwithstanding this notice, and the specific requests which are issued by the Society from time to time, some of the missionaries are very negligent in making their reports at the periods required. Painful as it may be, the Committee will feel compelled to adhere literally to the terms above stipulated, and to cause the drafts of the missionary to be returned unpaid, unless the quarterly reports, and the annual statistical returns on the 1st of April, are duly rendered.

STATISTICAL RETURNS ON THE FIRST OF APRIL.

The statistical returns of the missionaries furnish the data from which the Annual Report is drawn. In former years, many of these returns have failed to reach the Society, in season to be used for this purpose; consequently, the Committee have never been able to present so full a Report as they desired, and as the cause deserves. Each missionary is required to furnish the following list of particulars, in a special communication (unless his quarterly report should be made about that time,) by mail, as early as the first of April:

1. Name of the church, with the township, county and state; and also the post-office address of the missionary.
2. Number of hopeful conversions.*
3. Number added to the church by profession.*
4. Number added to the church by letter.*

* In estimating these numbers, those conversions and additions only should be included, which have taken place in that part of the year, extending from April to April, during which you are under commission from the A. H. M. S. If the whole year, from April to April, be covered by the commissions of the Society, you will report the conversions and additions for the whole year.

5. Number of Sabbath schools—number of Pupils—number of Volumes in Library.
6. Number of Bible classes—number of Pupils.
7. Number of Temperance Societies—number of Subscribers.
8. Number of churches organized during the year.
9. Contributions to benevolent objects, such as

APPLICATIONS

By feeble congregations for aid in supporting the Gospel, should contain the following particulars, viz:—

The name of the church or congregation; the number of communicants, and the average number of attendants on public worship; the denomination and size of congregations immediately contiguous; the total amount of salary which the applicants propose to make up; the portion of that salary which they can raise for the given time, and the least amount that will suffice from the Society for that period. These statements should be signed by the trustees and elders, or by a committee of the congregation, and confirmed by the certificate of one or more clergymen acquainted with the facts. Also—

The name and post-office address of the minister whose services they desire to secure; his credentials; and the certificate of one or more ministers of known standing, as to his general character for piety, zeal, and acceptableness as a minister of the Gospel.

As a general rule the appropriations of the A. H. M. S. are for twelve months from the date of the application; at the end of which, if further aid be needed, a new application must be made. And each congregation applying for renewed aid should furnish, in addition to other testimonials, the certificate of the Missionary that they have fulfilled their previous pledges for his support.

MODES OF AIDING THE A. H. M. S.

1st. By stated, annual collections in churches, at the Monthly Concert, on Thanksgiving days, &c. &c. $1 a year, or two cents a week, from each church member, would give the gospel to this whole nation. 2d. The donation of $30 constitutes a Life Member, and $100 a Life Director. Members and Directors for Life, and donors of $10 a year, are entitled to the publications of the Society gratis. 3d. Contributions of individuals, Female Cent and Working Societies, Praying Circles, Young Men's and other Auxiliaries. 4th. Assuming the support of a Missionary by contributing the amount voted to him. 5th. Subscribing for and circulating the Home Missionary and Pastor's Journal, published at the Society's Office monthly, at one dollar a year.

RESULTS.

The American Home Missionary Society has secured the stated preaching of the Gospel in a number of the congregations, varying in 14 years from 200 to 1,000 per annum. Hundreds of churches have been organized, and hundreds of houses erected for the worship of God. Between 40 and 50,000 are reported as added to the churches aided—besides the training in Sabbath schools and Bible classes of more than 60,000 pupils in one year, efforts for Temperance, the Sabbath, &c. The influence of the Missionaries on education, public morals, and the general improvement of society, is acknowledged wherever it has been exerted—and institutions which they have aided in establishing, will, it is hoped, be blessings inestimable to many generations.

FOURTEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

THE AMERICAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY held its Fourteenth Anniversary in the Broadway Tabernacle, New-York, on Wednesday evening, May 13th, 1840. HENRY DWIGHT, Esq., President of the Society, took the chair, and the meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. ELY, of Monson, Mass.

The Treasurer's Report was read by Mr. KNOWLES TAYLOR, Treasurer of the Society.

An abstract of the Annual Report of the Executive Committee was read by Rev. CHARLES HALL, one of the Secretaries.

1. On motion of Rev. E. R. FAIRCHILD, of Philadelphia, seconded by Rev. J. W. McLANE, of New-York,

Resolved, That the Reports now read be adopted, and published under the direction of the Executive Committee.

2. On motion of Rev. THORNTON A. MILLS, of Cincinnati, O., seconded by JOHN TAPPAN, Esq., of Boston, Resolved, That the past success of the American Home Missionary Society, affords great encouragement for more extensive and energetic efforts to supply our whole country with the Gospel.

3. On motion of Rev. HUBBARD WINSLOW, of Boston, seconded by Rev. HENRY LITTLE, of Indiana,

Resolved, That as the salvation of the world depends, under God, upon a sufficient ministration of the Gospel by enlightened and truly pious men, therefore, it is the duty of the American churches, while laboring to evangelize the heathen, to see that the christian ministry is fully supplied and sustained in our own country.

4. On motion of Rev. THOMAS BRAINERD, of Philadelphia, seconded by Rev. Dr. PETERS, of New-York,

Resolved, That while we give thanks to God for his blessing upon the efforts of this Society, in past time, we would be deeply sensible of our entire dependence, for all future success, upon the gracious influences of his Holy Spirit.

Appropriate and interesting addresses were made by Rev. Messrs. MILLS, WINSLOW, BRAINERD, and Dr. PETERS ; and the exercises were diversified and enlivened by the performances of the choir, under the direction of Mr. R. H. SEELY.

The Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. PATTON, of New-York ; after which the Society proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year.

The Treasurer, Mr. KNOWLES TAYLOR, having expressed his intention to decline a re-election, it was Resolved, That the thanks of the Society be presented to him for his very valuable services, gratuitously rendered for a period of twelve years.

FOURTEENTH REPORT.

THE Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society come to present their FOURTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT, under a deeper conviction than ever before, that the labors of its patrons and friends are hallowed, in the best affections of the best of men, and recorded, as a grateful memorial, in the book of God. The testimonials, which the embarrassments of the Institution have called forth, from men of enlightened minds and generous hearts, to the wisdom of its policy and the importance, to this country and to the world, of the successful execution of its benevolent purposes, have greatly encouraged the Committee in the prosecution of their work ; and the full and tender expressions of gratitude, from those to whom it has given the Gospel, and from those whom it has enabled to preach it, have deeply affected their hearts. The testimonials, too, which have been received from on high, in the enlargement which has been granted, when no human eye could see from whence it was to come, and in the outpouring of the Spirit of God, so extensively and powerfully upon the churches, teach us, that it is our exalted privilege to act in close alliance with Him, who has all power in heaven and on earth, and whose merciful designs, in giving commandment that his Gospel be preached to every creature, are to be carried forward to their certain and glorious completion, though clouds and darkness may, for a little season, be round about him. The Lord of Hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge!

The year, therefore, has not only brought with it its embarrassments and its trials, but its peculiar encouragements—its precious blessings.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS.

The whole number of missionaries and agents, named in the foregoing table and in commission during the year, is 680. That the number does not greatly exceed this, is not that the wants of the needy have all been supplied, or that their earnest supplications for aid have all been granted, or that no more heralds of mercy could be found to go out and proclaim to them the glad tidings of salvation, but that the Committee have been restricted in their appropriations, by the want of funds.

The pecuniary distresses experienced every where in the Autumn, so seriously affected the immediate and prospective receipts of the Society, that it became indispensable, in the judgment of the Committee, to refrain from increasing its responsibilities, except in cases having claims of a peculiar character. The efforts of the last half of the year, therefore, have been directed, not so much to enlarging the operations of the Society, by taking up new fields and sending out additional laborers, as to retaining the ground already occupied, till the times of prosperity should return from the presence of the Lord.

It is gratifying, however, to the Committee, and matter of devout gratitude to God, that, notwithstanding their inability to extend the agency of the Society in a measure corresponding with the imperious necessities of the country, or even with their own anticipations at the opening of the year, they are able to report, that there has been an actual advance upon the labors of the year preceding—the number of missionaries in commission exceeding, by 15, those reported at the last anniversary, and the amount of service performed being greater, by 13 years.

Of the missionaries reported, 486 were in the service of the Society at the commencement of the year, and 194 have been since appointed. They have occupied fields of labor in 22 different States and Territories, and in the Province of Lower Canada.

Four hundred and ninety-eight have been employed as pastors or stated supplies in single congregations, 152 in two or three congregations each, and 30 have extended their labors over larger fields.

The whole number of congregations and missionary districts supplied, in whole or in part, is 842; the amount of labor performed is equal to 486 years.

The number added to the churches, on profession of their faith, is not far from 2,840; by letters from other churches, 1,910—in all, 4,750, which exceeds the number added the last year by 830.

The number of pupils, instructed in Sabbath schools and Bible classes, is about 60,000.

The number of subscribers to temperance pledges, in the congregations of the missionaries, is not far from 75,000.

The amount contributed to various benevolent objects in 200 congregations—the whole number from which we have received reports on this subject—is $9,135 21. From the reports of this and of preceding years it is manifest, that more than one third of all that is expended on these missionary churches, is actually paid back by them, during the year, into the different channels of christian benevolence. Some of them, it is true, contribute far less than they ought. But there are others that, in proportion to their ability, are exceeded by no churches and by no classes of Christians in the land. The measure of their benevolence, while giving of their penury, in addition to what they pay for the support of their own Gospel institutions, is a noble example for the imitation of those, to whom God has committed, in greater abundance, the treasures of this world.

The number of churches that have this year assumed the support of their own pastors—the diminished amount of aid asked by others—the churches organized under the labors of the missionaries—the houses of worship erected and the pastors installed, all give the most pleasing evidence, that the funds, which have been consecrated, in this sphere of benevolent action to the advancement of the kingdom of Christ, have not been expended in vain.

But the evidence, most grateful to the pious heart, that the missionaries have not spent their strength for nought, is recognized in the fact that they have been workers together with God. They have planted and watered, and God has given the increase. The year has been a year of revivals—such a one, as has not blessed the missionary churches, since the memorable era of 1832. The characteristics of many of these revivals are deeply interesting, and strikingly similar, though in places widely separated. They have been marked with great stillness, order, solemnity and power. They have come without observation and in connection with the ordinary means of grace. God has honored the pastoral office, and the simple, pungent presentation of his own truth; and he has greatly blessed the appropriate efforts of private Christians. There has been a deep conviction on the minds of the church and of the world, like that of Moses, as the voice addressed him from the burning bush.

These revivals have most of them commenced since the beginning of the year, and at the date of our information, were still in progress. But a small portion of the fruits of them, therefore, have yet been gathered into the churches. The number of hopeful conversions, however, reported by 67 missionaries, is 1,683; and many others speak of revivals without mentioning the number. Of the results of these gracious visitations—to the churches which have experienced them—to the souls which have been renewed in them, and of their bearings upon the dearest interests of multitudes which no man can number, we can form no adequate conception, until permitted to review them in the light of immortality.

The results, indeed, of that mysterious and wonder-working influence, which a God of grace exerts through the ministry of reconciliation, and which he connects with the missionary enterprise, all surpass finite comprehension. While the missionaries are preaching Christ and him crucified to the living, they are laying broad and deep the foundations of many generations; they are setting in motion trains of moral influences, which will not cease when they are dead; they are kindling up lights in Zion, which will shine brighter and brighter unto the perfect day. Churches, that were near unto death, are quickened, and become able of themselves to sustain the Gospel, and to hand down its blessings to those who shall come after them. New churches are organized, to throw open their portals to the fathers, and the children, and the children's children, through many generations, and to send out their influences to the ends of the world. The organization, or resuscitation of a church—Heaven's own institution—that may stand through all coming time, and bring its multitudes of redeemed ones to glory, is a great event. And to plant such churches, wherever there are souls to be gathered into them, our country over, and nurture them, till they no longer need our aid, but become our most efficient fellow laborers, in hastening forward the universal reign of the Son of God, is, surely, a GREAT WORK! And yet, this is the work, in which infinite condescension and mercy permits us, as the friends of Home Missions, to engage, and some of the blessings of which it is our privilege here to record.

PECUNIARY RESOURCES.

During the first five months of the year, the receipts of the Society corresponded, very nearly, with the receipts of the same months in the year preceding. But the three months which succeeded, were months of darkness and discouragement. The channels from which supplies, at this season, had ordinarily been received, seemed to be dried up. It was of but little avail, to make solicitations of churches or individuals any where. All seemed to be absorbed with their own business cares and responsibilities, and to be trembling, for fear of those things that were yet to come upon them.

Very little could be brought into the treasury from any source ; and it was impossible to calculate, with any degree of certainty, upon receiving a sufficient amount during the year, to redeem the pledges that had already been made.

In these circumstances, the Committee felt themselves compelled, in renewing commissions, to reduce the amount appropriated 25, and, in some instances, 50 per cent. ; although the pressure was upon the feeble churches and upon the missionaries, no less than upon others, and they actually needed, in many cases, more assistance rather than less. The Committee were obliged, too, to make these reduced appropriations, on the condition, that funds could be obtained to meet them as they became due, and to suffer the painful apprehension of having to inform the missionaries, one and all, that their drafts could not be paid.

That these painful apprehensions have not been realized, and the most serious embarrassments thereby thrown in the way of future operations, we owe to the quick and generous sympathy in the churches with the cause of missions at home—to the prompt and liberal contributions of many, who were themselves in a great trial of affliction, and, above all, to that blessed Spirit, that has been poured out from on high, enlarging the hearts of his people, and inspiring, in souls renewed, the disposition of him, who rejoiced in the privilege of giving the half of his goods to the poor. To these causes do the Committee, with thanksgiving and praise, ascribe it, that notwithstanding the discouragements and difficulties to which they have referred, the receipts of the year, though inadequate to the necessities of the cause, have nevertheless amounted to $78,345 20 ; which is but $4,219 43 less than the total receipts of the year preceding.

The amount of receipts, added to the balance in the treasury at the last anniversary, makes the resources of the year $80,812 40. The amount due at the beginning of the year, together with what has since become due, is $87,517 73. Of this sum, $78,533 89 has already been paid, and toward cancelling the remaining $8,983 84, there is a balance in the treasury of $2,278 51, leaving $6,705 33 of present indebtedness to the missionaries, for the payment of which, the Society has no other dependence, than the voluntary contributions of the benevolent, whence all its ability of doing good is derived.

Besides the outstanding claims of the missionaries, the pledges for the coming year, portions of which are daily becoming due, already amount to $18,983 84, exceeding the amount pledged at the last anniversary $2,977 26. How far, and when, these pledges shall be redeemed, and the reduced appropriations of those who are bearing onward the ark of God in the new settlements of our own country, amidst privations and hardships, that are surpassed by those of but few of their brethren in any portion of Christendom, shall be made more adequate to their necessities, it is for those to say, who prefer Jerusalem above their chief joy, and whom God has made the stewards of his bounty.

It cannot have escaped the observation of the friends of Home Missions, that the effects of the prevailing embarrassments of the country upon this cause have been two-fold—contributions have been diminished, and the necessity for them has been increased. Feeble churches have been made more feeble, and many that were beginning to sustain the Gospel among themselves, have been compelled again to ask for charitable aid. It is with no little solicitude that we inquire, shall the wants of these churches be supplied? Shall our christian brethren who compose them, be encouraged in their hour of trial? Shall the work of giving the Gospel to the multitudes far more destitute than they, go forward? Shall we yet hope to be honored of heaven, in making our WHOLE LAND, a dwelling place of righteousness?

If so, it is manifest that the resources of the Society must not only, not be permitted any more to decline, whatever may be the disasters that befall worldly enterprises, but that they must be constantly and greatly increased. Double the receipts of the past year, would scarcely be sufficient to meet the pressing necessities of the cause in which we are engaged, and the expenditure of these, would prepare the way for a profitable appropriation of a much larger amount. And to realize such an increase of pecuniary resources, we deem it not necessary that there should be extra efforts, or special appeals to the sympathies of the churches, that might divert contributions from kindred institutions, or render the receipts of this less regular and certain. Let but this cause, in all its magnitude, and with all its motives to action, come fairly before every church, at a stated season, once every year, and every individual be called upon to contribute, as his love of country and of Christ, and his regard to the great day of account shall dictate, and this increase of much needed resources, we doubt not, will be realized; and there will be joy in the presence of the angels of God, as well as thanksgiving and the voice of melody among the disconsolate in the waste places of Zion, as the heralds of the cross and the churches of Christ are multiplied, and the day of our redemption is seen to be drawing near.

We submit it to our Auxiliaries and Agencies, to the pastors of the churches, to all who love the kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ, whether such a concert of action, in this hallowed enterprise, be not at once attainable.

AUXILIARY SOCIETIES AND AGENCIES.

MAINE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The importance of the Maine Missionary Society to the advancement of the kingdom of Christ is seen, not only in the fact that two-thirds of all the Congregational churches in the state that now enjoy the stated ministrations of the Gospel, have been aided in securing these blessings by this institution, but also in the destitutions and wastes, that yet remain to be reclaimed and converted into fruitful fields.

The six southern counties, bordering on the sea-coast for an extent of three hundred miles, as they comprise the earliest settlements in the state, so they are better supplied than any others with the ordinances of the Gospel. Yet here, are many feeble churches, dependent for their existence upon the aid they receive from others. Of the six more northern counties, two contain 38 churches, 24 of which are unable of themselves to sustain the means of grace; two others, contain 25 churches, only 6 of which have yet been able to dispense with missionary aid; and in the remaining two, there are 25 churches, of which 16 need the fostering care of the Society, and 6 only enjoy the labors of settled pastors. Besides these, there are many towns and villages where churches might at once be gathered—there are new openings in the forests, and there is a rapidly extending population, in every direction, calling for the bread of life.

To meet these wants of the destitute, the Maine Missionary Society have had in their employment the last year 72 missionaries; 44 of whom have labored in single congregations, and 28 have occupied larger fields.

The contributions of the churches towards their support have been $5,882 17, and the expenditures $6,551 20. A balance is thus left against the Society, and a large portion of what will be due to the missionaries at the end of the year, is yet to be collected. The pecuniary embarrassments of the country, have been deeply afflictive to these feeble churches and those who have ministered to them, and have paralyzed, to a great extent, the efforts for their relief. Yet our hope for them is in God, and in the resources that are yet with his people. We cannot believe that the year will close, without bringing the silver and gold into the treasury of the Lord, adequate to the necessities of those who have borne the heat and burden of the day.

But though temporal prosperity has not been enjoyed by these churches, God has bestowed upon them the rich blessings of his grace. The Secretary of the Society, Rev. Dr. GILLET, reported in June, 1839, that in 20 churches there had been recent special displays of divine grace more or less extensive, and that the number of hopeful converts was estimated at over 300. Under date of April 1st, he says: "The year 1840 commenced with happy auspices. In various parts of the state, there are unwonted tokens of the divine power and presence, which give promise that it will be a year of the right hand of the Most High. At no time, since the commencement of the Society's operations, has there been a louder call or more multiplied encouragements to go forward."

NEW-HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The whole number of congregations, aided by this Society the past year, is 63. 53 missionaries have been in commission, 24 as settled pastors, and 29 as stated supplies. They have performed an amount of labor, equal in the aggregate to 42 years, which exceeds, by 11 years, the amount performed the year preceding.

The receipts of the Society have been $4,427 97, and its expenditures $4,496 15, leaving the treasury overdrawn $68 18, to which is to be added $700 now due to the missionaries, making a debt of $768 18, which the Society cannot cancel for want of funds.

The difficulty of obtaining the necessary resources, for continuing their appropriations, on the scale of former years, has obliged the Trustees to reduce, very considerably, the amount of their grants to not a few of the feeble churches. And such has been the spirit with which this reduction has been received, on the part both of the churches and their ministers, that not a single missionary has left his post as a consequence. In many instances, the deficiency has been nobly supplied by the spirited efforts of the people. In others, the missionary has applied, still more closely, his principles of retrenchment and self-denial—living by faith on the Son of God, that his might continue to be the privilege of preaching to the destitute the Gospel of his grace. We trust, however, that the friends of Christ in New-Hampshire, will not suffer the missionary of the cross to be oppressed above measure, nor any of their needy churches to ask of them bread, and be sent empty away. The great work of giving to her whole population the institutions of the Gospel, must not, and we believe, it will not long be retarded, for lack of a portion of those things that are to perish with the using.

"As to the progress these feeble churches have made in piety and numbers," says the Secretary of the Society, Rev. BENJAMIN P. STONE, "it is not our privilege to speak as favorably as in some former years. Still, God has not wholly forsaken the field he has assigned us to cultivate. A few churches have been visited with the reviving energies of the Holy Spirit, and the moral tone of many others has been improved. In looking over the whole ground, and contemplating the present state and prospects of our enterprise, we see no cause for discouragement. The providence and promises of God say to us, Be faithful and believing, and the work of repairing the breaches in my house, committed to your hands, shall be carried forward to its glorious accomplishment."

VERMONT DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

In August last, the Rev. IRA INGRAHAM, who had been, for four years, the devoted and efficient Secretary of this Society, resigned the office, with a view to a permanent settlement in the ministry, and has been succeeded, by the Rev. SAMUEL DELANO, of East Williamstown, Vermont.

The number of missionaries in commission, during the year, has been 51, and the number of stations they have occupied 58. The amount of service which they have rendered, the small number of changes which has taken place in their relations, the erection of new houses of worship and ordinations to the pastoral office, all indicate that the causes, which have tended to render the ministry on this missionary field transient and fluctuating, are less to be feared than in former years; and the Directors are greatly encouraged to prosecute the policy, which they have considered as vital to the most rapid advancement of truth and righteousness within their limits—the appropriation of the funds intrusted to them in such a manner, as shall tend, most effectually, to bind together the churches and their pastors, in the most endearing and indissoluble ties.

The receipts of the year have been $3,670 79; and the expenditures $4,016 48, exceeding the receipts $345 69, and leaving a large amount to be collected in the course of a few months, if the laborers in the vineyard are to receive their stipulated recompense, when the hours of their service have expired.

This deficiency in the treasury, as well as the most serious embarrassments in the way of future operations, has resulted from the same causes that have affected, so seriously, the income of benevolent institutions in all parts of the land—causes which have been felt here, however, with peculiar severity. Still, we cannot but hope that these churches are soon to see a brighter day. The blessing of the Lord has not been utterly withholden from them. The feeble and the strong, throughout the state, have been revived together. The spirit of Him, who, though he was rich, yet for our sakes became poor, occupies a larger place in the hearts of his people. They have yet in their possession the means wherewith to gratify their benevolent feelings, and the needy congregations, exceeding ninety in number, cannot be forgotten; nor the filty, that are now wholly destitute of the stated means of grace, lift up their importunate cries in vain.

MASSACHUSETTS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Rev. JOSEPH S. CLARK, who, at the date of our last report, was acting as the General Agent of this Society, has since been elected its Secretary, and is discharging the duties of the office, with great acceptance to the friends of the missionary cause.

We have ever been greatly encouraged, by the generous and spirited efforts of the executive officers of this Society, to secure as large an amount of funds as practicable, for the extension of the Redeemer's kingdom into the most distant sections of our common country. That they might increase, still more, the amount of their contributions for this purpose, they have been carefully inquiring, the past year, into the condition of the missionary churches within the state, and encouraging them to make every effort in their power to dispense with charitable aid. As a consequence, six or seven churches have resolved to make no further application to the Society for assistance; and many others are cherishing the hope, that a year or two will terminate the period of their dependence. The wisdom of this policy, as well as its benevolence, if rightly understood, must be as highly appreciated by the feeble churches themselves, as it is by the conductors of the missionary enterprise.

The receipts of the Society, during the year, have been $14,718 49, exceeding those of the year preceeding $2,753 84. In addition to this, there has been received directly into the treasury of the parent Society, from various individuals, congregations and auxiliaries in the state, including $3,500—a part of the legacy of the late Rev. Jonathan L. Pomeroy, of West Springfield—$6,481 31, making the whole amount realized to the cause of Home Missions from Massachusetts, during the year, $21,199 70. Of the amount received into the treasury of the state Society, besides what has been expended in sustaining missionaries within the state, $4,145 has been paid into the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society, and a balance remained on hand, April 1st, of $3,509 91.

The number of missionaries in commission, during the whole or a part of the year, has been 73, and we gather from their reports and from the report of the Society, the most gratifying indications of the increasing prosperity of the churches to which they have ministered. Many of them have been blessed with seasons of special refreshing from on high, and in nearly all of them, there have been conversions, that have inspired thanksgivings on earth and joy in heaven.

CONNECTICUT MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society, which, in addition to sustaining the feeble congregations within its own bounds, has contributed so bountifully to our resources for sending the Gospel to the most distant sections of the land, recognizes, in the last report of its Directors, a reciprocal influence of no small importance to itself, derived from "its happy and prosperous union with the American Home Missionary Society"—an influence, which has served to harmonize the views of the friends of missions in different parts of the state, which has increased the efficiency of the Society, and supplied it more abundantly with the means of extending its benevolent operations.

As for several years past, so the last year, no agency has been employed in the state for the purposes of collection, except such as has been voluntary on the part of the pastors of the churches. And yet there has been paid into the treasury of the parent Society, during the year, notwithstanding the embarrassments which have been every where experienced, $6,098 76, in addition to $4,552 62, which has been paid into the treasury of the state Society—making the whole amount raised for Home Missions, $10,651 38, which exceeds the amount of the preceding year, by $2,314 32. Of the amount received into the treasury of the state Society, $1000 has been appropriated in aid of feeble churches in Rhode Island, $3,170 36 has been expended in sustaining 38 missionaries within the state, and there remained in the treasury, April 1st, including the balance at the beginning of the year, $4,610 13.

"There is a gradual improvement," says the Secretary of the Society, the Rev. HORACE HOOKER, "in the condition of the churches within the state that have received assistance, but many of them are still feeble, and from their local situation must continue to be feeble. But it is something done, if we can save these decays from becoming utter desolations. Most of them give evidence of some vigor, and hold out to us encouragement to continue our care. The slowness, however, of the progress of recovering the waste places of Zion, teaches us most impressively this lesson, that it is far easier for churches to suffer themselves, by divisions, or by inattention to duty, to fall into decay, than to arrest that decay, when it is once begun."

RHODE ISLAND HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The state of Rhode Island, though the least in the Union, and settled among the earliest, is by no means well supplied with Gospel institutions. Whole towns of large extent are yet to be found, where scarce a church of any denomination exists. There are peculiar difficulties here, too, connected with causes far back in the history of the state, to be encountered in the establishment of ecclesiastical order—in securing a reverence for the Sabbath, and in giving the truths of the Gospel their appropriate influence on the minds of the young.

The Missionary Society of the State, of which the Rev. Dr. TUCKER is now Secretary, has been in existence 18 years; and its efforts in turning back the tide of error, have been blessed of God. Four missionaries have been in the service of the Society during the year, sustained by the liberality of the Connecticut Missionary Society, and by collections from the churches in Rhode-Island, amounting to $558 12.

In view of the desolations that yet remain, we trust the friends of Christ in Rhode Island, and those in adjacent states, who sympathize more deeply with them, will not cease from their benevolent efforts, till every village and settlement shall have a pastor, and every soul be brought under the power of the world to come.

CENTRAL AGENCY, UTICA, N. Y.

Since our last report, 40 missionaries have been commissioned on the field of this Agency, and 9 have served a part of the year under commissions of a previous date. The number of congregations to which they have statedly ministered is 52, and their occasional services have been enjoyed by many others.

The receipts of the Agency have been $3,551 49, and the expenditures $3,552 83. Not far from $1,000 has also been remitted directly, by the eastern churches, to the treasury of the Society.

Many of the missionary churches have suffered less from emigration than in former years, and have been increased in numbers and in strength. Four have taken their names from the list of churches aided, and assumed henceforth the responsibility of sustaining their own pastors. Several others have asked less assistance this year than formerly, and are looking forward to the same exalted privilege of knowing, by their own experience, that it is more blessed to give than to receive. Seven new missionary stations have been occupied, and many applications of feeble churches, for some one to preach to them the Gospel of the kingdom, have as yet received no favorable reply. Within the last few months, the Spirit of the Lord has been poured out upon several of the churches, so that one of the laborers reports 25 hopeful conversions, another 45, and another more than 100.

The Secretary of this Agency is the Rev. ABIJAH CRANE, whose report will be found in the Appendix.

WESTERN AGENCY, GENEVA, N. Y.

Seventy-nine missionaries have been in commission during the past year, within the bounds of this Agency, and 91 congregations have enjoyed the benefits of their labors. We have the most pleasing evidence that these servants of God have not labored in vain, nor the benefactions of those who have sustained them been expended without corresponding fruits. Fourteen new fields have been entered with encouraging prospects of good; 5 missionaries have been ordained as pastors of the churches to which they ministered; 12 houses of worship have been commenced or completed, and the churches have been strengthened and enlarged, by the presence of the Spirit of God, and the triumphs of his grace over the impenitent and the unbelieving.

The receipts from the field of this Agency, although serious obstacles have been encountered in the work of collection, have been $9,589 49—$1,165 33 more than the receipts of the year preceding, and exceeding the amount appropriated to missionaries, within the same limits, $4,016 10.

The number of commissions issued within this Agency, during the 14 years since it was organized, is 719, and the number of years of missionary labor performed is 708. The amount realized to the cause of Home Missions, during the same period, is not far from $95,000; one third of which has been expended in planting the institutions of the Gospel in other sections of the land.

The Secretary of this Agency is the Rev. JOHN A. MURRAY—whose report will be found in the Appendix.

PHILADELPHIA AGENCY—

Comprising the states of Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland.

The Rev. GIDEON N. JUDD, who had discharged the office of Secretary of this Agency, with great fidelity and success, for more than five years, resigned it early in the Autumn, to enter another department of ministerial labor. The Committee were so happy as to secure, after the lapse of a few weeks, the Rev. ELIAS R. FAIRCHILD as his successor, who has entered upon the duties of the Agency, with encouraging prospects of extending its usefulness.

In consequence of a temporary suspension of the Agency, incident to such a change, it has been impracticable to visit the churches, as extensively as in former years, for the purpose of soliciting collections. The financial embarrassments on this field, too, as the present Agent entered upon his duties, presented formidable obstacles in the way of his success. The amount collected, however, during the year, has been $7,714 47, which added to $887 57, pledged to the Society, but not received in season to be acknowledged in the Treasurer's account, makes the whole amount gathered from this field $8,602 04, which is but $309 24 less than the largest amount, that has ever been received from the same field in a single year.

The number of missionaries in commission, under the direction of this Agency, has been 30, whose labors have been extended to 38 congregations and missionary districts. In connection with the labors of the missionaries, 2 churches have been organized, 2 houses of worship have been erected and dedicated to the service of God, and 2 others commenced, which will be finished in the course of the year. Two of the congregations aided, have assumed the entire support of their own pastors, and others have the prospect of doing it at no distant day. Most of the churches have enjoyed a more than usual amount of spiritual blessings, and in 9 of them there have been revivals of religion, in which many souls have been hopefully converted to God.

WESTERN RESERVE DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Rev. WILLIAM F. CURRY, whose appointment as Agent of the Society within the bounds of his auxiliary, we noticed in our last report, has since been appointed its Secretary; and has been actively and successfully employed in visiting the feeble churches, to become acquainted with their wants, and to encourage and counsel them in their efforts to secure the regular ministrations of the Gospel, as well as in soliciting, from the more favored congregations, their contributions in aid of the missionary cause.

The churches assisted have, many of them, made the most praiseworthy efforts to reduce the amount of their necessary receipts from missionary funds; and the responsibility of meeting the appropriations to all, has been generously assumed by the Directors of the Auxiliary. The number of missionaries in commission has been 14, and the receipts $1,076.

MARIETTA AGENCY, OHIO.

This Agency, at the suggestion of the friends of missions within its limits, has been organized during the year. It comprises the counties of Washington, Munroe, Morgan, Athens, Meigs, Hocking, Gallia, Jackson, and Lawrence, in the vicinity of Marietta. These 9 counties contain, on an average, a population of 12,000 each. There are within them 24 Presbyterian and 3 Congregational churches, only 4 of which are able to sustain the preaching of the Gospel without aid.

The Rev. PROFESSOR ALLEN, of Marietta College, the Secretary of this Agency, says in his report, "this is emphatically Home Missionary ground. Almost every church on this field is the fruit of Home Missionary labor. Those that are now able to sustain themselves were made so by your Society. The others depend still, upon the continuance of that Agency for existence. They are all in important locations—lights, feeble though they be, in the midst of deep and wide-spread darkness. We cannot consent to see them go out. We trust they will not. We shall do what we can, by the aid of the stronger churches and by your aid, to inspire them, with confidence—to awaken them to greater efforts to sustain the ministry themselves; and we trust that, as in days past, so now, God will give success to these efforts, so that, one after another, they will be able, not only to bear their own burdens, but to assist also their feeble neighbors."

Five missionaries have been in commission within this Agency during the year; and one of them, the Rev. Bennet Roberts, has extended his labors in the character of a Missionary Agent over the whole field. The formation of this Agency and the spirit with which its operations have been commenced, we regard as highly auspicious to the prosperity of this portion of the Redeemer's kingdom.

CENTRAL AGENCY FOR THE WESTERN STATES, AT CINCINNATI, OHIO.

The Rev. JAMES H. JOHNSTON, after discharging, for a year, with great fidelity, the duties of Secretary and Agent of this Board, resigned the office in October last.

The suspension of the appropriate work of the Agency consequent on this resignation, and unavoidably protracted to the present time, has greatly restricted our operations on this field. The receipts of the year, however, have been $2,482 30, and 10 appointments to missionary service have been made by this Board, besides the commissions that have been issued directly from the office of the Society.

The Committee have now the happiness to announce, that the Rev. HENRY LITTLE, the zealous and indefatigable Agent of this Board for five years, from 1833 to 1838, has yielded to their solicitations to resume his labors in this department of christian enterprise, and having been released, for this purpose, from his pastoral relation to the church in Madison, Indiana, is now entering upon the duties of this important office.

From the central and commanding point where this agency is located, an extensive and promising field is spread out before the eye of christian sympathy, inviting the culture of christian beneficence. The territory within the Synod of Cincinnati, now occupied by less than 30 ministers, might, in a few years, says one who has well surveyed it, afford ample employment for 150. In Kentucky, there are between 40 and 50 counties, in which there is no Presbyterian minister; and the cry comes to us from thence, as well as from the many destitute portions of Virginia and Indiana, in tones of the deepest earnestness, "Men and brethren, help." These cries are not unheeded, and our prayer is, that they may so affect the hearts of Christians, that those who utter them, may not long remain unblessed of the Gospel of God.

ILLINOIS.

The Rev. ALBERT HALE, whose services have been of great value to the cause of Home Missions in this state, has during the year become pastor of the church in Springfield, Illinois; but we hope still to avail ourselves of his counsel and occasional labors, in prosecuting our work in the southern section of the state.

The Rev. FLAVEL BASCOM, after intermitting his labors as an Agent during the winter, has again resumed them, in the northern part of the state, with encouraging prospects of extensive usefulness.

The work accomplished by these brethren, and by other Agents in similar circumstances, is not chiefly the collection of funds. It is, in the strictest sense, a missionary work on a large scale. They visit the churches where aid is needed, or settlements where churches are to be gathered; and the counsel and encouragement they give, often lead to the permanent establishment of the institutions of the Gospel, while their preaching of the unsearchable riches of Christ, and their administration of the ordinances which he has appointed, become the wisdom of God and the power of God to the salvation of souls. It has been the privilege of these brethren to labor in many most interesting revivals of religion, where the Spirit of God has borne witness with their spirits, that they were fulfilling, in the best sense, their high commission as ambassadors of Christ. Few ministers of the Gospel are more useful, as ministers, than those who go forth, deeply imbued with the spirit of their Lord and Master, to lay the foundations of christian society in our new settlements. Those States and Territories have been greatly favored of God, whose earliest history has been associated with the labors of devoted men, expended in planting over their length and breadth churches of Christ, and commending these churches to the care of those whom he has chosen as messengers of his grace.

CANADA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The recent civil disturbances in the Canadas, have so impeded the prosperity of American missions, within these limits, that the Committee, in view of the increasing and importunate demand for missionary labor in our own country and the limited amount of funds at their disposal, deemed it expedient, some months since, to commit, if practicable, the stations they still continue to occupy in the Lower Province, to the care of British Christians. They accordingly wrote to the Secretary of the Colonial Missionary Society in London, proposing a transfer of these responsibilities to that Society, as soon as the commissions under which the missionaries were then acting should expire.

The Secretary of that Society, after submitting the subject to their Committee, assures us that they highly appreciate the enlarged christian philanthropy of their American brethren, exhibited in the sympathetic and generous care bestowed upon the churches in Canada—that they most seriously deprecate the occurrences which have thrown obstacles in the way of our success, and deeply regret their inability to take up and sustain the missions, from which the Committee of this Society thought it expedient to withdraw. But such are the embarrassments of the Colonial Society, that they cannot now accept of our proposal, nor hold out any explicit encouragement of being able to comply with it at a future time. They entreat us, therefore, to continue our support to such at least of our missionary stations as may be best established and of special promise.

In these circumstances, the Committee feel that there is but one course left for them. It is to continue their oversight of these missions, and commend them again, as they do, most earnestly, to the beneficent regard of American Christians. The missionaries and the churches they serve, have felt deeply interested in the results of the correspondence to which we have referred, and have been anxious to know, whether, from either Society, they might hope to secure the assistance, indispensable to the continued enjoyment of their endeared relations. One of the missionaries says, "Those of us who have come in from the United States, would, without exception, be very willing, if we might consult our own personal comfort, or that of our families, to be transplanted to our native soil. But, with whom should we leave these many sheep in the wilderness? The thousands of American citizens, who were here when we came, have scarcely lessened in numbers at all. In many locations, they have increased, and therefore, the reason that brought ministers here exists, as a reason why they should remain. There are thousands of souls who need their ministrations, and thousands who have learned to value them. Must these pastors be withdrawn? Must these churches be doomed to dissolution?—these temples become the refuge of owls?—these thousands of unpardoned be cut loose from restraint, and hear no more the voice of those, who publish glad tidings from heaven? The answer must rest, I apprehend, very much with the American Home Missionary Society. For your long continued aid, and for your ready assistance proffered for the current year, I know I speak the language of many, in tendering most hearty thanks. As an individual, I know not how to express my own. Notwithstanding the difficulties attending your operations, the American Home Missionary Society will live. Its memory is embalmed in the affections of those it has blessed; and the records of its deeds of love are on high."

There has been no agency employed on this field the last year, and the amount of collections has been but small. The number of missionaries in commission has been 12; and though it may not be necessary to increase the number the coming year, the Committee entreat the members of our churches, to furnish them with the means of extending such aid to those on the ground, as will enable them to prosecute their self-denying, yet glorious work, nothing doubting, that their bread and water, at least, will be sure.

FEMALE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS.

The Spirit of God has given a most interesting prominence in the Scriptures, to the character of woman, for self-denial, disinterested benevolence, and untiring devotion to the best of causes, by the records which are left of the "alabaster box of ointment," the "two mites," and the "handful of meal," which, notwithstanding the "pressure," was made to contribute, first of all, to the sustenance of the prophet of the Lord. And the records of our benevolent institutions, could they all be collated, would show, we think, an amount of funds contributed by christian females, that would be truly astonishing—would exhibit the clearest evidence, that those, who were "last at the cross and first at the sepulchre," are still the last to look unmoved upon suffering humanity, and the first to minister to the necessities of those, whom Christ will recognize, in the last day, as his own brethren.

It is with great pleasure that we notice the large amount, that has been received into the treasury of this institution, from numerous Associations of Ladies, in different parts of the country. Among them, we may be permitted to name the "Female Missionary Society," of Stonington, Conn., whose contributions, during the year, have amounted to $125; and the "Stilson Benevolent Society," of Greenwich, Conn., which, in addition to sums nearly as large for several successive years, has paid into the treasury, this year, $335—the avails of the industry of its members.

SABBATH SCHOOL MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS.

The continued co-operation, the increasing efficiency of these most interesting Auxiliaries, it gives us pleasure here to record. The "Sabbath Scholars' Missionary Association of the West Presbyterian Church," (Carmine-st.,) New-York, has celebrated its seventh anniversary. Its collections, the last year, have amounted to $335. The "Murray-street Sabbath School Missionary Society," New-York, has been in operation five years; and has paid into the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society, the past year, $250. The "Sabbath School Missionary Association of the First Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn," N. Y., has collected and paid into the treasury, since our last report, $214 58. These associations, and others like them, have rendered us no small amount of grateful and generous aid in the prosecution of our work. They have sustained one, two or three missionaries each, in important fields of labor; and, what cannot be said of many larger and abler associations, their contributions have not been diminished in hard times, but have rather increased.

It is deeply interesting to see these associations of children and youth, exhibiting so much intelligence, zeal, perseverance, and liberality, in the great work of christian missions. And it is deeply interesting to look into the history of these associations, and find those who were their earliest members, now active and devoted members of the church of Christ, and firm supporters of every philanthropic and christian enterprise.

PUBLICATIONS.

The Society's periodical, "THE HOME MISSIONARY AND PASTOR'S JOURNAL," is regarded with increasing interest by the intelligent patrons of the missionary cause, as a depository of facts relating to the religious condition and progress of our country, and especially of the new settlements. The number of copies issued monthly has been, the last year, 5000—many of which are circulated gratuitously among the benefactors of this cause. It is believed that no single agency employed by the Committee, can be made more productive of interest and of resources, for this enterprise, than an extensive circulation of this periodical.

Of the last ANNUAL REPORT, 3000 copies were published, and widely circulated among the friends of Home Missions.

As an auxiliary means of promoting the great objects of the Society, the Committee are under obligations to the AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY, for their liberal offer to furnish each of the missionaries, who might not be otherwise supplied, with 5000 pages of tracts for his personal use. Between 200 and 300,000 pages have been received and distributed by the missionaries, in consequence of this arrangement.

THE INSTRUMENTALITY EMPLOYED BY THIS SOCIETY, ONE OF DIVINE APPOINTMENT.

If there be any single fact, which, more than another, encourages the hope that Providence will continue to employ this Society as a well-adapted instrument of blessing to the nation, it is, that it confines itself strictly to a kind of agency, which has the express sanction of the divine authority. Many philanthropic devices result in utter failure, or mingle with the good which they accomplish, so much attending evil, as to leave it doubtful whether they are approved of God or not. But no such uncertainty attaches to the means employed by this Society. The SACRED MINISTRY is no experiment suggested by the wisdom of man ; it is a positive institution of the Lord Jesus Christ. With all the resources of his illimitable empire before him, whence to select an agency for the conversion of the world, it hath “pleased God, through the foolishness of preaching, to save them that believe.” This, alone, should give it precedency before all other instruments of good. But the institution of the ministry is reasonable as well as divine. If it behooved Christ to become a man, that he might be a High Priest adapted to the wants of men, it is no less suitable that the instruments of carrying out his system of salvation, should also be human. They must themselves be specimens of what his Gospel can do. They must exemplify, in their own persons, both the greatness of the malady and the efficacy of the cure. Since Christianity is not merely a creed to be believed, but also an experience to be felt, it is necessary that the agency for diffusing it should consist of living souls, capable of a religious experience—should themselves be under the law, knowing its dread power in their own consciences, and having the problem of salvation wrought out in the changes upon their own spirits, and illustrated in the parting conflict of their own warfare against sin. That religion might not become a matter of mere traditional forms, it is most wisely ordained that the instruments of continuing it in the world, must receive it, each for himself, in a large measure, fresh from the fountain head.

The living minister is, moreover, himself a partaker of all the relations of humanity—a son or a parent, a brother, a neighbor. His, is a mode of presenting truth which necessarily requires men to come together in public assemblies, and organizes them into churches, and employs their social nature in promoting their mutual good. No other agency can so use the attributes of the living man—the voice, pouring out the soul into the ear—the eye, flashing intelligence and feeling to the eye—and the air and action of a being, all instinct with sympathy in the themes which he presses and the hearts to whom he appeals. And to this kind of agency, the Redeemer has expressly pledged his presence and support, “even to the end of the world”—a fact, that shows that it shall never be superseded by any other form of effort.

To this divine selection and adaptation of the ministry, is to be attributed its power to do more for the glory of God and the good of man, than any other institution on earth. In whatever aspect we view it, the proofs of its value to our country and the world, multiply upon our minds. The ministry is the great conservator of knowledge, human as well as divine. When, during the dark night of the world, the thick, damp mists of error and superstition had quenched all the great lights of science, the ministers of religion still fed a secret lamp, and cherished the flame which afterward illumined the whole civilized earth. And—but for a few doubtful examples—we might ask, where are the schools and colleges in our own land, that have not been prayed into being by the ministry—that do not owe their whole plan and prosecution, from the first conception to the finished result, to the enlightened piety and persevering zeal of the clergy? And is there, now, any part of the land, where science has no temple and nature no interpreter, but where ignorance and passion divide the sway of imbruted minds? It is because there the power of the ministry is not felt. Are there within our borders, communities which do not reverence the majesty of law, who substitute physical force for the authority of reason? Send thither the heralds of the cross, to wake up the conscience to the claims of God, and it will speedily respect the rights and yield subjection to the restraints of social order. Would we attempt a general reformation of morals, or the overthrow of some single giant vice? In the fore-front of the battle, we must place the sacred ministry, with its weapons of celestial point and temper—the only ones, that can strike through all defences, right down upon the very life of the foe. But, above all, this is the appropriate and the appointed means to rescue immortal spirits from sin and hell. To attempt seriously, and to any considerable extent, to convert sinners, to organize and sustain religious institutions, without a sanctified and intelligent ministry, were both unphilosophical and impious—unphilosophical, because it would seek the end without the necessary means; and impious, because it would discredit the judgment and reverse the appointment of Jehovah himself.

HOME, A NEEDY AND APPROPRIATE FIELD OF LABOR.

To bring this powerful, Heaven-selected instrument, into the most extensive operation in our own country, is the object of the American Home Missionary Society. And is it too much to ask for our country, that she have the full benefit of the best means that Infinite Wisdom has devised, to save her children from the woes of the second death? Are not those with whom our connexion is the most intimate, and upon whom our influence is the most direct, entitled to our first and most strenuous efforts to afford relief? In the beautiful arrangement which God has made, our duties correspond with our relations. While the parent may not be indifferent to the welfare of his neighbor's child, he is specially bound to provide for his own, from the fact that he bears to it a relation from which all others are exempt. On the same principle, the suffering which lies immediately under our eye, has, other things being equal, a higher claim upon our kindness than more distant and less accessible forms of misery—we can reach it, and we are the nearest sources of relief to which it can make its appeal. We labor, then, for the moral welfare of our country, not from a selfish preference of it as our own, nor merely because of its intrinsic importance as a part of the world—the promised inheritance of the Redeemer; but because it is THE part which Heaven has specially assigned us, by placing it before and around us. Christians in America hold relations to this land such as they hold to no other land on the earth. GOD made those relations, and by making them, made it also our duty, to seek the highest elevation of our country in that righteousness which exalteth a nation. Who will do this if we do not? It is unreasonable to expect other lands to furnish the instrumentality to evangelize ours. No, this work belongs to American Christians. Ours are the social and political connections, and all the other facilities for a home influence; and ours will be the guilt and the disaster, if any part of this land have not the Gospel. The very position which Providence has allotted us is a natural reason—God's own reason—why upon us, and upon no others, the labor for its salvation should devolve. And this is in perfect coincidence with Christ's philosophy of the world's conversion. His injunction was, that the Gospel be preached to all nations, "begin- ning at Jerusalem"—the principle involved in which is, that every disciple commence the work at once, and on the spot where the command overtakes him.

Nor will the benefits of our efforts be limited to this country alone. It is a most animating fact, that in promoting the moral elevation of our own people, we are engaged on the largest scale of the most productive philanthropy. The converts to Christ, under the operation of Home Missions, are at once and forever, the advocates and agents for every other good cause. In them, we see the perishable gold and silver of earth transmuted into the intelligence and virtue of living souls, whose consecrated affections, and strength, and treasures, form a capital that no arithmetic can compute, for sending the Gospel, on the printed page, and by the commissioned herald, to all mankind. While, then, the immediate and most obvious effect of Home Missions is upon our own country, their ultimate and largest influence will be felt, in the invigoration of all those agencies, which compass the whole circle of the earth, and seek to make of every lost son of Adam, a Christian and a brother. Thus, when a stone is cast into the water, the first and highest wave is that which it makes immediately around itself; but philosophy assures us, that the spreading undulations are not lost as they recede, but roll away, to swell the wave that breaks upon the remotest strand of the globe.

While, then, to make full proof of the power of the Gospel to save this nation, is our first duty, it is by no means our last. It is a preparation for a larger work—a preparation so necessary, that to omit or to postpone it, is a fraud upon a dying world. Christ holds this generation of his followers responsible, to send the Gospel to all mankind; and how long shall our own uncultured wastes furnish a reason for delaying our share in the work? How long shall the tribes of the earth move before our eyes, in sad procession, down to the shades of eternal death, because the hearts and the treasures of this land, which should be devoted to their rescue, are themselves, for the most part, yet unredeemed from the power of Satan?

It is, therefore, with a deeper sense than ever of its intrinsic worth and its momentous bearings, that the Executive Committee commend the Home Missionary cause to the love and labors of all good men. It is not a cause of ephemeral importance. It has indeed little to amuse an idle fancy, or that appeals to a romantic piety; but it takes a deep hold on hearts that are thoughtful for the honor of God and the welfare of man. Its interest is of that stern and awful kind, which belongs only to great themes—to souls in jeopardy—to the approaching crisis of a nation's doom—to the rescue or the ruin of unnumbered myriads. We commend it to those who ponder the causes and progress of national elevation and decline—to those who are sagacious to discern the coming of the kingdom of Heaven—to those who have power with God, and compassion for man, and wisdom to appreciate and to employ the sacred ministry, as the grand organ of salvation. We ask them to weigh the cause of this Society in the balances of the sanctuary; to estimate the work, which, as the instrument of the Holy Spirit, it has already accomplished; to measure, if they can, the worth of the souls it would save, and the physical and moral greatness of the nation it seeks to mould; and then, also, to compute the consequences of failure, developed in the crime, and anarchy, and bloodshed of a people without God, and the deeper ruin of spirits forever lost. From these considerations, let them form their decision how much effort, and prayer, and treasure, they ought to devote to Missions at home. The putting forth of endeavors, bearing some fair proportion to the end, will be the signal for such days as earth has never seen. Even now, the blessing is waiting for us; it is impatient of our delay. Let the American churches, then, arise in earnest to the conquest of this whole land to Christ, and verily they shall not have gone over all the cities of our Israel, ere the Son of Man shall come!

APPENDIX.

HOW TO MAKE COLLECTIONS FOR BENEVOLENT OBJECTS.

In general.

1. Make them on principle—as matters of duty and of conscience.
2. Make them systematically—every object having its specified time and mode, and every thing being done with promptness and efficiency.
3. Make them intelligently—the claims of every cause being spread out at length, and the appropriate motives fully enforced.
4. Make them from the whole congregation, old and young, rich and poor—each individual being called upon to give as God has prospered him.
5. Make them as means of grace to those that give. Present no motives but those of scripture authority. Let the utmost kindness and christian courtesy be exhibited by every agent and every collector; and should any one decline giving, be sure to treat him so that he may be approached again.

In particular.

1. Let every church determine, at some regular meeting, what benevolent objects they will aid in the course of the year—fixing the time, when the claims of each shall be heard, and the collections taken up, and appointing a committee of three or more for each object, to superintend the collections.
2. When the time assigned for a given object arrives, let such principles, facts and motives, connected with it, as are judged most suitable, be presented, in the most public manner, by the pastor, or an agent—but never wait for an agent, or feel that his presence is indispensable; ordinarily, there will be no occasion for the service of an agent, if the pastor of the church will preach a sermon in behalf of the object to be aided.
3. Let the committee having charge of this particular object, as soon after the public appeal as may be, have a meeting, and divide the congregation into districts or sections—appoint one male and one female collector for each district, and provide them with suitable books, in which to take the names of all who contribute and the amount they give. If the committee or the church prefer it, the committee themselves may make the collections, instead of appointing collectors.
4. Let the collectors, within a week—or two weeks at the longest—call on every individual within their respective districts, not known to be unfriendly to the object, and solicit donations—passing by none, because of their youth or their poverty, and treating all with becoming attention and respect; and then report the result to their committee—the whole amount to be paid over by the committee without delay, into the treasury for which it is destined.
5. At the close of the year, let the whole church and congregation come together, to hear the reports of these committees, as well as statements and addresses from their pastor, and such others as he may introduce, and to make similar arrangements for another year; and if they have had no regular system before, they will probably find the sum total of their religious charities increased from two to four fold—their hearts far more deeply interested than ever in these objects of christian beneficence—the duty of giving, and of collecting, pleasant instead of irksome—a means of grace to themselves as well as of mercy to all mankind.

EXTRACTS FROM THE FOURTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

For many years Geneva has been the centre of Home Missionary operations for Western New-York. In 1800 the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church commissioned the Rev. JEDEDIAH CHAPMAN, to organize churches in this region, and to watch over the churches thus organized. He located at Geneva, and from this place visited the neighboring towns, and assisted in the formation of churches. He had a missionary spirit. He was a useful and successful pioneer in this cause. His influence will long be felt; for some of our oldest and strongest churches were organized by him; and to him was particularly intrusted the laying of the foundations of piety in the early settlement of an important section of our state. He died in 1812.

An Agency at Geneva was subsequently formed, in connexion with the United Domestic Missionary Society, to assist feeble churches in supporting their pastors. This Agency, at the formation of the A. H. M. S., had nine missionaries in its employ, and its available receipts that year were $631. This was its day of small things; but its service to the Home Missionary cause was not small. It had adopted and proved fundamental principles which it has ever held essential in spreading and establishing the Gospel throughout our land; and which being adopted by other missionary institutions, have tended greatly to the efficiency and usefulness of Home Missionary operations.

Most of our Presbyterian and Congregational churches have been aided by the missionary influence centered at Geneva; some by the Rev. Jedediah Chapman—some by the Geneva Agency previous to the existence of the A. H. M. S., and very many by the Western Agency—the Board now occupying this field under the direction of the A. Home Miss. Society. It is believed, that six sevenths of all the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in Western New-York have been thus aided.

During the year past, 62 missionaries have been commissioned, to perform 61 years of missionary labor, in 74 different congregations, and for their support the Board have voted $5,500. The whole number employed by the Board, including those commissioned last year, whose commissions extended into this year, was 79; and the whole number of congregations aided was 91. During the year, 14 new fields have been taken up, and 23 missionaries have been commissioned, who were never before commissioned by the Board. Five of the missionaries have been installed pastors over their churches. Twelve meeting-houses have been completed or commenced; a number of the churches have been blessed with revivals; and 715 have been added to the churches—360 of whom were on confession of their faith.

The receipts for the year have been $9,566 27—exceeding the sum voted to the missionaries $4,066, and the receipts of the last year $1142. In these receipts we have one donation of $1000, another of $500, and several of $100.

During the last 14 years, $95,772 have been raised from this field, $60,523 of which have been pledged by the Agency to its missionaries, leaving a surplus of $35,000 to further Home Missions in other parts of our land. During this time 718 commissions have been issued by this Agency, and 700 years of missionary labor have been secured to our churches; and the surplus forwarded to the Parent Society, has probably secured 300 years of missionary labor to the churches in other parts of our country. So that not far from 1000 years of missionary labor may be set down as secured to the churches, the last 14 years, by this Agency. Surely the Board may say, with deep gratitude, Hitherto the Lord hath helped us.

The missionary fields occupied by this Agency are of great importance. Some of them are in a forming state, where a little expense accomplishes great good. "My heart," writes a missionary in Chautauque county, "is full of the remembrance of the past. When I came here, a year ago, I met, in a small school-house, about 20 of our Master's sheep without a shepherd, who were ready to hear the word with gladness. Now we worship in a new church edifice, and free from debt. My highest expectations have been realized." We have many missionaries laboring in similar fields, where a little expense almost immediately accomplishes great good. Some of the fields are peculiarly destitute, and may truly be termed missionary fields. "I spent a Sabbath recently," says a missionary in Allegany county, "in C., and preached three times in the hall of an infidel, to a large and attentive congregation. I was informed that no Presbyterian minister ever preached in the town before. I found one pious female, who has sustained a Sabbath school of 50 scholars through the summer. Some of the impenitent gathered around me as I was leaving, and pleaded with me to return and preach to them, until I was affected to tears. In this, and in another neighboring town, the people have become, in the absence of the Gospel, desperately wicked, with only a few exceptions."

Another missionary writes, "An embarrassment under which I began my labors here, was prejudice against the Presbyterian Church. We had no place of worship but a very poor old school-house. Subsequently it was put out of repair, so that for several Sabbaths we could not assemble in it. When repaired, and we had occupied it a Sabbath or two, the door was fastened against us by the trustees; so we were driven out, not having where to assemble. There was a hall in the village, which would have furnished us with accommodations, but no compensation would induce the owner to rent it to the Presbyterian Church. We cannot build unless helped from abroad; and except a house can be built, we can have no place but the open field, in which to assemble, and must suffer still greater embarrassment." Would you know the salary this missionary receives? Hear him again: "I have received but $15 for my services in this place, and have labored here about 10 months and a half. I was never brought into such a strait before, since I entered the ministry. Our prospects are dark at this moment, and should your Society discontinue their aid, there would remain little if any hope in our case." In another letter he writes, in reference to building a house for worship, "All we shall be able to collect, I apprehend, will not be more than sufficient to build a log cabin." Such a house, we should think from his letter, will probably be built. A house of rough boards, or hewn logs, may be put up for a small sum in new places, where a congregation may assemble, until able to erect a commodious and more convenient building. This is better than to run in debt for a house, and embarrass a congregation for years. The ark of God was confined in a tent with curtains, until Israel of old were able to build the temple.

In no previous year have the missionaries been so pressed to obtain a livelihood, and been obliged to devote so much time to secular affairs. Says one, "I have never, since my entrance upon ministerial life, been compelled, through absolute necessity, to resort so much to manual labor. The time has been, when I could be a giver, but now I am in the condition of a receiver. It is both blessed to give and to receive. I should have paid the postage of this letter; but as for gold and silver, I have none at present."

Another writes, who seems to have lived on a salary last year of $150, "The church supply my wants, except store goods and incidental expenses, and these they expect will be supplied by the Home Missionary Society. They design to raise enough to make me $100, with what they receive from your Society. The Lord is now pouring out his Spirit here, and sinners are turning unto him. I have been obliged to run in debt for my store goods, and shall be much distressed if you should disappoint me."

Another writes, "We have lately been obliged to go without any kind of bread four days together, keeping a little piece to feed to our two little children when they called for it. This is not a wheat country, and my neighbors were out, and I could not get the means to go away and buy."

These extracts show that our missionaries are laboring in obscure places, where they receive a scanty support, and where they are making personal sacrifices that they may preach the Gospel to the poor. They also show that the churches cannot withhold their donations from this Society, without occasioning distress in the families of the missionaries. But the suffering of the missionaries is but a small part of the evil that ensues, when the churches withhold their support from this cause. The moral wastes of our land are neglected; the favorable time to lay the foundations of piety in particular places is lost; and every benevolent cause, sooner or later, in consequence suffers. Home Missions is a fundamental benevolence. Neglect this cause, or prosecute it as of secondary importance, and it will soon be difficult to raise funds in our land to carry forward any great benevolent enterprise. Had Western New-York been neglected by Home Missionary Societies, as the northern parts of Pennsylvania have been, how different would be its influence and its prospects. From that region scarcely any thing is contributed for the advancement of religion, at home or abroad. An agent could scarcely collect enough to defray his travelling expenses. There, whole counties, a few years ago, were found without a meeting-house, and county towns were said to exist without a church organization of any description. From that region a missionary writes, "I preach part of the time in a meeting-house where scarcely any other worship has been held but that of Mormonism. Sixty or seventy Mormon families in that place, within one year, left for the western land of promise." The great mass of the people, in some of these counties, seem to be settling into a state almost as hopeless and useless as heathenism. And such, also, or irresistibly tending to such a state, we have reason to believe, would be the moral condition of Western New-York, and of many other sunny parts of our nation, had it not been for Home Missions. Missionary Societies, in connection with the Presbyterian and Congregational denominations, have expended towards $100,000 in building up the wastes in this part of the state. Now, the Gospel is preached by these denominations in most of our towns. Now, $100,000 are yearly expended by churches of these denominations, to sustain the institutions of religion among themselves, and $50,000 are yearly contributed, by these same churches, to sustain the great benevolent societies of our land; and hundreds of christian families remove yearly from this part of the state to the West—not to disorganize the West, but to assist in laying there the foundations of morality and religion. It is ruinous, therefore, to the cause of benevolence, and ruinous to the cause of God in our land and world, to withhold from Home Missions our influence and our contributions. Home Missions should be prosecuted on a scale commensurate with the moral wants of our land. Were the amount yearly expended in this cause doubled or trebled, every benevolent society would receive an impulse, and their operations would soon be increased, in consequence, in nearly the same proportion. Home Missions should now be prosecuted with the concentrated energies of the entire church. Our countrymen, perishing for lack of knowledge, demand it; a world, lying in ruin, demands it. The fountain must be kept pure and deep, or the streams that flow from it will fail. There is ability in the Presbyterian and Congregational denominations in our country, to rise up at once and possess the land, in its length and breadth, for the Lord Jesus Christ, and to establish in every town the glorious Gospel of the blessed God. Let this work, for a season at least, become a leading object in which Christians shall engage; and more, it is believed, will immediately be done for every other benevolent enterprise; and soon, throughout our land, and in many more places in the heathen world, will be seen the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace, that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation, that saith unto Zion, thy God reigneth. For God will make bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.

TENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

It is but reasonable that those to whom are committed the charities of the church, should publish their doings. All, who are aiding in the promotion of any benevolent enterprise, need to know its condition and prospects, to prepare them to act understandingly for its advancement. And all, who are called to manage any public charity, must be grateful, that custom allows them, and especially requires them, to make the public acquainted with the good which has been done, and with the nature, necessities and claims of the object. In this way, and in this only, can a pure and efficient public sentiment be formed in favor of any good cause. The man, in whose heart is the love of Christ, needs light to qualify him for any duty, and he needs nothing but light to prompt him to pray and labor for the accomplishment of any object of real charity, to which duty may call him.

The Central Agency, therefore, would avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by this arrangement, so marked with practical wisdom, to lay before the Parent Board and the churches of Eastern New-York, their Tenth Annual Report.

And first of all, would we bring our thank-offering to Him, without whom we can do nothing; by whose parental regard we have been conducted in prosperity through all the commercial alarm and terror of the past year; and by whose great mercy our missionaries have been preserved, their number increased, and their labors blessed. A tribute of gratitude is due also to those numerous friends, who, while others were obliged, by financial embarrassment, to withhold their wonted aid, came forward with increased liberality to sustain this valued cause.

Since our last report we have issued 40 commissions, each extending through a whole year, and all of the missionaries, except 4, were wholly employed under these commissions. Of the other 4, three were employed by us half the time, and one a fourth of the time; but in every case the missionary devoted the remainder of his time to preaching the Gospel in other places. Including those whose commissions had not expired when we last reported, there have been 49 missionaries upon this field during the year, besides several who were commissioned directly by the Parent Society. The number of churches, which we have helped to the enjoyment of stated pastoral service, is 52, besides occasional labor bestowed on many others. The number of years of missionary service thus secured to this portion of the Lord's heritage, since the last anniversary, is 38. The whole expense incurred by this Agency, falling within the year, is $4,393 53, and the amount which has come into our Treasury, is $3,551; and about $1,000 has been sent by the Eastern churches to the general Treasury.

Would the simple, unvarnished facts in the case warrant it, we would gladly tell our friends and patrons of extraordinary results from their benevolent efforts the past year. But whatever may have been the immediate effects, it must gratify their christian feelings to know that the Gospel has been preached, in accordance with the Saviour's direction, and by their instrumentality, to many thousands of their poor countrymen. The grateful emotions and pious joy, which have been awakened in the bosoms of hundreds, in those 50 congregations, by the bread of life which has been sent them; the cheering refreshment they have received at the table of the Lord; the sweet fellowship and fervent love, which have been kindled in their hearts; the quickening faith and comforting hope, which have been revived and strengthened in their souls, are too valuable to be compared with what it has cost us. But we are allowed to know that something more has been done. Thousands of children and youth have had their minds steadily called from Sabbath to Sabbath, to the salutary precepts of Him "who spake as never man spake." And in not a few of our missionary churches, a large portion of the congregation is connected with the Sabbath school, and thus the young are taught that the Bible is not a book for children only, but for parents, for the aged, for the wisest and the best of men. Something has been done the past year toward perfecting the "building of God" on earth. Many of the churches we aid are exhibiting a more favorable aspect. Instead of being diminished, as in former years, by emigration, they are increasing in number and strength. Four have assumed the whole responsibility of supporting their pastors, and several others have asked less assistance the past year than ever before. In a few instances, churches, whose condition was nearly hopeless, give cheering evidence of becoming flourishing and fruitful vines in the garden of God. Seven new stations have been occupied within the year, and 12 missionaries have been employed, whom we never commissioned before. Nearly all the churches, under our patronage, are doing something, by their prayers and contributions, to aid the various benevolent objects of the present day, and are thus bearing a part, with their patrons, in labors for the universal diffusion and triumph of truth. There have not been as many revivals as in some former years; but God has not left us without evidence that his truth is mighty. During the past winter, the Holy Spirit has honored his own institutions in several of our churches. Two of our missionaries have reported 10, one 25, another 45, and one more than a 100, who give evidence of a change of heart, in their respective congregations. In other places, there is evidence that smaller numbers have been "born again," and in others still, a general seriousness now prevails.

These are a few of the first fruits. But we cannot tell what "the books" of the great day will reveal. Nor can we tell how much influence our missionaries have exerted in carrying the principles of temperance into the neglected parts of our state, or in sustaining the christian Sabbath, or in promoting intellectual cultivation, domestic order, social enjoyment, public morals, or the general improvement of society. We cannot tell how much joy they have carried into the abodes of affliction; how much peace and hope they have administered in the chambers of sickness and death; how much they have quickened conscience, fostered virtue, or prevented sin; or how much has been done to prepare the way for the final triumph of the cross throughout our continent and the world.

But we must not close with speaking of the good accomplished or anticipated, for even now the imploring cry of many poor churches to which we have been unable to send the Gospel is sounding in our ears. We dare not close our ears, or eyes, or hearts to these importunate appeals. They come to us from the most feeble of Christ's family. We know that these poor saints are as dear to Him as the apple of his eye. He loves them more than he loved his life. He suffered the ignominy and agony of the cross, to make provision for their spiritual life and growth in grace. For these provisions they are now pleading. Their souls are perishing for want of spiritual food. We must respond to their call. We have not the means of supplying them,—and what shall we say? Shall we tell them that the Father of mercies has not made sufficient provision for his whole family?—that there is not bread enough and to spare in our Father's house?—that the other parts of God's family have done for them all that the love of Christ and brotherly kindness demand, and are prepared to appeal to Him who redeemed them with his blood, and say, "Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that we have loved them, thy poor brethren, as thou hast loved us." And shall we tell them that the poor must remain poor, and go down, hungry and famishing, with sorrow to their graves? Or, shall we tell them, that God in love and faithfulness has given an abundance to a portion of his people to supply the wants of all the poor, and has tried them and proved that they are willing to be his almoners—that they prefer giving the bread of life to their needy, suffering brethren, before the enjoyment of the meat that perisheth?

ANNUAL REPORT.

To the disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ, who are accustomed to meditate upon their relations to his kingdom and the world—who feel the force of the command given at the ascension, and recognize the import of the associated promise, "Lo, I am with you always," the cause of Missions is invested with peculiar interest and solemnity. It stands out in unrivalled grandeur and pre-eminence, as that agency which shall ultimately subdue a revolted and sinful world to the Saviour, and whose efficiency and success is entirely of God.

In being permitted again to witness the return of the anniversary, and to submit the Report of their operations during the year, to the A. H. M. Society, the Committee would devoutly acknowledge their obligations to the Great Head of the church, for the favor by which they, and the cause in which they have labored, have been distinguished.

During the year now closed, none of their number, nor of the missionaries under appointment, have been called away by death. All have been preserved, and each in his proper place and sphere, enabled to prosecute the work assigned him. Some changes have come over the enterprise committed to their trust, since the last report; some trials, and some success, of a nature kindred to the experience of former years, have been witnessed. While called, therefore, in the progress of the year, to meet with some events adapted to try their faith, and to exhibit the importance of persevering efforts, in reliance on the providence of God, for guidance and success—they are permitted to record such instances of favor, as strengthens their conviction that the cause is firmly established in the affections of the people, and is under the approbation of Heaven.

In the Autumn, or early part of the Winter, such a state of pecuniary embarrassment was brought upon the country, as threatened a very large reduction of the usual receipts of the treasury, and, consequently, the ability of the Committee to sustain their operations. But the evils experienced in these respects have been less than was anticipated.

The amount paid into the treasury at this date, is $7,714 47. If to this be added $887 57, the sum of pledges given to be redeemed in a short time, the sum secured to the Society during the year is, $8,602 04, which is but $309 24 less than the sum received the preceding year.

This diminution of receipts, the Committee do not attribute to any diminution of the number of the friends of Home Missions, nor of their attachment to the cause; but to the unprecedented commercial embarrassment alluded to, and to the suspension, for a season, of the regular operations of the Agency, which was necessarily connected with the resignation and removal of its former Secretary and Agent, the Rev. Gideon N. Judd, by means of which, some portions of the field have not been visited during the year—and to providential circumstances, by which the contributions of some of the churches have been so delayed, that they cannot be included in the present report of receipts.

The number of missionaries employed on this field, and acting under the immediate direction of the Board of Agency, is 30, whose labors are extended to 38 feeble congregations and destitute districts. In connection with their labors, 3 churches have been organized; 2 houses of worship built and dedicated to the service of Almighty God; and 2 others have been commenced, which will probably be finished the ensuing year. From the reports and correspondence, it is evident that the congregations aided have enjoyed a greater amount of spiritual blessings, than in the year preceding the one now closed. Weekly lectures, prayer meetings, Sabbath schools, Bible classes, and the monthly concert, have been generally observed, and better attended than formerly.

Nine of the missionaries report revivals of religion in the congregations of their charge, and many souls hopefully converted to God.

The number reported as added to the churches aided, is 342, of whom 136 are by letters from other churches, and 206 are on profession of their faith.

Several of the congregations, not reported as distinguished by revivals of religion, during the year have enjoyed much of the Spirit's influence, considerably increased in numbers attendant upon divine ordinances, and much interested in religious things. The number of pupils reported in the Sabbath schools and Bible classes, under the direction of the missionaries, is 2,325, and the number of subscribers to temperance pledges, in six congregations reported on the subject, is 795. Some of these individuals were far gone in intemperance; and, of a few of them, one missionary remarks, "They were confirmed drunkards, but have been reclaimed, and hopefully converted, and are now consistent and exemplary members of the church."

The Committee are gratified, in being able to report, that the churches aided, are generally cultivating a spirit of benevolence. They engage with zeal in the plans of doing good, generally adopted by the Christian church at the present day. The sum contributed by eleven of the churches—the number which have reported on the subject—to the various objects of benevolence, is $961 74.

The Western church of Philadelphia, and the church at Chemung, have so increased in numbers and strength, as not to need the further aid of the Society. They have each assumed the support of their own pastors. Other churches have the prospect of sus-

But while the Committee see these results of the labor performed, and rejoice in their magnitude and worth, they do not feel, that the end of the missionary enterprise is accomplished. There are many churches within the field of this Agency, to which aid must be continued for a long time to come, ere the support of the pastor can be assumed by them. Such is their location, and such their disadvantages in regard to agriculture, commerce, or manufactures, that by deaths or emigration, or other causes, no little portion of the strength accumulated, by the service of the year, is annually removed. If this were not so, if the stations now occupied should soon rise to numbers and strength sufficient to sustain themselves, new and destitute places, within the limits of the Agency, would demand attention. There are many important and wide fields yet uncultivated, and into which laborers ought to be sent without delay. To procure and send to these fields suitable laborers, at as early a day as practicable, the Committee feel it to be their duty.

But, beyond the limits of the Agency, in the newly settled states and territories, still wider fields are destitute, and their rapidly increasing population is becoming, daily, an object of more importance both to patriots and Christians. Upon the character which they shall possess, the most important interests are suspended. If they be intelligent and pious, they will give strength to the republic, and permanency to our free institutions,—if uncultivated and unevangelized, their influence will be evil and evil only, in respect to the final destiny of our nation.

Although in this view, the subject of Home Missions is solemn and impressive, it becomes more so, when contemplated in its bearing upon man's eternal destiny. In the Divine plan of human salvation, it is unalterably declared, that, "without holiness no man shall see the Lord," and "he that believeth not shall be damned." The preaching of the Gospel is the appropriate instrumentality, for securing these indispensable prerequisites to salvation. If our country, therefore, be left without effort to diffuse among its population the truths of the Gospel, its multitudes may soon perish, and perish forever: but if an evangelical ministry, adequate to its necessities can be supplied, its millions may be redeemed from the dominion and pollution of sin, and prepared for the felicities of an eternal heaven.

HOME MISSIONS, A GREAT AND GOOD WORK.

The Home Missionary cause has claims to the patronage and prayers of the community, which are not yet appreciated as they should be. It is a cause interesting to all classes.

It is the cause of the East—for her sons and daughters are scattered far and wide over the missionary field; and every consideration which requires us to care for our own flesh and blood, and to seek the moral welfare of our own children, calls upon the Eastern churches to send their missionaries and their contributions, throughout the extensive region whither their people have emigrated.

This cause is the cause of the West—for there the great battle is to be fought between truth and error, between law and anarchy—between Christianity, with her Sabbaths, her ministry, and her schools, on the one hand, and the combined forces of Infidelity and Popery on the other.

Every Christian has an interest in this cause. It cannot be a matter of indifference to any friend of Christ, whether the multitudes of this great nation rise to heaven or sink to hell—whether the Saviour who died for him be received and honored, or rejected and despised, throughout the thousands of towns and hamlets of this land!

This cause is also the cause of the patriot. All who wish to see this a law-respecting people—who wish to see the public good preferred to individual and party interest—who value the purity of elections, the trust-worthiness of public functionaries—who wish to prevent freedom from degenerating into licentiousness and anarchy—all these should value and promote the preaching of that Gospel, which forbids violence and wrong, and inculcates order and peace, and forms and cherishes that conscience, without which all the sanctions of human law are inefficient. If our political union is to be preserved, or to be worth preserving, evangelical piety must wave her olive branch over the land, and distil her pacific influence into the hearts of its inhabitants.

While it is true, that the work of preaching the Gospel to this whole nation is a work in which all the community have much at stake, and ought to take an interest, it is not probable that its claims will be appreciated by all as they deserve. The burden of care, expense and effort, will still be thrown on a comparatively small portion of those who are included in the benefits to be secured. To this small portion—these faithful friends of the Redeemer's cause, we would say "Be not weary in well doing." Let not your hearts be discouraged, nor your hands enfeebled—for

THE WORK OF HOME MISSIONS IS A GREAT AND GOOD WORK. They who labor in this cause, labor for the welfare of a great people. The evils which afflict this nation are of a kind not to be relieved by human enactments. The grand conservative principle, to which we must look for the preservation of our republican institutions, is christian virtue. It is this, which must guard us alike from too much, and from too little freedom.

The work of Home Missions aims to secure the most precious interests of men. It is not merely, nor mainly, the civil liberty, but rather the spiritual and eternal welfare of our countrymen which we seek. It is a good work to promote public improvements, to cut canals and build rail-roads, to found lyceums and colleges; but it is better still to convert sinners from the error of their ways, to deliver them from the thralldom of sin, here, and from the danger of eternal damnation hereafter; and to make them, throughout all their future existence, the advocates and agents of every good work. To aim at such results, is the noblest philanthropy; and to be permitted to accomplish them is the highest distinction that heaven confers on man.

Again—the work of Home Missions coincides most exactly with that which the Saviour devolved upon his disciples, as the great object of their calling. What is the Home Missionary enterprise? It is "PREACHING THE GOSPEL TO EVERY CREATURE" in this land, and thus, instrumentally, preaching it to all the world. Some forms of philanthropic effort are of doubtful expediency, others embarrassed by so many difficulties, that the time and the mode of prosecuting them, and the propriety of prosecuting them at all, are serious questions. But in preaching the Gospel, there can be no mistake. Christ has settled the question that it is to be done, and his Spirit and providence call for it to be done now, to be done always, and with increased energy, "as we see the day approaching" when, unless this Gospel prevent, ours will be an infidel, a lost nation; and the sun will shed his reluctant rays upon the ruins of all our anticipated greatness.

QUALIFICATIONS OF MISSIONARIES TO THE WEST.

We have a deep conviction, that in many respects, the exigencies of the missionary work in our own land, demands a higher style of piety, in order to go through it with success and honor to religion, than even the labors of the foreign field. We would discard the notion that men who have no hearts to be moved by the appeal that comes up from the dying heathen, may safely and properly be received as Missionaries to the West. When, some years since, the air was loaded with the praises of western lands, and the fair savannas, and groves, and streams constituted, too often, the theme even of clerical correspondence, there was a universal tendency to tear up ministerial connexions by the roots, and transplant them to the new Arcadia. But now, when it is found that the West presents no exception to the rest of the world—that those who live there must labor, and suffer, and be sick and die, as well as be useful and happy—just as the inhabitants of other regions—there is a reaction. Many persons shrink from the sacrifice of going there. They were willing to go, when there was a prospect of being settled in some of the cities which were supposed to be rising out of the earth, like mushrooms, in a night, and of having at once around them the refinements of cultivated society and a prompt and generous support. But do they recoil from the same work when it is found to lie among a poor people, and attended with self-denial? Then, they are the very persons whom the West does not want. They are in some way unfitted to meet its exigencies. Some who have entered that interesting region, perhaps not knowing what manner of spirit they were of, have already become thoroughly secularized. Not only is this their own usefulness hindered, but their example and their influence are a grief to their brethren, and a source of triumph to the enemies of religion.

The minister who is to labor in the recent settlements will need ardent piety. "But ought not every minister to be ardently pious?" Yes—but to the pioneer it is pre-eminently requisite. In old settled communities, where society is consolidated and arranged; where the fathers and mothers in Israel diffuse around them an air of godliness; where the general temperature of religion will stand at a good height, whether it be so in the minister or not—the absence of a decided, glowing piety, may do less injury than in a new field. In the latter, the soul of the Missionary is like a solitary brand—a single coal removed from its fellows, and placed amid unkindly influences, there to preserve its own heat, and also to kindle adjacent substances. The Missionary is often the principal or only light in a benighted region; and if the light that is in him be darkness, how great is that darkness! And how wretched must be the man who is set for a leader of the Lord's host, to whom a whole community are looking as their teacher, example, and guide, who yet is conscious that he lacks the spirit to meet these responsibilities! How miserable will he feel, amid the poverty, sickness, contradiction and ingratitude accompanying the missionary work, unless sustained by an internal energy of grace, that no discouragements can overcome! If a man be deficient in piety, don't encourage him to go to the new settlements—don't expose him to the tremendous temptations—to the crosses on the one hand, and the snares on the other—which will beset him in the West.

He must have good talents. The new countries are settled by men of enterprise and mental vigor. Few others rise superior to the considerations of comfort and the neighborhood of friends and long cherished associations, and tear themselves away from the homes of their youth, to settle where every thing is rude and unformed. Hence, the West is full of persons who may be regarded as picked men—men chosen from the whole United States, for strong points of character and energy of action. Such men cannot be taught religion by preachers of feeble talent. If they oppose Christianity, they do it with all their might; if they espouse her defence, it is with the same energy. Hence, either to conquer her foes or to lead her friends, she requires champions of at least good mind—sound, discriminating, disciplined mind. They may have more or less polish, and if they are not suited to one field, they may be to another; but earnest, resolute good sense, conscious ability to grapple with the opponents of Christianity, are indispensable for the man who exposes himself to the exigencies of the missionary work.

He should be a practical man—

“For, not to know
Of things at large, remote from common use,
But what before us lies in daily life,
Is the prime wisdom.”

If he does not understand human nature; if he is continually expecting from the mass of men, such honorable treatment and just appreciation of his talents and labors, as only the wise and good award him; if he is visionary, abounding in projects which are splendid in the conception, but require the happy concurrence of many particulars in order to success; if he insists on having men and things just as they ought to be, and cannot tolerate them as they are; if he is wanting in a happy discernment of what is becoming the time, the place, the company; if he is fond of the abstract and transcendental, rather than the concrete and the practical—the ultimate result will be, that he will find himself out of his element in the new settlements. He will study, and labor, and fail. He will wonder at the stupidity of the people, lament over their want of taste, feel himself undervalued and slighted, and secretly rue the day when he went to the West. This will show itself in frequent removals from one charge to another—

“But 'tis a poor relief we gain,
To change the place, yet keep the pain”—

And the ministerial work, under such circumstances, is cumbered with trials which do not properly belong to it, but spring rather from the defects of the individual.

Perseverance is requisite in the Western ministry. The phases of society are so various and changeful, that the same work has to be done over and over again, ere any thing like permanency can be predicated of religious institutions. “Take hold, hold fast, and hold on,” was the laconic charge given to a young preacher by one who had seen service in that field.

But we are fearful lest, from the naming of these very necessary qualifications, any should infer that the West is not an inviting field. Such an impression would be very erroneous. To those who have the right spirit and abilities, it is truly a land of promise. There are indeed much toil and many foes, but the reward is proportionally great. The privilege of laying foundations, of moulding society, of having fresh and growing impulses to excite one's own intellect and heart, is worth all the toil and self-denial which they will cost a man of the right stamp; to say nothing of that crown of rejoicing which Christ will place upon the head of him that is faithful to the end.

TESTIMONIES IN FAVOR OF THE AMERICAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

TESTIMONY OF A LAYMAN.

Extract of a letter from James G. Edwards, Esq., to one of the Secretaries of the A. H. M. S.

Burlington, Iowa Ter.

Dear Sir,—It is now between ten and eleven years since I left Boston, the city of my nativity, for the Valley of the Mississippi. Since that time, I do not think I have ever lost sight of the motive which brought me hither, or the fact that I was not my own. I know that motive was a good one. Its perpetuity and omnipresence, however, are to be attributed, not to any intrinsic goodness in myself, but to the instrumentality of the missionaries, sent out to this region by your Society. Ten years ago, last November, I met the Rev. Theron Baldwin in St. Louis, and accompanied him to Jacksonville, the place of our joint destination. From that time, I became acquainted with the operations of the American Home Missionary Society, and being brought in constant contact with nearly all the missionaries sent out between 1829 and 1839, and enjoying the privilege of being on intimate terms with most of them, I think myself in some measure qualified to judge of the apparent amount of good that has been accomplished through their instrumentality in ten short years. I say apparent amount of good, because there are ten thousand influences clustering around and following in the train of the benevolent efforts of really good men, which will never appear until “the books shall be opened,” and the records of eternity shall reveal them. The good effects of their labors in and about Jacksonville, are so well known, that it is unnecessary for me to enlarge upon them. Suffice it to say, that the foundations of Illinois College were laid by the Rev. J. M. Ellis, one of your earliest missionaries to that state, and the plan successfully carried out by such men as Baldwin and Sturtevant, notwithstanding many obstacles stood in the way, and many Sanballats made efforts to thwart their designs. That institution, under the care of its present excellent president, has already educated several young men, who are bound, if their lives are spared, to be eminently useful as clergymen and teachers. It has already been of incalculable benefit to the state; and in answer to the prayers of its founders and friends, I verily believe streams have already issued from it that have made glad the city of our God.

At the period to which I allude—1829—and for some time after, the prejudices of many of the people against Sabbath schools, temperance societies, colleges, missionary and benevolent efforts generally, and Presbyterians in particular, was of the strongest kind. Owing to the judicious, pious and unremitting exertions of the missionaries of your Society, a perceptible change gradually took place—other denominations began to emulate them in their benevolent efforts—and now there are no places where such efforts are better understood, or more highly appreciated, than in those parts of Illinois, where the standard of the Home Missionary was first unfurled. And I believe it was through the influence of such exhibitions of pure and enlightened benevolence, as continually shone upon them in the actions of the Home Missionaries, that brethren of other denominations were induced to elevate their standard of moral excellence, and prefer men of expansive benevolent feelings and intelligence, to those who were wont to make their boast that their “heads had never been rubbed against a college wall.” If I am right, this should not be set down as the smallest thing accomplished through the instrumentality of your Society. But to turn to the direct action of the missionaries. I can now think of hundreds of souls, who, through the evident instrumentality of the Rev. A. Hale, T. Baldwin, and others, have been brought from nature's darkness into God's most marvellous light, and are now ornaments in the church. Some of these are already in the ministry, others are preparing for the same, and some are among our most successful teachers.

The writer of the foregoing proves the sincerity of the testimony which he bears, by an accompanying subscription of one hundred dollars to the funds of the Society.

TESTIMONY OF A CLERGYMAN.

Enclosing a donation of $50.

My dear sir:—I am surprised and grieved, that the heart-affecting statements of fact and the soul-stirring appeals to conscience and christian sympathy, which fill the successive Nos. of the "Home Missionary" and the mouths of your agents, do not bring a large amount of "free will offerings" to your treasury. I have not Joseph's cup, and therefore cannot divine in this matter; nor will I spend a moment in conjectures as to the cause of the apparent backwardness of the churches to meet the claims of the cause of Home Missions. One thing I know, without any diviner's cup or prophet's vision, viz., that there is no such cause for this backwardness as will stand approved at the bar of God. It is without excuse. Allow me to say this to you, even if you deem it improper for you to say it to the churches. There is money enough and to spare, at the command of the professed friends of Zion, to meet every engagement you have made in their name, to the missionaries and feeble churches of the West, and even to enable you to double the amount of your engagements, without the slightest interference with any other branch of benevolent operation. And, this money must be produced, or, they who have it in "safe-keeping," will hear it said to them ere long, with the most painful emotions—"Give an account of thy stewardship." It cannot be avoided. What they possess is the Lord's. He will have it. They must pay it. If willingly, it will turn to their account; but if unwillingly, it must be paid. God will not suffer his servants, who are bearing the burden and heat of the day, in doing the work of the church among our new settlements, to be defrauded of their wages. They ask—what? That their bread and water may be made sure to them; ask less, they cannot—ask more, they will not; and if they be denied this, let the churches know that God will arise and vindicate their cause. Your pledges must be redeemed—sacredly so. And more, your pledges must be multiplied and increased, in amount, if you can find men qualified for the great work that remains to be accomplished. The conversion of souls—the establishment of churches—the recovery of widely extended moral wastes—the planting of the standard of the cross on every mountain and hill between the Atlantic and the Pacific—the regeneration of the whole land, and then, the conversion of the world—all enter essentially and directly into your plan—a plan that is wisely devised, for God himself is its author, and ably carried onward, as far as the counsels and labors of man are concerned; and shall its execution be retarded, (prevented it cannot be,) by the want of liberality in the churches? It may not be.

Though a poor man, I have yet "a place where to lay my head," and through the blessing of a good Master, something more, a part of which I wish some hard-working brother at the West to share with me, through your instrumentality. This is all that money is good for. When will the churches and their pastors believe it?

Yours, affectionately,

FROM REV. R. H. BISHOP, D. D., PRESIDENT OF MIAMI UNIVERSITY, AT OXFORD, O.

The following testimony in favor of the endeavors of the A. H. M. S. to spread the Gospel in the West, is doubly valuable, from the high source from which it comes, and from the fact that, so far as we are aware, it is spontaneous and unsolicited.

I have been now upwards of thirty years in the West, and though I have not personally performed much missionary work, yet there is no one thing connected with the history of the western country, in which I have felt a deeper interest. And should I this hour be called to pass into eternity, I think I am prepared to say, before the judge of the quick and the dead—that I know of no association or class of men, to whom the people of the West are under more obligations, and to whom, in all probability, the unborn millions of the great valley will be more indebted, than to the officers and Missionaries of the American Home Missionary Society.

I am not disposed to say that every measure which has been proposed, or which has been adopted, is to be defended; or that every missionary or agent that has been employed, has been of the right kind. Mistakes and mismanagements, and of course disappointments, must always form a considerable portion of the history of the arrangements of sinful and fallible man, endeavoring to rectify or to preserve from ruin a disordered, and depraved, and rebellious world.

But I am disposed to say, and I say it with as much deliberation and conviction of its truth, as ever I have said any thing in my life, that the real, and substantial, and lasting good, both for time and eternity—both to the present, and to innumerable succeeding generations, which has been done through the instrumentality of the society, is immense—it, in fact, exceeds all human calculation. I say also, and I say it calmly and deliberately, that the great and leading principles upon which the Society was established, and upon which it has thus far been conducted, are such as to command the approbation of every enlightened and impartial man; and these principles will recommend themselves whenever and wherever they shall have a fair and candid examination.

INFLUENCE OF HOME MISSIONARIES.

A Fact.

It is a fact, that the missionaries of your Society, all through this state, and I might add, through the valley, are doing as much for the cause of education, morals, and evangelical piety, as any other class of men. Blot out their influence, and all this mighty valley would feel the shock. Dry up the streams of holiness that they are sending out, and all the interests of this people, both for time and eternity, would be injured beyond computation. By their self-denying labors, by their devotion and zeal, they are lighting up the lamps of salvation, in many a dark place, that might otherwise long remain in darkness. I pray God, that your exertions, as agents, in this grand and glorious enterprise, may continue, till not only this valley, but the whole earth, shall be belted round with the light of the Gospel and heralds of salvation.

EXTRACTS FROM THE CORRESPONDENCE OF THE MISSIONARIES.

RESPONSIBILITY OF THE EAST FOR THE SALVATION OF THE WEST.

—In conclusion, I would once more raise the “Macedonian cry” from a full heart, if I thought it would be of any avail. Brethren at the East may forget it, or disguise it, or evade it, as they please, but there is a tremendous responsibility resting upon them in relation to the West. Wicked hands are here opening the fountains of political and moral death, and by canals and aqueducts they are conducting their waters to all the life arteries of the community. And nothing will or can stay them but a laborious and intelligent church. And such a church can be reared only by a self-denying and intellectual ministry.

That the West will yield to the plastic hand of a master, there can be no doubt. But who this master shall be, is a question yet involved in uncertainty. This question may be determined, and that speedily, by the eastern church and ministry. There is money enough to sustain, nobly, the blessed institution of HOME MISSIONS. And it ought to be known every where in the churches, that this association cannot suffer temporary embarrassment, without making a decided impression upon the whole moral machinery of the nation. It is felt by every benevolent organization; it is felt from New-England to Iowa; nay, it must be felt in China; and it most assuredly will be felt in the destinies of eternity!

THE CRISIS OF THE WEST.

The crisis through which a rising community passes here is momentous, and it is soon past. There is a point in the early history of each village and settlement, when the need of Gospel institutions and Gospel influences is deeply felt. If that want is promptly supplied, the results are most desirable and happy. If it is not supplied, public sentiment either becomes poisoned with infidelity and irreligion, or some distracting influence, in the form of religious novelty, or spurious religion, takes the place of a wholesome influence, and presents a most formidable obstacle in the way of building up the cause of evangelical piety, during many succeeding years. To such influences, all our destitute settlements are more or less exposed; through such a crisis they are now rapidly passing. Shall their danger be averted, and the cause of truth be established in the very foundations of society, to grow up with its growth and strengthen with its strength? Or shall error and irreligion be suffered to pre-occupy the ground, cursing and destroying with their fruits, all coming generations? The curse may be averted and the blessing secured by the churches and ministers of the East, if they will speedily "come over and help us." In many places which I have recently visited, it is emphatically true, that "the fields are white, ready for the harvest." But unless the laborers shall soon be sent forth, the precious fruit will perish.

HELP MUST COME FROM ABROAD.

From a minister in Missouri.

Some sections of this state, and Arkansas, will become heathen ground, if many faithful and holy ministers of the Gospel do not come out and help us. We have them not among ourselves, and we have not now the material from which we can probably form them. Our eyes, under God, are to you; from you is to come forth the stream to make glad these western fields.

INADEQUACY OF SUPPORT.

I have not received a support adequate to my necessities. In consequence of this, I have sold off a portion of my household goods to meet the demands of my family. Whether I shall ever receive what has been promised, I know not. And what is given, is, in many instances, considered a gratuitous charity.—This is exceedingly trying to my feelings. I am no beggar or pensioner upon the bounty of any community. And unless there is a change here in regard to my support, I must certainly leave. A gospel that is not paid for, is of very little benefit, in a community able to support it.

PRIVATION ENDURED FOR THE CHURCH'S SAKE.

When your communication came to hand, I was at a great stand, not knowing what to do—whether I should endeavor to get along without many things I need, or leave my dear people to be a prey to their enemies. I talked and prayed with them, and for them; but to ask for more than they had promised, would be to rob the poor. This I could not do. To leave them, would give great occasion for the enemy to speak reproachfully of the Saviour's cause, and injure the principle on which a permanent ministry has here been advocated. Therefore, I resolved, if possible, not to give occasion for the enemy to reproach, nor to weaken the things which remain, but to stand in my lot, publishing the everlasting Gospel to dying men—trusting the great Head of the church for direction and instruction. I well know that I cannot supply my family with the comforts of life for $300 yearly; therefore I have come to the conclusion to part with worldly comforts and take up with Jesus and his promise—not seeking all my good things in this life, but laying up in store for the life to come.

PROTEST AGAINST CURTAILMENT OF AID.

It is wrong—it is a shame, that they who take the most difficult posts, and encounter a class of trials peculiar to such posts, and which no human sympathy or aid can wholly prevent, should also have to struggle with the superadded trials of pecuniary embarrassment. The least thing—the very least, that they can reasonably expect of their brethren in the older churches, is, that they shall be sustained, and that liberally.

But these things have been said so often, that perhaps they may be regarded by some as the result of feelings too long and painfully exercised on a single subject. We are, therefore, happy to offer the voluntary testimony of a Western Pastor, not connected with the Society, but so situated as to observe its operations. After speaking of one of our missionaries, he adds—

Do not let him leave that post, and I may add, do not break him down by curtailments, nor force him to secular employments, or back to New-England. I do not beg for myself, but I may beg for others. I say to you, then, and through you to the eastern churches, do not take the bread from the faithful and devoted men whom you have sent into this field of privation and arduous labor. They are worthy of your confidence and support, and the Lord has need of them here. If you sustain them, and do not abandon them in this emergency, they will effect glorious things, as instruments in God's hands for this country. Give them a place on which to stand, and they will move this people onward and upward.

I could tell you much on this subject, that would make you hesitate when the question respects the curtailment of the scanty support of a missionary at the West. Much of the comparative inefficiency, most of the removals, and many of the returns to the East, are in consequence of those annual clippings. I am not ignorant of the continual effort necessary to sustain a society such as the A. H. M. S., nor of the firmness with which the Committee has stood by her in the hour of peril, with their own means and resources. But I cannot but feel that too much has been said about economy, in urging the claims of the Society before the churches. If a missionary needs $200 from abroad, it is not economy to allow him but $150. If $400 is necessary for his support, it is a greater waste of money to reduce his salary to $300, than to raise it to $500. In one case you give a good man $100 above his current expenses; in the other, you injure his usefulness, and waste his energies, which are above estimation by dollars and cents.

You reply, that you can give no more than you receive. Has the church then reached the maximum of giving to Home Missions? No. Will the church refuse to increase her efforts? I cannot believe it, if proper representations were made. No one doubts that the church is able now, in the midst of all the embarrassments of the times, to double her gifts to benevolent societies; and unless they are made to feel that they cannot, and that it is not necessary that they should, they will do it when a proper call is made. It is for you to make that call.

Whether we have withheld the facts and the appeals necessary to constitute such a call upon the churches, as our correspondent contemplates, let the pages of our periodical, our circulars, and the oral pleas of our agents bear witness.

GREAT GOOD ACCOMPLISHED BY TIMELY AID.

There are critical times in the history of congregations, as well as of individuals, in which a little kindness shown is productive of great good. The energies which would have slumbered under the palsy influence of discouragement, timely advice and a small amount of aid will stimulate to such efforts as shall surprise even those who put them forth. An example of this is given in the following report from a missionary in Illinois. Eternity alone can disclose the rich results of the appropriation, by which that congregation was excited to the development of its own resources in the promotion of religion.

When I came to —, the house occupied by the church contained but little more than one row of benches, placed on each side of its walls; and the congregation was small. It has, since, been well seated, and when the weather is pleasant, it always overflows. In addition to this, the congregation have purchased a lot worth $600, and erected a new building which will hold a third more than the old one. This is to be dedicated the present week.

The spirit of benevolence has, also, been on the increase. Last Sabbath $30 was subscribed, and paid to the agent for the Education Society. This makes about $170, which the society has paid for benevolent purposes, during the year. Add to this, the $600, subscribed for the lot, and about $700 more for the erection of a building, and $251 in cash, which they have paid on my salary, and you have the amount of their contributions for the year.

When I received my commission, the church numbered 49; 42 have since been added — 16 by letter, and 26 on examination. Four have been dismissed; one has deceased, and 7 have left our communion in consequence of the ecclesiastical divisions—leaving 78 members, or an increase of 29 during the year. To this statistical representation I will only add, that personal holiness has been increased in the church, the bond of union has been strengthened, and plans for efficient action in the cause of the Redeemer, have been, to some extent, systematized.

From this brief presentation of facts, the friends of Home Missions can judge whether your Committee have acted judiciously in appropriating their funds to a little church struggling with difficulties, which none but those who are on the ground, can appreciate. Your aid was well timed. And looking at the combined influences, which, during the year, have tended to dishearten our people, I know not what we could have done without it. I feel confident that the church, unitedly, will cherish your Society with enlarged affection. And among the most grateful of these will be found the young convert. The congregation, therefore, unite with me in more than thanking you for your appropriation. We trust, when the “books shall be opened,” the results of the year will be more fully seen in the salvation of souls who are yet unborn.

SPECIMENS OF HOME MISSIONARY RESULTS.

From a Pastor in Washtenaw County, Mich.

Ann Arbor was the first place where you planted a missionary in this county. The church and society there is largely and abundantly able to support the ministry. It is now vacant, but a supply is expected soon. The church in Ypsilanti is the next in order. In size and ability, I suppose it equals Ann Arbor. Webster is next in order of time. The church now numbers 115. The ministry has been sustained without aid for a number of years.

As there is no village in the centre of the place, the church will not compare with others in size or ability. 101 persons have professed piety under the labors of your former missionary. A part of what was originally the church of Dexter, are connected with the Lima church. This ground you have watered with your charity. God has recently poured out his Spirit, and a goodly number have united with the church. Others, it is expected, will do so soon. Lodi has also been blessed by your aid. This church has been repeatedly watered with heavenly dews, and is abundantly able and willing to sustain the ministry. Manchester has also been visited by your bounty. Now, I believe, the minister is sustained without foreign aid. They have enjoyed a precious revival during the past winter. On Sylvan, another missionary field, some mercy drops have recently fallen. I have no means of knowing how extensive the revival has been. These places are all in this county. When I look at this field, and compare it with what it was when I entered it, ten years ago, I can exclaim, “what hath God wrought!” You may well rejoice in the work which God has permitted you to perform.

THANKFUL ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Yours, enclosing the renewal of my commission to preach the Gospel in this remote part of the great moral field of our Lord another year, reminds me of my duty and obligation to your Society, as the organ of the church's munificence, and incites me to pray more fervently to the great Head of the church, to pour out his Spirit upon me, and make me faithful unto the end, in the great, and solemn, and interesting work assigned me. I speak the feelings of my own heart, and I doubt not of hundreds of my dear brethren and fellow laborers, who, like myself, are toiling on in the glorious work, single-handed and alone, in these outposts of Zion—when I say, the mingled emotions of joy and sorrow, and gratitude, and love, and zeal, and aspirations for fresh anointings from on high, that are awakened in the heart of the missionary every time he receives a commission or remittance from your Society, can better be imagined than described. I have often thought, that did the almoners of the church's bounty, acting through the medium of your Society, but once realize how gratefully received were these expressions of christian benevolence, they would respond to the inspired declaration that it is "more blessed to give than to receive," and be impelled onward in the blessed work of doing good.

FAREWELL THANKS.

In taking leave of your Society, I do it with feelings of gratitude, which I cannot easily find language to express. Your Society has stood by me in the darkest, as well as in the brightest hours. In time of need it has stretched forth its hand of relief; in time of affliction, expressed its sympathy, and given me assurance of an interest in its prayers. The kind feelings expressed in your last letter to me, did myself and suffering companion more good than the draft with which it was accompanied, although it found us in want, and added much comfort to these dying bodies. May the blessing of the Highest rest upon your efforts to supply the destitute with the stated means of grace!

TESTIMONY OF EXPERIENCE.

Nothing more fully exhibits the blessed fruits of the voluntary associations, than the timely aid which the American Education and Home Missionary Societies, impart to the infant churches of the West. But for the influence of these twin sisters of benevolence, in first educating, and then sustaining an enlightened ministry, the moral desolation of this great western empire would become appalling. I use no hyperbole when I say, they are two powerful agents in preventing a moral midnight from spreading its broad pall over the multiplying population of this valley. But for these and kindred associations, the institutions of piety could not keep pace with the reckless, enterprising spirit of the age, nor with the increase of popular vices. If deprived of them, a comparatively intelligent, systematized and furious infidelity, which is daily becoming more visible, would sweep away all the bulwarks which a feeble and unaided church could rear for her defence.

Let the church give up these voluntary associations, or abandon the principle, that "the strong should bear the infirmities of the weak," and our churches in this new country cannot live. They are the vital principle to the whole moral machinery in this country. I believe no one but a man in the West, can fully comprehend this great theme. When he looks upon the measureless territory around him—when he attempts to compute its resources—when he sees a population rushing in at every inlet, and becoming as the sand upon the sea-shore for multitude—and when he surveys all the conflicting elements which are collecting, the demonstration is complete, that nothing but a vigilance that never slumbers, an energy which can never faint, and a spirit of benevolence that can never be drained, can meet the coming wants of Zion. This subject has long been presented in theory, and appeared in the far distant perspective: but the reality is now at the door. And the church must soon, (sooner than is apprehended by the many,) meet the responsibility which she has been anticipating.

But I must not dwell upon this topic. You are familiar with the facts. I wish the church could comprehend them. I wish all, from the infant to the aged sire in Israel, had this picture before their eye, its history upon their tongue, and the spirit of the subject deeply imprinted upon their hearts. Then your treasury would be full enough to meet the wants of the West—the hundredth part of which have never been unfolded.

EIGHT YEARS' LABOR.

After vigorous struggles and many privations, the writer of the following extract announces, that the people to whom he ministers will ask no further missionary aid. In the summary of the things which he has accomplished, and of those which he has undergone, there are expressions which may excite a smile; but the whole may be taken as a somewhat graphic picture of almost any faithful minister's first eight years of western life.

Gratitude for Aid.

It is now eight years since I have been receiving aid from your Society. For that aid I am under the greatest obligations. I scarcely know how to express the gratitude I owe, under God, to this Society. The churches and people among whom I have labored are under, if possible, still greater obligations. They are sensible of it, and feel grateful. For without this aid, I should have been obliged to seek some other field of labor, and these fields, in all probability, would have been left, at least one of them, perhaps till this time, desolate—where now is a church of some sixty or seventy members, with a good stone meeting-house, temperance societies, Sabbath schools, and many souls saved, which, humanly speaking, would have been lost.

During these eight years, I have, sometimes, been compelled to struggle hard to get along. Often I have been without a cent in my pocket for weeks; but a kind Providence has as often provided in time of need. I have once been destitute of both money and provisions, for a short time. Yet I have paid about $200 of debt, and have supported my family on an economical plan—which is in truth, the best of all plans. But to do this, I have been obliged to teach school one quarter, to deny ourselves of many of the conveniences, and some of the comforts of life, have sold some two or three hundred dollars worth of school books on a liberal commission, (thus, I hope, done some good by introducing new and good Boston school books into the schools here,) have bought a few (too few) books for my own use. For a considerable part of the time we have used no tea or coffee in our family, and use none now. This, however, is for health's sake, rather than for any other reason.

Summary of labor in the eight years under the care of the A. H. M. S.

During these eight years of labor in the ministry, including eight months of sickness, when I was unable to preach at all, I have preached not far from 1200 sermons, and 96 temperance addresses, which, deducting the eight months' sickness, makes an average of 175 per year. I have admitted to church privileges 108 persons, 39 by letter, 69 by profession—baptized 116, viz: 20 adults, 96 infants. We have been blessed with but one revival, that, in the summer of 1833. The hopeful converts, about 35—18 joined the Presbyterian church—the others, the Methodists. I have assisted in organizing 3 Presbyterian churches, all requiring assent to the temperance pledge, in order to membership—formed at different times and places, 5 Bible classes—attendants about 350, in all—formed at different times and places, 8 Sabbath schools—pupils about 600 in all—lectured, exegetically and practically on many important parts of the Holy Scriptures—delivered some 35 or 40 lectures on the Shorter Catechism—have formed and assisted to form 2 county temperance societies, and 6 auxiliaries or township temperance societies—delivered near 100 temperance addresses, and obtained between 800 and 900 subscribers to the temperance pledge, about one half of them to the tee-total pledge—formed 1 county Bible Society and 2 auxiliaries, and supplied (or got others to) the county once with Bibles—formed one town Tract Society, and carried out the monthly distribution plan—formed a female county library, with several branches, &c. I have delivered a series of discourses on the evidences of Christianity—also a series of doctrinal discourses. I have attended 75 or 80 funerals, at most of them I have preached a sermon (such is the custom here); have married 45 couple, for which I received $149 50; have received from the A. H. M. S., in all, $1,148 00—from the people among whom I have labored, $1,377 40, making in all, $2,525 40 in the eight years, and $315 67 1-2 annually, or $674 60 for the whole time, less than the usual salary of $400, and $84 32 1-2 less annually; a part of which I have relinquished voluntarily, and a part from necessity—i. e. it has not been collected. I have assisted in forming 2 lyceums—lectured more or less in both on Astronomy and some other subjects—being appointed by the court of common pleas of the county, a school examiner, I have examined and licensed 38 school teachers, visited, talked to and prayed with many schools.

The Lord has been pleased to afflict me both in my person and family. I have twice within the eight years been brought near the grave by bilious fever—first in the fall of 1833—and again in that of 1834. I have been called to follow one wife and two children to the grave.

CIRCULATION OF TRACTS AND CATECHISMS.

Within the year, I have distributed not far from 4000 pages of tracts. From reading the tract, "Quench not the Spirit," one man was awakened and now indulges a hope. A few days after leaving the tract, I called on him and found that he had erected the family altar. His wife was under pungent conviction. A young lady in the same family is inquiring. I visit each district school, and give to each scholar and teacher one or more tracts. I have sold or given away not far from one hundred bound volumes of the American Tract Society, and have more on hand, which I carry with me. From the reading of these, I think I always discover salutary effects. I have sold or given away, 20 of "Baxter's Call," and 20 of "Alleine's Alarm." I have given away or sold, between one and two hundred of the Assembly's Catechism. These are used to some extent in Sabbath schools, but mainly in families. I have been surprised at the numerous calls for these little premiums in neighborhoods where I had previously recommended them, and sold a few. There is many a "mother Eunice," and "grandmother Lois," who remember, with tears, the days when this neglected little book was thrown aside. O it was a dark day for the church, when infidelity, scepticism, and latitudinarianism, so successfully assailed the Catechism! Since that time, and before Sabbath school influence began extensively to be felt, one generation came upon the stage. That generation are now the acting class. And is it not a question yet to be settled, whether in the arms of such a generation we are not to be carried to destruction? The period between catechetical and Sabbath school instruction was a dark day; may I not call it, morally, "the great eclipse." One generation only was partially neglected, and what havoc it made!

HOW SHALL FUNDS BE RAISED FOR BENEVOLENT PURPOSES?

At the present time, when the human mind is awaking to greater activity, and many doors are opened for doing good to men on a larger scale than ever before, it is a painful fact, that the means of taking advantage of these facilities are greatly reduced. At the very crisis when our benevolent societies should be free to obey the indications of the divine will, which are beckoning them on to new conquests, their operations are subjected to the most embarrassing fluctuations and reductions.

It may be asserted without the fear of contradiction, that there is property enough at the command of Christians, to carry on all needed operations for the moral illumination of the world. Nor will it be doubted, that the furnishing of these necessary funds to such institutions as have been approved, by the blessing of God and the ordeal of experience, is a solemn duty. The church has the means, and she ought to furnish them, and that too, without delay.

The great reason why this is not done, is to be found in the want of intelligent, consistent, symmetrical piety. In some cases, there is zeal and liberality without intelligence and principle. In others, there is intelligence, but a want of proper feeling. When our religion shall have more completeness, and shall pervade all our arrangements, and "holiness to the Lord" be written not only upon our hearts, but also upon our warehouses, our farms, our capital and our profits, then there will be no deficiency of funds in the treasury of the Lord. The gushing stream of christian benevolence will overflow its banks. Like those of old who built the tabernacle, our institutions of charity will say, "The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work which the Lord commanded to make."

But we live, at present, in a different state of things. The lack of means for carrying forward the work of evangelizing the earth, is alarming to all thoughtful men. To those who are accustomed to associate effects with their appropriate causes, it is a serious question, how the funds are to be raised, which are necessary to sustain and extend the benevolent operations of the church.

We take occasion from the general interest on this subject to make a few suggestions, which, although they contain nothing new, may show the views which are entertained by the conductors of the American Home Missionary Society, concerning the way of replenishing the treasury of benevolence.

1. It is not practicable to dispense wholly with the service of AGENTS.—There are some departments of every benevolent enterprise which will never be understood, or properly attended to, unless there are men whose best energies are devoted to them. Those facts which give to any cause its peculiar claims upon the public attention, cannot be so well collected and exhibited by any others, as by those whose express business it is to do this. They should indeed be as few as may be possible without sacrificing the object. To multiply agents unnecessarily, is a waste of the money which their support costs, and burdens the patience of the churches with too frequent appeals. But there must be agents enough to exercise a general superintendence of the work of collection in specified districts; to prepare and furnish the information, in view of which the public is expected to give its aid; as well as to manage the wise application of that aid. Pastors can perform most of the work of agency in their respective congregations; but experience shows that amid the pressure of other duties upon a pastor's heart, this is liable to be delayed or omitted; and that clergyman need to have their attention called to it, at the proper time, by some one whose business it is to attend to this particular interest—to have the requisite information furnished them, and sometimes to be personally assisted by living agents, who have the preparation, and the responsibility of the work, continually on their minds.

2. But while some agents are necessary to carry on benevolent operations, no church should wait for the visit of an agent. Churches should regard this work as their own—a work which they are to do, whether they are asked to perform it, or not. They should see to it, that each approved religious institution has its proper share of aid, and at the proper season. In order to this, every congregation should have a system of benevolence—a plan for calling out the pecuniary contributions of all who recognize the claims of the Redeemer upon their worldly goods. And not only should the congregation have a system for collecting the charities of its members, but each member should also be systematic in providing the means for his charities. "Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come." "By this," says Paley, "I understand St. Paul to recommend what is the very thing wanting with most men, the being charitable upon a plan." This single direction of the apostle sets forth these important principles. (1.) "Every man is to give. (2.) The amount designated is to be "laid by in store"—i. e., it is a sacred offering, separated from the calls and contingencies to which other possessions are liable. And, (3.) this consecration is to be made at fixed and frequent intervals, and not left to the wayward impulses of an unsteady heart, or deferred to await the uncertain appeals of public agents.

3. Whatever plan is pursued in a given congregation, for aiding the cause of benevolence, it ought to be alike available to all the objects which are patronized by that congregation. To each cause should be designated a season of the year, when it may have free access to the charities of the people, and receive all that they propose to give to it during the year; and then it should stand aside, and give place to other objects. If, on the contrary, some favorite department of benevolence is allowed to come before the people out of its turn, under other forms, such as "extra efforts," at times designated for other objects, there may be an advancement of that cause, but it is by robbing some sister institution; and, what is worse, the work of giving becomes a matter of favoritism and impulse, and not of principle. That department will receive most, not which needs most, but whose agents have the most address in getting before the people. There will thus be occasions of rivalry and interference between different associations. Hence, the arrangements should be made with perfect fairness towards the claims of the various societies; recognizing those institutions of public charity which have been adopted by the Spirit of God, and by the common sense and piety of the churches; and giving to each its appropriate place in the attentions of the people.

4. The system adopted by a congregation for the collection of charitable contributions should be as simple as possible, consistently with the attainment of the end. If it be not simple, it will often be difficult to set it in operation, in the first instance, and still more difficult to keep it in operation. Every plan that can be devised, will necessarily require watching. The pastor must have an eye to the working of the machinery, or it will soon get out of repair. This being the fact, it is important to have such a system as shall be most easily managed, and require but little tending.

5. Another end which should be aimed at, in fixing on a plan of congregational charity, is the bringing of the claims of benevolence before every individual. The cause of Christ has, in our country, depended too much on the generous donations of the few, and too little on the steady flow of moderate sums from the multitude of his people. For this reason, when worldly speculation has absorbed, or adversity destroyed the resources of the more wealthy, the enterprises of benevolence have been greatly retarded. We must guard against similar disasters in future, by expecting more from the common people, and leaning less upon the rich. But to this end, our appeals must be carried home to the consciences of the mass of church members. There should be a public presentation from the pulpit, of each cause, when its claims should be made to stand out in their proper magnitude. Immediately after this presentation, collectors, male and female—appointed by the church, or by a committee of the church—should call upon individuals who are expected to contribute. Every one accustomed to respect the claims of God's cause upon his property, must have his mind and heart exercised on the question, "How much ought I to give to this particular branch of benevolence, the present year?" When this is done, a very small amount from each individual will swell the aggregate of contributions to the treasury of the Lord, far beyond what it now receives. And if it be true, that alms-giving is a means of grace, and has its place in the full development of the christian character, as really as prayer or any other means, then we are not at liberty to adopt any plan which does not distinctly present the privilege of giving to every conscience in the church.

A mode of raising funds which shall embody the foregoing characteristics, will have, then, the following as its main features.

First—A particular time of the year, designated for each object.

Second—Committees, male and female, appointed to take charge of each object, and to make a personal presentation of its claims within the time allotted to it.

These committees, or collectors, may be appointed in any way most agreeable to the people themselves. In some cases, the pastor and other church officers designate the collectors, and see that their duties are performed at the proper time. In others, the church meets, and resolves itself into a general society for the promotion of the cause of charity, assigns to particular persons the care of the respective branches of benevolence, making it their duty to attend to the collections, pay over the proceeds, and at the end of the year to report the result.

This mode of charitable collections is perhaps the simplest and most efficient, and much to be preferred to the plan of forming associations, which was formerly pursued. That plan was efficient in those cases where only one or two such associations existed in the same congregation. But then, other objects not embraced in those associations were comparatively neglected. If, to avoid this, there was a society formed for each cause, the number was so great, the machinery so complex, so many officers were required, and the anniversaries and reports were subjects of so much care, that they added a serious burden to a pastor's responsibilities; or, if attempted without his fostering care, the system tended rapidly to dissolution. On the plan above recommended, this complication is avoided, while yet the most valuable part of the association system, viz., the presentation of each cause to individuals, is secured; and also provision is made to give each object ITS PROPER TIME AND ITS FAIR PROPORTION in the charities of the church.

We see not why something like the foregoing may not be universally adopted throughout our country. For several years, it has been in operation in numerous congregations with the happiest success. The churches which have adopted, under different forms, some system for giving to each object a particular period of the year, and for carrying it personally to every member, have not only exceeded other churches in the amount contributed, and kept up their contributions during the season of general embarrassment; but they make their offerings with a cheerfulness, which evinces that there is that in the heart of piety, which can be touched with the claims of a dying world; and that when properly applied to, Christians LOVE to give, and to give OFTEN to the cause of salvation.

NOTICES TO MISSIONARIES.

PUNCTUAL REPORTS.

In every commission, issued by the Executive Committee of the A. H. M. S., and by its auxiliaries, the following clause is inserted:—"In no case can your order [for the payment of appropriations] be accepted, until you shall have reported labor, as above required, for the full time which your draft is intended to cover."

Notwithstanding this notice, and the specific requests which are issued by the Society from time to time, some of the missionaries are very negligent in making their reports at the periods required. Painful as it may be, the Committee will feel compelled to adhere literally to the terms above stipulated, and to cause the drafts of the missionary to be returned unpaid, unless the quarterly reports, and the annual statistical returns on the 1st of April, are duly rendered.

STATISTICAL RETURNS ON THE FIRST OF APRIL.

The statistical returns of the missionaries furnish the data from which the Annual Report is drawn. In former years many of these returns have failed to reach the Society, in season to be used for this purpose; consequently the Committee have never been able to present so full a Report as they desired, and as the cause deserves. Each missionary is required to furnish the following list of particulars, in a special communication, (unless his quarterly report should be made about that time,) by mail, as early as the first of April.

1. Name of the church, with the township, county and state; and also the post-office address of the missionary.

2. Number of hopeful conversions.*

3. Number added to the church by profession.*

4. Number added to the church by letter.*

5. Number of Sabbath schools—number of Pupils—number of Volumes in Library.

6. Number of Bible classes—number of Pupils.

7. Number of Temperance Societies—number of Subscribers.

8. Number of churches organized during the year.

9. Contributions to benevolent objects, such as Home Miss. $ _____

For. Miss. $ _____

Bible Soc. $ _____, &c. &c.

10. Other interesting facts, such as the erection and completion of church edifices; number of young men preparing for the ministry, monthly concerts, &c.

APPLICATIONS FOR MISSIONARY AID

Should contain full information on the following points:

1st. The condition of the church or field of labor—its location, size, resources, relation to other churches and denominations, amount of aid needed, &c.

2d. The name, ecclesiastical connexion, and standing of the minister, with the recommendation of the nearest Missionary Committee, or auxiliary society; or, in the absence of this, the testimony of two ministers to his qualifications for the work and station specified.

The application should be made with the knowledge and consent of the people, and signed by a committee designated for the purpose, or by the elders and trustees of the congregation seeking the aid.

Each congregation applying for a renewal of missionary aid is required to furnish, in addition to the other testimonials, the certificate of the missionary, that they have fulfilled their previous pledges for his support.

* In estimating these numbers, those conversions and additions only should be included, which have taken place in that part of the year, extending from April to April, during which you are under commission from the A. H. M. S. If the whole year, from April to April, be covered by the commissions of the Society, you will report the conversions and additions for the whole year.

By feeble congregations should contain the following particulars, viz:—

The name of the church or congregation; the number of communicants, and the average number of attendants on public worship; the denomination and size of congregations immediately contiguous; the total amount of salary which the applicants propose to make up; the portion of that salary which they can raise for the given time, and the least amount that will suffice from the Society for that period. These statements should be signed by the trustees and elders, or by a committee of the congregation, and confirmed by the certificate of two or more clergymen acquainted with the facts. Also—

The name and post-office address of the minister whose services they desire to secure; his credentials; and the certificate of two or more ministers of known standing, as to his general character for piety, zeal, and acceptableness as a minister of the Gospel.

The appropriations of the A. H. M. S. are, ordinarily, for twelve months from the time of application; at the end of which, if further aid be needed, a new application must be made. And each congregation applying for renewed aid should furnish, in addition to other testimonials, the certificate of the Missionary that they have fulfilled their previous pledges for his support.

It is desirable that applications should be addressed to the care of the Agent, Committee of Correspondence, or Auxiliary Society of the A. H. M. S. for the region where the applicants reside; but in case of doubt as to the name or residence of such Agents or Committees, applications may be sent directly to the office of the Parent Society, addressed to one of the Secretaries.

STATISTICAL RETURNS ON THE FIRST OF APRIL.

The Executive Committee of the A. H. M. S. desire to present, at each Anniversary, a complete return of the results of their operations during the previous year. To this end, they request each Missionary to furnish them with a list of the particulars enumerated below, and forward it by mail as early as the FIRST DAY OF APRIL in each year.

9. Other interesting facts, such as the erection and completion of church edifices—Number of young men preparing for the ministry—Monthly concerts—Churches organized in the vicinity, &c.

NOTE.—Conversions and additions should be reckoned from April to April, if the commission of the missionary covers the whole of that time, if not, for such portion of it as he has been in commission.

3. On motion of Rev. WILLIAM PATTON, D. D., of New-York, seconded by Rev. GEO. SCOTT, of Stockholm, Sweden,

Resolved, That there is demanded, in behalf of the church and the ministry, united and fervent prayer for the outpouring of the Divine Spirit, that not only this land, but the entire globe may be speedily subjugated to Christ.

Appropriate and interesting addresses were delivered by Rev. MESSRS. SPAULDING, BACON, SCOTT, and Dr. PATTON.

The music, under the conduct of Mr. GEORGE ANDREWS, was executed by the choir of the Tabernacle in a pleasing and effective style, and added much to the happy impression of the meeting.

ART. 2. The object of the Society shall be, to assist congregations that are unable to support the Gospel Ministry, and to send the Gospel to the destitute, within the United States; also, to co-operate with evangelical Christians in the support of Home Missions in nominally christian countries, to such an extent as the funds of the Institution may justify.

ART. 4. The Officers and Directors shall appoint an Executive Committee of thirteen, (including the Treasurer, the Secretaries for Correspondence, and the Recording Secretary,) residing in the City of New-York and its vicinity; five of whom shall be a quorum, at any meeting regularly convened. This Committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings, form its own rules of business, and fill any vacancies in its own number which may occur during the year, and to convene special meetings of the Board or Society; shall appoint missionaries, and instruct them as to the field and manner of their labors; shall have the disposal of the funds; shall create such agency or agencies for appointing missionaries, and for other purposes, as the interests of the Institution may require; and shall make an Annual Report of their proceedings to the Society.

ART. 5. The Treasurer shall give bonds, annually, to such amount as the Executive Committee shall think proper.

ART. 6. Any person may become a member of this Society, by contributing annually to its funds; thirty dollars paid at one time shall constitute a Member for life; and one hundred dollars paid at one time shall constitute a Director for life; and any person, on the payment of a sum, which, in addition to any previous contribution to the funds, shall amount to one hundred dollars, shall be a Director for life. An executor, on paying a legacy of two hundred and fifty dollars to the funds of this Society, shall be a Member for life; and the payment of a legacy of one thousand dollars shall constitute him a Director for life.

ART. 7. Any Missionary Society may become auxiliary, by agreeing to pay into the Treasury of this Society the whole of its surplus funds, and sending to the Secretaries for Correspondence a copy of its Constitution and Annual Reports, mentioning the names of its Missionaries, and the fields of their operations.

ART. 8. Every Auxiliary Society which shall agree to pay the whole of its funds to this Society, shall be entitled to a missionary or missionaries, to labor in such field as it may designate; at least to the amount of its contributions; provided such designation be made at the time of payment.

FIFTEENTH REPORT.

FIFTEEN years have now passed, since the voice of Providence called this Institution to assume the character and undertake the labors of a National Home Missionary Society. The startling rapidity with which its successive anniversaries have come and gone, reminds us, that some of the laborers who began the day with us, have been called to their rest ; while those who remain have but a brief space for action, before "the night cometh in which no man can work."* But though many a noble spirit that prayed and labored in this cause, has ceased from the earth, THE SOCIETY STILL LIVES. It lives in the churches it has planted, and in the souls it has saved. It lives in the confidence of the good ; in the long enduring need of its further labors ; in the vigor of its principles, and in its adoption of those unobtrusive but mighty instruments, by which GOD is accustomed to bless the world. It finds its analogy in the still small voice, rather than in the earthquake, whirlwind or fire. Other enterprises may borrow, if they choose, their emblems from the field of battle, and speak of the charge, the conflict and the shout of victory. This cause is more like the work of the husbandman, who diligently opens his furrows to the dew and sunshine ; and labors, and has patience, while the seasons, in their noiseless course, bring forth food for man and beast. Thus, the agency of this Society is silent, amid its greatness ; yet great, even in its silence : and, we trust, it will continue to be used as Heaven's instrument of unmeasured good, when the hands that now wield it, lie nerveless in the grave.

This confidence is confirmed by the history of the past year. From the pressure of the difficulties under which the cause of benevolence has labored, the good hand of our God has slowly, but steadily, raised the Home Missionary enterprise. And before proceeding to the particulars of their report, the Committee feel it to be their duty to call upon the Society to join with them, "in sacrificing the sacrifices of thanksgiving" and in "declaring the works of the Lord with rejoicing."

* During the past year, three of the Vice Presidents of this Society, viz. : Rev. Asa Hillyer, D. D., of New-Jersey ; Rev. John H. Church, D. D., of New-Hampshire, and Rev. E. W. Baldwin, D. D., of Indiana, have been removed by death,

The details of the Society's operations are embraced in the following

SUMMARY OF RESULTS.

From the foregoing enumeration, it will be seen that the whole number of missionaries and agents in the service of the Society, the past year, is 690; being 10 more than the number employed the preceding year. Of these, 512 were in commission at the time of our last anniversary, and 178 have been since appointed.

The sum of missionary labor performed is equal to 501 years, or an advance of 15 years above the amount stated in our last report.

These labors have been bestowed on 862 congregations and missionary districts, in 21 states and territories of the Union, and also in Canada and Texas.

But the mere numerical increase of missionaries and years of labor, above stated, is by no means a just measure of the actual advance made by the Society in the work assigned it. It would have been easy for the Committee, without additional expense, to swell the apparent results of the year, by multiplying appointments in the older states, where missionaries are easily obtained, and the sums appropriated are small. But they have chosen rather to enlarge that part of the Society's work, which has respect to the uncultivated portions of the country. Accordingly, as fast as the missionary churches at the East are strengthened, so that they no longer require assistance, their places are supplied by other churches in the West. In this way, while the number of missionaries and congregations presents but a small apparent increase, the last year, there has yet been such a transfer of the Society's operations from the older and abler, to the newer and more needy portions of the field, as to make a gratifying increase of that kind of labor, which it is peculiarly incumbent on this Institution to perform.

This policy of the Society is required by the great fact, that the new states and territories of our country, are the field of conflict on which her salvation is to be won or lost. It has also been ratified by the evident approval of the Great Head of the church, in the bestowment of his Spirit on that portion of the country, which is now the subject of so much interest and effort—the number of hopeful conversions, and additions to the churches by profession, being there much larger, in proportion to the number of laborers under whose ministry they have occurred. Thus, not only the Providence of God, as recognized in the opening of wide and effectual doors, and in the cries of the needy; but, also, the Divine Spirit seems to point the Society to the fair field of promise in the West.

The past year, like that which immediately preceded it, has been graciously distinguished by the reviving influences of the Holy Spirit. In 80 of the missionary churches, seasons of special refreshing have been enjoyed; and the number of hopeful conversions reported is 3,285. Not far from 2,860 have been added to the churches, by the public profession of their faith in the Redeemer. There have also been added, by letters from other churches 1,758; making the total of additions 4,618.

The number of pupils instructed in Sabbath schools and Bible classes under the direction of the missionaries, the last year, has been about 54,100.

In the communities aided by the operations of the Society, there are now reported 64,500 subscribers to temperance pledges. The correspondence of the missionaries gives pleasing evidence that, during the last year, there has been a revival of interest in reference to this branch of reform.

The effect of charitable aid, bestowed on right principles, is not to diminish the liberality of those who receive it; but, on the contrary, it invigorates and evolves a spirit of active benevolence. This is illustrated in the fact, that the "deep poverty," which, the last year, has oppressed the missionary churches beyond the experience of any former year, has, nevertheless, "abounded to the riches of their liberality." Of these churches, 246 have reported their contributions to the cause of benevolence, amounting in all to $11,604. These benefactions prove, that the day is not distant, when these infant communities, having themselves known the embarrassments of poverty and the blessedness of relief, will bring the strength and wealth of their maturity to send the gospel to others. To the support of these 246 congregations, $28,600 had been previously appropriated. The amount returned by them into the treasury of benevolence is, therefore, more than 40 per cent on the sum which they have received—a return, that shows how productive to the cause of christian charity, even in a pecuniary point of view, are investments in the Home Missionary enterprise.

GENERAL INFLUENCE.

But the labors of the Society are not to be estimated by the results of a single year, nor yet by the visible fruits of a series of years. There are a thousand, unseen, collateral effects, flowing from the springs of salvation opened at so many points, which no report can detail nor human sagacity fully discover. What arithmetic can compute the value of those gentle, unnoted, yet mighty influences which have gone forth through the land, from all the congregations to which, in the period of its operations, this Society has extended aid? How much blessing has been dispersed abroad, how much evil prevented, by the timely occupancy of posts, which now exert a controlling influence on the rest of the land! Start from this metropolis, and trace, in imagination, the great lines of communication with the interior—the rivers—railroads and canals,—and you find, that the chief points of social and commercial power are more or less indebted to the labors of this Society, and those from which it sprung, for whatever good they diffuse around them. Ten of the churches in the city of New-York, have been planted or fostered by its aid. Nine in Philadelphia, are similarly related to it. So also Troy, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester, and other places on the Erie canal; Buffalo, Cleaveland, Sandusky, Toledo and Monroe, on Lake Erie; Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Tecumseh, and White Pigeon, on the great land route across the peninsula of Michigan; Chicago, Racine, Milwaukee and Green Bay—the gates to the country beyond them—have, at some period, been indebted to this Society, for a portion of the means which have blessed them with the Gospel. It has also passed, by various points on the national road, through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, to the Mississippi. Starting at Pittsburg, it has followed the windings of the Ohio, pausing to leave a blessing on either shore, at Parkersburg, Gallipolis, Portsmouth, Newport, Cincinnati, Madison, Louisville, New Albany, Evansville, and other points of vantage. It has preached the Gospel on the Missouri, from St. Charles on the East to the Osages on the West. On the bluffs of the Mississippi, at St. Louis, Alton, Quincy, Fort Madison, Galena, Dubuque, and other prominent points, its missionaries have early planted the banner of the cross. Leaving these great thoroughfares, it has penetrated into the interior, and at more than 2,400 other stations it has preached salvation through Christ, and persuaded men to lead “a quiet and peaceable life, in godliness and honesty.” Its influence has thus mingled with the vital current that circulates through all the arteries of the social system, infusing moral health into the constitution of this great people, adding authority to the laws; fostering education in all its interests, from the infant school up to the college; sustaining the Sabbath; promoting temperance in the enjoyment of the blessings of this life, and preparation for that which is to come.

FINANCES.

The balance in the treasury, at the time of the last anniversary, was $2,278 51. The subsequent receipts have amounted to $85,413 34; making the total sum at the disposal of the Committee, during the year, $87,691 85.

The amount due to missionaries at the beginning of the year was $6,705 33; and there has since become due the further sum of $88,345 26; making the liability of the Society for the year, $95,050 59. Of this, $84,864 06 have been paid; and there remains $10,186 53 of present indebtedness ; towards discharging which, there is a balance in the Treasury of $2,827 79. For the remainder of what is due to the missionaries, and for whatever else may be needed for the prosecution of this work, our only reliance, under God, is on the free offerings of those who esteem it more blessed to give than to receive.

The receipts above reported, are $7,068 14 more than the income of the year preceding. That the Committee are able to announce such an advance, in a year of so much difficulty in making charitable collections, they regard as an occasion for devout thanksgiving to the Great Patron of the missionary enterprise. When, four years ago, the first sea of commercial distress broke over us, an extensive sympathy was awakened ; and the christian community hastened, by a common impulse, to rescue the drowning interests of the missionary cause from destruction. It was felt, that the church must sustain her operations for the salvation of the world, whatever might be the sacrifice it should cost. But the emergency proved to be a protracted one. Something more has been necessary to meet it, than a mere romantic and impulsive sympathy. And thus, our cause has been thrown, more and more every year, upon that benevolence which is intelligent, and well grounded in love and obedience to Christ. The resources of the Society, the past year, may therefore be regarded as eminently the tribute of principle. Contributions made under such circumstances assure us, that Home Missions are, hereafter, to form a leading feature in the policy of those, who are thoughtful for the great interests of the nation and the church.

PROPOSED OPERATIONS FOR THE COMING YEAR.

With such a guaranty of permanent support, the Society has issued its pledges to missionaries for labor to be performed in the coming year, amounting to $24,697. This, with what is already due, and liable to be drawn for, makes the sum of $34,883 of responsibility under which the Committee will commence their annual labors. This amount is indeed larger, by $5,714, than the same item in the preceding report ; but some increase of expenditure was demanded by the voice of Providence, which the Committee could neither misunderstand nor decline to obey. The western communities have been so overwhelmed by the complicated embarrassments of the times, that it has been found impracticable, in many cases, to sustain the missionaries on the reduced scale of appropriations which was observed the previous year. There has seemed, then, to be no alternative, but that the labors and expenditures of years on that portion of the field be lost, and the salvation of our country retarded, or that the Society must throw itself into the breach, and, by its pledges of assistance, rescue from impending ruin the institutions of piety, with their associated blessings, in those infant settlements. At the same time, new facilities of usefulness have been opened, in the more recently settled portions of the West. The rush of emigration to those regions, and the critical importance of the present moment of their history, demand that missionary operations there be urged on a liberal and efficient scale. To this end, the Committee need, for the coming year, a revenue of at least $50,000, above the receipts of the last. And is this a great thing to ask in behalf of such a work as ours? There is not on the globe, another object of equal value, so much in jeopardy, and yet so little appreciated, as the welfare of that magnificent basin, in which the congregated sovereignties of the West lie spread out, side by side. Point the Christians of America to a similar region any where in Asia or Africa; show them such a soil, in all its original freshness, towards which such a population as ours is crowding, wild in the consciousness of strength and freedom—convince them, that for the possession of that region, there may be but ten or twenty years in which to struggle, and the church would rise up as one man, to claim and occupy it for Christ. Tell her of expense; she would scorn to compute it; talk to her of obstacles; she would wade through seas, and dig down mountains to reach her object. And shall this same church remain unmoved, when she is shown such a field of unparalleled interest, lying even at her own doors—a field, too, which is six times as large as both France and Britain; and equal to the whole of Europe, exclusive of Russia? The Committee ask for the amount above specified, not because it is fairly proportioned to the work that needs to be done; but, because it is the lowest point, at which the conscience of the Society may rest for another year. They dare not—on their responsibility to the christian public, who wait for them to announce what the signs of the time demand; as servants of the Society which appoints them to this trust; and, especially, as those who must give account to Christ—the Committee dare not ask for less.

AUXILIARY SOCIETIES AND AGENCIES.

MAINE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

At the last anniversary of this Society, it had been in existence one third of a century—its number of members had increased from 32 to more than 2000—its number of missionaries from 1 to 72—more than four fifths of the Congregational churches in the state had been aided from its funds; and about three fourths of the ministry, then resident in the state, had been in successive years in its employment. The year then closed had been one of great spiritual prosperity to the churches. Seven hundred and thirty-seven had been reported as hopefully converted under the labors of the missionaries—a greater number, in proportion to the services rendered, than in any year since the Society was instituted.

The generous contributions, received at the last annual meeting, relieved the Society from its immediate embarrassments, and enabled it to redeem all its pledges. Its receipts, the remainder of the year, have not, however, been adequate to its necessities. But we trust the year will not close, ere its warm-hearted and liberal patrons, shall have furnished it with the means of rendering unto its devoted and faithful laborers their stipulated hire. There had been paid into the treasury, during the year, ending April 1st, $6,338 17, and expended $7,082 06, leaving the treasury overdrawn $679 52.

The number of missionaries in commission, during the year, is 73; and the amount of labor performed, is several years greater than in the preceding year. "Though revivals of religion," says the Secretary, Rev. Dr. GILLET, "have not been so multiplied and extensive as in some former years, and especially the last, yet there is no abatement of interest in the churches, in securing the stated means of grace, or diminution of zeal and labors in those that cultivate the destitute fields; and the calls for continued and increased effort were never more pressing and importunate."

And that the immediate patrons of this Society, do not limit their views of the importance and relations of the work in which they are engaged, to the vast, uncultivated, and inviting field, which, in their own state, is spread out before them, nor to the broad extent of our common country, is seen in the sentiment with which the last report of the Trustees concludes: "The cause of Home Missions, has an important bearing upon all other benevolent institutions of the day. It is necessary to their successful operation. Let this flourish, and every thing, far and wide, flourishes around it; let this die, and all kindred efforts die with it. If we would plant the standard of Christ in farthest India, or wave the banner of the cross over the Aborigines beyond the Rocky Mountains, or shed the light of Heaven upon the dark coasts of Africa, or cause the Isles of the sea to wait for the Divine Law, we must kindle up a light at home. It must be like the altar fires, that never go out. It must be progressive and wide spreading; and it will throw its influence to the ends of the world."

NEW-HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The receipts of this Society, during the year, ending April 1st, have been $4,881 94; and its expenditures $4,918 99; leaving the treasury overdrawn, $39 05, but showing an advance, on the previous year, of $453 97. In addition to what has been received into the treasury of this Society, and expended within the state, $876 55 have been paid into the treasury of the Parent Society—$640 of which, in the form of legacies, and $236 55 in donations from congregations, and individuals in different parts of the state—making the whole amount devoted to the cause of Home Missions, during the year, $5,578 49—exceeding the amount of the previous year, $960 10.

The Society has had in its service, during the year, 47 missionaries ; 28 of whom are pastors of churches, and 19 are stated supplies ; 35 of these have labored in single congregations, 10 have divided their labors between 2 congregations each, and 2 have occupied still larger fields.

During the last missionary year of the Society, 6 pastors had been settled, 6 houses of public worship completed, and 2 others commenced ; 1 church had been organized, and 5 churches had enjoyed seasons of refreshing from the presence of the Lord.

“ In reviewing the goodness of God towards the cause of Home Missions in this state, for the last three years and a half,” says the Secretary of the Society, Rev. BENJAMIN P. STONE, “ we have great occasion for thanksgiving and praise. During this period, 17 churches have acquired sufficient strength to sustain their own Gospel institutions, and a larger number have been hopefully born again, than during any previous period of the same length, since the foundation of the Society.”

VERMONT DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

There remained in the treasury of this Society, April 1st, 1840, a balance of $3,566 18 ; the receipts, since that date, have been $2,808 04, making the resources of the year $6,374 22. The expenditures have been $4,346 88, leaving a balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1841, of $2,027 34.

Fifty missionaries have been in the employment of this Society during the year. There had been added to the churches aided, at the close of the last missionary year, 200 members—most of whom, had, during the year, been translated from the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of God's dear Son. Over 3 of these churches, the missionaries had been settled as pastors—10 of them had, during the year, completed and dedicated houses of worship ; 3 had been so far strengthened, as to count it their privilege no longer to receive charitable aid, but to contribute of their resources, henceforth, to swell that stream, from which they had themselves been watered in the days of their weakness.

But "there is a class of results," says the Secretary of the Society, Rev. SAMUEL DELANO, in his last report, "that cannot be set forth in measured quantity. The great amount of evil prevented in these several fields of operations; the good impressions which have been made upon thousands of minds; the progress of truth, though silent and unobtrusive, yet not the less real; the knowledge and light which have thus come in; the edification and comfort which the saints have experienced; the enlargement of faith; the confirming of hopes; the inspiring of animated effort; the bringing to view things invisible; and the bowing of the soul in obedience to the powers of the world to come; here, is an amount of good effected, which probably is not less than all others together, and yet is so unobtrusive in its character, as never to be seen, unless searched out, and can scarcely be discerned, even after diligent search, except by the eye of faith."

MASSACHUSETTS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Eighty-one missionaries have been in the service of this Society, the past year. Their Sabbath congregations, number not far from 9,000 souls; and the pupils in the Sabbath schools and Bible classes under their care, between 5 and 6,000. At the date of the Society's last report, the churches aided contained 3,800 members, and there had been added to them, during the year, not far from 600; 17 of the churches had been favored with seasons of special religious interest, and an unusually large number of the converts were heads of families; 6 houses of worship had been built, and 4 enlarged or improved, and 11 churches, most of which the Society had nurtured from their feeblest infancy, had assumed the responsibility of sustaining the institutions of the Gospel without aid—thereby relinquishing nearly $1,000 of missionary funds, for the benefit of those whose circumstances are more necessitous.

The receipts of the Society, during the year, have been $17,366 61, exceeding those of the preceding year $2,648 12. Of this amount, $11,574 31 have been expended within the state; $7,172 57 have been paid into the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society, and there remained in the treasury, April 1st, $2,689 80.

There have also been received into the treasury of the Parent Society from the State of Massachusetts, $3,812 43; $1,250 of which was from the Hampshire Missionary Society, $1,000 in part payment of the legacy of the late Rev. Jonathan L. Pomeroy, and $1,562 43 from various individuals, congregations and auxiliaries in different parts of the state. The whole amount, therefore, realized to the cause of Home Missions from the state, during the year, is $21,183 04; of which $10,985 09 have been paid into the treasury of the Parent Society, and expended in extending the principles and institutions of the Pilgrims towards the going down of the sun.

The Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Missionary Society, in making their appropriations, have looked, not upon the necessities of the feeble churches within their limits alone, but have had an almost equal concern for those in the most distant parts of the land. They have made the cares of the Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society their own, and have borne no small share of their burdens. The Secretary of the Society, Rev. JOSEPH S. CLARK, in his report at the close of the last year, says: "No sooner was it known that the Parent Society was unable to occupy new fields of labor in the rising settlements of the West, and could retain those already occupied, only by reducing the hire of the laborers, which, even in that case, it was feared, must be kept back for a season, than we felt bound, by the law of christian reciprocity, to make a reduction in Massachusetts also, wherever it could be done without unsettling the ministry. After the most diligent inquiry into the circumstances of each assisted church, as its missionary year expired, the new appropriations, made to 17 of the churches, were reduced $890 below the sum which they received the year preceding. "In nearly all these cases," he adds, "the Committee have had the happiness to hear, that this step, and the reasons for it, have received the friendly acquiescence of these churches, though it has laid them under additional burdens."

CONNECTICUT MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

There remained a balance in the treasury of this Society, April 1st, 1840, of $4,610 13. The receipts, during the year, have been $3,244 78, and the expenditures $3,244 32; having a balance in the treasury, April 1st, 1841, of $4,610 59. There have also been received into the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society, from the Home Missionary Society of Fairfield West, the Home Missionary Society of New-Haven East, from legacies of individuals, congregations, and Ladies' Auxiliary Associations, $5,320 34. The "Female Missionary Society of Stonington" has contributed $140, towards the support of a missionary in Wisconsin Territory; and the Ladies' "Stilson Benevolent Society" of Greenwich, $400—making the entire amount necessary to sustain two missionaries in the same territory. The whole amount, therefore, contributed for Home Missions in Connecticut, during the year, is $8,564 66.

Thirty-five feeble churches have been aided in this state, the past year, in sustaining the Gospel. Several of them have reported seasons of special religious interest, and in some of them there have been striking manifestations of God's saving power.

"Though there are now more feeble churches in Connecticut," says the Secretary of the Society, Rev. HORACE HOOKER, in his last report, "than there were twenty-five years ago, it is not because Home Missions have failed of their object. A part of this number, consists of churches formed through the agency of our Society, which, therefore, we may regard as striking evidence of success; another part, consists of churches, which, in consequence of various changes, have become weak, and which, without the patronage of the Society, might have ceased to exist; while in most cases where this patronage has been enjoyed, the churches, though still ranked among the churches that need aid, are so unlike their former selves, in all that constitutes the strength and ornament of religion, as a living body is unlike a tenant of the grave. What is now called feebleness, is a far different thing, from what was designated by that term at the origin of the Society. What was then meant by "desolations," and "waste places"—which were visible, too, in almost every section of the state,—can now be found only after diligent search. If a new and neat house of worship has taken the place of one, whose appearance of neglect and decay, only imaged forth the moral state of the church—if the assembly at the tavern on the Sabbath has been transferred to the sanctuary—if the school-house has been repaired, and made comfortable or even attractive—if intemperance no longer reels without shame through the streets—if error and profaneness have retired abashed from the public gaze—if the voice of prayer and praise has succeeded to the boisterous notes of mirth or the coarse language of licentiousness; call the scene of these changes what you may, it will afford proof, in a radical transformation of character, that Home Missions, through the blessing of Heaven, have converted a waste, howling wilderness into a fruitful field."

RHODE-ISLAND HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society has resolved, the past year, to relinquish its dependence upon the Connecticut Missionary Society, whose generous aid it had received for many years, and to rely for pecuniary supplies for its feeble churches, upon collections to be received from the more favored churches within the state. This arrangement has received the approbation of the churches, and they have generously responded to the calls which have been made upon their beneficence, in behalf of the needy and destitute around them.

There have been 4 missionaries laboring within the state, during the year, and the amount expended in their support is not far from $800.

The Rev. MARK TUCKER, D. D., of Providence, is the Secretary of this Society.

PHILADELPHIA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society occupies the same territory, as did the Philadelphia Agency of the American Home Missionary Society; viz. the states of Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, Delaware and Maryland. The extent of the field, and the increasing necessity of multiplied and enlarged efforts to build up its feeble churches and reclaim its desolations, suggested the importance of changing the relation of an Agency to that of an Auxiliary Institution. This suggestion received the cordial approbation of the friends of the cause, both within the Agency and out of it, and in July last, the organization of the Philadelphia Home Missionary Society, Auxiliary to the American Home Missionary Society, was completed. Sustaining to the Parent Institution the same relation as other Auxiliaries of the larger class, and acting upon the same general principles, this Society will have the immediate oversight of the destitutions within its bounds—will make its own appointments—organize subordinate auxiliaries—call the attention of churches and individuals to the claims of the cause—sustain from its own resources, as far as practicable, the laborers within its limits—and devote whatever funds may remain, to the advancement of the common cause in other sections of the land.

The formation of this Society, the spirit with which its operations have been commenced, the favor which it has received, and the success which has already attended its efforts, to awaken a deeper and more general interest in the establishment of Gospel institutions among our own countrymen and kindred, we regard as highly auspicious to the cause of missions. The Rev. ELIAS R. FAIRCHILD, Secretary of the Agency, was elected Secretary of the Society, and commenced his labors by an extensive exploration of the field, with reference both to its necessities and the development of its resources for missionary action, the results of which, will be of great value to the Society in the prosecution of its work.

The year and the field have each presented their peculiar difficulties, in the way of pecuniary collections; the receipts, however, have amounted to $9,050 22—which exceeds the amount collected the preceding year, $1,326 34. Forty-nine missionaries have been in commission during the year—33 in Pennsylvania, 13 in New-Jersey, 2 in Delaware, and 1 in Maryland. They have preached the Gospel and administered its ordinances in 65 congregations; the number of congregations aided being greater than in the previous year by 27, and the number of missionaries by 19.

Seventeen new stations have been occupied—some of them of peculiar interest, where no previous effort had ever been made to establish the Gospel. Six new houses of worship have been completed, and 3 others commenced. Three hundred and sixty-nine have been added to the churches—216 of whom were added by profession. The year has not been as distinguished, as some former years, for revivals of religion ; yet, several of the missionaries make mention of seasons of more than ordinary interest, and in 4 of the churches there have been revivals of considerable extent and power.

CENTRAL AGENCY, UTICA, N. Y.

The receipts of this Agency, during the year, have been $3,725 69 ; and there have been pledged in support of 36 missionaries, commissioned for 12 months each to preach the Gospel to 40 congregations within its bounds, $3,095.

The aggregate of missionary labor bestowed on the churches is equal to 32 years. Sixteen churches have been added to the number of those aided during the year, 4 of which have been recently organized. Three churches have assumed the entire responsibility of sustaining the Gospel, 2 have had pastors installed over them, and 6 others have completed new or essentially improved their former houses of worship. Eight churches are reported as enjoying revivals of religion, most of which are of recent date, and some of which are of peculiar interest. In several other congregations, the assemblies are increasing and becoming unusually solemn, and the great truths of the Gospel are having their appropriate influence upon the hearts and lives of men. Two hundred are reported as hopefully converted during the year, and more than that number have been added to the churches.

The Secretary of this Agency is Rev. ABIJAH CRANE, whose report will be found in the Appendix.

WESTERN AGENCY, GENEVA, N. Y.

Sixty missionaries have been commissioned within the bounds of this Agency, during the year, to labor in 70 different congregations ; $5,491 have been pledged to sustain them, and the aggregate of service rendered, if their commissions are fulfilled, will be 59 years—Ten new fields have this year been taken up, and several churches that were almost extinct have been resuscitated and saved. In 3 missionary stations parsonages have been built, and 13 of the missionary churches have either completed or commenced houses of worship.

The receipts from the field of this Agency have been $9,551 83, exceeding the amount appropriated to missionaries within the same limits $4,060 83. The distinctive characteristic belongs to the district embraced within this Agency, of yielding the largest private donations that have been received during the year—two individuals having paid $1,000 each into the treasury of the Society.

The Secretary of this Agency is the Rev. JOHN A. MURRAY, whose report will be found in the Appendix.

WESTERN RESERVE DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The number of missionaries on this field has been increased, during the year, from 14 to 21: all, except 3 of whom, have been sustained by the contributions of the churches immediately connected with this Auxiliary.

Under the labors of the missionaries, the churches have gathered strength—the tone of their piety has been elevated;—a growing attachment to the permanent institutions of the Gospel, a higher estimate of the value of the pastoral relation, and an increasing interest in the various departments of christian benevolence are every where manifest.

The receipts of this Society have been $1,120 81—a small advance on the last year, though less than they would have been, had not the effects of the pecuniary embarrassments of the country been felt more severely on this field, during some portion of the last year, than in any year previous. The larger subscriptions have fallen off, in consequence of the inability of those who have generously made them, in former years, any longer to renew them. But the deficit thus occasioned, has been more than supplied, by the multiplied contributions of those who have not given of their abundance, but, some of them at least, of their penury.

“Our population,” says the Secretary of this Society, Rev. WM. F. CURRY, “originally from New-England, and possessing all the peculiarities of their forefathers, are destined to exert a powerful influence on the character of this state and of all the western states. The Western Reserve embodies, at the present moment, a moral power, and can combine and concentrate an influence, which will be felt from the lakes to the shores of the Ohio and the Missouri. And woe to the West, if this spot becomes so corrupt, by neglect, as no longer to exert a restraining power upon the flood of iniquity, which is poured over the valley of the Mississippi.”

MARIETTA AGENCY, OHIO.

This Agency embraces 9 counties in the vicinity of Marietta, viz: Washington, Monroe, Hocking, Morgan, Athens, Meigs, Gallia, Lawrence and Jackson. Their population, as presented in the last census, is nearly 134,000. The Agency reports collections, during the year, to the amount of $465 11; which have been expended, in sustaining 3 missionaries within the bounds of the Agency. Two others, making 5 in all, have received their appropriations directly from the treasury of the Society.

"These missionaries," says Rev. HENRY SMITH, the Secretary of the Agency, "have labored with acceptance, and with as much success, as could be expected from the nature of the soil they have had to cultivate. But, there remains still much land to be possessed. There are many feeble churches on this field, which would willingly do something toward the support of a pastor, altogether destitute of the means of grace—others, after repeated, but ineffectual efforts to procure a minister, have sunk down into supine inactivity, and need some foreign aid to arouse them from their slumbers;—and there are, within our limits, regions, neither small nor comparatively sparsely populated, which are like the barren heath that knoweth not when good cometh—regions, over which the darkness of spiritual death reigns, we had almost said, unbroken by a ray of light."

CENTRAL AGENCY FOR THE WESTERN STATES AT CINCINNATI, OHIO.

The Rev. HENRY LITTLE, on resuming the duties of Secretary of this Agency, a little less than a year since, found the Board in debt nearly one thousand dollars, and obstacles to be encountered in making collections, as serious as have existed in any part of the country. The churches to be visited were widely separated, and the travelling, for several months of the year, was exceedingly difficult. The receipts, however, have amounted to $2,800, which has cancelled the debt of the Agency, and enabled it to assume the responsibility of sustaining 18 of the missionaries in commission within its bounds.

The time and labors of the Agent, however, have been directed, no small part of the year, to nurturing the feeble churches and surveying the regions of destitution. In a late communication, he says, "I have just visited some of the upper Wabash country, and find a wide and interesting field for missionary operations. That whole country north of the Wabash, has so many natural advantages, that it must soon be inhabited by a population, as dense as any portion of the United States. The western half, north of La Fayette, had no white men upon it, twelve years ago ; now, there are towns and settlements in every part of it. An enterprising population is flowing in from the northern part of the Atlantic states, and this is the moment, when the missionary should take his station among them. There is another region in Indiana, in the southwest part of the state, differing somewhat from the one described, but scarcely less important, equally large and equally destitute of Presbyterian ministers. In fact, there never has been a time, since your first missionaries were sent into this valley, that the necessity for men was, every where, more pressing than at present. I hope that at your anniversaries, and every where and in every way, you will urge the churches to pray the Lord of the harvest, to send forth laborers into his harvest."

"But, while we thus plead for help, we would not forget to recount the goodness of God, in bestowing past and present blessings. Ten years ago, I met a synod at Madison, Indiana, which included all the Presbyterian ministers west of Ohio and Kentucky and north of Arkansas ; and yet, this whole body was not much larger, than either branch of the Presbyterian church in the State of Indiana alone now is ; and the American Home Missionary Society has been the great instrument, in the hand of God, of effecting this change and working this blessed increase. One has only to look at its operations the last year in the West, or the result of its labors for ten years, to be satisfied that its steady, noiseless operations are most efficient and powerful. The kingdom of Heaven, we believe, comes not with observation. So, the preaching of nearly two hundred missionaries, on this great field the past year, has been without much observation. Little has been said or thought about their labors. But, as a body, they are self-denying, hard-working men, and, under God, they have been instrumental in perfecting the saints, edifying the body of Christ, and in turning the feet of the disobedient unto the wisdom of the just. They have performed a work, which, though silent, will be seen, in the light of another day, to have been truly great and glorious."

OTHER AGENCIES IN THE WEST.

Illinois.—The Rev. FLAVEL BASCOM continued his efficient services, as Agent of the Society in the northern part of the state, until late in the autumn, when he was installed pastor of the Presbyterian church in Chicago, where his labors have been greatly blessed, in the edification and enlargement of the church under the outpourings of the Spirit of God.

"The present," says Mr. Bascom, "is a time of peculiar interest and trial in the history of our churches in this region. Four or five years ago, the influx of population was great and rapid. The country was fast filling up, money was plenty, property of all kinds was saleable, improvements were commenced on a large scale, and expectation of future prosperity was high and strong. Hence, in many places, ministers were settled whose support was pledged by the people. But, in consequence of the pecuniary reverses which succeeded, in almost every instance, those ministers have been compelled to leave their people for want of support, or to rely on the Home Missionary Society to make up the deficiency, which has from year to year increased. This is no fault of the churches. They made their pledges on a noble scale of liberality, in view of their ability, present and prospective, in 1836 and 1837; since then, an entire revolution has passed over them. Immigration has been greatly diminished, and property is unsaleable. The produce of their farms, on which they relied for means to support their families and to pay for their lands, will scarcely defray the expense of carrying it to market. Just at this time, their lands must be paid for or relinquished, and the pecuniary pressure is severe and the prospect dark. This state of things, accounts for the increased number of applications from this section, within the last six months. I am exceedingly happy that you have been able to grant aid in all these cases; for much, very much depends on the manner in which the churches pass through this crisis. If left unaided, they must reluctantly give up the means of grace, with the gloomy prospect of remaining destitute they know not how long."

"There has never been a period, since the first settlement of this state, when individuals and communities, hitherto irreligious, were so accessible to the influences of religion as at present. This is the very time, when every faithful minister is needed at his post. A cloud of mercy seems to be gathering over us. The way of the Lord seems to be preparing. The fields are white and ready for the harvest. And after the missionary has borne the heat and burden of the day, in preparing the ground and sowing the seed, and the time of harvest comes, shall the harvest be lost, because the laborers needed to gather the precious fruits cannot be sustained? In several of the churches to which you have extended aid, within the last few months, revivals of religion have commenced, which will doubtless give them strength for sustaining of themselves the Gospel. Let, then, the friends of the Home Missionary cause be encouraged to persevere in well doing. For almost all that makes this portion of our land to differ from a moral wilderness, so far as our denomination is concerned, we are indebted, under God, to the American Home Missionary Society. And when this land has become like the garden of the Lord, how delightful will it be to the friends and patrons of the Home Missionary cause, to reflect on the influence they were permitted to exert to secure such results."

Wisconsin.—The Rev. STEPHEN PEET, of Milwaukie, has rendered important service to the missionary cause in this territory, the last two years, by the voluntary agency which he has performed in its behalf. His reports have been spread out before the churches, and have had a happy influence, in awakening their attention to the importance of occupying with evangelical institutions, in its very infancy, a portion of the land, so extensive in territory, so fertile in soil, so inviting in climate, and so rapidly filling up with an enterprising and intelligent population.

Nine missionaries have been in commission within this territory, during the year. As the result of their counsels and those of their fellow laborers, the Presbyterian and Congregational churches have been happily united in one ecclesiastical organization, auspicious of extensive and permanent good to the interests of Zion. The number of these churches in the territory is 24; one half of which have been organized during the year, and two-thirds of which have enjoyed, within the same period, revivals of religion which have resulted in the hopeful conversion of five hundred souls. The call from these churches, and from the scattered disciples where no churches have yet been organized, is loud and importunate for men—men of apostolic temper, who shall count not their own lives dear unto them, if so be they may be honored of God, in covering the fairest portions of their native land with the beauty of holiness. Are there none of this character in our Theological Seminaries, or unoccupied in our older states, who will respond to these calls, Here are we, send us? And is there no silver and gold, yet unconsecrated to God and his kingdom, that shall be pledged for their support?

Iowa.—The Rev. ASA TURNER, of Denmark, has performed, in this territory, a service similar to that of Mr. Peet in Wisconsin, and with the same happy results. The soil, the climate, the prairie, the grove, the navigable river, the meandering stream is here alike inviting; and multitudes are crowding in, to select their home for this life, as well as their scene of preparation for another. Mormonism is there to delude them. Popery is there to ensnare them. Infidelity is there to corrupt and debase them. And Atheism is there, to take away their God as they go on to the grave, and to blot out every ray of hope that may beam upon them from beyond it. And shall not christian institutions be planted there? Ought the six missionaries of the American Home Missionary Society to be left there to labor alone, with a congregation of at least a thousand added to the territory every month? Says one of the missionaries, as he looks at the foes with which they have to contend. "There is an imperious necessity of sending on here, forthwith, men of strong nerve and unwavering faith. Ten or a dozen such men, in addition to what we have, stationed at different posts, and sustained, so that they could devote themselves wholly to their work, would exert an influence which time cannot measure. Do the conquerors of this world keep all their best troops in the camp, and send out a few of the weak and feeble to stand in the breach, and meet the main body of the enemy? It is not so. The bravest and best are selected. And will our great Captain be satisfied with us—will he hold the American churches guiltless, while they send so few and so feeble men to occupy these perilous outposts? O that some of the princes in Immanuel's army would come to our help!"

CANADA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Nine missionaries have been in commission, during the year, in Lower Canada. Their labors have been highly acceptable to the churches, and in some instances, have been accompanied with special blessings from on high. The Rev. A. J. Parker, missionary at Shipton, has been employed a portion of the year, in visiting the missionary churches, and in calling the attention of the stronger to the claims of their more needy and dependent brethren. His labors have had a happy influence on the churches visited, and have resulted in good to the cause of missions and the kingdom of Christ.

The hindrances to the missionary work in this field—the necessity and the motives for its enlargement, are presented in the last report of the Society. "We cannot," they say, "more decisively stigmatize the practice of war, than by stating, that the disturbances in this Province have, for more than three years, impeded benevolent enterprises, and the labors of missionary societies, and the preaching of the Gospel, to a degree, in some instances ruinous, and in every instance deplorable. And long after the visible contentions have ceased, the devastating influences continue, and the ruins long remain, as after a conflagration, showing the greatness of the havoc, and illustrating, by the contrast, the former degree of prosperity. Happily, those portions of the land which have suffered most begin to recover, and the people engage, in not a few instances, with a fresh and praiseworthy zeal, in sustaining the means of grace where they are enjoyed, and those who are destitute, begin to realize more deeply their need of the Gospel and its ordinances."

"But, there are yet numerous townships and settlements that have no regular Gospel ministry; there are others which are visited only once a month or once a quarter, by some zealous missionary; and others, which no missionary ever visits, which do not even enjoy the labors of a schoolmaster, and in which, therefore, no effort of any kind is put forth, to prevent them from sinking into a state of the grossest darkness. After all that has been done, the destitution of the country has not been met; nay, there can be little doubt, that with the increased number of emigrants expected, that destitution will be growing on our hands, instead of diminishing. Every year the evil is increasing. The neglected settlements sink lower in spiritual ignorance and degeneracy, while, at the same time, new settlements are constantly springing up around them, presenting new claims upon the resources of the benevolent."

SABBATH SCHOOL MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS.

The generous and grateful co-operation of this interesting class of Auxiliaries, of which we have made mention in former years, has been continued during the last. "The Juvenile Missionary Society, connected with the First Church in Brooklyn," N. Y., has sustained one missionary in Illinois. "The Murray-street Church Sabbath School Missionary Society," N. Y., has paid into the treasury $225, which has been appropriated towards the support of two missionaries in Michigan, one in Indiana, and one in Northern Illinois and Wisconsin Territory. And "The Sabbath Scholars' Missionary Association of the West Presbyterian Church," (Carmine street,) N. Y., has collected and paid into the treasury, since our last report, $300—making the entire amount appropriated to the support of two missionaries, one in Northern Illinois, and the other in Michigan; the latter of whom, has been blessed in his labors with a revival of religion, remarkable for its extent and power. In speaking of its influence upon the little colony to which he ministers, he says: "I look at the heads of families in our village and for some distance round, and but two or three are found, who do not hope in a Savior's mercy—I look among our young people, and not one is left. All, we trust, are sitting humble penitents at the feet of Jesus. I look into the Sabbath school, and even here a number hope that they have become the children of the Savior. I look into our dwellings, and in all, with a single exception, I find an altar erected to the living God, on which morning and evening incense is offered."

NECESSITY OF ENLARGED OPERATIONS.

While we review the last year, and the three preceding years, and record, with gratitude and praise, the good which this Society has accomplished, in the most difficult times that benevolent institutions have ever passed through; while we rejoice to see it standing firm in the affections of the church—its Auxiliaries and Agencies in vigorous and harmonious action, and a prospect of unbounded usefulness spread out before it, it is still painful to reflect that it has accomplished so little. It is not enough, that it has held its own. It is not enough, that the receipts of the last year fall but little short of the largest amount, which has ever been received, in a single year, from the contributions of the churches. The work to be done has not, during these years of embarrassment, remained stationary. The rapid increase of our home population has enlarged it. The continued rush of immigration from the old world has enlarged it. The very reverses of worldly prosperity, which have restricted our resources, have enlarged it. Inadequate, therefore, as was the scale of the Society's operations to the wants of the country, four years since, the disproportion is now vastly greater. And shall another and another year make it greater still, till faith herself, as she surveys the magnitude of the work and the difficulties with which it is encompassed, shall exclaim, If the Lord should make windows in heaven, could such a thing be? Or will the friends of Christ, at the present moment, more favored than any future one can be, enter upon this work with a vigor, a liberality, and a perseverance commensurate with the amazing interests which are involved in its execution?

MEN, AND THE DUTY OF THE CHURCHES IN REGARD TO THEM.

The providence of God seems now, in a special manner, to be directing the rising ministry of the land to our new settlements, to find their appropriate and appointed fields of labor. There has never perhaps been a time, when our older states were so well supplied, and when so few churches, that are of themselves able to sustain the Gospel, were holding out inducements to the most promising of the youthful heralds of the cross, to settle in the cities and villages of the eastern and middle states. If the candidates for the sacred office, who are annually leaving our Theological Institutions, if the vigorous and well disciplined of those who are already in the ministry, and who are unoccupied because no churches have hired them, are to be consecrated wholly and uninterruptedly to the business of their high calling, they must go where the work is to be done—where the Master hath need of them—where the harvest is plenteous and the laborers few. It is for this service that God has raised them up, and if it be not performed, we are sure, he cannot acquit them as faithful stewards of his mysteries. And if their hearts have been touched with fire from his altar, and this service be properly presented to them, and the way duly prepared for them to enter upon it, we are sure, it is not in them to decline it. The first duty of the church with reference to these men is, to lift up, without ceasing, the voice of her supplication, that they may receive a special anointing from on high—that they may be such ministers as the church needs—such as our new settlements demand—such as our nearness to the day of this world's redemption imperiously calls for;—that they may be men who will go out not knowing—not caring whither they go, satisfied that they go at God's bidding,—men who will joyfully take their stations, amidst the privations and hardships of the wilderness to preach Christ and him crucified, and leave them not, till the wilderness be turned into the garden of God, or they be summoned to their glorious recompense above. The next duty of the church with reference to these men is, to send them forth, to do the work which God has given her to do, assuring them that the workman is worthy of his hire, and that in due time he shall receive it at her hands. And shall the cause of Missions at Home be retarded,—shall it fail to be prosecuted, on the scale which the dearest interests of our fellow countrymen, and the honor of our God and Redeemer demand,—shall one laborer the less be sent into the field, because the church is regardless of the voice of God, when he calls for the goods which he has intrusted to her care? The period, in which it is our privilege to labor in this cause, is too precious, to be suffered to pass by, with gold and silver unconsecrated to Christ, laborers standing idle in the market place, and the people perishing for lack of vision. It has been said, that one generation ought to give the Gospel to the globe. If so, how much more ought we, of this generation, to make our own land Immanuel's! And yet, half a generation have gone to their graves, since this Society commenced its operations; and how small a portion of our work is done! Patriotism, philanthropy, the love of Christ, the perilous condition of unsanctified millions—passing rapidly beyond our reach, and riveting, as they pass, the manacles of the second death upon millions that they leave behind them—and, above all, a solemn regard to that day when we must give account of our stewardship, call upon us, to do with our might, whatsoever our hands find to do. Blessed are those servants, whom their Lord, when he cometh, shall find watching.

EXTRACTS FROM THE FIFTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

Forty years ago, the moral condition of Western New-York was deplorably bad. It was nearly all missionary ground. There was scarcely a point, where the Gospel could be preached stately, without assistance from abroad. "I remember preaching in Geneva, your beautiful village," said an aged minister to me, "on my coming into this part of the state. It was a wicked place, and the appearance of the congregation on the Sabbath would now be thought rough and wild, in the roughest parts of Steuben and Alleghany counties."

In 1799, the Massachusetts Missionary Society, the first year of their operations, sent two missionaries to labor in the infant settlements, lying between Whitesboro' and the Genesee River. But up to 1811, this Society had sent into this part of the state but 6 missionaries. One of whom, the Rev. J. Merrill, is still living, and regularly preaches the Gospel in a neighboring town.

In 1801, a correspondence was held between the Massachusetts Missionary Society, and the Connecticut Missionary Society, respecting fields of labor; and after this, it appears that this part of the state was more particularly supplied by missionaries from the latter society.

The Connecticut Missionary Society was instituted about a year before the Massachusetts Missionary Society. Some of the old inhabitants speak of the missionaries of the Connecticut Society with peculiar emotion. "Never can I forget," said an aged man of East Bloomfield to me, "what my feelings were, when it was published through our settlement that the missionary had come. In that barn, we had precious meetings. There I was converted."

In 1800, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church sent out a missionary, who located himself in Geneva. The Assembly had seldom more than one to three missionaries in this part of the state, during any one year before 1827; and all their missionaries in the region previous to that time, seldom bestowed more than 6 months missionary labor on this field in a single year. In 1809, they had 2 missionaries, one appointed for 4, and the other for 3 months. In 1814, they had 1 missionary, who was appointed for 3 months. In 1823, they had 3 missionaries, who were commissioned to labor from 1 to 3 months each; and in 1826 they had 4 missionaries, who were appointed in all to labor 6 months. So that, during these four years, the amount of missionary labor, secured to the churches by the Assembly's Board, was less than 2 years. After the organization of the American Home Missionary Society, the Assembly's Board, adopting substantially the mode of conducting Home Missions that had been successfully tried by the National Society, greatly increased their operations in this part of the state. In 1835, they had 18 missionaries, nearly all of whom were commissioned for 12 months, and some of them were very devoted, energetic and useful missionaries.

As late as 1813, Western New-York seems to have been almost an uncultivated waste. There were only a few churches that could even then sustain the Gospel without missionary aid, or without their pastors being obliged to sustain themselves in part by secular employments. In this year, a clergyman, whose letter was published in the Panoplist, of May, 1813, thus wrote from this section of the state: "The northern and southern parts of the county of Cayuga are missionary ground. In the towns of Virgil, Mentz, Dryden and Cato, there are small churches formed. The western part of Locke, and the southern part of Genoa, are in great want of the word of life. They have formerly had small churches, which are now dissolved. The counties of Broome, Cortland, Tioga, Seneca and Steuben, furnish much missionary ground. In the Holland Purchase, there is a wide field for missionary labor. This tract is about ninety miles square. In the southern parts of it, are a vast number of people, and I think but two churches formed, and those small." The writer then urges the sending of men of talents and experience as missionaries, from the consideration that infidels and heretics abound in the new settlements. These persons he represents, as being in general "overawed by the presence of a respectable minister, while they often attack those of ordinary talents, and talk them out of countenance."

Western New-York, however, has been settled to some extent by emigrants from New-England. Thousands of families have moved here from New-England. They brought with them their New-England habits of industry, their love of order, of sound doctrine, of the institutions of religion, and of revivals. God, to a considerable extent, therefore, planted the people of this part of the state, a noble vine, wholly a right seed, and has thus far preserved it from becoming the degenerate plant of a strange vine unto him. This accounts, in some measure, for the great success the Gospel has here had; and which will be manifest, by a mere statement of facts relative to the growth of the Presbyterian church in the midst of us. From a small beginning, God has caused it to take deep root and to fill the land. The hills are covered with the shadow of it, and the boughs thereof are like the goodly cedars. Its boughs are gone forth to the sea, and its branches to the river.

In 1800, there was scarcely a Presbyterian church in all the region now occupied by this agency. In 1805, the Presbytery of Geneva was formed, and then consisted of 3 ministers. In 1809, it had but 12 churches; and as it extended farther east than the bounds of the agency, and was the only presbytery, there were at that time less than 12 Presbyterian churches in Western New-York. In 1814, there were two presbyteries, Geneva and Cayuga; the former had 31 churches and the latter 7. In 1826, there were 8 Presbyteries, which had under their care 191 churches and 10,000 communicants. For this great increase, we are indebted, in no small degree, to the United Domestic Missionary Society of New-York, and the Geneva Agency. These Missionary Boards, at the organization of the American Home Missionary Society, were sustaining 26 missionaries on this field. After the organization of the National Society, Home Missions were prosecuted with fresh vigor. Since 1827, this Society has assisted in Western New-York from 50 to 70 churches yearly, and issued from 40 to 70 commissions to as many missionaries. And great have been the results. In 1831, there were 10 presbyteries, having 225 churches, and 15,000 communicants. In 1836, there were 280 Presbyterian churches, and 25,000 communicants. And now, there are 12 presbyteries, and at least 380 Presbyterian and Congregational churches, and we should think more than 30,000 communicants. The A. H. M. S., during its 15 years existence, has aided 264 different churches in Western New-York. Nearly one hundred of these churches are now able to sustain the Gospel without assistance. The churches have nearly doubled since 1826, and the communicants have probably trebled. Such is the wonderful work God has wrought in this section of our state. Such has been the triumph of the Gospel. It is indeed the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

But this does not give a full estimate of the good accomplished. The same good work which New-England has done, by introducing among us so many excellent families of devoted and consistent piety, Western New-York, in its turn, is now performing for other parts of our country. Family after family have gone forth from our churches, and youth after youth of devoted piety and high promise, so that thus early, it is supposed, nearly as many communicants as are now in our churches have removed from us to the far west, and to other fields in our own and foreign countries, and are assisting there in the formation of society and in the establishing of the Gospel. Some of our men have gone forth into foreign lands. One of them is pastor of a church at the Sandwich Islands of 7,000 members, principally gathered through the blessing of God on his labors. We have now, it is believed, more than 30,000 communicants in our Presbyterian and Congregational churches. And nearly as many have gone forth from us, to build up Zion's wastes and do good, wherever God shall cast their lot. And other thousands of communicants are looking toward the west, and before many years have passed will have joined their brethren there. Thus, the pious emigrants from this part of the state will, under God, raise up a multitude of pious men and women, who, in their turn, like a mighty wave will roll farther west, to bless still more distant portions of our land; and these, under God, will raise up others of similar spirit, who will still move farther west, until wave after wave shall have rolled over our land, and our whole country to the Pacific be filled with temples to the living God, and with a regenerated population.

It ought here to be remarked that, notwithstanding the general infancy and feebleness of our Zion, the expense of defraying this great missionary operation has been borne by our own churches. More than $100,000 have been raised on this field for Home Missions, since 1826; and this has exceeded the sums paid the missionaries nearly $40,000—which surplus has gone into the treasury of the National Society, to build up the wastes in other parts of our country. Nor have Home Missions been exclusively remembered in the contributions of the churches. In this small part of our state in 1839, $14,000 were raised for the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions; while in the same year, there were raised for the Board in the entire states of Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, the District of Columbia, and the territories of Arkansas and Florida, only $12,000! This shows the importance of carrying on our Home Missionary operations with great vigor, would we see the world converted. For, as this cause prevails at home, the stream will be deep and wide and pure, that flows from this country to the foreign field. Our churches have also contributed liberally to the Bible, Tract and other benevolent causes. A large number of young men have here been raised up to preach the Gospel, and our churches have nearly, if not entirely sustained their beneficiaries.

There can be no doubt, that the Home Missionary effort has tended to the general intelligence and temporal prosperity of this part of the state. It has helped to form a population to whom the boon of self-government may be safely entrusted. Blot out what has been done for Home Missions, and a darkness would rest over Western New-York that would be felt. There would be a ruinous deterioration of all fast property. For sin tends to the shame and poverty of a people, as surely as righteousness tends to its exaltation. An empire is now springing up in Western New-York, where 60 years ago was an unbroken wilderness. Already we have 2 cities, 44 incorporated villages, 304 unincorporated villages, 303 towns, and 620 post offices; and yet its real and personal property, according to the corrected aggregate valuation for 1839, is but little over one-fifth of that of the whole state.

During the first 8 years of the American Home Missionary Society, there were raised for it in the whole state $155,000, and on this field during the same time $39,000. During the last 7 years $157,000 were collected in the whole state for the Society, $66,000 of which were from this field; more than one-third and nearly half of what was raised in the whole state. A reason, for the comparative generous contributions to this cause by our churches, will be seen in the following extract from a missionary report lately received; while at the same time, it will illustrate the operations of the Society. There is nothing extraordinary in this case. I recollect several years ago passing through the village where this missionary afterwards labored, and being pained on hearing that there was no meeting-house in the place, and that they were seldom privileged with preaching. The missionary writes:

"During the 3½ years of my labors, there have been added to the church by letter 10, and on profession 24. In the mean time, a neat and commodious house of public worship has been erected, at an expense of more than $3,000. There has likewise been contributed $200 to the different benevolent objects. The temperance cause has also made some progress amongst us. For more than a year after I came here, no such institution existed in this town as a temperance society. Now, we have one on the total abstinence principles, which numbers nearly 700 members. I first engaged here for 6 months, and told the people to raise me what they could. Between $90 and $100 were subscribed. For the next year, they raised a little less than $300. The next year a little over, and the last year $350. In addition, I have received at the rate of $100 each year from your Society. The lot of many a missionary has been so much more trying than my own, that when I have read their narratives, I have thought myself almost in affluent circumstances. Although I have seen many weeks, when I could not command resources to pay the postage on a letter. But why speak of my privations. They are known to Him, who can make all things work together for good to those who love him.

Our house was dedicated on the 25th of December. One or two striking conversions have occurred since my last report. The people are making an effort to raise my salary this year without assistance from your Society, and I trust they will succeed. In taking leave of you, I hope you will feel convinced, from a review of the past, that your help in our behalf has not been in vain. And may God reward you abundantly for your labor of love.

Here we see an illustration of the beneficial effects of Home Missions. In a village where there was scarcely any semblance of piety—no house of worship—no temperance society, and where the Sabbath was scarcely regarded, a missionary takes his stand. He labors in the midst of privations and encouragements 3 years and a half, and receives from the Home Missionary Society $350. During this time, $200 are paid back by the congregation to the different benevolent societies of the day, and $1,040 are raised by the people for the support of the Gospel, and more than $3,000 for the erection of a meeting-house. So that the small sum of $350 granted the congregation, and given them in a way calculated to encourage them and draw out their ability, has probably been the means of their raising $4,200 for the establishing of the Gospel in that and other places, which, but for this aid, would not have been raised. In the mean time, souls have been saved from death—many saved from intemperance, and a well of salvation has been opened, where for generations souls may drink and live forever. A church, thus benefitted by the A. H. M. S., can never forget it. It will feel an attachment to the Society, and will esteem it a pleasure to befriend it, and to make it by its donations a greater blessing to our land and world.

During the year, 60 missionaries have been commissioned to perform 58 years of labor in 71 different congregations; and for whose support the Board have voted \$5,491. The whole number employed on this field, including those commissioned last year whose commissions extended into this year, is 76; and the whole number of congregations aided 89. During the year, 10 new fields have been taken up, and several churches that were almost extinct have become resuscitated and saved. Several parsonages have been built—13 meeting-houses have been built or been commenced, and 14 or 15 of the churches aided have reported revivals of religion. Probably $\frac{1}{3}$ of what was given these churches to enable them to sustain their pastors has already been repaid by them, into the different benevolent societies of the day. These churches, with a few exceptions, are gradually increasing in strength. Every year, some churches are so strengthened that they subsequently sustain the Gospel without help. In a few years, judging from the past, but few of the churches now aided will need assistance. But as 10 or 15 churches will probably be organized each year in Western New-York for 10 or 15 years, it is thought about the same number of churches, as are now receiving assistance, will require aid for 10 or 15 years to come.

The receipts from this field, from May 1, 1840, to April 26, 1841, have been $9,601 88; exceeding the sum voted the missionaries $4,060 88. In these receipts, we have two donations of $1,000 each—one of $225, and ten of $100 each. Thus the Lord has raised up friends to the cause and even exceeded our expectations.

The following table will show the counties embraced in this agency, the number of churches in each to whom assistance has been voted during the year—the sums voted these churches, and the receipts from each county:

ELEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

Having obtained help of God, we have sustained the Home Missionary banner on this field another year. It was set up, we trust, in the name of the Lord. It has awakened hope and courage in many of our churches, to struggle through their former embarrassments and rise to the rank of benefactors. From year to year, it has been as the star of promise to more than a hundred churches in Central New-York. They have looked to it, as the signal of the Saviour's love, and a sure token of his kind designs to enlarge their borders and repair their desolations.

These churches we have visited and counselled the past year; and we have commissioned 36 missionaries, each for 12 months, to preach the Gospel in 40 of their congregations. To sustain these missionaries in their work, the Board has pledged them $3,095. The receipts of our Treasurer, since our last report, is $3,725 69. The amount of labor bestowed upon the 46 churches under our patronage, within the same period, is 32 years. We are now aiding 16 churches, which received no assistance the previous year; 4 of which, are newly organized congregations. Three more of our churches have taken the entire responsibility of sustaining the Gospel. Two of our missionaries have been installed as Pastors. Three houses of worship have been built within the year, and three others have been finished or essentially repaired. All that has been said in former years, of the fidelity of our missionaries in preaching the Gospel in public and from house to house, and in gathering and instructing the rising generation and the youth in Sabbath schools and Bible classes, might here be repeated with equal emphasis. The Temperance cause has made unusually rapid progress under the new pledge. In some places, hundreds have joined the tee-total society, under the labors of our missionaries. God, in great mercy, has granted, in several instances, his special blessing on these labors of love. Eight revivals have been reported, most of which began within a few months, and some of them are of very interesting character. In several other congregations, the assemblies are enlarging and becoming unusually solemn, and not unfrequently the inquiry is heard, "What must I do to be saved?" Two hundred are reported as hopefully converted, and more than 200 have joined our missionary churches. The revival in Carthage, reported at the close of last year, has raised that church to ability to sustain themselves.

The German congregation, in Syracuse, is a happy illustration of the necessity of Home Missions. Two years since, there were about 40 German families there, like sheep in the wilderness, having no shepherd. They were without a Pastor, without Bibles, and without schools. Our missionary gathered them, and instructed them in science and religion. Now, there are 65 families, 85 communicants, and during the past year, 19 have been hopefully converted. Arrangements are now in progress for building them a house of worship. There are thousands more of such lost sheep to be gathered in this part of New-York. Says one of our missionaries, "I established a Sabbath school in one of the darkest corners of this section. The parents are ignorant and dissipated. The children are ragged and filthy. They scarcely knew any thing of the Sabbath, having never been taught. No one has cared for their souls. I am quite ashamed that I should so long permit children to starve within two miles of our village. Most of the children, 18 or 20 in number, knew not a letter, but seemed to devour every word I spoke like greedy dogs." Similar neighborhoods, and many larger, filled up with souls for whom atoning blood has flowed, are found in various directions around most of our country parishes. Indeed, a considerable portion of the churches we patronize, were, on a larger scale, just such neglected neighborhoods. They are frontier churches; i. e. in one direction, at least, there is no regular preaching for many miles. They are our pioneers. By them the way of the Lord is prepared in the wilderness, and the borders of Zion enlarged. Their work is hard, and their privations many. Without our aid they will be trodden down, but with it, their success is sure.

How pure is the joy, which the good man feels, when he can help his poor neighbor to the house of God. How much more may his heart rejoice, when he can open the house of God to 50 or 80 of his poor neighbors and their families! This is the work and the joy of our patrons, and we would praise God that they may have their joy increased, some thirty, some sixty, and some an hundred fold.

We close, by presenting, briefly, two reasons why the Home Missionary Society should be put in immediate possession of the means to supply every destitute portion of our country with the preached Gospel, as fast as suitable ministers can be found.

1. Our Foreign Board of Missions demands it.

The Providence of God has thrown open before our church almost the entire heathen world, and calls that Board to enter in and occupy for Him. That Board has been struggling for years, to respond to those calls promptly and fully, but they have not done it. And why? Every body knows the Board has no earthly resource from which to draw, but the piety, and benevolence, and missionary spirit of the American church. This is the capital on which their business depends. No effort of theirs to secure the means of saving the heathen, even from the endless burnings of the pit, can transcend this capital. They have enlarged their drafts upon this, until they can enlarge no more. No one, acquainted with facts, believes this failure is for want of enterprise on the part of the Board, or on account of the poverty of the church. The humbling truth is forced upon us, that the spirit of missions in the church is not equal to the calls of Providence, to give the Gospel to this perishing world. How shall this be augmented? In many ways; but most certainly and speedily by means of Home Missions. The field of their resources must be enlarged, and more thoroughly cultivated. The number of contributors must be greatly increased. We were not surprised, a few weeks since, to hear one of the most experienced agents of the Foreign Board state to a numerous audience, that he found no churches within the range of his labors so liberal, compared with their ability, in contributing to that Board, as the Home Missionary churches. He farther said, that the hope of their enlargement was, under God, resting upon the onward progress of Home Missions. We have no doubt but these were mature thoughts. God has already raised up, by means of Home Missions, several hundred churches to pray for the coming of Christ's kingdom, and to furnish men and means for the conversion of the world, as long as men and means and prayers are needed. What a mighty auxiliary, in this great work, would our remaining 1500 poor churches form, were they all well furnished with Gospel ministrations. The Foreign Missionary cause, therefore, we may expect, will extend its influence and increase its usefulness, just in proportion as the Home work is faithfully prosecuted.

2. This is the most economical method of spreading the Gospel.

It is the united testimony of all our Foreign and Home Missionaries, that vastly more might be accomplished in spreading the Gospel, if sufficient funds could be secured. It becomes a question then of transcendent importance, How can our limited funds be appropriated, so as to secure the greatest amount of good? Of Home Missions, it may be said emphatically, "Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth." We do not refer here to our giving the Gospel to half a million of souls at very small expense, or to the thousands who are every year turned to God by this instrumentality, nor to the paramount importance of permanent over transient preaching. We refer simply to the smallest, perhaps, of the numerous train of benefits which result from these beneficent labors, viz., the amount of funds secured to the work of spreading the Gospel. We are aiding at least 800 churches annually. Were it not for this aid, not less than one third of these churches would do nothing, or next to nothing, for the support of the Gospel among them, having only occasional preaching. Another third, would deem it impracticable to hire for more than three or four months in a year, and this usually followed by years of destitution. And all, but a small fraction of the remainder, would make no effort to settle a Pastor, regarding the attempt as hopeless. The aid we offer changes their prospects. It awakens hope of success, and calls out the energies of these weak and discouraged congregations. Many among them who care little for the Gospel, and perhaps have never lent a farthing for its support, rather than lose the proffered aid, will cheerfully assist in the effort. Others, inspired by their love of the Gospel, abound in liberality, and the object is secured. Thus we provoke men to love and good works. The result is, if we may judge of the whole, by those within the bounds of this agency, that each of these 800 churches raises, on an average, over $100, annually, to sustain the Gospel among themselves, more than they would do if we did not aid them. The $80,000, therefore, which we bestow upon these feeble churches, bring, at least, $80,000 more to the sacred work of preaching the Gospel to the poor. Thus, every hundred dollars we bestow upon the poor in this work, will prompt them cheerfully to give another hundred, to carry out our benevolent design. But securing one hundred per cent. directly, is not all. These churches, while destitute of the inspiring influence of the living pastor, did comparatively nothing for the spread of the Gospel. But being blessed and built up by benevolence, almost as a matter of necessity, they become benevolent. They contribute, as a whole, more than one fourth of what we bestow upon them to forward the missionary enterprise; making twenty-five per cent. more. One hundred thousand dollars, therefore, we may assert, without fear of mistake, would be lost annually to the work of spreading the Gospel in our world, should Home Missions cease. Can the American church afford, in the present state of things, to lose this amount of aid from their poor brethren? Should we not rather double our contributions to this object forthwith, and bless another 800 of our poor churches, which are or might be formed, not only with the precious Gospel, but with the privilege of giving $100,000 more than they are now doing, to secure to themselves and their children the "Living Bread," and to send it round the world.

OUR COUNTRY.

"Breathes there a man of soul so dead,
 Who never to himself hath said,
 'This is my own, my native land!'"

Every man of ingenuous mind loves the country of his birth. Men may pride themselves on their being "citizens of the world," and affect an enlargement of soul that knows no preference for the land of their nativity; they probably misrepresent the better feelings of their own hearts. Or, if they indeed feel no peculiar love for the country whose soil has cherished and whose laws have protected them, and for the people whose blood they share and whose intelligence informs and elevates them, it is surely no just ground for boasting. Indeed, such an indifference to the relationships of country and kindred, would seem to call in question the moral health of him who professes it. Our relations, if not the source, are at least the measure of our obligations. The reasons which bind us to love men at all, increase in urgency as the subjects are nearer us in position, more intimately related to us, and more within the reach of our kind offices.

Why is not patriotism generally numbered among the christian virtues? We applaud the love of country exhibited by men of the world, by the soldier and the statesman; why not require it also as an element in the character of a saint? Is it incompatible with his dignity as a citizen of a heavenly kingdom, that he recognize his relations in this world and fulfil the claims and duties that arise out of them? The hero, who jeopard his life for the hearths and altars of his native land, and the civilian, who sinks his own in his country's aggrandizement, are characters to whom we accord the honors of a moral sublimity. And yet, through a strange perverseness, it is by some esteemed almost a virtue, to feel the least interest in the people with whom their relation is the most direct, and to whom it is practicable to do the most good!

The Christian, of all men, has most reason to be a patriot; for he has the truest apprehension of his country's dangers, and knows best what will avail for her salvation. He is taught, from on high, the origin and extent of her maladies, and knows that the truth of the God, that liveth and abideth for ever, is the only panacea.

HER PERILS.

But while every Christian knows that the Gospel alone is the conservative principle of communities, where do we see "the children of light" putting forth such strength and talent, and encountering such pecuniary cost as are adequate to bring the whole land under its power? On the contrary, how are our organizations already existing for the spread of religion, crippled in their efforts and stunted in their growth, because they are fed with such a sparing hand. Instead of plans enlarged to correspond with the widening fields and louder calls of Providence, our Home institutions are compelled to study how they may hold the ground already gained; and that with the fact before them, that the agencies of evil are all the while at work with ceaseless and increasing activity.

HER HOPE.

Under God, our hope for this country is in the unpraised, and almost unnoted labors of those quiet men, who, scattered here and there throughout the land, are teaching the people to honor God and to love man—who are holding up before every conscience the portraiture of the divine character, and thus rebuking sin and winning to the practice of virtue. They are the best legislators, who make every man a law unto himself, and erect a tribunal in every bosom, and seat thereon an enlightened conscience. An agency like this, is the nation's great hope. It can make the covetous to delight in generous deeds—the grasping hand of avarice to unclench at the cry of distress—the reckless to respect the authority of law, and observe the order of society. It can meliorate, if it cannot remove, half the evils of which men complain, and can forestall the other half, by taking the rising generation by the hand, and leading it into the safe paths of piety and intelligence.

This is our country's hope. O, shall not such an instrumentality be sustained and enlarged? Shall the ministry of God's appointment be trodden down in the tumultuous rush of political strife; or starved into inefficiency by a failure, on the part of those it has already blessed, to appreciate its value?

ENCOURAGEMENT TO EFFORT.

We have a most animating conviction that there is no country on the globe, where the improvement of society is a more hopeful work than in ours. Here, are the subjects of effort—men free to think, and to act as they think—men on the right level, neither above nor below the natural line of pious endeavor; here, too, are the elements of character—the leaven of Puritanism, the spiritual views of truth; here are the means—the christian literature, the physical and intellectual resources, the untrammelled churches and favoring laws. And here, too, we trust, full proof will be made of these great facilities, and our land become "Immanuel's land, a mountain of holiness, and a habitation of righteousness?"

THE WEST—NINE YEARS AGO, AND AT PRESENT.

In the year 1832, a distinguished clergyman spoke as follows: "This broad, fertile land in which we dwell, must be delivered from the bondage of sin and Satan. A few months ago, I stood on the banks of the Mississippi, opposite the mouth of the Missouri River, where, wheeling and foaming in its career from the Rocky Mountains, it enters that placid and beautiful stream. I looked south, and I thought of the 1,000 miles from the spot where I then stood to the Gulf of Mexico. I looked north, and thought of the 1,500 miles to the sources of the Mississippi. I looked east, and thought of the 1,300 miles to the head of the Ohio valley. I looked west, and thought of the 2,500 miles to the sources of the Missouri. I thought of the teeming millions who are soon to cover this land; and I lifted my hand to heaven, and cried, 'Lord Jesus, this land shall be thine! Thy church will not give up the struggle, till it is full of the knowledge of the Lord!'" [Rev. J. Gallaher.]

In the same year, this message was sent us from beyond the Atlantic: "Popery has directed a longing eye to that immense tract of land, and has already felt the inward heaving of ambition, to compensate herself for her losses in the old world, by her conquests in the new. The valley of the Mississippi has been, no doubt, mapped as well as surveyed by emissaries of the Vatican; and cardinals are exulting, in the hope of enriching the Papal See by accessions from the United States. Rouse and inflame the zeal of Protestantism in America, to disappoint the apostles of darkness of their wished-for prey.

"The object of your zeal must be your own country—to supply her rapidly increasing population with able, faithful ministers. Your religious policy must be a home policy. Compared with the claims of your own land, the claims of the heathen are but secondary. If you cannot attend to both, you must attend to your own destitute people. You must cultivate the waste places of your homestead. Think what your country is, and especially, what she must be—not only for the magnitude of her territory, and the multitude of her people, the vastness of her wealth, and the greatness of her power, but for the importance of her example. On your land hang, in a great measure, the future interests of the globe. Hence, the unspeakable importance of your churches concentrating, in a great measure, their religious efforts upon your own country. If it were necessary, in order to supply your people with pastors, one half of your male members should become ministers, while it should be the chief business of the other half to support them. These are my deliberate views of the duties of the christians of America." [Rev. J. A. James, of Birmingham, England.]

Such was the language which, nine years ago, found a response in feelings of the whole nation. Glowing as were the pictures of the immense capabilities of the West, all who went thither to see, were ready to exclaim, "the half has not been told."

But where is this "West" now? Have the millions of its inhabitants melted away as the mist of the morning before the rising sun? Has its territory been blotted from the map of our country? No, the West is where it was. Its states are as vast, its prairies as fertile, its forests as grand, its rivers as majestic as they ever were. No adversity, which it has suffered in common with the rest of the country, has affected its essential greatness. It teems with the elements of physical and moral power. The earth still yields her exuberance; the population has held a steady increase from year to year; public and private enterprise, though baffled and repressed, has worked for itself new channels; society has gone on in the process of consolidation, its various civil and religious institutions silently but steadily assuming a fixed and permanent character. Eight years ago, the western community was like metal molten in a furnace, though fluid, yet glowing, boiling, impetuous. Now, it is becoming like the same metal cooling down into the unalterable shapes, which have been given to it by surrounding influences. Some of these moulding causes have been supplied, we trust, by the operations of this Society. By the labors of the sacred ministry, sent out and sustained by the friends of Home Missions, the elements of society have been arranged and harmonized, the Gospel preached, schools founded, churches erected, and souls gathered to the Saviour.

While the West, then, is no less inviting than it was nine years ago, in physical beauty and fertility, it has become more populous, its lands are extensively brought under cultivation, its political influence is more important, and its religious institutions and destiny possess a greatly augmented interest. The temporary causes which have depressed the people of the West, must soon yield to the upward tendencies of their elastic and buoyant enterprise. While some day-dreams of speculation will have vanished, soberer views will direct the energies of the people, and the West must be prosperous and powerful. It is scarcely possible for it to be otherwise. Even should political and commercial errors cover the land with disaster—still the soil will be there, vast and fertile, and a population will be there, vigorous, augmenting and mighty.

There is, then, no reason for withdrawing the public attention from the West; but, on the other hand, its claims have grown with every passing year. The friends of Christ must look at those claims, must entertain them, must respond to them by a substantial sympathy and aid.

PHYSICAL GREATNESS OF THE WEST.

Behold the NEW FIELD, which is daily opening before the swelling tide of emigration! Look at Iowa and Wisconsin, and thence onward to the Rocky Mountains! The Mississippi has been passed, and Illinois is no longer the frontier boundary. Already are her citizens selling their lands to go to the "new purchase," or Iowa. This settles the alternative, that the Home Missionary must either follow in the wake of emigration to the Rocky Mountains, or the tide of ignorance, together with every variety of scepticism and sin, will rise higher and higher, until, in its reflex influence, it rolls over the beautiful monuments of Puritan intelligence and piety in the East. The same "causes which transferred the sceptre" of power and "civilization from the banks of the Euphrates and the Nile to the shores of Western Europe," now in operation, are transplanting a prodigious population from Western Europe to the plains of the Mississippi. And what power is there to stop the unparalleled growth of our nation from spreading over an unoccupied western world? There is every thing to urge the enterprising sons of the West onward. An untenanted and luxuriant country is ever opening before them. No ocean rolls between them and the promised land. A few days' journey establishes them in a home of their own. Besides, they have the assurance that they will be closely followed up by civilization and a dense population.

The five states, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Missouri, contain 231,128 square miles, or more than territory enough to constitute fourteen states like those of New-England and New-York. And when they contain a population of equal density on the square mile with Great Britain, they will number more than 53,000,000. Nor is it incredible that, at a future day, such will be the denseness of our population. For if England can sustain them, we surely can with our immense agricultural resources.

Add another item. The single state of Illinois contains upwards of 16,000 square miles more than all New-England, excepting Maine. With a population, therefore, no more compact than that of Old England, here is territory enough to contain the entire population of the United States, according to the census of 1830. Who are to provide for the spiritual wants of the future multitude, that will doubtless live and prepare for eternity on these prairies? Who will lay the broad foundation for their salvation? What a question for the present generation of ministers and church members to answer!

That the mass of mind, hereafter to be congregated in these plains, will exert an influence proportioned to the vastness of this western continent, no reflecting Christian can doubt.—What shall this impression be? Shall it be for Christ or Belial? Will it mitigate or augment the sufferings of apostate man? Here is the problem for the church to solve. On it, hangs the all—the eternity of millions yet to exist! And if the ministry would meet the question with an interest, only in part befitting its intrinsic importance, it would be the harbingers of salvation to multitudes, who will otherwise be offered like hecatombs on the altar of sin!

TEMPORARY EMBARRASMENTS OF THE WESTERN CHURCHES.

Some disappointment has been expressed by the friends of missions, that after all the expectations of speedily placing the western churches above dependence on foreign assistance, they continue so needy, and their ministers suffer so much from an inadequate support. And many are ready to blame the community there, as wanting in a right appreciation of the Gospel, and sacrifices to sustain it.

In mitigation of this censure, it ought to be borne in mind, that the western states were made the scene of the speculations of 1835 and 1836, which were carried on mostly by eastern adventurers. In the subsequent revulsion, distress overtook almost all the enterprising men in those states. They were plunged at once into the greatest perplexity, from which many of them have no hope of ever extricating their fiscal concerns.

Whatever the western states now have, with which to pay their debts to the east, must first be raised from the earth by agriculture. But when they have thus raised it, they have, in some cases, no currency for which it can be exchanged; and the indebtedness of the community to the eastern cities must be met, by sending forward the products of their soil, before relief can flow back to the mass of the people. Hence it comes to pass, that so many of the churches are less able to support the Gospel without assistance, than they were five years ago. But, they must not be neglected. All the causes which oppose the progress of religion are at work and strengthening with every passing month. The operations of Home Missions must, therefore, be urged forward in these times of darkness, as well as in times of light.

THE WEST MUST NOT BE ABANDONED.

And here, we take occasion to enter our protest against the inference, which some good people at the east draw, from the present embarrassments of the western country. There are not wanting men, from whose standing in the churches more practical wisdom might be inferred, who speak of the enterprise of saving that broad and goodly land, as if it were a failure. They regard the pecuniary trials of the new states, as if they were fatal to all evangelical effort,—as if prayer, and the word and Spirit of God, which the last year flowed over the West in one vast wave of blessing, were less powerful, or the souls of the teeming thousands less valuable, than in 1836. The very men, who, by their rage for the government lands and by flooding the West with eastern capital, spread the contagion of worldliness, to an extent to which mere western resources could not have carried it, now charge their disappointments to the people of the West, and visit their chagrin upon her feeble churches and struggling colleges. This is wrong. We must stand by our brethren. All sober-minded philanthropists, who value the Mississippi Valley, not for the per centage which it returns for pecuniary investments, but for its intrinsic moral importance, will stand by her churches, her schools, and her ministers. The causes of depression are temporary, and doubtless will ultimately prove a blessing, by driving back a class of adventurers, clerical as well as lay, who were crowding into the new settlements, it is feared, with too much sensibility to their supposed physical attractions. These depressions, too, have been in temporal, rather than in spiritual things. It is our sincere belief, that to the minister who goes to the West, actuated by the spirit of his Master, it presents a field more desirable, more hopeful, as to the best sort of success, than it has at any previous period.

DIFFICULTIES,

NO GOOD REASON FOR AVOIDING THE MISSIONARY WORK.

But what is there in these difficulties, after all, that should deter ministers from engaging in the missionary work? Some things, it is true, are peculiar to the new settlements; but by far the greater part of the discouragements that beset the missionary's path, are of a kind that exists every where in our land—that grows out of the times, the commercial and political state of the nation. To set down all this to the account of the West, and make it a reason why ministers should not emigrate thither, is unfair.

But admitting that western life is all made up of self-denial and toil, and that a settlement at the East is, on the contrary, a guaranty for every comfort—has it come to this, that the lambs of Christ's flock are all to be fed and folded—except those that are scattered in the wilderness? that his servants may choose what part of his work they will do—omitting, however, all that is repulsive and toilsome? Have our young ministers, and others who are not disqualified by the act of Providence, no better reason to give for their backwardness, than that "ministers have hard times in the West?" We would affectionately ask of such, Brother, who gave you this honor, that you should be a minister of Christ? For what end were you called to this responsible station? Did Heaven take you, a worm of the dust, and endow you with the gifts of the ministry, for your own sake—to enable you to stand up more prominently before the world, to gain a genteel livelihood, without soiling your hands, or corroding your heart with cares? Was it only to affect the refined and the graceful,—to do “the fancy work” of the ministry—that you were plucked as a brand from the burning? And who, then, is to go away into the wilderness, and grapple with the bear and the lion, and feed the flock of God, amid perils and privations?

But they greatly misjudge, who think that the life of the self-denying missionary is one of little or low enjoyment. True, his external comforts may be few and homely, and his trials may be such as often drive him to his God for consolation. But then, he finds it there. There is, oftentimes, in the very absence of human supports, a distinctness of realization of the divine favor, that excels, in the luxury of its enjoyment, every other pleasurable feeling. When the missionary, in his journeys of mercy, finds himself away in the centre of some vast prairie, with neither tree, nor rock, nor habitation, nor work of man within the circle of his vision, and feels himself to be, as it were, in some other sphere, alone with God, he has a perception of the being, majesty, and presence of the Creator, which in the crowded town, and amid the intrusive vanities of men, he never knew. So, when, one by one, his heart lets go its hold on “creatures, earth and dust,” and he retires farther and farther from the world, and comes to feel the absoluteness of his dependence upon Jehovah, there rolls in upon his soul such a sense of the richness and all-sufficiency of God, that he glories in his tribulations, and exults in the very trials which are the occasion of such a blessed experience. Nor is it in this way alone, that he meets a reward. To commune with some praying saint in a cabin of the forest; to meet some wanderer, just in the crisis when his feet may be turned back again into the right way; to be able, by one word of the Gospel, to chase the gloom of years from the mind of some mourner; to kneel by the bed of the dying, and to hand up, as it were, the liberated spirit in faith and prayer to the Saviour,—these are sources of happiness that gush forth at every step, refreshing him, like the rivulets that cross his pathway, with unexpected joy.

APPEALS FOR MINISTERS.

MISSIONARY LABORS IN A WIDE FIELD IN INDIANA.

My labors have been spread over quite an extent of country, perhaps greater than you would think advisable—but, all things considered, no greater than to us seems necessary. My missionary field is nearly 30 miles square, and of late I have been earnestly invited to enlarge it, by going about 30 miles south of the Wabash, and 70 north of it. I spend a little more than half of my Sabbaths in this place. Here I preach twice on the Sabbath, and superintend a Sabbath school. During the week, I hold a prayer meeting, visit as much as I can from house to house, distribute tracts, &c. Once a month, I ride about 21 miles east, and preach in two different places of some importance, on the Sabbath. On this tour I am always absent three days, and sometimes a week. Once in three months, I ride about 30 miles northeast, to a small Presbyterian settlement, where I organized a church last spring. On this tour I am absent about a week, visiting the sick, distributing tracts, &c. I preach as often as I can on the Sabbath, in as many as five other places. Since I began to cultivate, or rather to ride over this moral waste, there have been some hopeful conversions; one of the subjects has since died, I trust, the death of the righteous. In several of these places, good manifestly has been done. The number who attend meetings increases, Sabbath schools are organized, and reading meetings on the Sabbath held. I cannot but think that the way is preparing for great good here, and that God has mercy in store for this people.

APPEAL FOR A MISSIONARY, AND FOR AID.

From a Committee of the Holston Presbytery, Tennessee.

We are fully persuaded, if you could examine the destitute churches, and their scattered members, within the bounds of Holston Presbytery, and perceive what their spiritual wants and exigencies really are, you would, at our repeated and united entreaties, do your utmost, that a qualified Gospel missionary, sent out by your Board, might itinerate and labor among them; provided, he should receive half his support from the contributions of the people under our Presbyterial oversight. So much we feel authorized to promise for your encouragement; and will endeavor punctually to see fulfilled. We have a number of vacant churches, and these have many scattered members, whom the ministers of the Presbytery are utterly unable to supply with preaching, and an adequate pastoral care. We think we know, in some degree, the great usefulness of your Society to the christian cause in the destitute parts of our extensive country; and earnestly desire that it may be augmented a thousand fold. We have no confidence in shibboleth exclusiveness and sectarian zeal, to subdue and sanctify the rebellious heart of man. But to such influence, our destitute people are continually exposed. It is our desire, that they may hear, receive and obey the law-honoring, God-exalting, heart-melting, and soul-saving Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ, as he has directed, that it be preached to every human creature. We want to see the time come, when the churches and people, that shall receive needed supplies by your missionaries, shall show themselves able and willing altogether to support them; and all the destitute shall be fully supplied by installed ministers.

MEN ARE WANTED.

The county in which we live is destitute, to a great extent, of evangelical ministers. Many neighborhoods are open to me, but I cannot supply them all. I am compelled to turn away many who come and earnestly request me to preach in their vicinity. I have thought that if some of our ministers who are stopping in our eastern cities, and settling down in small congregations in the old settlements, could survey the actual destitutions in the great valley, they would be constrained to take up their cross, and enter this extended moral wilderness, to spend and be spent for the salvation of souls.

CAN THEY BE FOUND?

Who will listen to our calls? Who will come and build, as did the faithful Paul, on their own foundations? Who will have the patience and intrepidity to lead an infant church through all its vicissitudes up to vigorous manhood? Such are the men we need; and they, too, are the men who will reap a harvest of glory in heaven. But can they be found? If not, well may we go back to the tomb of Paul, and long for the resurrection of the spirit which has so long slumbered there!

SOME OF THE SEED WITH WHICH THE WEST HAS BEEN PLANTED.

Men are here meeting, from all parts of Europe, to compare the merits of their respective creeds. And each will contend warmly for the territory which they all claim. Depend upon it, truth will be compelled to join issue with all the varying and multiform errors, that have ever convulsed society and ruined mankind. Here, is to be the spot for making bold experiments. The errorist selects the West, as the appropriate soil in which his system will luxuriate. The revolutionist abandons the well fortified institutions of the East, to commence the work of convulsion and overthrow, where he finds the mind afloat and ready for a change. In a word, every doctrine has its advocates, and every system has its adherents. The standing rule of a large portion of our population is, "Give every man a hearing." The consequence is, every man makes proselytes.

What a novel spectacle do these facts exhibit! Here are minds collected from the four winds. They are held together by no fixed principles, no homogeneous preferences, and by no long established usages. On what new consolidation they will finally settle down, remains for the future historian to describe. How much does such a population need to be followed up by men of strong minds, of sound judgment, of established principle, and of ardent piety.

APOSTATE PROFESSORS.

From a Missionary Report.

Within a few days, the Spirit of the Lord seems to be moving on the minds of some of the congregation. Two or three give evidence of a change. A man and his wife, who were professors in New-England, but who have cast off fear and restrained prayer, had forsaken the house of God ever since they have been in the country, and made the Sabbath a special day for visiting and trading, are now powerfully wrought upon by the Spirit of God. A few weeks ago, the man could curse and swear, and fear no evil; now, both of them feel their sins to be beyond the pardoning mercy of God.

We have another man in our neighborhood, a member of a Presbyterian church in —, a man of considerable talent; but the most wicked man I ever saw. Swearing and lying are trifles in his course; and his enmity against the Gospel, and ministers of the Gospel, is of giant growth.

If such specimens of eastern professors are scattered over the goodly land of the west, can the eastern churches do less to counteract their evil influence, than to send faithful missionaries, and furnish such support as shall leave them free to set forth the truth in all its majesty and power?

From another.

There are also, scattered up and down through the community, many individuals who once professed religion, and are members of churches at the East, some with, and some without letters, who stand aloof from the church here, and live like the impenitent world around them. Some of them, in addition to their evil example, are skeptical, and exert an influence directly against religion; and they are a great stumbling-block in the way of sinners.

VARIOUS EXTRACTS FROM MISSIONARY CORRESPONDENCE.

SHALL WE HOLD ON?

Our little church has been diminished by deaths, removals and suspensions, for the last year or two, more than it has been increased by additions; and although the ability and willingness to support the ministry has increased, the growth is very slow. Not more than half enough can be raised per annum. I suppose the church will ask for renewed aid in the support of their pastor. Whether it should be granted, I do not know. I desire to have no choice in the matter. My desire is, that the funds of your heaven-born Society may all be appropriated in the most judicious manner. They are the contributions of the pious, and often of the pious poor. I sometimes almost fear to receive funds thus raised. True, the small amount granted by your Society is the chain that binds us together—that is, I see not how I could sustain myself among this people without it; and amid all our discouragements, I have never seen a time when I thought it my duty to leave. I trust the way is preparing for the ingathering of many precious souls. We have two Sabbath schools, numbering near fifty scholars each—and very respectable congregations on the Sabbath. I usually preach twice or thrice during the week. There seems to be a steady and increasing attachment to the benevolent institutions of the day—and particularly to the H. M. Society. I am willing to remain in this field another year—yea, even till death, if such be the Lord's will.

INFLUENCE OF THE PILGRIMS.

Though nothing of special interest has transpired since my last report, yet, the marked change that has taken place both in the natural and moral aspect of my field since the date of my first commission, is truly cheering, and begins to remind us of the flourishing settlements and thriving villages, together with their exalted social privileges, in the land of the Pilgrims. The grand impressions, entamped more than two centuries since upon their institutions, and, upon their immediate posterity, have characterized every subsequent generation in their various locations, and are beginning to be every where visible in this then unknown and heathen land; and shadow forth the same features which are about to be given to other generations, and even to other countries.

THE SONS OF THE PILGRIMS IN THE WEST.

Many are the privations to which good families are still subjected, from the want of comfortable houses and clothing, and food, improved lands, teams, and farming utensils, and from their remoteness from schools, meetings, and market. There is, notwithstanding, a good degree of contentment and cheerfulness, and a disposition to make efforts for improvement. The sons and daughters of the Pilgrims are here, and none but such, are adapted to a region so new; and from what has been done here in four years past, in the clearing of wild lands, building of houses and barns, and in the construction of roads, with so few hands, and with such small means, and in the midst of so many discouragements, we may infer, that with the ordinary smiles of Providence, in a few years this wilderness will become a fruitful field, and with the influences of Divine grace, Zion here will arise and shine, extending her borders and displaying her comeliness.

VISIT TO A DESTITUTE PORTION OF MICHIGAN.

The recent death of a relative at the east made it necessary for me to leave home, and visit some friends almost at the northern extremity of white settlements in Michigan, on the shore of the lake. This afforded me the opportunity to preach two Sabbaths, viz: once at Moskegon, and once at Grand Haven, Ottawa county. At the former, I was the first minister of any denomination that ever addressed them in a public discourse on their eternal interests. And though the day was cold and stormy, (being the last Sabbath in October,) and the snow full one foot deep, and no paths trodden, yet I had a respectable and very attentive audience, whose beaming eyes, often suffused with tears, bespoke the adaptation of the glad tidings of salvation to the wants of men—even worldly men—who had banished themselves and families from the religious institutions and privileges of their fathers, to secure earthly treasures that elude their grasp, or if secured, are contemptible compared with the worth of the soul that is hazarded to attain them! Often, while among them, did they express a wish to enjoy the labors of a faithful minister, and a willingness to contribute liberally towards his support. Nay, many of them are determined to do this, or leave for places where they can. But when I think of the many just such infant settlements on the borders of our vast lakes, at the mouths, and all along on the banks of our noble rivers, on the wide-spread and beautiful prairies, and in the midst of the dense and luxuriant forests throughout the length and breadth of this mighty valley—perishing for the Gospel—I feel impelled to lift up my soul with importunity to the great Lord of the harvest, and pray that he will thrust out more laborers, for the harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few.

Often have I thought, while meditating on this subject, could the great mass of our ministering brethren at the east be eye and ear witnesses of these destitutions and wants, only once during their ministry, the result would be such a simultaneous coming up to the help of the Lord, on the part of the churches, that there would be no lack of men or means to possess this goodly land.

AN AFFECTING INTERVIEW.

"They fainted, and were scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd."

"This section of country has been settled for more than twenty years, and yet hardly the trace of a christian minister can be found, from 50 to 100 miles around. The Campbellites have done 'what they could,' and are still doing—but no good. A few Sabbaths ago, I saw in my congregation a weeping stranger—a lady upwards of forty years old. After sermon, I introduced myself to her. She took my hand with a convulsive grasp, and with a faltering voice asked the blessing of God upon me. She informed me that she had moved, with her husband, to this country, some twenty years before, from the state of New-York, and brought with her a letter of dismission and recommendation from a Presbyterian church; that she still held it in her possession, for want of an opportunity to unite with any church. She said she longed for the communion, and had a few times partaken with the Campbellites, but could not do it again. 'You,' said she, as she sobbed aloud, 'are the first Presbyterian minister I have ever seen in this state, and I have come fifteen miles to hear you preach; and, I bless the Lord, I am well paid." Could our eastern christians have heard her cries, and seen her tears, I am sure they would say, "Send forth missionaries, and we will sustain them;" or, could they see the destitution of this country, a spirit of compassion would be stirred within them.

DEATH OF A CONVERT.

In my last I gave you an account of Mr. H., a wicked man, and dealer in ardent spirits, who had been a professor of religion, and who died in wretchedness. I now have a death to record, which is the reverse of that. Among a circle of fifteen of our young people, who stood together in our sanctuary last fall as fruits of the late revival here, to make public profession of the religion of Jesus Christ, was Mrs. S., a young married lady, having one sweet child. A solemn, holy joy seemed to pervade the whole company. The countenance of Mrs. S. particularly indicated this. From that time, she has seemed to be living for heaven. In the latter part of the winter, her health declined; and finally it was found, in despite of medical skill, that consumption was fixed upon her slender frame. For three months, during her last sickness, she had an opportunity to display the deep workings of the Spirit of God on her heart; and to exemplify the christian graces under these trying circumstances. Two or three weeks ago, we laid her in the grave. The scenes of her death I have not room to describe. Her reason was bright to the last. When I entered the room, and perceived by her pulse her situation, I said, "you are with us now, but you will not be long;" she answered, "No; the shorter the better. I need to be patient. I am going to my beloved Saviour." I can undertake no description of her address to her father and sister, who came in while I was there, and who were not professors. She was more than twelve hours dying, and many persons heard her appeals. I can only say, it was the eloquence of death, and there were some as choice specimens of the language of heaven, as we can expect this side of the glorious reality. One such death-bed scene, seems to make my labors and my trials light. How many of them—were they all that you have—would it require to compensate your Society for its labors and expenses? Mr. S. had stood by the side of his wife when she made a profession, and now seems to be sustained by comforts which earth cannot give nor take away.

SCATTERED MEMBERS OF THE FLOCK.

From our Missionary at Green Bay.

As I came within 70 miles of home, I began to find the scattered members of my church, and found it very pleasant to spend an hour or two in each family, leaving tracts and giving such counsel or reproof, as seemed necessary. Buried in the deep forests of Fox River, I found an aged mother of this church, who has six daughters living within a few miles of her, five of whom are married, and all of whom have hope that their sins are pardoned through the blood of Christ. When such families people the wilderness, will they not soon blossom as the rose?

JUST IN TIME.

There was a beloved and substantial member of this church who hoped that he gave his heart to God this last year. He was a young married man. Until the commencement of this year he had lived entirely indifferent to religion; and when I first preached in his neighborhood, it was a matter of surprise to his neighbors, that he should go to meeting. He and his wife came into the church in July, giving most satisfactory evidence of true conversion. The last time I saw him, he led his three children to the baptismal font and gave them to the Lord. His work thus done, he died, leaning upon the support that David said would sustain him while walking through the dark valley.

But he is not the only one in this place that I hope has given his heart to God during this year, as blessings attending the means that you have helped to sustain, and which without your help would not probably have been used. O tell the rich churches, that $125 has been the means of building up a church of 28 members on the frontiers of our nation; and what is more than all, of gathering precious, immortal souls into the Redeemer's kingdom, and of feeding those who are famishing for the bread of eternal life! O yes, tell them, SOULS ARE PERISHING, and unless help arrives soon it will be too late. To have neglected this place one year more—Oh how different the condition of some of its late inhabitants! Methinks I hear R. K. G. praising his Saviour and his God in Paradise, for the beneficence bestowed through you for the last year.

GRATEFUL RECEPTION OF AID.

I have received my commission; and I assure you that it was received with grateful acknowledgments to your Society for the timely aid thus proffered me in my present embarrassed situation. My mind feels relieved from the pressure of trouble, and I look on your Society, as an angel of mercy to minister to the afflicted, consolation and hope amid depression and want.

THE SABBATH GAINING GROUND.

The effects of the Gospel are distinctly seen in an increased respect for the Sabbath. Our town is now a noiseless retreat for those who wish to keep "holy-day." One fact as an illustration. An individual who was entirely reckless of the claims of the Sabbath, who spent these consecrated hours in hunting, fishing, &c., neglected to provide a sufficient quantity of fuel on Saturday, for the Sabbath. He, therefore, went into his yard, late in the afternoon, and commenced chopping. And when he returned, he says to his wife: "Well, I never heard an axe sound so loud before!" A year before, half of the inhabitants might have engaged in this business without exciting notoriety.

The above are some of the visible results of the Gospel in this place, the past year. But its secret, invisible effects, must be left until the "books are opened," and eternity makes its solemn disclosures.

TOO POOR TO LIVE WITHOUT THE GOSPEL.

Until recently, we had no church. But the few brethren residing here, felt that it was not proper for them to remain as sheep scattered on the mountains, with no one to look after them. After consultation, and with the assistance of a neighboring missionary, we united in the formation of a Presbyterian church. It is composed of nine members—four males and five females. A few others will join us the first opportunity.

Our number, as you perceive, is small; our means are equally so. But we feel ourselves to be too poor to live without the Gospel. Hence we have determined to support a minister half the time, provided the other half of his support can be secured. At the earnest solicitation of ministering brethren who knew our situation, and took a deep interest in our affairs, the Rev. — has been induced to visit us. We hailed his coming with joy, and are making every effort to retain him among us. By the advice of the ministers referred to, we now apply for $100 aid, with the hope that another hundred may be obtained from some other source.

REMARKS.

It is surely a blessed work, to nurture these little plants in the vineyard of God. Happy is that minister whose privilege it is to hold the cup of salvation to such thirsty lips! How much better is it to preach to those who "desire the sincere milk of the word, that they may grow thereby," than to cater for the morbid and critical appetite of churches full to satiety! How many ministers, did they but know the things that make for their comfort, would forego the temporal advantages of a settlement at the East, and seek some humble spot in the wilderness, where they might lay the foundations of future society, and renew, as it were, their own youth, and live over again in all the freshness of a first love, the varied joys and trials of their early professional life!

A CONTRAST.

The church here has been formed about 6 years. It first consisted of 13 members; now, there are over 70, beside several who have gone out to constitute the nucleus of each of the two churches formed in the vicinity. This region, formerly, was one of moral desolation. Universalism, infidelity, intemperance, and Sabbath-breaking, were common up and down our streets. But few attended meeting any where. It is said, that two weeks since there were ten or eleven religious, evangelical meetings on the Sabbath, all in this town; and that there might have been 1000 people who attended them. This, however, is a time of revival in many parts of the town, and there were more meetings and more out than usual.

A MISSIONARY'S APPEAL TO THE EASTERN CHURCHES.

Brethren and fathers, in the providence of God, our lot is cast in a Gospel land, we have a goodly heritage; yet we are separated far from you. Bone of your bone, and flesh of your flesh, we have not lost natural affection by coming to the West. Parents have children, brothers have sisters, churches have members, who have come to this western clime exposed to the prevailing evils of the day. You are therefore interested for the West. It is well—for if you are not, I know not who will be. The son, the daughter, the missionary, the world, the Saviour, are looking to you. They look to you for help, and your willingness to help awakens joy in heaven and gratitude on earth. We glory in your religion, in your acts of benevolence. Yet we have somewhat against you. You in general do not do what you might for the West. I know of many churches in the state of New-York who are able to support their own minister, and also a missionary at the West, easier than our public churches can raise $100 for their minister. I had many delightful interviews with brethren in New-York and Vermont, which will always be refreshing to my heart; amid the darkness and storms of this life, the scenes of christian communion through which we pass, are often the themes of review, and we love to mention the name of those dear friends, who, when the request came from Ohio, "Come over and help us—we have not had a Gospel sermon in a year," &c., said, "Go, go; the Lord be with you; go, publish the message of salvation to sinners. We commend you to God and the word of his grace." With them I sang, and prayed, and wept—and to these and kindred spirits, I like to write, and give them my present views. When I tell them that $200 will not lessen the comforts of their houses, and with our own efforts will help us to one; or $400 will help us to two, such as we need, I trust they will not be offended, nor cry out—"that the claims of the West cannot be satisfied."

SUCCESSFUL EFFORTS TO PROMOTE SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The attention of the people has seemed to be called to the subject of Sunday schools for some time past, and the inquiry has been frequently made, "What can be done to make the Sunday schools more interesting, and secure a better attendance?" My health and strength have been such, that I have not felt myself warranted in spending much time in school, as it is held in the intermission, and I find the two regular services, and the Bible class at 5 o'clock, as much as I can well attend to. About the first of July, however, I remained in the school—the matter was talked over, and a committee appointed to visit and get in pupils. Particular reference was to be had to getting into the school the whole congregation, a majority of whom have usually spent the Sabbath quite differently. The next Sabbath, immediately after the forenoon exercises, we went among the people, and "compelled them," by our persuasions, "to come in." We succeeded beyond our expectations. From 40 to 50 had been our usual number heretofore, and we at once gathered 79 who took the place of pupils, although they were old and young. The next Sabbath the effort was repeated, and the result was we had 97, besides the teachers. Our meeting-house is now "too strait for us." One class of married ladies meet in a neighboring house, and we have formed an infant Sunday school, which had last Sabbath 21, in all amounting to 111. And we are confidently expecting a further increase. This effort, or something else, has given a new impulse to my Bible class, and its number is increasing. Last Sabbath we had 26.

Such is the immediate result of a little effort, and I have been thus particular in the hope that others would be led to follow the example. We hope for great and good results. God's word is probably more extensively studied, in this community, than ever before.

THREE YEARS' MISSIONARY LABOR—FURTHER AID NOT NECESSARY.

It is now three years since I commenced preaching the Gospel to this people.—When I came here, the church had enjoyed the stated administration of the word of God, but for a short season. They had no house of worship, and had done little or nothing for the cause of benevolence. There were then about 90 members, as appeared by the church records, but a number of them had removed from the place, without taking letters. Since that time, 33 have been dismissed to join other churches, and 3 excommunicated—leaving little more than 50 of the original members. Ninety-two have been added, making our present number near 150. Those excommunicated have not walked with the church since I came here. The society have a respectable place of worship, and are now able to support the Gospel without further aid from the A. H. M. S. They are thankful for the assistance afforded, and intend, by the blessing of the Lord, to repay it into the treasury of your Society. The first year they raised only $150 for my support. This year they have agreed to raise $450, and they are able to do it.

AFFLICTION DEMANDING SYMPATHY AND AID.

There has been, during the last quarter, the usual attendance upon the means of grace among those who have enjoyed health. Many of my people have been visited with sickness, which has prevented them from going to the sanctuary, or the place for religious conference and prayer. My own family have drank largely from the same bitter cup. My wife has not been able to attend public worship for four months, except recently in a few instances. At times, I have felt almost ready to sink under my cares and labors by day, and watching at night; but underneath us have been the arms of the Almighty, sustaining us, while we have been led in a way which we know not, and seen darkness become light before us, and crooked things straight.

The trials of ministers and people, in places like this, are peculiar; they can be better felt than described. I am confident, that if my christian friends at the East knew one half of them, they would sympathize most deeply with us, and watch the arrival of every mail, hoping to learn something more favorable in regard to our circumstances.

“MY EXTREMITY WAS GOD’S OPPORTUNITY.”

Before the receipt of my commission, I despaired of relief; and the very day it came to hand, I had made up my mind that I could not possibly be sustained any longer. True, we were not reduced to the lowest extremity; but myself and family were almost entirely destitute of shoes, and many articles of clothing, which are essential not only to decency, but comfort and health; and I had no means of obtaining them without money. I have not yet received a farthing in cash on my salary since I have been on this field, which is now near two years. My people could not obtain it, and therefore I could not. Still, the thought of leaving was very painful to me. But my extremity was God's opportunity; and the promised aid of your Society was the more grateful. Although it was less than I had hoped it would be, yet I can assure you it was productive of feelings that are not easily described. We felt that, at least some of our wants would be relieved; and when our family came around the domestic altar, I think I can say in truth, that with heartfelt sincerity we unitedly offered up our thanks to “Him from whom cometh down every good and every perfect gift,” for the special mercy conferred on us through your Society. Yes, my dear brother, missionaries at the West know how to appreciate the Home Missionary Society; and would that its value were known from “sea to sea, and from the river to the ends of the earth.” Then would its treasury be abundantly replenished, and through its instrumentality and munificence, this whole western wilderness would “blossom as the rose!”

SUPPORT OF THE GOSPEL ASSUMED.

The church and people over whom I am placed in the Gospel, feel it their duty to attempt my support, without farther aid from your Society. They also wish me to say, that they do not consider their connexion with you as having ceased; but, that grateful for the efficient aid which for so many years they have received at your hands, and without which the ordinances of the Gospel could not, probably, have been sustained among them, they mean still to remember you in their prayers, and from time to time, as God shall give them ability, in their contributions. To help you in the present emergency they have undertaken to raise the instalment now due from your Society on my last quarter.

LIBERALITY.

"A THANK-OFFERING TO THE LORD."

From a Letter to the Secretaries, from a Clergyman in the West, after a visit to New-England.

"DEAR BRETHREN—Enclosed I send you thirty dollars to constitute my mother, Mrs. —, a life member of the A. H. M. Society.

"My parents have seven sons and two daughters—all married and settled in the world, and all professors of religion. We are scattered over five states, at a distance of a thousand miles asunder.

"We were all permitted to assemble at an appointed season under the paternal roof, and, on the last Sabbath, to come—a family of twenty, parents and children—around the table of our common Lord and Master.

"My father is 80 years of age; my youngest brother is about 30. We are all in health and in comfortable circumstances. For the distinguishing temporal and spiritual mercies bestowed upon us, we felt it a privilege to make a thank-offering to the Lord. The sons constituted our father an honorary member of the A. B. C. F. M., by a donation of $100, and the daughters wish to constitute their mother a life member of your Society."

SACRIFICES OF FEEBLE CHURCHES.—THE WIDOW AND HER DAUGHTERS.

These are but little known and still less appreciated by the world at large; for the spirit which prompts to self-denial for the honor of Christ, is that meek and retiring spirit which shuns the gaze of man. And even when it is known, that "a certain poor widow" has cast in "two mites," who but the Saviour knows how to estimate the gift? Who considers that it is, in fact, a greater sacrifice than the costly offerings of the rich? One of the reports (from Mass.) thus alludes to such a widow: "She was one of the twelve who were organized three years ago as a church of Christ in this place. She had three daughters of mature age, all in an unconverted state. They are now all members of this church, in good standing. They have no means of support but their daily labor, and one of the daughters has been an invalid all summer; yet the family has contributed $10 this year for the support of the Gospel." No small proportion of a minister's salary in many a feeble church, comes from such sources.

A DONATION FROM SOLDIERS.

From Rev. C. Kingsbury, Choctaw Nation.

I have been much interested in reading the Home Missionary, which is kindly sent me, but have been often exceedingly pained by the accounts of hardships and trials, and the very inadequate support of those worthy men who are laboring under the direction of the H. M. Society to establish the Gospel, and to extend its blessed influences through our new settlements in the West.

We are but a feeble band, in the midst of a vast natural and moral wilderness, but we have felt that we ought to do something. At Fort Towson, where I preach one fourth of my time, we proposed to devote the collection at the monthly concert in April last, to the A. H. M. S. Eight dollars was the amount. A friend added two more. And before that week closed, we were cheered by the letter of Major Childs of Florida, [See Home Missionary for April, 1840,] enclosing to you a generous donation from Fort Pierce.

I have now the privilege of adding twenty dollars more, being part of a legacy left by Corporal John R. Smith, who died last winter at Fort Towson. He was a member of our little church, and left his property to be applied to benevolent objects. The above twenty dollars is the portion we have allotted to the H. M. Society. Enclosed you have my draft for the whole amount. I wish it were in my power to send you a much larger sum.

ADDRESSES

AT THE FIFTEENTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE A. H. M. S.

ADDRESS OF MR. SPAULDING.

Resolved, That the Report, an abstract of which has now been read, be accepted, and printed under the direction of the Executive Committee.

On presenting the above resolution, the Rev. J. SPAULDING, from Illinois, remarked :

Let this report go out to communicate its facts, and lay its great principles on the conscience and heart of the nation, and an echo will come back that will make the church glad.

Twelve and a half years ago, a missionary with his companion passed over the Alleghanies with the view of finding a home, and the expectation of finding a grave, somewhere in the wide West.

They paused a day to rest on the banks of the beautiful Ohio. The October frosts had just turned the forest foliage into gold. The Indian summer was just spreading out its glorious mantle. The past, and the future and every thing around, awakened serious thoughts. Before them was the Ohio, and its sentinel hills, just as God made them. The home of their youth was nearly a thousand miles off. A new home was to be found; new acquaintances formed; new friendships made; new labors performed; new scenes passed through. With what tenderness, and fervor, and faith, that humble pair knelt in the chamber of the tavern, and commended themselves to God, another day will tell. Another day will reveal the results of their labors, in the field where this Society has scattered its richest seed, and gathered its richest harvests.

Would that I could take these friends of Home Missions, this evening, over that great field. I should love to introduce you to the venerable elder, who, twelve and a half years ago, took the newly arrived missionary by the hand, and, with tears in his eyes, said : "God has heard our prayers, and sent us a minister."

I should love to introduce you to an aged physician and his son—they would remind you of Jacob and Joseph—both of whom were wedded to infidelity, till the missionary came, preaching pardon and peace through Jesus-Christ.

I should love to show you the spot where the first church was formed in one of the new counties. Do you see that house on that gentle slope of the hill? That is the spot where the congregation sat to hear the word of life. And the well? There the preacher stood and told the thirsty of the water of life. There was the tabernacle, the pillars of which were the huge beech trees, and its covering the sky. There the first Presbyterian church in that county was formed; elders were elected and ordained; and there a band of about 11 sat down with their Lord at his table.

And there is a spot, in a neighboring county, of scarcely less interest. I will call it Shiloh, for there the tribes were wont to meet for worship, before the building of their present temple on Mount Moriah.

The church at Shiloh was made of logs, and its seats were rough hewn slabs. In this humble place were collected followers of Jesus for some 20 miles around—met to celebrate his dying love.

Two of the young men of that neighborhood, and present on that occasion, have since passed through a regular course of study, and are now preaching the Gospel.

Among those who presented themselves for admission to the church and its ordinances on that occasion, was an intelligent Scotchman. "Once," said he, "I was a member of a Seceder church in Pennsylvania. Ten years ago I came and opened a farm in the Ohio forest. Here I have seldom heard preaching, and have had no opportunity of coming to the table of our Lord. I love him, and his doctrines; his ordinances and his people. I am hungry, and desire once more to come into his house and partake of the children's bread." On being asked "whether, in public and social worship he could sing any but the old version of the Psalms," he replied, with the warmth of a Scotchman's heart : "Bless your soul, I can sing any thing when with the people of God!"

From Ohio we may pass into Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, into the North and South; and then, with the Report, trace the great thoroughfares, and traverse the empire rivers of the West.

From particulars we may pass to general facts, illustrating the power and blessedness of the Gospel; and showing the glorious results of the efforts of the A. H. M. S. God has owned its labors. The Holy Spirit has descended to render them efficacious, and angels have rejoiced over souls renewed, and sins forgiven.

Review the statements of the report; 80 missionary congregations blessed with revivals within the past year; 3,285 hopefully born into the kingdom of God—a larger number than crowds the Tabernacle this evening. So many just commenced the song that shall never end. Moreover, more than 54,000 taught in Sabbath schools and Bible classes; and more than 64,000 enrolled in the temperance army!

Look at these facts; and behold the pastures of the wilderness dropping fatness; the valleys covered over with corn; the little hills rejoicing on every side, and all the trees of the field clapping their hands.

Look at what has been done, and lift up the heart in thanksgiving to God. Look at what remains to be done, and lift up the prayer for more laborers in the field.

And one prayer more—For the means? You have them already. For the heart and the hand to sustain those laborers. FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS above the receipts of the last year is all the Executive Committee ask. Shall they not have it? Will you not see that they have it?

Then the epitaph, said to have been engraved on the tomb stone of Atolus of Rheims, may with propriety be written on yours:—"He exported his fortune before him into heaven by his charities, and he has gone thither to enjoy it."

Or, what is infinitely better, you may hear from the lips of your Saviour and Judge: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

ADDRESS OF MR. BACON.

The Rev. Mr. BACON, of New-Haven, Conn., moved the following resolution:—

Resolved, That the great work to be accomplished for the salvation of men in this land, and by this land, imperiously demands a speedy and extensive enlargement of Home Missionary operations.

Mr. B. remarked in substance as follows:

I feel no small embarrassment in undertaking to sustain the truth embodied in this resolution. It may seem, sir, a small thing to come here to make a holiday oration. But when I think of the vast interests that are involved in this subject, I feel under a great responsibility. The destinies allotted even to individuals are great and important; how much more so, those of nations!

The history of the world turns on the impressions given to it by a people or a nation. Ancient Greece has impressed her arts, her taste, her habits, her mind, upon all the world down to this hour; and to a very great extent there they will remain impressed until the end of time, to influence and to sway the nations of the world. And so it is and has been, and will be, with conquered, prostrate Rome—beautiful even in her ruins. And so also, was assigned the same kind of destiny, though of a higher order, to the scattered nations of Israel. The law of the Lord went forth from Zion, and his light from Jerusalem; and it was destined that the nation should give forth to the world a Saviour of men, which is Christ the Lord. Thus, from that small district, influences have gone forth that must modify the destiny of the human race, not only to all time, but also exert an influence on the eternal condition of unnumbered millions.

And there are two nations now on the face of the earth, that are destined to exert an almost boundless influence upon the rest of the world. I mean England and the United States.

Look at Great Britain, spreading her empire over the world—over continents and islands of the sea; she, whose boast it is, that upon her dominions the sun never sets—what a destiny is allotted to her! How she sends forth her colonies, and a strong tide of emigration to the remotest corners of the globe! Now, in all her movements to sustain her march of empire, her first duty is to christianize her own dominion. That is her first and her obvious duty—to send out missions to her own colonies, and thus to christianize her own empire. The very relations she bears to her dependencies, her wealth, her facilities of influence, demand that she should give every subject of her vast dominion the opportunity of salvation. And what a work it is. How might it enlist—I may say, how might it exhaust all the energies of the people of God in the British empire to carry on that effort. And I feel bound to say that if they were to confine themselves to christianizing their own people, they would do their part in relation to the salvation of the world.

That she has the means at her command, for this object, if they were only brought into requisition, is evident. A few years ago, I was travelling with a minister of the church of Scotland; and I learned a fact at which I was completely astonished. It was, that at that moment, there were supernumerary clergy in Scotland to such an extent, that, if every pastor, and the incumbent of every parish, from Johnny Groat's House to Land's End were to die over night, all their places might be filled in the morning.—There were so many candidates, educated for the ministry, always waiting for the dead men's shoes. Let Great Britain send these men forth to evangelize her colonies. There would be ample employment for them all, in the territories of that nation, whose banner shines in every clime and floats on every sea, and on whose soil the sun doth never set.

And I would have the American people to know, that the destiny of this nation is a no less brilliant and important one. Its duty is to christianize the land, from the mouth of the Oregon to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Its missions should spread over every part of it, its missionaries throng every hill and valley; until the school-house and the church should be found on every hill top, side by side. Such is the duty of this country; and such I would see accomplished. Then would the world see a sight, — "Such as earth saw never, such As heaven looks down to see."

This is our mission and destiny, a mission and a destiny more august than any possessed by the ancient republics of Greece and Rome—to make this land the light of the world—a fountain of light eternally streaming forth to enlighten all the lands of the earth; while our own walls should become salvation and our gates praise.

And now the question is, are we awake as we ought to be to the importance of fulfilling this destiny allotted to us? That it is our destiny no one doubts. We know it, as clearly as if a voice had spoken it from Sinai; as clearly, as though a ministering angel had come to tell us what we had to do. We all see it—we all know it. There is not a heart that does not feel the truth of this, and recognizes it as the legitimate destiny of the American people.

Let us, then, do our part in christianizing mankind, by christianizing our country; and our voice shall go forth to the world trumpet tongued, as it has ever since the discovery of this country by Columbus. Every revolution and change here, has had its after-clap upon the Eastern continent. It has been so with every political and commercial movement, and it will be so with every religious one. Like the reverberation which follows the discharge of the electric fluid; the thunder that breaks from one cloud is answered by the echo from another. So the revolution here, in its after-clap, shook down thrones in the old world, and changed the destinies of kings and empires; and its effects are only just beginning to be felt now. Kings know this, and princes know this. Every change here has a corresponding change in the old world.

Are we then awake to all this? Do we indeed know it? And if so, shall we be traitors to the high destiny allotted us for the redemption of the world, for which Christ died? For this reason, I would respond to the demand of the Executive Committee, that they may advance and extend their operations all over this country.

The report says, that progress has been made in the face of recent embarrassments. The Committee have done well, with what they had entrusted to them; but have the churches done well, with what has been entrusted to them? Let us go back to the collapse of 1837. Just before this, there was a demand for men to go forth in behalf of the churches and the cause of missions, and to preach the Gospel to all the world. This demand was felt and acknowledged in every workshop, field, and farm, and there was a corresponding feeling throughout the land; there was a waking up of interest in the hearts of the sons of the church, and the inquiry was, "what wilt thou have me to do?" Then came the shock. And some 20, ay 30, and 40 men who had devoted themselves to the cause of missions in Pagan lands, and to the conversion of the heathen, at the solicitation of a single Board, were told "we cannot send you out as yet;" and again, they were told, "You must wait longer, we cannot send you out yet;" and finally they were told "We cannot send you out at all."

This institution felt the same shock. The churches were embarrassed and perplexed, and knew not how to go on. The Committee did well, under the circumstances, to prevent entire bankruptcy; but the churches needed more aid; and more of them needed it than ever. And then was heard the loud cry of distress from the West, that the missionary was suffering and must have help. And the result of this was, that in the seats of learning the feeling waxed cold, and the spirit of enterprise and devotedness to missions waned amongst them; and the question arose in the heart of many a one looking forward to the sacred office—not, "What can I do for Christ?" But "Where shall I get a settlement? How shall I live?"

What then could be expected, but languor and coldness in the heart of the churches, and fears that the ministry would grow secular? What could we expect under such circumstances, but that the churches would be crowded in upon by a superfluous number of ministers; until here, as in Scotland, for every one that has a parish, or a congregation, there is one waiting to step into the dead man's shoes?

This cannot be, if the cause of Christ is to flourish. Religion could not but languish; she would lie down and perish beside her own altar. No, sir. There must be a waking up to the responsibilities that rest upon this great nation. A revival, in every sense of the word, must take place. The word will be, that "the banner of the Cross must go on," over the whole land, over every river, and mountain, and plain, and hamlet, from conquering, to conquer; and other territories be subdued by the Gospel, and new names in geography be enrolled on the banner of Jehovah and his religion. Already we have Wisconsin and Iowa—names that might make Quintilian stare. And we shall add to these "Dacota" and "Oregon," and others far more strange in sound, from far over the Rocky Mountains.

The time has now arrived, my friends, when we want something more than politics, or a political change, to save us. When I heard my brother who has just spoken, describe the church in the western country built of logs, I thought to myself, those are the only log cabins that can save the nation! And wherever the people worship God, whether under the broad shade of the beechen trees, or enclosed with logs, or within a temple like this, there is the refuge for the stranger—there is the house of God, and none other than the gate of Heaven—and there is the hope of our Israel found.

There never was so deep and universal an impression in the public mind as now, that politics are not a safe-guard from sin, or an adequate hope for the people; and that both are only to be found in the kind protection and loving kindness of God our Father.

God has lately spoken to this nation. I have thought of the language of the prophet, "In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord sitting on a throne, high and lifted up." So this year, having met with a great national bereavement, the people are ready to acknowledge the hand of God and their dependence on him—to see the "Lord," and to regard his supremacy—"high and lifted up"—and no longer to rely on political changes and convulsions, but on his power, grace, and love, to defend us. Our confidence must be in these; and in the institutions of Christianity; and in the institutions of the Bible; and the preaching of the Gospel of Christ; and the Sabbath schools; and all those influences which make a christian people; for it is these, and not armies or navies, nor the boasted wisdom of rulers, nor violent political changes or excitement that can save our country.

We talk of wanting $50,000 more than last year. Suppose that for the lack of that sum, to bind us all in one common faith and one common hope in God, by the strong ties of religion, the nation, by and by, is convulsed with the violence of war. How long would $50,000 last in support of civil war? How far would it go towards suppressing a single insurrection? And yet, how cheerfully the most enormous sums would be paid, without grudging, in support of such things! But how large a sum does it appear, when required for the service of the Lord? How much, let me ask, would it cost to navigate a single ship of war? How much would it cost to send her on a cruise? Why the $50,000 or the $150,000 which this Society needs, would be but a drop in the bucket. And yet, employing the $150,000 as we propose, is the very way to save armies and navies and munitions of war, and millions of blood and treasure to the country. The influences of this Society, if poured on the national legislature for a single session, would save that amount a hundred times over. For there is no way in which money can be expended which will tell so effectually, as in expending it for such purposes as these: to extend God's kingdom, and to secure peace on earth, righteousness and good will among men!

The foregoing sketch is made from brief notes, and presents but an imperfect outline of the eloquent remarks of Mr. Bacon.

ADDRESS OF DR. PATTON.

Rev. Dr. PATTON, of New-York, presented the following resolution:

Resolved, That there is demanded in behalf of the church and the ministry, united and fervent prayer for the outpouring of the Divine Spirit; that not only this land, but the entire globe may be speedily subjugated to Christ.

Dr. P. remarked:

The object contemplated in this resolution, is one of noble grandeur. It is the subjugation of this entire globe to the dominion of Jesus Christ. It seizes upon the most spirit-stirring motive to arouse and engross the affections, to marshal and render them tributary to the church of God.

It is a matter for devout thanksgiving that the human mind is becoming familiar with the amplitude of the work to be done. There is scarcely any institution for benevolent action, that proposes to itself a field less extended than "the world." If the Bible is to be circulated, it is that every family may possess this inestimable treasure. If the religious tract is to be distributed, it is that ultimately these messengers of mercy may, with regularity and certainty, be carried to every human being. If the Foreign Missionary is commissioned, it is that he may kindle heavenly fires on sacred altars wherever man is found. And when the Home Missionary Society beholds with intense interest, the desolations of our own land, and aims, with a holy purpose and a steady heart to supply all the waste places—even in this, it looks out upon the deep necessities of a perishing world. As it is by the strong and healthful pulsations of the heart, that the life-stream flows vigorously to the extremities; so are all the plans which contemplate the spiritual good of the heathen, dependent on the state of religion at home. Unless piety be ardent and devoted here, in vain shall the cries of the heathen break upon our ears. No one will go to their relief, and no means will be furnished to carry forward the operations of redeeming love. There are home fires, that must be kept brightly burning with a steady flame, or no impression will be made on the massive darkness which enshrouds the globe.

Dr. P. proceeded to remark—that it was a subject of congratulation that men begin to think of the world—that they have become so familiar with its claims, as a subject of christian effort, as to admit the practicability of its conversion, and seriously to attempt it without delay. This, he continued, is coming up to the amplitude of the divine arrangements—this is entering into the spirit of Christ, who tasted death for every man, and whose commission includes in its comprehensive mandate, “every creature.” O, it is refreshing, on these high days, to come forth from our narrower stations, and to stand upon the lofty places of Zion, and look abroad upon the vastness of the field! Familiarity with the ennobling grandeur of the object, imparts expansion to the soul; while confidence in the promises and exhaustless resources of God, should inspire a noble daring and magnanimous self-denial.

The speaker adverted to the language of the resolution, in which the means of accomplishing the world's conversion is said to be fervent prayer—the simplicity of prayer. It is this which connects all the moral machinery on the earth, with the agency which alone can give it life and efficacy. The testimony of the Bible to the value and necessity of prayer, is full and explicit. It tells us that every agency that prayer has sanctified is mighty and must prevail. When Abraham stood before God and interceded for Sodom, the divine wrath waited, patiently waited, till he had done pleading—as though the clouds could not pour out their liquid fire, until prayer was ended. The Bible tells of battles won; of the heavens shut and opened; the sick recovered; the dead restored; and of many wonders wrought by the agency of prayer. It reaches far into the future, and foretells triumphs of prayer yet to be won: “My house shall be called the house of prayer for all people.” “O thou, that hearest prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come.” “From the rising of the sun even to the going down of the same, my name shall be great among the Gentiles; and on every place, incense (prayer) shall be offered unto my name, and a pure offering.” The interest awakened, shall be deep and thrilling. “It shall come to pass that there shall come people and inhabitants of many cities, and the inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, let us go speedily to pray before the Lord, and to seek the Lord of Hosts,” &c. &c. This shall not be an occasional and impulsive measure; but shall become the regular and continued movement. “And it shall come to pass, that from one new moon to another, and from one Sabbath to another, shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the Lord.” The Bible speaks of the angel, who shall stand before the altar, whose work it is to offer the prayers of the saints—that when these prayers are presented with the column of incense, then he shall take fire from off the altar and cast it upon the earth, “and there shall be voices and thonderings and lightnings, and an earthquake.” O, it is prayer—it is prayer, that shall yet shake and upheave the deep foundations of the earth! Nor should the saints be alarmed, when they behold strange and violent commotions among the nations—one dashing against another—for it is thus, that the accumulated prayers of all the saints are answered. It is thus, that God will overturn, and overturn, until, at the name of Jesus every knee shall bow. “The nation and kingdom that will not serve thee shall perish; yea, those nations shall be utterly wasted.”

Of all human agencies, none takes so commanding a position as prayer. The history of this world, as it is written by the pen of inspiration, is the history of prayer. For this is the power that moves heaven. Yet it is the power which may be wielded by the humblest and obscurest saint. It will doubtless be found in the great day, that many a popular and prominent man will be set aside; whilst the retired, but pleading disciple, will be brought forth to great honor, as having alone, in her closet, wrestled with the angel and prevailed—

“Whose silent prayers and labors Heaven employs
To do the good, while others make the noise.”

Dr. P. next adverted to several particulars, for which intercessory prayer is greatly needed.

First, for the wider extension of REVIVALS OF RELIGION. A kind of public sentiment in favor of serious things must be produced, or the lack of moral courage will prevent men from attending to the soul. Revivals must become more frequent and powerful—thousands must be brought in where hundreds now are, or there will be no advance on the kingdom of darkness. There is no such thing as hereditary piety; the children of the pious need conversion, as well as others. It is only by conversions, that the places of the departed can be supplied, and an increase of members secured. Rich and blessed as have been the revivals of past years, they have scarcely made any impression on the great mass of the ungodly. They have, as yet, put an end to no one form of iniquity. They must be increased many thousand fold. Revivals are needed for the elevation of piety—the enlistment of personal services—the increase of benevolent action—and for giving right views of many topics which need to be seen through a more spiritual medium. Your Report, Mr. President, tells of 3,285 hopeful converts brought into the churches under your patronage during the year past. Could you send out your mandate and assemble them all here to-night—could we see the hundreds from Illinois thronging into yonder gallery—the other hundreds from Wisconsin in these seats on the left—and those in the centre filled from Ohio and Indiana, until this whole edifice were crowded with the results of your labors; and you should see the feelings of grateful joy, sparkling from their eyes—and remember, that all these are the fruit of but one year's blessing on the labors of your Society; we should see an illustration of the preciousness and the need of revivals. None expect revivals without prayer. O then, let prayer ascend in mighty columns, for enlarged and powerful revivals, until the "plowman shall overtake the reapers," and nations shall be born in a day.

Second—for the RIGHT KIND OF MINISTERS. This topic of prayer is specified by Christ: "Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers." None question the need of more ministers. The fact, that a few—everlasting candidates, shall I call them?—hang around every vacancy in the older states, does not disprove it. There are many and important places to be supplied, but these men do not go to them. They, unfortunately, are unfitted for the work, or for some other reason, either of mind or of heart, of debt or of matrimony, are detained among the green fields of New-England, and are not found among the rough places of the West. In illustration of the qualifications of the ministry needed, Dr. P. cited the devotion of the followers of Abu Thaher, the chief of the Carmithans. Being called upon by the opposing general to surrender, this chieftain asked the messenger, "How many men has your general?" "Thirty thousand," replied the officer. "Among them all, has he three like mine?" Then, ordering them to approach, he commanded one to stab himself, another to throw himself from the precipice, and a third to plunge into the Tigris. All three instantly obeyed and perished. Then, turning to the officer, he said: "He who has such troops, need not regard the number of his enemies." And shall the followers of the blessed Saviour count their lives dear unto them, or permit their coward selfishness to chill the ardor of their devotion to Him? No—no—never!

The third particular for which prayer is needed, is that Christians may be SECURED AGAINST THE TRIALS to which they are exposed. The speaker here alluded to the temptations of worldliness at the present day, as a severer test of piety, than even the persecutions of the early ages. Many a man could cheerfully go to the stake rather than formally deny Christ, who yet virtually does it in practice every day. Satan has changed his policy. Persecution he found to be a losing game; its fires were the light-houses, that illumined the track of the church in her path of conquest. Had the devil continued the work of persecution, he would, long ere this, have burnt himself out of this world, and left this globe, a glowing emblem of the intense splendor and power of true religion. Perceiving how it worked, he warily changed the plan of his attack, and instead of loading the christian cause with ignominy and suffering, he poured in peace and prosperity, and threw around it the pomp and splendor of the court. He gave the church great favor with the emperors, and from the time that Constantine became a patron of the true religion, its power began to decline, and soon there settled down upon the world the deep, long night of the dark ages. Since then, every time that persecution has unsheathed her sword, the cause of Christ has moved forward with grandeur and with strength. Emphatically, the periods of her suffering have been the periods of her greatest triumphs; whilst the times of her worldly prosperity have been the seasons of her coldness and infidelity. What now holds the church in such inaction? What now holds it in such open rebellion against the acknowledged will of her Lord? Why is it, that with such wealth and such numbers, so large a portion of our own land is still destitute of the Gospel? What steals away the church's strength? O, it is the spirit of worldliness, which has entered the house of our God, and now makes the disciples of Christ false to their master. The observing John Wesley once said, that he had known but four men, whose piety had not declined through their becoming rich. Later in life, his experience had taught him to declare, that he knew not one, whose piety had not been injured by the blighting influence of wealth. Not that wealth is a talent, which may not be so used, as to promote spirituality and growth in grace; but, that it is held back from its legitimate use. O, it is the subtle, poisonous spirit of the world, which is now withering the mighty powers of the church of God! It throws abroad its fascinations; under the semblance of refinement, it pleads with the frank-hearted Christian; in an evil hour he listens to its syren voice; it fastens upon his heart—and then, farewell, spirituality—farewell, every feeling of high devotion—the gold has become dim, the most fine gold changed! Much and ardent prayer is needed, when Christians are surrounded by such temptations. I know not that this kind can ever be driven out, but by prayer and fasting. Then let there be prayer, and let there be fasting—if needs be, fasting for forty days. It must, O, this demon must be expelled. The interests of a bleeding Savior, the cries and agonies of a ruined world demand it!—Let us then gather round our HOME altars; let us build them up where they are not now erected; let us kindle on them holy fires; let there go up from them all, mighty columns of incense, that shall plead with God to keep us all from the world, and to make us to live for CHRIST and Christ ALONE.

By feeble congregations, should contain the following particulars, viz:—

The name of the church or congregation; the number of communicants, and the average number of attendants on public worship; the denomination and size of congregations immediately contiguous; the total amount of salary which the applicants propose to make up; the portion of that salary which they can raise for the given time, and the least amount that will suffice from the Society for that period. These statements should be signed by the trustees and elders, or by a committee of the congregation, and confirmed by the certificate of two or more clergymen acquainted with the facts. Also—

The name and post-office address of the minister whose services they desire to secure; his credentials; and the certificate of two or more ministers of known standing, as to his general character for piety, zeal, and acceptableness as a minister of the Gospel.

The appropriations of the A. H. M. S. are, ordinarily, for twelve months from the time of application; at the end of which, if further aid be needed, a new application must be made. And each congregation applying for renewed aid should furnish, in addition to other testimonials, the certificate of the Missionary, that they have fulfilled their previous pledges for his support.

It is desirable that applications should be addressed to the care of the Agent, Committee of Correspondence, or Auxiliary Society of the A. H. M. S. for the region where the applicants reside; but in case of doubt as to the name or residence of such Agents or Committees, applications may be sent directly to the office of the Parent Society, addressed to one of the Secretaries.

SIXTEENTH REPORT.

WELL may the patrons of the American Home Missionary Society, as they come together to celebrate the Sixteenth Anniversary, inquire, with solicitude, of those to whom they have entrusted the management of its concerns, "Watchmen, what of the night?" The year now closed, no less than several which have preceded it, has been one of distressing embarrassment in the business affairs of men—it has been one of trembling and apprehension to our associations of benevolence. To this institution, a year like the past, sending the influence of its derangement and its distress into every city and village and hamlet of the land, is the more severe, as it increases the wants, and multiplies the number of those whom we seek to bless, while it withholds from us the means which we could otherwise command for the accomplishment of our benevolent designs. Had there been no higher source of confidence and hope to encourage us, than those can look to, who are engaged in enterprises purely secular; had not help come to us, which no human wisdom could devise and no human arm vouchsafe, with less cheerful hearts and less joyful tidings, should we come before the friends of missions now to tell them the history of the year. To HIM—whose cause, the cause of missions is—and whose love to it is infinitely greater than that of his children can be, to HIM do we owe it, that we are able to say to the friends of this institution, that its course, the past year, has been ONWARD! The light of Heaven has been thrown upon its pathway—the gifts of Heaven have been poured into its treasury—and the richest blessings of Heaven have descended upon the fields of its culture.

The details of the Society's operations are embraced in the following

SUMMARY OF RESULTS.

The whole number of missionaries, named in the foregoing table and in commission during the year, is 791 ; being 101 more than were in the service of the Society the preceding year, and 5 more than the largest number, which the Society has ever before had in commission, on the American field, in any one year since its organization.

This increase of laborers is especially gratifying, when considered in connection with the fact, that the greater part of it has been in our new states and territories—in the infant communities of our frontier settlements—where the foundations of christian institutions are to be laid speedily, if laid at all. In the territories of Wisconsin and Iowa, the number of missionaries has been more than doubled during the year.

Of the missionaries reported, 548 were in commission at the beginning of the year, and 248 have been since appointed.

The locations of the missionaries are in 23 different states and territories, in Upper and Lower Canada, and in Texas, distributed as follows : in Maine, 73 ; New-Hampshire, 50 ; Vermont, 54 ; Massachusetts, 83 ; Rhode Island, 3 ; Connecticut, 42 ; New-York, 187 ; New-Jersey, 11 ; Pennsylvania, 49 ; Delaware, 2 ; Maryland, 1 ; Virginia, 1 ; Georgia, 1 ; Tennessee, 8 ; Ohio, 66 ; Indiana, 24 ; Illinois, 50 ; Missouri, 6 ; Arkansas, 1 ; Michigan, 36 ; Wisconsin, 19 ; Iowa, 12 ; District of Columbia, 1 ; Lower Canada, 9 ; Upper Canada, 1 ; and Texas, 1.

The number of congregations and missionary districts supplied, in whole or in part, is 987 ; exceeding the number of the last year by 125 ; and the amount of labor performed is equal to 594 years—being 93 years of labor more than were reported at the last anniversary, and 30 years more than have ever before been reported in a single year.

The number of pupils instructed in Sabbath schools and Bible classes, under the supervision of the missionaries, is not far from 64,300.

The amount contributed to various benevolent objects, by 288 congregations—the whole number from which we have reports on this subject—is $14,476 69, verifying the statements of former years, that more than 40 per cent. on the amount appropriated in aid of feeble churches, is paid back by them, during the year, into the different channels of christian benevolence. Very few churches responded with more promptness and liberality to the call of the American Board, the last autumn, than did many of the missionary churches. Almost as soon as intelligence could be received, after the Report of the Board had reached the most distant parts of the land, we were told of missionary churches, individual and associated, in Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, and beyond the Mississippi, resolving to increase their self-denial and their sacrifices, at least twenty-five per cent., that theirs, too, might be the privilege of helping forward, in difficult times, the work of God among the heathen.

The cause of Temperance, in connexion with the labors of the missionaries, has made advances, during the year, that have no parallel in the history of the Society's operations. The impulse given to this reformation, in our cities and older settlements, has been felt in every extremity of the land. Whole households, whole congregations and whole districts of people, of large extent, and with the exception of scarce an individual within them, have been brought under its power. Not less than 134,000 souls are pledged to entire abstinence from every thing that can intoxicate, in the communities which have been blessed by the labors of the missionaries—a number more than twice as large as was reported the last year. And in addition to these, in places out of the fields committed to the special care of the missionaries, but in which they have labored day and night in this cause, there are multitudes, which we cannot number, who have this year, for the first time, taken their stand under the temperance banner.

But a testimony, for which we should be still more grateful, that God has smiled upon the missionary cause, we have in the fact that he has accompanied the preaching of his ambassadors with the demonstration of his Spirit. Seldom has it been our privilege to speak of a larger number of revivals, in connexion with the missionary stations, and those of more interest and power than have been enjoyed the past year, especially in the last half of the year. Many of these revivals are still in progress, and the results cannot be told. In 109 congregations, however, we are able to say, that God either is or has been, during the year, specially present; and the number of hopeful conversions, reported by 288 missionaries, is 3,018.

And who would send back these thousands of new born souls into a state of unregeneracy—break down the barriers which this temperance pledge throws around the morals and the hopes of these scores of thousands—disband these Sabbath schools and hand over the children to the dominion of ignorance and the corruptions of infidelity—shut the doors of these sanctuaries and scatter the members of these churches like lost sheep upon the mountains; who would recall this little army of soldiers of the Cross from their work of conquest—make the heavens over these destitute places as brass and the rain upon them powder and dust—dry up the little rills of charity, that flow from them to make glad the city of God—silence the voice of prayer and praise in these concerts for a world's conversion; who would take from the bereaved, the sick and the dying, through all these regions, their consolation and their strength—sweep away the domestic peace, the social order, the intellectual improvement, the enjoyment of the good things of this world, and the enrapturing hopes of a better life, which the sanctifying of the Sabbath, the influence of the ministry, and the power of the Spirit of God have given in these fields of missionary labor, for all which it has cost the churches to secure them? Who will not rather, as he contemplates, here, these results of missionary action, in all their diversified, momentous and endless relations, and especially, as he looks back upon them, and looks forward upon them, from another state of being, wish that it had been his privilege to make his offerings in this cause a hundred fold greater than they have been?

THE TREASURY.

The balance in the treasury, May 1st, 1841, was $2,827 79; and there have since been received $92,463 64—making the resources of the year $95,291 43.

The amount due to missionaries at the beginning of the year, was $10,186 53; and there have since become due $96,899 36—making the liabilities of the Society for the year, $107,085 89.

Of this sum $94,300 14 have been paid. The remainder—$12,785 75—is still due to the laborers, who have performed their service and who are worthy of their hire, and towards cancelling which, there remains in the treasury a balance of only $991 29.

The receipts, above reported, are $7,050 30 greater than those of the preceding year. This is but a small advance, compared with what the Committee hoped, at the beginning of the year, to be able to report—compared with what they then stated seemed to them to be the least, which, in view of the urgent necessities of the cause, they ought to ask of the churches of Christ. The receipts of the first four months of the year encouraged the hope, that the much needed augmentation of pecuniary resources would be realized. But in the autumn and during a part of the winter, the receipts, instead of continuing to increase over those of the corresponding months of the preceding year, actually fell below them; so that the whole amount received, during the year, from the ordinary contributions of the churches, is not quite equal to that reported at the last anniversary.

For the entire portion of the hoped for increase of funds, which has actually been placed at the disposal of the Committee, special thanks are to be rendered to that gracious Providence, whose care of this institution has been so conspicuous from its origin, and who has, this year, brought it supplies, in unwonted measure, from sources and through channels which his eye alone can discover and his hand alone control. The amount received in payment of legacies, during the year, over and above the amount received from similar sources the preceding year, is $7,837 23; the excess being greater than the excess of the entire receipts of the year now closed over those of the previous year, by $787 93. To God, then, be special praise, for the cheering results, which it is our privilege, at the close of another year, to communicate to the friends of missions.

THE COMING YEAR.

We enter upon a new year with an increased amount—$12,785 75—already due to the missionaries—with an increased amount—$35,536 63—of pledges to be redeemed—with a hundred and one more missionaries in the field to be sustained—with a work before us, greatly augmented, by what we have failed the past year to do, and by the rapidity with which it every year grows upon our hands. To do more of this work, with the same amount of means, can hardly be hoped for; inasmuch as retrenchment and economy in appropriations, have already been exercised, till there seems no longer a place left for them. That God should make windows in heaven, or send us enlargement, the coming year, as he did the last, from the treasures of the dead, we may not anticipate. It is for the churches of Christ—the disciples of Christ—the lovers of their country—the benefactors of mankind, every where through the land, to say, whether their contributions to this cause shall this year be increased, as its necessities demand, and the work, by this means, be carried forward. Our destitute fellow countrymen never needed the gospel more ; never did so many of them need it. Infidelity was never more eager to corrupt them ; God was never more ready to bless us, in our efforts to save them. Never will the difficulties that impede our work be so few ; never will the same amount of expenditure be so available. This, this is the day of our country's salvation ! “ARISE, saith a voice from heaven, AND THRUST IN THE SICKLE, FOR THE HARVEST OF THE LAND IS COME” !

And shall the harvest perish because the reapers are few ? Whence have come the one hundred additional laborers the past year, and what has brought them into the field, if it be not, under God, the resources of the church which have been pledged to sustain them ? Let these resources be increased in due proportion, in coming years, and other hundreds will go forth to gather the wheat into its garner. The providence of God will raise them up. The people of God and the Spirit of God will train them for their work ; nor will they cease to be multiplied, till the watchmen shall see eye to eye and the Lord shall establish Zion. Be it the great work of the friends of missions, then, to invite the laborer to his field—to follow him, in all his life of self-denial and privation, with their sympathies and their prayers—to minister to all his necessities, with the liberality that becometh saints, and to rejoice with him, as he sees the wonder-working power of God, through his instrumentality, turning the desert into a fruitful field. Be it the delightful purpose of every friend of Christ and of his country, to enlarge his gifts and multiply his offerings in this blessed cause, from year to year, as the providence of God shall call for them, till it be proclaimed from heaven, “enough, ENOUGH, the sanctuary of the Lord is builded—this land has become Immanuel's, and the earth is full of the knowledge of God.”

AUXILIARY SOCIETIES AND AGENCIES.

MAINE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Maine Missionary Society—the oldest benevolent institution in the state, and occupying a territory as large as all New-England besides—has prosecuted its work, the past year, under serious embarrassments, yet not without manifest tokens of the divine favor.

Seventy-three missionaries have been in commission, and $7,249 99 have been expended in their support ; while but $5,817 17 have been received into the treasury from the contributions of the churches ; the Trustees having been obliged to borrow $1,500 to meet the claims of the missionaries who have fulfilled their commissions. We trust the friends of Christ, who have so nobly sustained this Society hitherto, will not suffer its usefulness to be curtailed or impeded, while there remains before it yet so much land to be possessed—"Destitute places are calling with more and more importunity upon the institution," says its Secretary, Rev. ELIPHALET GILLET, D. D., "for help, and nothing, but restricted means, prevents it from occupying the whole ground, to which God in his providence seems to be specially inviting us, by the revivals of religion, both in the missionary churches and in those that aid them, which have seldom been more marked and extensive than at the present time."

And the language of the Trustees, in their last report, shows us how deep an interest they feel in the success of their brethren, whose labors are directed more especially to our western valley : "That immense tide of population," say they, "which is pressing on with overwhelming power towards the setting sun, must be followed up with the preaching of the gospel of the grace of God—the doctrine of Christ must every where drop as the rain, and distil as dew upon the mown grass, as the showers that water the earth, then shall that extended region, skirting the Pacific, become like the garden of Eden. Such an influence, diffused over our whole land, would indeed make it the heritage of God."

NEW-HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society has, during the year, celebrated its fortieth anniversary. The men whose wisdom and zeal, energy and prayers, brought it into existence have, most of them, ceased from their labors. Six only of the twenty-four fathers in Israel, whose names are recorded as the founders of this Society, are yet numbered with the living. But the churches which have been planted and nurtured by the instrumentality which they set in motion—the redeeming influences which have gone out from hundreds of sanctuaries—the many souls that have been converted in these once waste places of Zion—these, are an imperishable monument to the memory of those, who laid the foundations of so benevolent an institution.

Fifty-three congregations have been blessed by the beneficence of this Society the last year ; 32 of them with the regular ministrations of the Gospel, and the remainder with partial supplies. Several of them have also been visited with the special influences of the Holy Spirit. Fifty missionaries have been in commission, at an expenditure of $4,396 62. The receipts of the Society have been $4,321 63, and $662 57 have been paid by the state into the treasury of the Parent Society.

"Fidelity to the truth," says the Secretary of the Society, Rev. BENJAMIN P. STONE, "compels us to say, that the state of our treasury was never more discouraging. Our receipts, the last year, have fallen off more than $500, while our appropriations have not been diminished, and the calls for aid have been increased." "In other respects," he says, "the aspect of the Home Missionary field in this state is still one of encouragement and hope. Though the number of revivals has been less, during the year, than in some preceding years, still the gradual advancement of morals and religion in many places, and the steady increase and delightful harmony of most of the churches under patronage, are most evident indications of the smiles of Heaven upon the cause in which we are engaged, and they are more than enough to compensate all its benefactors for the small sacrifices which they have made to sustain it."

VERMONT DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Vermont was early entered, as a missionary field, by the Connecticut Missionary Society; and churches were planted there under its auspices, which are now among the most flourishing and vigorous in the land. These churches have, from their infancy, been sending out their pious teachers, their educated evangelical ministry, into other parts of the state—into the remotest sections of our land, and to the ends of the earth; and the bright light, which they are now throwing upon the mountains and pouring through the vallies of the state, is guiding multitudes of her people to a better life.

The Missionary Society of the state has been in operation twenty-three years. During the last year, fifty-four missionaries have been in its service, the larger part of whom have devoted their undivided attention to particular congregations, and several of them have been specially blessed in their labors. The receipts of the Society, so far as reported, have been $2,769 27; and the same amount has likewise been expended.

The large field within the state, that yet remains to be occupied by evangelical institutions, calls loudly upon the friends of Christ to give this cause far greater prominence in their benevolent efforts. There are not far from sixty towns in the state, in which there is no Congregational church organization, and as many more where churches exist with no permanent ministry. Can the churches in Vermont be engaged in a more benevolent service, than that of giving to these destitute at their very door the bread of life? Can they devise better things for their country or for the advancement of the kingdom of Christ over the earth, than by making it their first and great work, to bring all their fellow citizens under the power of the world to come?

The Rev. SAMUEL DELANO, who has served the Society as its Secretary, the last two years, with fidelity and success, has, during the year, yielded to his predilections for the pastoral office, and been installed over the church in Haverhill, New-Hampshire. The Rev. CEPHAS H. KENT was appointed in January as his successor, and has since been actively engaged in the duties of the office.

MASSACHUSETTS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

There remained a balance in the treasury of this Society, April 1st, 1841, of $2,689 80; and the receipts, during the year, have been $15,635 91. The expenditures within the state, have been $11,562 05; $4,739 32 have been paid into the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society; and there remained a balance on hand, April 1st, 1842, of $2,024 34.

There have also been received into the treasury of the Parent Society, from the Hampshire Missionary Society, $1,510, from various individuals, congregations and auxiliaries, $2,150 40, in payment of legacies $5,669 65—in all $9,330 05; making the whole amount realized from the state to the cause of Home Missions, during the year, $24,965 96, which, including the amount received from legacies, is greater than the amount of preceding year by $3,782 92.

Eighty-three missionaries have been in the services of the Society during the year, ministering to not far from 10,000 souls, on an average from Sabbath to Sabbath, and distributing their pastoral labors among the 3,000 families from which these Sabbath congregations were gathered. At the date of the Society's last report, the churches aided contained not far from 4,200 members, nearly 500 having been added during the year, and ten of these churches had been blessed with seasons of special religious interest, and 200 souls had, in the judgment of charity, passed from death unto life; sixteen pastors had been settled, two houses of worship had been dedicated to God, six others were in progress of erection or soon to be commenced, and seven churches had changed the relation of beneficiaries, for that of benefactors to those who are now as needy as were once themselves.

The deep interest of the patrons of this Society in the work in which the National Institution is engaged, and for the advancement of which they make such generous contributions, as well as the enlightened and liberal christian policy which they would have pursued towards our unevangelized population, whether native citizens or strangers within our gates, is thus expressed in the last report of the Executive Committee, drawn up by the Secretary of the Society, the Rev. JOSEPH S. CLARK: "It is no longer to be doubted that the great events, and such as stand connected with the moral renovation of the world, are wrapped up in the future destiny of this nation, ready to be revealed by the action of just those causes which the spirit of missions is now putting in train. All the lines of Divine Providence seem converging to this one point. Even the growing numbers of the unevangelized among us do not form an exception; for a large proportion of these have come from less favored lands—brought hither in the providence of God, we may believe, not to overthrow our institutions, and change our customs, but to be WROUGHT UPON and RENOVATED BY THEM, if we are only true to the trust which Heaven has committed to our hands. We should reasonably expect just such a course of Divine Providence, were it known to be the will of God that this country should take a leading part in the regeneration of the world. Were it found written in prophecy, that the christian Church, which was planted on these shores 200 years ago, would attract the Gentiles to its light, and kings to the brightness of its rising, we should naturally presume that God would demand of us something more than missionaries to the heathen and the means of their support. These, of course, he would demand in large supplies; but we should think it highly probable that he would also bring multitudes from less enlightened lands to this, that they might be taught and moulded here, under all the advantages which free institutions and practical religion can afford. It would be wise economy, and greatly facilitate the work which he had given us to do. And if he should permit the Catholics to come in such numbers, as to render it extremely hazardous for us to neglect their salvation, it would only show more clearly what the mind of God was. It would be a still more impressive demonstration of the responsibility which he was putting upon us in regard to this world's conversion. Such, in fact, is the very aspect of his providence, in this particular, at the present time."

RHODE ISLAND HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society has had three missionaries laboring within its bounds the last year ; one in the village of Woonsocket, one in Washington village, Coventry, and one in North Scituate. The church in Scituate have enjoyed an interesting revival of religion, during the year, and hope to be able to assume, another year, the entire support of their Gospel institutions. Two other churches, that were recently receiving missionary aid, have taken themselves from the list of dependent churches, and now rejoice in the privilege of extending a helping hand to others.

The expenditures of the Society, during the year, have been $1,075.

CONNECTICUT MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Missionary Society of Connecticut, having for its object the building up of the old wastes within the state, is of more recent origin than the Society of the same name, whose missionaries laid the foundations of christian institutions in Vermont, in Central and Western New-York, in "New-Connecticut," and in states and territories still farther west. This Home Society had completed, at its last anniversary, the twenty-fifth year of its operations, and the report of the Directors holds up the present state of the feeble churches within their limits, in delightful contrast with their condition a quarter of a century since ; when, in the language of one who surveyed their desolations and made his report, "There were, in the state, districts as far from Heaven—and, without help, as hopeless of Heaven—as the Pagans of Hindoostan or China." Now, there is scarcely a spot in which a church can be gathered, with any prospect of permanency, where the sanctuary does not throw open its doors, inviting the people around it to the altars of God and the kingdom of Heaven. Sixty-eight feeble churches and waste places have been taken up by this Society since it commenced its labors, twenty-one of which are now sustaining the Gospel without aid.

The number of churches assisted the last year is forty-two ; and from the returns made, they seem to have enjoyed, in more than ordinary measure, the divine blessing. Several of them have been visited with revivals of religion, and the cause of Temperance has made great advances in many of the congregations—"I have been led, in view of these facts," says the Secretary of the Society, the Rev. HORACE HOOKER, "to ask, what would have been the effect in regard to revivals, and especially in regard to Temperance, of letting these weak congregations become or remain waste? Would the dews of grace have descended on these barren, uncultivated fields?—or, if so, would they have produced verdure and fertility? Would the voice of praise for sin forgiven have gone up to Heaven? Would so strong an impulse have been felt by the unhappy slaves of appetite to cast off their chains, and come forth to the liberties of men, and in some cases, at least, to the liberty with which Christ makes his people free? To keep so many congregations open to the reviving influences of the Spirit, and to the various intellectual and moral influences which, in this age, are moulding the institutions and shaping the destinies of society, is not a work of small import."

The balance in the treasury of the Connecticut Missionary Society, Auxiliary to the American Home Missionary, April 1st, 1841, was $4,610 59.

The receipts, during the year, have been $6,184 07, exceeding those of the previous year by $2,939 29. The expenditures, within the state, have been $4,421 27, and $2,000 have also been paid into the treasury of the Parent Society; leaving a balance in the treasury of the Auxiliary, April 1st, 1842, of $4,373 39. There have also been received into the treasury of the A. H. M. S., from the Home Missionary Society of Fairfield West, the Home Missionary Society of New-Haven East, and from various congregations and Ladies' Auxiliaries, $4,432 41, and from legacies of individuals $1,525 61; making the whole amount realized to the cause of Home Missions from the state, during the year, $12,142 09—exceeding the amount of the last year, by $3,576 03. Grateful mention should be made, in connection with this increase of funds, of the very efficient agency of the Rev. G. J. Tillotson, in the early part of the year, especially in Litchfield county; as well as of the temporary labors of Rev. Augustus Pomeroy in the eastern part of the state.

PHILADELPHIA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The field occupied by this Society—extending over the states of Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, Delaware and Maryland—includes an area of 70 thousand square miles, with a population of nearly 3,000,000. While many of the cities, towns and villages, which adorn it, are blessed with an able evangelical ministry, there are regions of destitution, of broad extent—some of them densely populated, and others, where the dominion of the forest is scarcely broken—that make their strong appeal to the churches of Christ, for the immediate establishment of the institutions of the Gospel.

The work of supplying these destitute places, and strengthening the things that remain in all the feeble churches within their limits, the Philadelphia Home Missionary Society has been vigorously and successfully prosecuting, the past year.

Sixty-one missionaries have been in commission; 45 of them in Pennsylvania, 11 in New-Jersey, 2 in Delaware, 1 in Maryland, and 1 in the District of Columbia. Thirty-eight of these have been employed as pastors or stated supplies, in single congregations, thirteen have had charge of two congregations each, and ten have occupied still larger fields. The Society has thus extended the services of the living ministry and the blessings of Gospel ordinances, to 80 congregations—the number of congregations being 15 greater, and the number of missionaries 12 greater than in the preceding year. Ten of the churches aided have enjoyed revivals of religion, some of which have been remarkable for their extent and power. Four new churches have been organized—seven houses of public worship completed and six others commenced.

Three hundred and seven have been added to the churches; 2,249 pupils are connected with their Sabbath schools, and 4,209 names are attached to the pledge of total abstinence from every thing that can intoxicate. “The cause of Temperance,” says the Secretary of the Society, Rev. ELIAS R. FAIRCHILD, “has made astonishing advances in almost every part of our field. Individuals, families, churches, towns and large districts, have reaped incalculable benefit from its influence.”

The expenditures of the Society, during the year, have been $8,579 92; and the receipts for the 11 months reported were $7,513 06. The subscriptions which have been made, and the collections to be taken up for the fragment of the year, since the date of the report, it was hoped, would make the aggregate of receipts fully equal to those of the last year, notwithstanding the peculiar difficulties which have been experienced on that field, in the collection of funds.

CENTRAL AGENCY, AT UTICA, N. Y.

The income of this Agency, during the past year, has been $3,743 47. In the same period, it has pledged assistance to 41 missionaries. These, with others whose previous appointments had not expired, make 52 laborers on this field, who have performed, since the last report, 40 years of ministerial service, in 55 churches. Seven of these churches are reported as enjoying seasons of special revival, while in others there has been more than the usual amount of spiritual refreshing. In 12 churches, 400, in the judgment of charity, have been born again, and upwards of 300 received on profession of their faith. Other signs of prosperity are also noted, such as the erection or improvement of houses of worship, and the strengthening of some congregations, so as to require no further aid in supporting the Gospel.

But the most signal event in the history of the missionary churches of this region, during the last year, has been the progress of the Temperance reform. The Secretary of the Agency, Rev. ABIJAH CRANE, remarks, that "the power of God has been as manifest in this, as in a general revival of religion. No instance is known, in which this peculiar movement has begun out of the bounds of a christian congregation, or where the Gospel was not preached. The work has not, as yet, spread over the whole territory, but as far as it has gone, the great mass of the people, temperate and intemperate, have yielded to its influence. In many places, nearly the whole congregation, and all within their bounds, men, women and children, have taken refuge from the burning element under the pledge of total abstinence." In addition to the immediate and obvious benefits of this glorious work, the observance of the Sabbath, and the attendance on public worship, have been, in some places, greatly promoted; and in several instances, these were but the commencement of still more important changes. Scarcely was the foul demon of intemperance expelled, and a hope awakened of temporal comfort, ere the Spirit of God entered to possess the soul, and cheer it with the joys of a christian hope.

For further particulars respecting this Agency, see its Report in the Appendix.

WESTERN AGENCY AT GENEVA, N. Y.

The labors of the Secretary of this Agency, Rev. JOHN A. MURRAY, have been more embarrassed by the prevailing pecuniary difficulties than in any former year. The same cause has rendered dependant on missionary aid, several congregations which had previously sustained the Gospel without assistance ; and has brought again upon the list of beneficiaries 4 churches, which were once aided, but had recently attempted to sustain themselves. The receipts of the Agency for the year, amount to $6,378 34, being $3,173 51 less than in the year previous. Nevertheless, there is a decided advance both in the number of missionaries and the amount of labor performed. Sixty-four appointments have been issued, making the whole number employed on this field 82, including those mentioned in the last report, whose terms of service extended into the present year ; and the labor performed by them, in 93 congregations, is equal to 60 years. Twenty-one of these missionaries were not in commission the previous year.

Among the more marked results within the bounds of this Agency since the last report, is the impulse given to the cause of Temperance. Nearly all the missionaries enumerate the trophies of this reform by hundreds, and one mentions that, in a single town, 1500 have signed the pledge of total abstinence within the year. By events like these, the moral tone of society has been elevated, churches have been filled with hearers, and the general interests of congregations promoted. Eighteen of these pastors have reported seasons of special interests among their flocks, which have resulted in hopefully reclaiming 500 wanderers ; and 345 have been, for the first time, received into the fold. Three churches have provided parsonages, and thirteen have within the year completed or commenced houses of worship.

For further particulars respecting this Agency, see its Report in the Appendix.

WESTERN RESERVE DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Twenty missionaries have been in commission, during the whole or a part of the year, on the field of this Auxiliary, and 17 of them have received their compensation from its funds. The amount of labor performed is about 12 years. Notwithstanding, local causes have prevented so harmonious a co-operation of the churches on this field with each other and the Auxiliary, as is desirable, there has been, at least, a strengthening of the things that remain, and that were ready to die : and also, in some cases, a gratifying increase of spiritual prosperity. The absence of a convertible currency, at that portion of the year when collections for this cause are principally made, prevented an increase of income. The receipts of the year have been $1,048 22. The Secretary of the Society, Rev. WM. F. CURRY, has felt himself called, by the providence of God, to retire at the close of the year from the exposures of an agency, and to devote himself to the duties of the pastoral office.

This important field, so fertile in its soil—washed on one border by an inland sea, and divided by a canal, that gives it the choice of an eastern or a southern market, and overspread with the enterprising sons of the Pilgrims—must of necessity exert a powerful influence on the regions beyond ; and therefore it deserves a speedy and vigorous effort, to pervade it with the best influences of a permanent ministration of the Gospel.

MARIETTA AGENCY, OHIO.

Six missionaries have labored within the bounds of this Agency since the last report, and four of them been sustained by its funds. The receipts have amounted to $583 09, and the expenditures to $448 20. Scattered over the nine counties comprised in the Agency, there are but 20 Presbyterian and Congregational churches, among a population of 140,000 souls. Few as they are, these churches are all, but one or two, in need of help from abroad ; and almost all, except those supplied by the A. H. M. S., are destitute of the stated preaching of the Gospel. The demand for missionary labor is exceedingly importunate. Says the Secretary, Rev. HENRY SMITH, “the region included in the bounds of this Agency is the ‘hill country’ of the West. In its soil and surface it is another New-England ; in the laborious habits, vigor, and enterprise of its inhabitants, it wears the same aspect ; and could it have any thing like an adequate amount of spiritual culture, it would soon bring forth an abundant harvest, and become itself a storehouse of spiritual blessings to other sections of the West.”

CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF AGENCY FOR THE WESTERN STATES, AT CINCINNATI, OHIO.

The position of this Agency, in the midst of that assemblage of sovereignties which stretch from the Allegany mountains to the Mississippi, is one calculated to oppress the hearts and overburden the hands of those who are called to manage its concerns. In so many surrounding states, the uncultivated fields are great in number and vast in extent ; and were there no difficulties of a pecuniary nature, the agency would still be arduous. But the commercial distresses of the country greatly increase the natural obstacles to success. The Secretary and Agent, Rev. HENRY LIT-

THE reports, that, "it is almost literally true, that away from the centers of business there is no money," and that in the collection of funds, it has sometimes been necessary to "receive subscriptions in such articles of produce as the people could give." This state of general depression is aggravated by the fact, that a large portion of the community is now suffering from a previous excessive exhaustion of plans and hopes. When the public was universally possessed by the mania of speculation, congregations commenced the erection of churches larger than they could finish. They invited ministers, and promised them an ample support,—not because they were able to pay it, even then, but because they expected to be able in a year or two. So also, in their individual affairs, the members of churches—their heads swimming with the intoxication of prospective wealth—assumed enormous liabilities. When the tide turned, not only was their liberality cut off from the support of all good objects, but they were left to struggle for an indefinite period to pay their debts, with the price of their products reduced to the lowest point. Hence, to the ministry, it is a time of unexampled trial, and the extension of missionary operations, in these circumstances, would seem to be almost a physical impossibility. With what gratitude to God, then, should we record, that during the last year, the receipts of the agency have amounted to about $3,000, besides $300 raised in Missouri, and left for appropriation in the hands of the Society recently formed in that state; and also about $600 collected in the bounds of the Marietta agency, and paid into its treasury. The total increase above the collections of the previous year is, therefore, equal to $700. The number of missionaries in commission has risen from 18 to 34. In some portions of the field, the spirit of revival has been enjoyed, and the word of God is attended with unwonted power; and some of the ecclesiastical bodies are attempting a systematic supply of all the destitute within their bounds, with, at least, occasional preaching. Thus, from behind the dark cloud of temporal embarrassment, some cheering rays shine forth, giving promise that the day-spring from on high is drawing near.

OTHER AUXILIARIES AND AGENCIES IN THE WEST.

During the year past an auxiliary Home Missionary Society has been formed for the state of Missouri. As it is but in its infancy, no report has as yet been made of its operations.

The central position and prospective influence of this portion of the great valley, have, from its first settlement, attracted public attention, and the state already numbers 400,000 inhabitants.

The adherents of Rome have here concentrated a large amount of means for subjugating the West to their power. In Missouri, and the adjacent portions of Illinois and Arkansas, they have no less than 74 priests, with literary institutions of every grade, in which at least a thousand youth are now in a process of training. In the whole region beyond the Alleghanies, their ecclesiastics are more than 300 in number; and the higher seminaries of learning—including universities, theological schools, and academies for male pupils—amount to 23; besides 34 female academies, and numerous institutions of inferior grade. Apart from the elementary schools, these contain an aggregate of something like 3,000 pupils. Here, then, the very heart of the West is infected, and through its great natural arteries, every pulsation throws abroad a stream of influence, baneful to the civil freedom and religious well-being of unnumbered thousands.

In Illinois, the Society has had for the last year no other than the occasional, voluntary agency of Rev. F. BASCOM, pastor of a church at Chicago. In the bounds of the Presbytery of Alton, and of the Ottawa Presbytery and Fox River Association, missionaries have been sustained to labor in a wider sphere than usual, and to exercise, to a limited extent, the duties of agents. In reviewing the events of the past year, Mr. Bascom remarks, that “there has been much to encourage hope and awaken gratitude, and not a little to produce painful feelings. There is perhaps no part of our country where greater harmony prevails among Presbyterian and Congregational churches than in Northern Illinois. There is a substantial agreement among them in doctrines and measures, and a good degree of forbearance in regard to points of difference. The ministrations of the Gospel have been blessed to the conversion of souls in a greater degree than in any previous year. There have been extensive and precious revivals of religion in all the more important villages on Fox River, and in many other villages and settlements further west. Hundreds, through the instrumentality of your missionaries, have been brought to the saving knowledge of the truth. In these glorious results angels rejoice, and we thank God and take courage. But though the moral power of our churches has been increased, their pecuniary ability to sustain the institutions of the Gospel, is still feeble and precarious. A door of hope was opened to our farmers, last autumn, by the state of the wheat market; but it was soon closed by the great depreciation of the currency, for which they had exchanged the products of their toil. But although these reverses embarrass our religious institutions, and increase the degree, and extend the period of our dependence, still they are not the most painful circumstances which your agent has to contemplate. The numerous, extensive, and long-continued destitutions which still abound, are the darkest feature in the moral aspect of this field. I could enumerate at least ten important villages and country settlements in the northern section of this state, where ministers are imperiously demanded, and where the prospect of their usefulness would be abundantly encouraging. Could I spread out the appeals which I have received from these places before the unemployed ministers and theological students at the East—could I present to their minds the condition and prospects of these places, as they appear to me, I am sure it would not be in vain. If their prevailing desire is to labor where they can do most for the kingdom of Christ, they would only need to know the facts in relation to these places, to prepare them to say, ‘Here am I, send me.’ Within twenty miles of Chicago there are hundreds of families as destitute of religious privileges as if they lived in the heart of a heathen country.”

Similar testimony is not wanting to prove the need of evangelical labor in the central and southern portions of the state.

Wisconsin.—The salutary effect of planting the Gospel in our western settlements in their earliest infancy, is most happily illustrated in Wisconsin. To most of the new states attention was not called until the population had assumed such a character that missionary efforts were necessarily remedial rather than preventive. In the case of this interesting territory, the effort has been to begin in season, and to keep pace with the increase of the people. In carrying out this purpose, the Committee were greatly cheered by the timely pledge, by one individual, of a thousand dollars for this specific object; and the impulse thus given to the enterprise has not been lost. Three years ago, only 4 missionaries of this Society were laboring on that field; a year since there were 9; and during the twelve months now closing, 19 have been under appointment. Twenty-four of the 35 churches in the territory enjoy the fostering aid of this institution, and upon at least 10 of them, God has poured out his reviving and converting grace. With this divine impulse have been associated other blessings. Great harmony in counsel and labor characterize the ministers and churches. Sabbath schools, containing more than 1,000 pupils, are already organized in the territory, while hundreds more are collected into Bible classes. The various benevolent enterprises of the day are brought before the people, and receive the cordial patronage of these infant churches. The principle that “the laborer is worthy of his hire,” is recognized; and the liberality of many in the support of their ministers is such as to involve great sacrifices—thus showing how precious to themselves, to their children, and to the welfare of the country of their adoption, they esteem the order of Christ's house.

The progress of the Society's operations in this territory, is intimately associated with the zeal and enterprise of Rev. STEPHEN PEET, by whose voluntary agency the field was explored, and its resources spread before the public; and who, since the last report, has been appointed the Society's agent, and is employed wholly in its service.

In Iowa, the Rev. ASA TURNER continues to devote a portion of his labors to a missionary agency, in ascertaining the fields most eligible and needy, and in laboring among the feeble and destitute churches.

There is a period in the early history of almost every western settlement, which may be called its moral climacteric, when many hostile influences combine to test, to the utmost, the vigor of whatever spiritual life it may possess. This crisis once favorably passed, and the improvement of society is a work of comparative ease. Such a period, we apprehend, the present is to Iowa. Besides the almost unexampled depreciation in the value of its products, there has been no currency for which they could be exchanged. To these temporal difficulties have been added the influences of Infidelity—undisguised and rancorous; of Romanism—subtle, diligent, and well supplied with resources; of Mormonism—with its array of numbers, its pretended revelations and miracles; and of a diversity of sects, bearing the christian name, but distracting the community, and agreeing only in casting embarrassments in the way of those who labor simply for the spiritual kingdom of Christ. But notwithstanding these obstacles, there has been a marked advance during the year. The number of missionaries has increased from 6 to 12. On several of the churches the Spirit of grace has descended, imparting strength to ministers and people, and multiplying the trophies of redeeming love.

It is impossible to contemplate the condition and prospects of this most exuberant and inviting territory without deep solicitude. It is but as yesterday, since it had not even a name among the great sisterhood of states; and to day it is about to take its place, full grown, among them. Ten years since, the first strip of its territory was ceded by the Indian to the white man; five years ago, its population was but 12,000; and now, in less than 4 years from its political birth, the people are well nigh 50,000. This living tide has flowed right on, unchecked by the temporal reverses of the times ; and every where, on upland and by the river side, in forest and prairie, the sound of families is heard, and human hope and enterprise are urging on the toil and rivalry of social life. But where are the moral influences that should direct this amount of awakened mind ? Where are the twenty ministers and the means of their support, that ought to be sent to that territory before another year shall end ? We ask these questions in the belief that the church has ample resources, and that there are yet some of her sons who are willing to leave the old fortresses of Zion, and to go and stand by the side of their brethren, in the front rank of the van-guard of her armies.

CANADA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Although on some accounts, it would be proper to leave the cultivation of this part of the great moral field to missionary societies more directly related to Great Britain, yet so large is the admixture of settlers from the United States among the population of Canada, that the time for the withdrawal of our assistance seems not yet to have arrived. During the past year, the Auxiliary has commissioned 5 missionaries, towards the support of 3 of whom the Parent Society has contributed, and has also sustained 5 others for the whole or a part of the year. The receipts, according to the report of the Secretary, Rev. C. STRONG, of Montreal, amounted to $1,603 64, of which there remains an unexpended balance of $839 49.

All these missions are regarded as prosperous and useful, not only because of their immediate results, but also for their indirect and silent influence on the Catholic population of the Eastern Townships, where most of them are situated.

THE HAND OF GOD, AS MANIFESTED IN THE PRESENT ASPECTS OF THE MISSIONARY FIELD IN THE WEST.

EMBARRASSMENTS IN THE WEST.

The pecuniary disasters of the country, and especially the protracted dependence of the western churches on missionary aid,—which are so frequently adverted to,—might be regarded as grounds of discouragement, were the prospects of the cause to be estimated only by the visible course of events. But such is not the standard by which to judge the ways of Him, who “is wonderful in council and excellent in working.” Those embarrassments which have fallen with such peculiar weight upon the new states, are, we trust, the very means employed for their salvation. For twenty years past—ever since the physical grandeur and the moral bearings of that vast empire opened on the eye of the church—she has borne it on her heart before God, and besought him to consecrate all its greatness for himself. It is this very prayer, which he is now answering in his own mysterious way. There was a time, when the West was the theatre of unbounded speculation. The entire mass of eastern capital and activity, that could be separated from other forms of adventure, was directed thither; and the ardent and enterprising, as well as the reckless and discontented, rushed, as by a common impulse, to that land of promise. The tide of worldliness swept over the new states, widening as it rolled, and bearing before it even the peculiar people and churches of God. In the din of competition for the golden prize, the still small voice of principle was well nigh drowned; and it seemed as if an apostate church were about to sink into the idolatry that accounts gain as godliness; while the great multitude of unconverted minds could not be held in check to listen to the whispers of eternity. Had this phrenzy continued, its blighting effect on the spiritual prosperity of the West, would have been far more baneful than that of all other hostile influences. As well might a vineyard flourish in the tornado's path, or the foundations of a house be laid amid the rushing waves of a cataract, as the temple of the Lord be built amid such a torrent of worldliness. But the prayers and alms of many fathers and mothers in Israel, in behalf of that fair land, had come up for a memorial before God, and he would not give it up. He stretched forth his hand, and the overflowing scourge rolled back. The proud schemes of unsanctified enterprise he dashed to the ground. They, who but lately were rich and increased in goods, and felt that they had need of nothing, finding their splendid visions dispelled, now gladly gather the crumbs that fall from the children's table. Behold, in this, the goodness as well as the severity of God! This very adversity has saved the West. It has repressed inordinate enterprise, and sobered the aims of men; it has sifted the people, and driven or kept away many an unprincipled adventurer, whose influence would have been only to corrupt. Meanwhile, in their trials, the humbled churches hear the awakening voice of the Holy Spirit, as he turns again the captivity of Zion; and copious showers of grace are poured out to refresh the garden of God.

ROMAN CATHOLIC IMMIGRATION.

Another fact in the history of the Valley of the Mississippi, which has awakened the solicitude of the friends of our country, is the rapid increase of foreign immigration. The presence among us of more than a million of persons of foreign birth and associations, having under their training another million of children, and able to cast into our ballot boxes nearly half a million of votes for whatever party will do most to conciliate them,—with the fact that all this moral and political influence may be concentrated and wielded by a few ecclesiastics, who are themselves the instruments of a foreign power,—are circumstances that should startle from inactive repose, every patriot and friend of evangelical religion. But while these facts afford just reasons for redoubled vigilance and effort, they furnish no ground for discouragement. On the contrary, such an extensive migration of the subjects of false religion to this land of light and civil liberty, is one of the most striking events of the age; and one that unfolds another leaf of our country's eventful destiny. Hitherto, American Christians have not appreciated the share which this nation is to have in the conversion of the world. They have been wont to measure their influence by the amount of means which they could send to grapple with the leading forms of error in distant lands. But heaven is evidently assigning us a more signal service and a higher reward. The most formidable foe to the universal spread of the Gospel is, doubtless, to be found in the Roman apostacy; and to meet and overcome this foe, will be among the most arduous and illustrious victories of the people of God. If, then, in the arrangements of Providence, we are permitted to wage this warfare on our own ground, let the conflict come. Where else could the contest be bloodless, where so successful as here—here, where no racks nor tortures forestal the force of argument—here, where the benighted children of error will be surrounded and pervaded by the silent but resistless influence of our schools and presses; here, where every one of them may stand erect and feel that he is a man, and may assert his right to doubt, as well as to believe—to discuss and judge, as well as to listen and obey? Instead, therefore, of deprecating the coming of so many foreigners as a curse, we should regard it as the FULFILMENT OF OUR NATIONAL DESTINY the spreading out, on our own soil, of the work that God has given us to do. Let, then, the victims of oppression and of error gather to our shores. Let them come with good or with evil intent; as exiles fleeing from tyranny, or as emissaries to spy out and possess the land—let them come. We will meet them on the beach, with bread in one hand, and the Gospel in the other, and welcome them to the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free. The enemy “meaneth not so, neither doth his heart think so; for it is in his heart,” by these migrations, “to destroy and to cut off nations not a few.” But God, meanwhile, is bringing “the blind by a way that they knew not, and leading them in paths that they have not known.” Roman Catholic immigration can be dangerous to us, only when we are false to our great trust. Their numbers, their boldness, their resources, do indeed demand that the churches should throw their utmost energies into the work of our country's salvation—should thrust out into the field every laborer, and seize on every point of vantage, and leave no corner of the land so dark, that in it error may securely hide. If this be done, and done in season, we need not tremble for the result.

But this must be accomplished, and that too without delay. To omit or postpone it, is ruin to ourselves and treason against heaven. The universal diffusion of the best influences of the Gospel, throughout our whole country, is the appointed mission of the American church. God has made this as plain by his providence as if a voice from the skies had spoken to her. By a thousand leagues of ocean, he has shut her out from the rest of the christian world, and spread her great field around her, and bidden her to subdue and keep it. The dimensions of this field are computed by millions of square miles, and its people will soon be numbered by hundreds of millions, speaking one language, and bound together by facilities of travel, the interests of trade, and by moral ties that no merely political changes can ever effectually sunder. Where else—in what age or country—has there been assigned to any division of the church, a work so obviously and exclusively its own—so direct and simple, and yet so vast in its extent and consequences? Truly, God “hath not dealt so with any nation!” And shall we not recognize and fulfil this high calling? Shall more time be lost by delay, while the work enlarges and obstacles every day increase? All the aspects of our country bid us to make haste. Its growth and promise, its wants and dangers, admonish us that the decisive effort must be made NOW, or NEVER. If we regard these signs of the times, and go forward, trusting in the Lord, we cannot fail. He who made a path through the sea, when it lay in the way of an advancing church, will break down all obstacles before us. Our past success is but the voice of his providence saying “Behold, the Lord thy God hath set the land before thee; go up and possess it, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath said unto thee; FEAR NOT, NEITHER BE DISCOURAGED!”

EXTRACTS FROM THE SIXTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

During the year ending April 26, 1842, the Board have commissioned 72 missionaries to perform 71 years of missionary labor in 82 churches. The whole number employed on this field, including those commissioned last year, whose commissions extended into this, is 85, and the whole number of churches aided is 98.

Results.

The Gospel has been preached stately in nearly 100 congregations. The missionary churches have been more generally supplied than at any former period. Twenty-one of the missionaries were not in the service of the Society the previous year. Five new fields have been taken up. Three ministers have been installed pastors of their respective churches. Three churches have intimated their intention of sustaining the Gospel hereafter without missionary aid. Nearly all the missionaries speak of the impulse that has been given to the temperance cause. One has reported 1500 new pledges to this cause, and nearly every one speaks of hundreds who have signed the pledge during the year. Many taverns, and some of them of the best class, have been changed into temperance houses—and one distillery has been converted into a temporary meeting-house. This reformation will cause more persons to attend public worship. It will add to the strength of all our congregations. And this year, though not as highly blessed with revivals and additions to the churches as some other years, will be regarded, on account of the great temperance reformation, as a year of distinguished blessings.

Some of the missionaries speak of seasons of unusual interest. Twenty-one churches have reported revivals, which have resulted in the hopeful conversion of about 600 persons. Sixteen of these churches have reported more than 500 cases of hopeful conversion. The missionaries have reported 680 additions; 436 of which were on profession.

The Rev. Mead Holmes, Missionary at Ellicottville, writes—"We rejoice over more than 100 cases of hopeful conversion. The proprietor of our principal hotel, both our editors, several professional men—several merchants—many mechanics and farmers are subjects of the work. Nine abandoned drunkards have been reclaimed, and give evidence of piety. Some 40 new family altars have been reared. There is an interesting group of young men, among whom we hope to find some candidates for the ministry. I never realized so clearly the import of that passage, 'Thy people shall be willing in the day of thy power.' There were two of the most terrific cases of conviction I ever witnessed. One was a young man, an apostate, of a religious family—the other a notorious blasphemer, gambler and drunkard, who had not had a christian relative on his own or his wife's side for several generations. But now he can count eight of his relatives who have taken their stand on the side of the Lord. What a change in that circle of relatives! What cannot Almighty Grace effect?" Similar scenes have been reported by other missionaries. The Lord has been with them and their labors have been crowned with his rich blessing.

There has been, it is believed, a wholesome improvement in most of our missionary churches. Several have purchased parsonages. Thirteen have erected or commenced building houses of worship. In most of the churches aided, Sabbath schools and Bible classes have been in successful operation. Prayer meetings have been statedly held. The churches, as feeble lights in a dark place, have been watched over and kept from extinction. They have been strengthened and blessed from on high. Their influence is felt in the gradual abandonment of open vice, and in the better observance and sanctification of the Sabbath. In many places, before the missionary came among them, they had no Sabbath. Their Sabbaths were spent in hunting, gambling, horse-racing, drunkenness and kindred vices—but now, through the influence of the Gospel, as preached by the missionaries, and of the churches they gathered, the Sabbath, to a pleasing extent, has been saved from desecration, and now regularly beams on those places with its holy, peaceful, and elevating influences.

Disbursements.

To sustain the missionaries on this field the Board have voted $6735. But as seven of the missionaries have been obliged to leave their respective fields without completing the full time for which they were commissioned, the sums pledged to the missionaries will not exceed $6300. An unusually large number of churches have applied for aid, and they have required larger appropriations than would have answered in favorable years. Nor have we granted all the aid asked, and that the reasonable wants of the missionaries have demanded. We have been obliged, in many instances, to grant a smaller sum than was asked; when, from the known wants of the missionaries, it would have been more congenial to our feelings to have exceeded their requests. But we can only give as the churches give us the ability. When they withhold their donations, it is felt in the embarrassments and sufferings of our missionaries, who, unknown and almost unthanked, are toiling, with the spirit of martyrs, for God and for their country.

Receipts.

The receipts of the agency the present year are $6378 34 falling short of those of the previous year $3,173 51. This decrease is more in appearance than in reality. To a considerable extent the ladies in our churches made their effort for Home Missions in a way that did not add to our receipts. We have a list of 31 valuable boxes of clothing made up by them, 20 of which were valued at $1460. And the others judging from the places where they were made, would increase this sum to $2000. Besides a great change has come over the prospects and hopes of men. Many to whom, in former years, we could apply for efficient help, are now able to render but little pecuniary assistance. Some years, 54 men have sustained a missionary each by individual donations of $100. Last year from three individuals $3098 were obtained—but this year only eight have been found who have sustained a missionary by a donation of $100 each, and we have no donations larger than $100.

The following improvement of one of our moral wastes has fallen under our knowledge during the year. We record it to the encouragement of the friends of Home Missions, and to the praise of the Redeemer.

About six years ago a feeble church was organized in Youngstown, near Fort Niagara, with seven members, only two of whom were males. The first year a Home Missionary labored with them a part of the year, one fourth of the time. The next year they undertook to sustain the gospel all the time, with the assistance of $100 from the Missionary Society. The third year they sustained the Gospel without missionary aid. The fifth year the Secretary visited the congregation, and received a donation for Home Missions to the amount of $194. Last year, in addition to sustaining the gospel among themselves, they probably contributed $1500 to the different benevolent objects of the day, $1160 of which were contributed to the American Board. When there in March, we were informed that within a year they had been blessed with two distinct revivals, and that as the fruits of these revivals, 150 persons, during that time, had made a public profession of Christianity.

The Committee at New-York resolved, at their last anniversary, in May, 1841, to enlarge their operations. Their pledges to the missionaries have been increased, while the receipts of the Society have been diminished. We have been aware of this, and have aimed to make our appropriations as low as possible; and in a number of instances where we were obliged to bestow less aid than was asked, we have found that it fell heavily on a suffering missionary. Many of the missionaries in Western New-York could tell of sufferings endured in the prosecution of their work, that would excite the deepest sympathy in the Church of Christ. But they suffer in silence. Their trials are hid in their own breast or told only to their God. We know it must be so from the scanty support they generally receive, and from the kind of pay they are often obliged to take. They suffer like men and like Christians. They do not complain although it is often evident from their reports that their soul is in deep waters. A missionary writes, whose appropriation we had felt obliged to reduce $25, "I have not received $50 from my people in 15 months. I have to take property. The people cannot pay what they have not. I have been compelled to ask the aid of friends." Another writes: "Money is almost out of the question. I have received during this year not one cent from my people." Another writes: "My year has now closed; it has been a year of great labor and little compensation, except from your Society. I have received not more than $30 from my people. Yet I have not labored in vain.—They have built them a delightful chapel—improved greatly in their singing—the temperance cause has flourished greatly—the Sabbath school has done much good, and in the day schools the testament is generally read. Three or four family altars have been erected, and the Sabbath is much better regarded than when I first came here." Another writes, "I have received during the year only $3, and $4 in hay. If the whole of the subscription for my support, and the missionary aid voted me had been paid, my salary would have been $234 50. I have a wife and two children, and my salary is all my subsistence. I am now so feeble as not to be able to do any thing, having been sick four weeks—having no salary, and no income. I am in indigent circumstances. Were you at my fire-side, I could show you that ministers at the West are not the only missionaries who suffer."

It is evident from these reports, and from others of a similar character that might be made public, that no class of men are making such great sacrifices to forward this enterprise as the missionaries themselves. They are called to endure hardship, and sacrifice, and self-denial, and suffering in this work, and we doubt not many of them rejoice that they are counted worthy to suffer for the sake of Christ. "Our Home Missionaries," writes a gentleman of Massachusetts, "are not cared for by the churches as they ought to be. They are martyrs—if we have any—in our country's cause." In most instances it is believed the missionaries would be obliged to leave their fields, were it not for the aid of the A. H. M. S. Generally, they would receive a better support were they to seek employment in the more able churches. One in Cattaraugus county writes: "My people can raise this year for my support only $250. If your Society will grant me $100 I can remain. If you cannot, I must yield to a call to settle over a congregation on a salary of $600. But this is no temptation to me. I feel as though I must see the salvation of God among this dear people. My heavenly Father owns the universe ; and I am sure I shall live well enough on $350, especially since he has taken our three little children to himself and left their parents to toil and labor and make sacrifices for the good of others."

"It is a well known fact," says a late writer, "that there are scores of unemployed ministers, who, in continuing so, are suffering a living martyrdom; and yet are prevented by poverty from going where the ripening harvest is perishing for want of their labor. They are in debt for their education. Or they have families, or dependants, who cannot dispense with their presence and support; or that make their necessary wants too great to be met by the limited salary which missionaries receive. But the present restricted income of Home Missions almost compels the Society to pass by all these men, however varied and rich their qualifications, and to select chiefly young men, or those whose domestic relations admit of their being appointed at the lowest cost.— Now what a fact is this to be told the church in this country, that a leading qualification of the agency she employs must be its cheapness? And that if her waste places cannot be built without more expense, they must still lie desolate and the laborers must stand idle."

"My ministerial life," writes a missionary, "which now numbers 12 years, has been spent among the destitute churches in Ohio, and in Erie, and in Chautauque counties, of this state. For four years I have lived on a salary averaging less than $200 per year. I would indeed still continue to feed my body on such a salary. But my mind is starving for want of an adequate library. I cannot therefore consent to labor as I have done any longer."

General Results.

During the 16 years of this Agency it has granted 848 commissions to 312 different missionaries, to perform 827 years of missionary service in 270 churches. The sums voted to sustain these missionaries amount to $72,000. During this time it is believed that 100 meeting-houses have been built by the churches when receiving aid. During the last 8 years 60 meeting-houses have been built or commenced by the missionary churches. One hundred of the churches that have been aided on this field, including the few previously aided by the United Domestic Missionary Society, from May, 1822, to May, 1826, are now able to sustain the gospel without missionary aid. There have been raised on this field for the A. H. M. S. $112,000, and this has exceeded the sums paid the missionaries $40,000, which surplus has aided the Parent Society in sending the Gospel to other parts of our country. The Agency has furnished the means of securing to the feeble churches of our land, "One thousand years of missionary labor."

TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The Christian pastor, as he stands upon the verge of a new year, and looks over the events of the one which has just become blended with eternal ages, is filled with mingled and stirring emotions. When he looks at the low standard of religion in his church;—their want of sympathy with Christ, and the low value they place on his Gospel;—their attachment to perishing things and their want of interest in glorifying God and saving men; and when he thinks how few have been turned from the power of Satan unto God, with yearning solicitude he exclaims, "Who hath believed our report? to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?" But when he contrasts his people with those who have no pastor;—when he remembers the ignorance which has been dissipated, the error which has been rebuked, and the tide of iniquity that has been checked;—when he thinks how many souls have been cheered in their temptations and conflicts;—how the dying hours of some have been rendered not only comfortable but blissful, by the messages he has borne;—when he sees that morality, benevolence, and piety, are increasing among his people, and that some fallen spirits have been born again; he adores the grace that put him into the ministry,—he thanks God and takes courage.

With such a pastor this Agency can most heartily sympathize. Our connexion with the elements of human society, though upon a vastly extended scale, brings upon us much of the responsibility and many of the sorrows and joys of the pastoral office. While reviewing our missionary labor the past year, and presenting some of its details to our patrons and the Parent Board, in our Twelfth Annual Report, we find much to humble us, and enough to swell our notes of gratitude and praise.

Missionaries, Churches, Pledges, Receipts.

The whole number of missionaries, whose term of service has fallen within the year, is 52, and the number of churches, which have received our patronage, is 55, and six other churches have, in consequence, enjoyed stated preaching a portion of the time. We have given pledges, during the year, to 44 churches, amounting to $3,585. Forty-one missionaries have been commissioned, each for twelve months, 36 of whom are wholly employed under these commissions. The receipts of this Agency, within the year, exclusive of about $1,400, sent from the eastern counties directly to New-York, are $3,743 47.

Labor done, Results.

Our missionaries have performed 40 years labor since our last report. Three of them have been installed pastors, and others are expecting soon to enter into that sacred relation. In five waste places the Gospel standard has been planted, and in some of them the trophies of grace are already multiplied. Three of our churches have signified their intention to sustain the Gospel without aid. Four houses of worship have been built and dedicated. From eight churches revivals of religion are reported, and in others there have been seasons of spiritual refreshing. About 400 have been hopefully converted to God. More than 300 have been received by the churches on confession, and about 130 by letter. Sabbath School and Bible Class instruction has been imparted, as usual, in all our congregations. All our missionary churches contribute annually to different benevolent objects, and some of them give in charity much more than they receive from us. Many of them have shared liberally the past year, with the abler churches, in furnishing clothing for the suffering brethren at the West.

Pecuniary Embarrassments.

Our missionaries and their poor congregations have had to struggle with pecuniary embarrassments beyond any former year. Fears had been awakened before, but now the reality is felt. We are not aware, however, that one of the brethren has left his post for lack of "the meat that perisheth." All have been disposed to share the trials and privations of their respective flocks, and to aid them in their temporal necessities by the consolations of the Gospel. Some of them have felt a very strong sympathy for their western brethren who are so painfully afflicted with oppressive poverty. They have not only encouraged their people to soften the trials of western missionaries, by clothing their families, but have themselves given one twelfth of their small salary to cheer the hearts of those martyrs in the cause of our church and our country. Would the members of our churches generally practice half the self-denial that some of the missionaries do in this state, our western brethren would no longer have their "usefulness hindered," their "spirits broken," their "health ruined," or be driven from their beloved work, by crushing poverty.

Temperance Triumph.

The triumph of the temperance cause has distinguished the past year. Former labors in this work have been crowned with encouraging success, but nothing like the present has ever before been seen. The power of God has been as manifest as in a general revival of religion. And it is worthy of special notice, that we know not a solitary instance where this peculiar movement has begun, out of the bounds of a Christian congregation, nor where the Gospel was not preached. The work has not yet spread into all our congregations, but as far as it has gone, the great mass of the people, temperate and intemperate, have yielded to its influence. In many places nearly the whole congregation and all within their bounds, men, women, and children, have taken refuge from the burning element, in the "cold water army." For several months past, many of our missionaries have been almost wholly employed in this department of labor. Some of them have had no help from abroad, but the Lord has been with them, and a temperance revival, in several instances, has changed the character and prospects of the whole community. More has been accomplished in this work within six months than in six previous years.

The fruits of this reformation are numerous. Temperance houses, clean and quiet, are rapidly opening. Hundreds of the intemperate who were the mere wrecks of men, have left their rags and filth and sottishness, have assumed their proper form and colour, and are seen clothed and in their right minds. Their wives are joyful, their children happy, and their homes the abode of plenty, peace and love. An amount of intellectual wealth, physical energy, mechanical skill, and moral power, has been re-deemed, of more value to our country than hundreds of thousands of silver and gold. In addition to the immediate and obvious benefits of such a reformation, Sabbath-keeping and going to church, have been, in some places, greatly promoted. We cannot but hope that these marked tokens of divine mercy are the harbingers of still richer blessings. In some cases already, the foul spirit of intoxication had but just been cast out, and hope awakened of temporal comfort, when the Spirit of God took possession of the soul and cheered it with immortal joys.

Conclusion.

When we think that revivals and conversions, the temperance cause and every moral reformation, will be confined to the range of a preached Gospel, and then look over the scores of our vacant churches and hundreds of waste places within our bounds inhabited by thousands of immortal beings, but where no branch of our Zion has ever been planted, we feel that we have fallen short of accomplishing our object. Especially when our minds range over the West, contemplate its vast extent, its physical resources, and its probable influence; when we view the millions already scattered over its extended plains, and the prodigious multitudes which are gathering there from the old world; when we know that foreign Papists are expending double the amount every year to plant their schools and churches on those fertile prairies, that Home Missions are to establish evangelical religion; and when we notice the increasing tendency of the American community to popular convulsions and consider the certain and tremendous crisis to which our nation is hastening, and are sure that nothing can save us but the power of the Gospel—we dare not think that we have accomplished anything worthy of the relation we sustain.

But when we compare the results of the past year with those which have preceded it, we find substantial evidence, that God and his redeemed people foster the Home Missionary cause. We find that more missionary labor has been performed since our last report than ever before in a single year; that more churches have been fully supplied with Gospel ordinances; that more hopeful conversions have been reported; that larger accessions have been made to the churches; that the contributions to our funds and to other benevolent objects have been increased;—and that the number of reformed inebriates, and the thousands, who have joined the temperance ranks, transcend, beyond all comparison, those of any former year.

Our hopes of the speedy triumph of Home Missions have been greatly raised by the recent and glorious impulse given to the temperance enterprise. These institutions have gone together around our whole frontier and through our extended interior. The temperance cause can never finish its work until Home Missions occupy the whole field. If it is the design of God, as it appears to be, to carry out the former, we are sure he will prosper and succeed the latter. And should the grace of God be as signally exhibited in arresting the attention of the American community and concentrating their energies upon the work of Home Missions, and in blessing these labors of love, as has been witnessed in the temperance reform, it might soon be truly said of our church, “Thy sun shall no more go down; neither shall thy moon withdraw itself; for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended.”

Rev. HENRY SMITH, Marietta, Corresponding Secretary.

Mormons in the West.

The history of Mormonism is such a perfect refutation of its pretensions, that intelligent men find it difficult to account for the continuance and spread of this singular imposture. The absurdity of its claims are so obvious, that Christians not minutely informed in relation to its genius and operations, suppose that, by this time, the delusion must have melted away. But the fact seems to be quite otherwise. From the following extracts from letters of our correspondents in Iowa, it will be seen that the region around the mouth of the Des Moines River, on both sides of the Mississippi, is destined to be the seat of a serious struggle with this form of error; and that the ranks of its advocates are filling up with large accessions from different parts of the United States, and even from Europe, from whence converts are coming across the ocean, to dwell in the promised land.

The Mormons have twelve stakes—places where they are to build temples, &c.,—corresponding to the twelve tribes of Israel. They claim all the miraculous gifts and powers of the apostles; daily show signs and wonders which overpower the credulous, and manifest a zeal that I have never seen before in any class of religionists.

I will give you a summary of their pretensions.

1. Joseph Smith is a prophet—as really as Isaiah; and the Book of Mormon, with all the revelations of the prophet, which now make quite a volume, are of equal authority with the Old and New Testaments.

2. Theirs is the only true church; they know this with absolute certainty. Every other professed disciple of Christ holds the same relation to this true church, that the Jews did, who, in the time of the apostles, rejected the Saviour.

3. No man can be a Christian, or be admitted into the kingdom of God, unless he is baptized by immersion by an authorized person.

4. None are authorised to preach or administer the ordinances but such as are called by direct revelation, and set apart by the authority of Joseph Smith. All others are “false teachers and false prophets, wolves in sheep’s clothing, thieves and robbers,” as they say in their preaching.

5. All who are baptized receive the Holy Ghost and the forgiveness of sins. Hence they can work all the miracles promised by our Saviour in Mark xvi.

6. Zion, or the New Jerusalem, is in Missouri, where the Saviour is to appear, in a short time, in person.

7. All who believe are called on by the Spirit of God, to assemble in the vicinity of the various stakes and help to build temples. The Indians are the lost tribes of Israel, and during this generation, they are all to be gathered at these points; while all others are to be cut off—that is, all who do not receive J. Smith as a prophet of the Lord.

8. For such as will not believe in this life, a kind of purgatory is prepared in another world, where they will be brought to their senses and made to receive the prophet; while those who have once joined the Mormons and have apostatized, have never forgiveness, neither in this life, nor in that which is to come.

9. The prophet predicted eleven years ago, that Zion is to be built in Missouri in this generation. But they have been dispossessed, and the city of their hopes lies desolate; still they are not without hope. Nauvoo, their principal city, in this vicinity, contains 3000 inhabitants. Every one of a certain age is called on to bear arms; and the “legion of the Lord" is drilled twice a week, and it is the common belief that they intend soon to attempt to retake their claim in Missouri.

10. Joseph Smith translated the Bible anew. In the first 3 chapters of Genesis, he has added the amount of at least one entire chapter, for which there is not the least shadow of authority. So in other parts, he makes any alterations that he pleases: e. g. in the Gen. vi. 6, where it is said "it repented the Lord that he made man upon the earth," the new translation reads, "it repented NOAH that HE made man, &c."

You smile at my apprehensions, but I do fear the influence of this people. If this delusion shall be stayed, the minds of its subjects will resemble our prairies after the fire has burnt them naked: Infidelity or Atheism will be the result. But when or where it will be stayed, I cannot see. Nothing is too foolish for men to believe; and unless it can be met by timely, well directed and energetic efforts, it will spread. Multitudes are predisposed to believe that a "water birth" makes one an heir of heaven: while many others are entirely removed from the ordinances of the Gospel. These men ransack every place, without purse or scrip, in imitation of the ancient apostles. Always on foot, with a zeal always burning, and a sanctity which excites a reverence in the minds of many, they all make and will make proselytes.

Again, the position of Iowa relative to Missouri, makes them regard it with peculiar interest. They expect soon to be strong enough, with the aid of the Indians, to meet Missouri in battle array. Every one that embraces the system is as ready to fight as were the Israelites under Joshua.

WHAT FOLLOWS FROM THESE FACTS ?

The inference which I would draw from the facts in the foregoing statement, is the great necessity of sending on, forthwith, men of nerve and faith to occupy this territory. Ten or a dozen men of the right stamp, in addition to those already on the ground, and stationed in different parts, and sustained so that they might give themselves wholly to the work, might exert an influence which this world has no arithmetic to compute.

An intelligent observer of the foregoing facts, declares—

Mormonism is extending in that region chiefly, in my opinion, because the mass of the people do not enjoy constantly the privileges of the sanctuary.

Number of Catholic Bishops in the United States, 21; of priests, 562; of clergymen deceased or retired from the ministry during 1841, 36; of clergymen in the United States at the beginning of the year 1841, 545; making an accession of 53 clergymen during the year.

The Catholic population of the United States is estimated by their Bishops at 1,300,000.

BRIEF NOTICES OF THE OPERATIONS OF ROMAN CATHOLICS IN THE WEST.

Diocese of Detroit—Embracing the state of Michigan and Wisconsin Territory. The Cathedral is at Detroit. Whole number of churches and chapels 25, other stations 25, clergymen 16, literary institutions and schools 11, &c., &c. The University of St. Philip, under the auspices of the bishop, is situated near Detroit, and holds out the usual literary inducements to pupils, and board and tuition for $100 per annum. Fifty young men are in a process of education in this diocese, and several schools are in operation at different points, including a Female Academy at Prairie du Chien. Important places are occupied by these various movements, as Detroit, Monroe, Ann Arbor, Marshall, Grand Rapids, Green Bay, Milwaukee, &c. At Prairie du Chien, a church is nearly finished of 100 by 50 feet.

Diocese of Cincinnati—Embracing the state of Ohio. The diocese contains 38 churches, and 15 others are in the process of erection: at which, and at some 20 other stations, 38 clergymen officiate. Besides the Cathedral at Cincinnati, a new one is in progress, 200 feet by 77, with a Corinthian Portico 45 feet deep, a tower and steeple. A Gothic church for the German Catholics, 142 feet by 66, is also nearly completed. The points occupied by the Catholics seem to have been selected not without an eye to future influence. For example—on the Ohio river, at Steubenville, Marietta, Portsmouth, Georgetown, Ripley, &c. On Lake Erie, Cleveland, Sandusky and Toledo. On the Canals, Canton, Chillicothe, Dayton, Hamilton, Zanesville, &c.

In Perry county, near the centre of the state, and in the immediate vicinity of the National road and the Ohio canal, at convenient distances from Athens, Zanesville, Circleville and Columbus, are several Catholic establishments, viz.:—the Dominican convent at St. Joseph's, in Perry county, with 5 friars, 4 novices, and 4 lay friars; and at Somerset, in the same county, a convent of 11 nuns of St. Dominic, who have under their charge the "St. Mary's Female Seminary." At this institution a system of education is pursued which is calculated to be very attractive by its list of studies and accomplishments. At St. Joseph's, in this county, one of the largest and most splendid churches in the West, has lately been erected. The style is Gothic, 122 by 60 feet, and 162 feet high to the top of the tower.

At Wilkesville, in Gallia county, "2000 acres of land, part of a large tract owned by Mr. P. Quin, abounding with iron, salt, &c., one of the finest wheat regions in the West, only 18 miles from the Ohio river, and having an ample supply of water power," have been granted for the support of a priest, an asylum for orphans, and schools.

There is also an ecclesiastical seminary belonging to this diocese in Brown county, on a farm of 300 acres, having 12 students under the charge of a principal and two assistants.

The "Atheneum" at Cincinnati is now converted into a Catholic college, called St. Xavier College, under the direction of Jesuits, has six professors, and about 50 boarders, besides those who attend the course of instruction, but do not board in the institution.

The Sœurs Notre Dame,—devoted to female education, have an Academy in Cincinnati, where the instruction is in the French language. The pupils "may receive visits occasionally from their relations, (!) but these visits must neither be frequent nor long." "Uniformity requires that all the boarders should assist at divine worship as performed in the institution." About 50 young ladies attended this seminary last year, of whom 40 were from the neighborhood—a proof of the local influence of the institution.

A "Society for the Diffusion of Religious Knowledge," at Cincinnati, manages the publication of the Catholic Telegraph, and issues tracts, &c. There is also a "Church Building Society," the members of which contribute 12½ cents each, monthly.

Diocese of Vincennes—Includes Indiana and the eastern part of Illinois—has 27 churches, including the Cathedral at Vincennes, 10 others building, and 29 other stations. There are 30 clergymen acting as such, and 4 in other employments. In looking over the names of these clergymen, the reader is struck with the great predominance of foreign names, such as O'Rorke, Sniederjans, Chartier, Weinzœpfen, Baquelin, Benoit, Bateux, Bernier, &c. Here, as in Ohio, there are a College and Theological Seminary, both at Vincennes. Fifty young men are reported as studying under the Catholic supervision in this diocese, besides 10 students in the Theological Seminary. The college, styled "St. Gabriel College," received a charter from the legislature last year, and has a "numerous faculty" of professors "in all the various branches of education, who are permanently connected and identified with the college." Here, as usual, "there is" professedly "no interference with the religious belief of the pupils, but for the sake of order, boarders are expected to comply with the external forms of Catholic worship, which is the religion professed by the members of the college."

Besides Vincennes, the important points occupied by Catholics, are such as Fort Wayne, Peru, Logansport and Terre Haute, on the Wabash, Indianapolis in the centre of the state, Michigan city in the north, and New Albany, Jeffersonville and Madison, on the Ohio river. In Illinois, the principal stations of this diocese are Chicago, Juliet and Shawneetown.

Diocese of Du Buque.—This is an old diocese, and its governor is the Right Rev. M. Loras, D. D., who was consecrated in 1810. It extends over the Iowa Territory, in which it has 7 churches and 5 other stations, which are supplied by 9 clergymen.

The Cathedral is situated at Du Buque, and is said to be far superior to any other church building above St. Louis. The services are both in French and English. Connected with the cathedral is a fine, large, brick edifice, occupied by the bishop and clergy, and arranged for the purposes of a seminary. Academies for girls are in operation at Du Buque and Burlington; for boys at DuBuque and Davenport. A brick church is in progress at Iowa city, with a basement for a school, to be opened the present spring. Houses of worship are either built, or measures for that purpose are in progress, at Bloomington, Fort Madison and West Point.

Diocese of St. Louis.—Embraces Missouri, Arkansas and the western moiety of Illinois. Bishop, Rt. Rev. Joseph Rosati; Coadjutor, Rt. Rev. Peter Kenrick, D. D. This diocese contains 56 churches and chapels, and 9 others are in the process of erection; 60 other stations are also supplied by the clergy, who number 74, viz: 50 in the ministry and 24 in other employments.

The central position and prospective influence of this portion of the Mississippi valley, have not escaped the attention of the adherents of Rome. Consequently, there is here a concentration of Catholic force from whence an influence may be sent abroad in every direction. They have 3 seminaries, 37 young men preparing to be priests, and 320 others pursuing their education in Catholic institutions. There are besides, 10 female academies with an aggregate of no less than 640 pupils—making in round numbers, a thousand of the youth of that most interesting portion of the West, under the training of the Catholics!

Of the facilities for such extensive influence on the education of the rising generation, an idea may be formed from a few brief notices. The St. Louis University is under the care of 6 resident priests, at the head of whom, is the Rev. Peter Verhøgen, who is also Superintendent of the Jesuit Missions in Missouri, Louisiana and Ohio. Last year there were 160 students, of whom 130 were boarders, and of course subject to the standing rule "to assist in performing diving service" according to Catholic modes. St. Mary's College, in Perry county, has a president and 8 professors. There are convents and academies for young ladies at 10 other places, besides free schools and orphan asylums at different points. A splendid church, 120 by 80 feet, is erecting for the Jesuits at St. Louis, making 7 places of worship occupied by the Catholics in that city.

Connected with this diocese are the Indian Missions to the Potawatamie Indians, and to the Flat Heads and Paus d'Orcilles of the Rocky Mountains.

Diocese of New-Orleans.—Established in 1793; governed by Rt. Rev. Anthony Blanc, D. D.; embraces the state of Louisiana; 42 churches and chapels; 15 or 20 other stations; 50 clergymen, of whom 13 are not immediately connected with the missions.

This diocese has a college at Grand Coteau, Opelousas, under a president, 6 professors, 4 "coadjutors," besides 4 professors of English, drawing and music. Some of these must have other employment, as there are but 70 boarders. By the rules of the institution, pupils are not received over 14 years of age, which indicates the design and expectation of the managers, as to the result of the training on the religious principles of the scholars. There is also a Theological Seminary at Lafourche, under the direction of the Lazarists. "There are 12 seminarians, 4 of whom are in theology, and 3 will be ordained priests this year."

There are 4 convents, having under their charge 6 academies and schools, and comprising 112 nuns and novices, and 585 pupils. Besides these, are the male and female orphan asylums, with 218 orphans and a day-school of 26 scholars—making a total of nearly seven hundred persons of all ages in the schools, besides the 218 orphans.

Diocese of Natches—Embracing the state of Mississippi. This appears as yet to be in its infancy, the bishop having received his consecration in March, 1841. It has but few stations, as Natchez, Vicksburg, St. Louis, and 2 other stations on the Gulf, and only 3 clergymen. The church at Natchez was some years since destroyed by fire, and has not yet been rebuilt.

Diocese of Mobile.—This See covers Alabama and Florida. There are 30 stations, at 7 of which there are churches; clergymen, 18. The operations are almost wholly confined as yet to the vicinity of the seacoast; a few stations only being as far north as Montgomery, Ala. Mobile, Pensacola, Tallahassee and St. Augustine, are the most important.

The College at Spring Hill, near Mobile, has a president and 2 professors, and 70 boarding students. There are also for boys an academy at St. Augustine, and a school at Mobile; for girls, a seminary at the convent of the Blessed Virgin at Summerville, and a school and orphan asylum at Mobile.

Diocese of Bardstown.—Embracing Kentucky, is well supplied with the means of operation, having 40 churches and chapels, 70 other stations, 50 clergymen, of whom 24 are employed in the various institutions. The apparatus of education is also extensive, comprising 6 colleges and seminaries, viz: the Jesuit Seminary in Marion county, and the Dominican convent in Washington county. At these two establishments there are 10 instructors including the superiors, (some of whom also officiate in the neighborhood,) and 15 theological students. Also, St. Joseph's College at Bardstown, with 14 officers and professors. The prospectus states that "the apparatus for Natural and Experimental Philosophy, is as complete as any in the western country." St. Mary's College is near Lebanon, in Marion county, under the care of 8 clergymen, to whose names the letters "S. J." are appended—i. e. Societatis Jesu, belonging to the order of the Jesuits. Besides these there are "3 scholastics and 5 lay brothers" in the institution. Average number of boarders, 110. There are also institutions of less note at Mount Merino, in Meade county, and at Louisville, the latter with 50 pupils. There are in the state, 3 convents and 10 academies. In the community of Loretines, there are no less than 156 members. There are also an institution for the deaf and dumb, and an orphan asylum, and minor schools. The young men receiving education under Catholic influence are 300; pupils in female academies, 528.

Diocese of Nashville.—Rt. Rev. R. P. Miles, D. D., is bishop, and extends his jurisdiction over the state of Tennessee. There are 8 clergymen and 52 stations, at only 2 of which they have church edifices. This diocese, like nearly all the rest, has its literary institution, at Nashville, designed to furnish priests for the missions in Tennessee. The students have charge of an academy under the superintendence of the superior of the seminary. Forty young men are returned as under instruction in Catholic institutions in this diocese. It does not appear to have as yet any institutions for the education of females.

In reviewing the facts set forth in the above notices, there are a few things that appear to be worthy of special remark.

And first, the numerical force of the Catholic clergy in the West is greater than most persons are aware. By the above enumerations, made from statistical documents, there are three hundred priests in the ten western dioceses! This is a net increase of 10 or 15 during the year 1841.

Again—these men are almost all foreigners, as a moment's inspection of their names will suggest; of course, they come among us strangers to our laws and the genius of our institutions, and having no interest in them, except to mould or subvert them.

Again, in the seminaries above alluded to there are no less than 90 clerical students. Thus, leaving out of account the increase of Catholic priests by immigration from foreign lands, there is a home production of Romanist clergy, nearly equal to the candidates for the ministry in all the Protestant theological seminaries on the same field!

The facilities for education are another striking feature. Every one of these dioceses that has been organized long enough, has its college or colleges. Twenty-three institutions, including the theological seminaries, are prepared, so far as can be judged from the titles of their professorships and lists of studies, to give instruction equal, and in some cases superior, to our best academies. These are for males. The female academies are at least 34 in number, besides numerous schools and orphan asylums. These higher seminaries have in them 2,947 youth.

Upon whom does this machinery of education chiefly operate? On the Catholics? Probably not. The great mass of these people care little for education. They are mostly the German and Irish population of large towns, and on the canals, rail-roads and other public works. Their children have no need of schools to make them Romanists. But it is on Protestant children that this system of means is chiefly intended to operate, and probably produces its principal effect.

Such are the influences that are co-operating with infidelity and the native depravity of man, to educate the children of the West—to make the voters and legislators, who ten years hence may control the government of our country! And is this the time to relax in our missionary efforts? Shall the Protestant institutions which an enlightened zeal has begun to found in the West, be abandoned now, in the very crisis of our country's destiny? We put these questions to our own hearts, and to our brethren; and we beseech all who have any concern for this country and for their own children—any zeal for Christ, or love for men, to frame an answer in view of the great day of final account.

Extracts from the Correspondence of the A. H. M. S.

POPULATION OF THE WEST.

Fifty years ago, not a white man was found in what now constitutes nine states and two organized territories, in the valley of the Mississippi. Indiana and Ohio have nearly doubled during the last 10 years; while the latter now ranks in population the third state in the Union. In the same period, Illinois has trebled her numbers; while Michigan contain six times as many as she did ten years ago. In the last 20 years, the population of the whole valley has quadrupled—the sum total now falling but little short of 6,000,000. This shows us on the frontier what to expect in time to come—with such a moving mass behind, who have already severed the ties that bound them to the land of their fathers, and who stand ready to go in any direction that interest shall dictate; while there is opening before them a country in many respects more inviting than any previously settled. Again—almost every country in Europe has her sons here; and we are to regard each, virtually, as an agent, looking out locations for friends left behind. Hundreds will come instead of tens, and thousands instead of hundreds.

But there is another view which cannot be too often brought before the eastern churches. The population of the United States has doubled once in about 23 years. If it were to double once in 25 years for 150 years to come, at the end of that period it would number more than a thousand millions of immortal beings—candidates for an eternal destiny—more than the present population of all the earth. Whatever abatement is to be made from the calculation, it cannot be said this land could not contain this multitude. Our soil, in the valley, would every acre support its man. Besides that already brought into market, 770,000,000 acres lie east of the Rocky Mountains; and of the 446,000 square miles now occupied, scarcely a hundredth part is cultivated or made to yield its increase.

Again, the Mississippi valley contains more than four times the area of all the states east of the Alleghany mountains. Twenty years will give the sceptre to the valley—will place the destiny of this republic in the hands of states that had no existence fifty years ago; and then we will take care of the East, if the East will not take care of the West; we shall do to the East what seemeth good unto us, if the East neglects to do to us what duty requires.

A Correspondent in Northern Illinois writes as follows:—

The former sheriff of the county told me at his own house, where I had been preaching, that the district which was Jo-Daviess County, when he took the census in 1835, and which numbered 4038 people, had increased to 25,000 when the census was taken last year. Within those limits we have 4 ministers.

Some persons on reading the accounts of western embarrassments, continuing year after year without the prospect of speedy improvement, may feel discouraged, and be disposed to relax their efforts in behalf of the destitute. But this would be neither wise nor right. It is true, the period of temporal prosperity seems to be deferred, and the burden of sustaining the Gospel is thrown in no small degree upon the charity of the eastern churches. But it should be borne in mind, that the East has too large an investment in those western churches, to admit of their being forsaken now. There are her sons and daughters; thither has she sent innumerable influences to found the institutions of knowledge and piety. The work has been begun at hundreds of points, and is in such a state of advancement that it would be bad economy to withdraw assistance now. Again, we must not forget for a moment, that all that is done for the West is done for ourselves—in self-defence, to preserve the common liberty of the whole nation from the overthrow which false religion and infidelity would bring upon it. No; the embarrassments of the new states may be regarded as trials of the faith and patience of those who labor and pray for their conversion, but afford no reason for abandoning the work.

But after all that is said, and said truly, about the difficulties attending the evangelization of the West, what portion of our country has been more fruitful of results? Where have the means of grace produced more effect? On what efforts of the church, in any part of the world, has God bestowed more signal blessings than on those which have been made to plant the Gospel and the institutions of learning in the Mississippi Valley? Let us not therefore be impatient, because "the poor we have always with us." Many of these embarrassed churches are themselves but the proofs of missionary success. Their members are the fruits of evangelical labor, which missionaries have performed. All the good they have done, and all that they may yet accomplish, may be regarded as the result of ministers sent out and funds expended in years gone by. And if they should become extinct as churches, still as individuals they have been enlightened and saved, and that is enough to repay a thousand fold, all that has ever been done for them. But those churches will not become extinct. We believe the Christians who have made up their minds to sustain this blessed work of Home Missions, are the flower of the church, the substantial working, praying, giving portion; and they will not abandon this enterprise until they see reason to believe that it is abandoned of God, and they are convinced he has given up this fair land to hopeless ruin.

USEFULNESS OF THE A. H. M. S.

VARIOUS EXTRACTS.

Had I not been deeply impressed with importance of attending to the work of the ministry in this region, and often learned by experience to trust in God, I should have made some secular engagements to supply my wants for the coming year. But whilst I was pondering my way, I was thankful to the Father of mercies for your pledge to aid in my support another year.

Here I desire to express my thanks to you and the patrons of the A. H. M. Society. Dear brethren, you are doing a great work in this young, yet gigantic West. When I look around on our churches in this region, I find that most, if not all, have been, in the progress of their existence, connected with your Society. Our brethren, mostly, are your dependants or benefactors, and sometimes both.

A great change.

In the name and in behalf of the church and society in this place, I tender to the Executive Committee of the A. H. M. S., and through them to the patrons of the Society, their sincere thanks for the assistance rendered them in sustaining the Gospel during the year. But for such timely aid, they would in all probability have remained as they had been for some time previous—destitute of the stated means of grace.

The change wrought is truly wonderful and can be ascribed to the grace of God only. O, my dear brother, who can compute the amount of glory which eternity will reveal as the result of those streams of benevolence which flow through the A. H. M. S.? But for that benevolence, what had been the moral condition of many hundreds of fields which are now like this, rejoicing as the garden of the Lord.

"Don't leave us."

My parents in —, have recently urged me strongly to leave and go to that state. Through their influence, doors have been opened for me to three or four congregations, who are able to support the Gospel, and I was on the point of deciding that I would go, but my friends in different parts of this county expressed such feelings on the subject, and urged me to stay with such importunity, that I feel that I cannot leave them at present. It is like abandoning friends in a dangerous forest, and I cannot withstand their cry, "don't leave us," "don't leave us." Yet, were it not for the aid your Society renders, I should be obliged to leave. O, I wish some of the churches who build large meeting-houses, and pay their ministers large salaries, and still are rich, would or could realize the situation of their brethren, and the churches in this wide field! Surely they would not leave you with stunted means to carry on the work in which you are engaged. There is no instrumentality, I am convinced, that can be the means of blessing this region like the A. H. M. Society. Without this, ignorance, Popery, Infidelity, &c., &c., will occupy this large field in the West, which is soon to do very much towards deciding the fate of our country, and of influencing the world!

Efficiency of Home Missionary Aid.

This church has had a long infancy. When I came they had no place for meeting, but an open and ragged wagon shop capable of holding 50 people, seated, when assembled, on rails and scantling. There we met, prayed, and there I preached while the winds of winter whistled around our ears. In the midst of this state of things, I made one proposition, "build a meeting-house and live, or neglect it and die. They builded and have defrayed most of the expense. And since the effort commenced, the church has more than doubled its numbers. Without some nursing hand, it appears to me the church would not have survived to the present time—while now, it bids fair to be united, useful and prosperous.

A Picture.

The following is one of the many cases that come to our knowledge, often without the agency of the sufferers, and deeply affecting our hearts and filling our eyes with tears. Individual exceptions there may be, but it is our firm conviction that there is no class of men on the face of the earth making such constant sacrifices and dying such living deaths to do good to others, without the prospect of earthly reward, as the evangelical ministry in the new states. They wear out without the notice or the gratitude of men; but their record is on high; and in the great day of manifestation it will be seen, that they have laid the foundations of Zion for many generations.

I visited one of our brethren a few days ago. He was sick—not expected to live. He has nine children. His wife has to do her work, and teach them, because he is too poor to hire them taught. What will this family do, if they lose their scanty support by the loss of their father? And what will they do if he lives? It will be months before he can do any thing to support them.

O ye, who enjoy in older communities the institutions of piety, the ready-made arrangements of organized society, at the cheap cost of merely supporting them, be mindful of the pioneer, who goes away from all this, to do for others what your fathers have done for you—to sow in tears, that those who shall come after him may reap in joy! Leave him not unsustained by your alms and your prayers. Leave not his widow or his orphans, to be cast out upon the world the victims of unmitigated want!

Embarrassments of Poverty.

Most of the year, once in 4 weeks, I have gone 10 miles after preaching here in the morning, and preached at 4 o'clock P. M., and also have gone 6 miles, every 4th week, after preaching two sermons, and preached again. All my journeys have been performed on foot, until in the fall, when an aged brother furnished me with a horse. You will see how acceptable the aid you promise us must be, when I tell you that I shall not be able to obtain $20 in cash in this congregation, and as for clothing, it is as scarce as money. I do not know but I should have had to discontinue my labors for the want of clothes, if it had not been that the Lord opened the heart of the brother who furnished me with the horse.

From a Missionary on the Mississippi River.

To tell you of the relief afforded by the receipt of your letter and commission, would be difficult, and perhaps unprofitable. So constantly are you receiving accounts of distress, that in what seems to the individual suffering, to be extraordinary privation, you see scarcely more than the common lot. A pious gentleman lately remarked, on reading a letter from a foreign missionary, received by his friends here, that they who are in foreign lands do not suffer half as much as missionaries in the West. And so far as food and clothing go, this is true. I could tell of trials, of unceasing anxieties for months and almost years at a time, to know how to procure bread-stuff for my family.

The quarter has been one of joys and sorrows, of bereavement and blessing. In the beginning of it, I was laid on my bed for more than a week with the bilious fever. At the same time my eldest child lay in the same room under a severe attack of the same character. She recovered but slowly; but lest the cloud should look too dark, the gracious Father provided something to cheer us even there. He gave me a more sweet sense of dependence on him, and of his faithfulness to provide for the wants of his creatures. Our people here were very kind to us, in looking into our wants, and rendering us any assistance they could.

While we lay thus burning under a high fever, "mail day" came, and one of our neighbors brought us from the office two letters. One was from a female member of this little church, who had married and moved away, asking for a dismission and enclosing a five dollar note. The other was from your own hand, telling of the box of goods you had shipped to us, from the ladies of M., New-Jersey. I do not know that any act of kindness I ever received affected me as deeply as that did. Will you tender to them our most sincere thanks for their benevolence to those whom they never saw.

PARTICULAR CASES.

One woman now hoping that God for Christ's sake has forgiven hersins and converted her husband, though now near three-score years old, who was born of Catholic parents in Montreal, says she never saw the sacrament administered by Protestants until this month. Now she blesses God for what she has seen, and heard, and felt in her old age, after such a long life in ignorance and sin.

A Victory of Grace.

The communion service on Sabbath was a harvest; I think it was the most delightful day of my life. In addition to other things that rendered this a peculiar season, there was the admission into the church of one, who, not long before, had been a persecutor and defamer. Her appearance produced the deepest sympathy among the people. The circumstances of her conversion rushed fresh upon the memory of all; and the opposition she had endured, bade us all look for genuine sincerity in the profession she was about to make of her faith in Christ. At the close of a meeting during the revival, some account of which you have received, she remained for conversation. She wept so much that I was obliged to forbear saying any thing to her for some time. When she had gained composure, I found that she was entertaining very exaggerated ideas of what ministers could do in such cases. She was, therefore, exhorted to look away from all human aid and cast herself directly at the feet of divine mercy. The remarks only produced exasperation at the time; and she went away in a rage at the unwillingness of the minister to give her any comfort. Her way home lay through a wood, and she was alone. As she went, the very bushes seemed to speak and tell her she was a perishing sinner. She fell down on her knees overwhelmed, and for the space of half an hour, continued in earnest prayer. On the spot she found the pardon of her sins; and she reached home rejoicing in the mercy of God, and thankful beyond measure that the preacher had so strongly insisted upon her going at once to God, and ceasing to lean on an arm of flesh. The change which was visible to her entire family, made a deep impression on two of the oldest daughters; one of whom, unknown to any in the house, retired into the stable for secret prayer. She had scarcely uttered her first petition, before her sister, with a similar object in view, came softly in and fell down at the distance of a few feet from her, and began to pray aloud. As it was night and very dark, they did not see each other. The first kept perfectly still, nor was it known by the other that she was there, until they came together in the house, and in the presence of their astonished but rejoicing parent, declared what had befallen them.

Affecting Extract.

I waited with no little anxiety for my commission, and was rejoiced to receive it; but was not a little disappointed to perceive that the full amount asked was not granted. My children are growing up in ignorance for want of the means to educate them. My wife is wearing away her life for the want of assistance in her family concerns. From month to month she toils on with four children, in a house, without any eastern conveniences attached to it, often for weeks in succession destitute of sugar, coffee, tea, fruit, and almost every thing that belongs to the class of luxuries, that something may yet remain to be distributed among those starving for the bread of life. The Missionary Herald and the Home Missionary are the only publications I take, for the want of means. I lost my Hebrew books several years since, and have not been able to replace them. New books I cannot procure, for it is difficult to save money enough even for postage.

The full amount applied for in behalf of this missionary was not granted, because the Executive Committee had not the means to do it consistently with other claims. The responsibility of the privation and suffering endured by ministers on the outposts of Zion, falls upon those who withhold from the treasury of the Lord the means of relief.

"The Highways and Hedges" Explored.

The Sunday Schools are two—one of 40 scholars and 120 volumes in the library. The other 25 scholars and 50 volumes. I might mention another which I established, in what I might call one of the darkest corners in this section. The parents were ignorant and dissipated; the children ragged and exceedingly filthy, and scarcely knew any thing of the Sabbath, having never been taught. And yet this settlement is not more than two miles from our village. Strange as it may appear, no one seemed to think of their miserable condition—"no man cared for their souls." I am quite ashamed that I should so long permit children to starve so near me. There are a few professing Christians in the neighborhood, but none who could take charge of the school. I availed myself of the help of a Methodist brother, a mile distant, to superintend. Most of the children (18 or 20 in number) knew not a letter, but seemed to devour every word spoken to them. O how many there are in our land, in the vicinity of our churches, who are starving for the bread of life, and are not fed!

APPEALS IN BEHALF OF THE NEW STATES.

From Rev. A. Kent, Galena, Ill.

Frequent appeals have been made for ministerial aid, but it avails not. Time flies, and 12 years are already gone, and not a man has come that was willing to share with me the labor of building on this wide waste. I might stand on Pilot Nob (a mound in full view) and with the aid which Moses enjoyed when he climbed to Pisgah's top, I might count, Grant 2000, Green 1000, Stephenson 2800, Carrol 1000, Jo-Daviess 6500, Clinton 1000, Jackson 2500, and Du Buque 4000, eight contiguous counties, in which, there is no minister but myself to look after the scattered sheep, and to supply the churches already formed of our denomination, (i. e. Presbyterian and Congregational.) These counties contain 20,000 souls, (as you may see by adding the figures above,) and the number will be multiplied to 40,000 in five years. I could give you facts more in detail concerning these counties, in six of which I have preached, and that when there were but three counties, i. e. one in Illinois, one in Wisconsin, and one in Iowa.

Suppose that a population of 20,000 souls in Connecticut were at a stroke to be bereft of all their ministers and churches, and schools, and every means of moral and intellectual improvement, and to be reduced to that chaotic state which is exhibited by the mixed multitudes of these new settlements; would not this fact, when known, constitute a strong appeal to your sympathies? But your children and grand-children, will many of them find a grave here, as certainly as the sparks fly upward.

Brethren, we do not wish that we should be eased and you burdened, but that there should be an equality. Compare then the fields in Connecticut, where a minister has charge of 1000 souls, and is cheered by fellow-laborers within 6 miles on each side, with this field where there are no ministers within 40 miles north, 50 miles south, 20 miles east, and 100 west; within which the population is increasing at least 4000 annually; and where the churches already formed are wasted by Mormonism, Perfectionism, and every other ism. We have no controversy about Presbyterianism or Congregationalism; no controversy about Old School or New School—about Taylor or Tyler-ism. We plead for help—for strong men, men that can endure hardness—valiant for the truth, and wise to win souls.

A Missionary Field on this side of the Mississippi.

The region where Mr. ——— labors, was settled some 50 or 60 years ago. The first settlers have long since gone to the grave. The children they brought with them, and those born to them in their new country, have many of them paid the debt of nature. The third and fourth generations now occupy the country. But all this time, we (the Presbyterian church,) have done almost nothing to send them the means of grace. Of course, the people need, nearly as much as some heathen countries, to be instructed, in the very first principles of the Gospel. And it requires as much moral courage to live and labor among them, as to live and labor in heathen lands, when supported by the Board of Foreign Missions. Yea, I had rather go to the heathen, on many accounts; more self-denial would not be requisite. And there is a large and extensive tract of our beloved country in this condition. If any thing is done for this extensive region, it must be by patient perseverance; and in time we may hope to see the good fruits.

The churches in this country might do something for the Home Missionary Society, and would, if a good agent would visit them, and place the subject in its proper light before them. Yet they would not do as much as churches in the eastern states according to their ability. And for a very obvious reason. The moral obligation to sustain the ministry is neither perceived nor felt, except very feebly. Perhaps the average salary of the settled ministers would not amount to $100. The cause of this feeble sense of obligation is in part to be ascribed to sects among us who make a great merit of preaching for nothing, and declaiming against ministers who take pay for preaching on Sunday, when no body else pretends to take wages for working on the Sabbath. Many are above the influence of such folly, but it has its influence on the populace; and in the region where your missionary is preaching, it will take years to wear out this erroneous feeling even from the best and wisest among them. How I should rejoice if your Society had a score like Apollos or Whitefield in the region to which I have alluded, perhaps three or four times as extensive as Massachusetts, and not half a dozen of our ministers in the whole bounds!

Good Ministers Needed.

There is nothing more needed in this part of the West, in my humble opinion, than thorough going and able ministers of Christ, whose business it shall be to go from place to place and house to house, and look up the lost sheep of the house of Israel. A great many such there are in this country, who never let themselves be known until they are searched out. This service, by the by, cannot be performed as it should be by broken-down ministers.

He who comes out here to preach the Gospel must have a clear head and a sound heart. A rotten place in a man's heart, no larger than a sixpence at the East, will soon grow in this country to the size of a dollar.

Melancholy Effects of neglecting to plant the Gospel Early.

There is generally little effort to obtain the Gospel, and the least desire for it I have ever witnessed in any part of the country in which I have been. They are willing to have preaching, if they can get it for nothing, and that is the only condition on which many will have it. They are also very particular and fastidious, and not long suited with any kind of preaching.

A Minister's Testimony.

Surely the following testimony of a missionary in Illinois must sink into the hearts of unemployed ministers, with something like a conviction that they ought to be in the field and at work. How can they harden their hearts against such appeals?

During the two years I have labored here, I have been almost alone—no Presbyterian or Congregational ministers being in the region, except one or two. There is now some prospect of a minister at Greenville, and also at Hillsborough, an adjoining country seat. But Bellville, Edwardsville, Shelbyville and Carlyle, four county seats with from 500 to 1,200 inhabitants each, are destitute, beside settlements throughout the region. Brethren seem to think they cannot be supported in this part of the state. I would willingly take the poorest church in the region, and in some way teach, make tents, plant corn, live in a log-house, do without sugar, tea and coffee, and risk my support, if I could but see the others supplied with ministers. May the Lord of the harvest send us laborers here.

Infidelity—Means to Counteract it.

A part of each Sabbath is devoted to a lecture on the evidences of Christianity—a series of this character having been commenced a few weeks since; and it is my design to continue this course through the summer. I think this plan promises to result in good. Strange as it might seem, the writings of Thomas Paine are read by many, both male and female, with much apparent interest, and his sentiments furnish topics for conversation in the social circle. There are, occasionally, lecturers in this community, who go from place to place, decrying the ministers of the gospel, and the institutions of religion, denying the immortality of the soul, and the future punishment of the wicked. And there are many who follow their pernicious ways, by reason of which the cause of truth is evil spoken of.

Peculiar need of Able Ministers.

This results perhaps in part from the great variety of tastes and prejudices, which exist in almost every community. They come together from all parts of the country, and each individual brings his local feelings and prejudices. To unite such dissimilar materials, and bind them all to him, requires more than ordinary attraction and power in a minister. It is entirely a mistake, to think that less talents are requisite in the ministry here, than at the East. If any part of the country needs energetic and powerful minds, it is this. Every thing is in an unsettled state, and there are numerous and deep seated errors to be rooted out. And above all other things, deadness to the world, and a perfect consecration in heart and life to God, are needed here. No one will be likely to labor with much success, and certainly not with much pleasure, unless he feels in some degree as Paul did, who counted all things but loss that he might win Christ, and be found in him.

Reaction will come.

The crisis we are approaching as a nation, it is feared, is not begun to be understood by the mass of the people of God. Not the moral purity of the West alone, but the preservation of the whole country is at stake. In general, it has been more a desire for a treasure on earth, than one in heaven, that has peopled these western regions of our country. Hence the tide of worldliness has fairly swept over the western plains; not unmingled with irreligion, and false religion, and frightful immoralities. Let this state of things continue—let the tide of ungodliness at the West accumulate and spread, and soon we may expect its turbid wave will roll back upon the East; and who then shall plant anew her overwhelmed and desolated institutions? Our country is in danger, and the souls of present and unborn millions are in danger, while Christians all over the land, and christian ministers, are suffering every thing but Christianity to take root, and spring up and bear fruit on the fertile soil of the West.

Something must be Done.

A thousand such facts as are detailed in the foregoing pages, demand that the resources of the Home Missionary Society be greatly increased. Let it be remembered :

1. That it is this Society, that by its patronage keeps a large proportion of the ministry in the western field. And is not this a great and good work—a work deserving a liberal supply of means ?

2. Not only should the ministers who are now in the field be sustained, but many others ought to be sent there. They are needed, and they are ready to go.

3. If they are not sent and sustained in the destitute portions of the country, the following evils will inevitably ensue :

1. Unemployed preachers will accumulate in the older states, beyond the demand for them there ; hence they will be obliged to turn their attention to secular pursuits ; the dignity of the office will be let down ; the church, under the mistaken idea that what is only an unequal distribution is an actual surplus, will relax her efforts for the training of ministers ; and consequently, when the missionary spirit shall again revive in the church, and she shall look around for her sons to go to the destitute and to the heathen, they will not be found, and the work must stand still while another generation of preachers is educated.

2. Meanwhile the golden opportunity, the critical time for deciding the rescue of immense portions of our country from the reign of wickedness and error, and their people from eternal death, will have passed away, never to return. Now, much of the West may be pre-occupied by the truth ; a few years hence, truth will have to fight with a hundred foes for every inch of ground she gains.

In view of the too general insensibility to the great interests at stake, and the value of the present opportunity, we almost seem to see the Savior of men, bending over our beloved country, and saying, as he did of Jerusalem :—IF THOU HADST KNOWN, EVEN THOU, IN THIS THY DAY, THE THINGS THAT BELONG TO THY PEACE—BUT NOW THEY ARE HIDDEN FROM THINE EYES !

PLAN FOR ITINERANT LABOR, UNDER CERTAIN CIRCUMSTANCES.

The leading policy of the A. H. M. S., is in favor of permanent labor, either in a single congregation or in a definite field of small extent. But there are districts so new, or where the churches are so feeble, that they cannot be supplied in this way ; and consequently, some modification of this policy becomes necessary. Hence, within certain limitations, resort is had to a species of itinerant labor.

The plan on which the Society is willing to aid in this species of labor, seeks to secure, as far as possible, a regular responsibility of the missionary employed, to the ecclesiastical body with which the churches he serves are connected.

1. The Presbytery or Association desiring such labor, form their destitute churches into a circuit or circuits, to be occupied by one or more preachers who shall regularly supply them.

2. The missionary is to be selected with special reference to the field, by the Presbytery or Association within whose limits he is to labor. This is important, in order that he may be one having the confidence and sympathy of the ministers and churches in the neighborhood. The A. H. M. S. desire that ministers so employed be men of experience who are adapted to the peculiar work of missionaries in neglected communities.

3. It is expected, that while the immediate object of this species of labor is to afford a temporary supply of preaching and ordinances, the ultimate design, which should be kept steadily in view, is to establish the regular ministrations of God's house in every community. Hence, as fast as possible, the more important points are to be encouraged to attempt the support of the Gospel; and others to unite together as may be most convenient, and engage regular preaching.

4. The Presbytery or Association are expected to use all reasonable means to raise the support of the missionary, applying to the Society only for the sum which they are unable to raise.

This system is recommended as a mode for nourishing those churches which are too feeble to begin the process of active growth. There are many portions of our land where no other plan can be made to answer. In this matter the Presbyteries and Associations must take the lead. They know the ground—its peculiarities, its facilities, and its difficulties; and they know what kind of men are needed. Let them seek such men, and when they obtain them, if aid is needed, let application be made to the Society in the name of the body that has charge of the matter, and the Executive Committee will respond to the appeal “as God hath prospered them.”

We add, merely, that it is seldom that men of the proper character for this work are at the disposal of the Society to send out. They are the last men to be out of employ; where one such is to be found, there are ten fields ready for him to enter.

HOW TO MAKE COLLECTIONS FOR BENEVOLENT OBJECTS.

In general.

1. Make them on principle—as matters of duty and of conscience.
2. Make them systematically—every object having its specified time and mode, and every thing being done with promptness and efficiency.
3. Make them intelligently—the claims of every cause being spread out at length, and the appropriate motives fully enforced.
4. Make them from the whole congregation, old and young, rich and poor—each individual being called upon to give as God hath prospered him.
5. Make them as means of grace to those that give. Present no motives but those of scripture authority. Let the utmost kindness and christian courtesy be exhibited by every agent and every collector; and should any one decline giving, be sure to treat him so that he may be approached again.

In particular.

1. Let every church determine, at some regular meeting, what benevolent objects they will aid in the course of the year—fixing the time, when the claims of each shall be heard, and the collections taken up, and appointing a committee of three or more for each object, to superintend the collections.
2. When the time assigned for a given object arrives, let such principles, facts and motives connected with it, as are judged most suitable, be presented, in the most public manner, by the pastor, or an agent—but never wait for an agent, or feel that his presence is indispensable; ordinarily, there will be no occasion for the service of an agent, if the pastor of the church will preach a sermon in behalf of the object to be aided.
3. Let the committee having charge of this particular object, as soon after the public appeal as may be, have a meeting, and divide the congregation into districts or sections—appoint one male and one female collector for each district, and provide them with suitable books, in which to take the names of all who contribute and the amount they give. If the committee or the church prefer it, the committee themselves may make the collections, instead of appointing collectors.
4. Let the collectors, within a week—or two weeks at the longest—call on every individual within their respective districts, not known to be unfriendly to the object, and solicit donations—passing by none, because of their youth or their poverty, and treating all with becoming attention and respect; and then report the result to their committee—the whole amount to be paid over by the committee without delay, into the treasury for which it is destined.
5. At the close of the year, let the whole church and congregation come together, to hear the reports of these committees, as well as statements and addresses from their pastor, and such others as he may introduce, and to make similar arrangements for another year; and if they have had no regular system before, they will probably find the sum total of their religious charities increased from two to four fold—their hearts far more deeply interested than ever in these objects of christian beneficence—the duty of giving, and of collecting, pleasant instead of irksome—a means of grace to themselves as well as of mercy to all mankind.

By feeble congregations, should contain the following particulars, viz:—

The name of the church or congregation; the number of communicants, and the average number of attendants on public worship; the denomination and size of congregations immediately contiguous; the total amount of salary which the applicants propose to make up; the portion of that salary which they can raise for the given time, and the least amount that will suffice from the Society for that period. These statements should be signed by the trustees and elders, or by a committee of the congregation, and confirmed by the certificate of two or more clergymen acquainted with the facts. Also—

The name and post-office address of the minister whose services they desire to secure; his credentials; and the certificate of two or more ministers of known standing, as to his general character for piety, zeal, and acceptableness as a minister of the Gospel.

The appropriations of the A. H. M. S. are, ordinarily, for twelve months from the time of application; at the end of which, if further aid be needed, a new application must be made. And each congregation applying for renewed aid should furnish, in addition to other testimonials, the certificate of the Missionary, that they have fulfilled their previous pledges for his support.

It is desirable that applications should be addressed to the care of the Agent, Committee of Correspondence, or Auxiliary Society of the A. H. M. S. for the region where the applicants reside; but in case of doubt as to the name or residence of such Agents or Committees, applications may be sent directly to the office of the Parent Society, addressed to one of the Secretaries.

STATISTICAL RETURNS ON THE FIRST OF APRIL.

The Executive Committee of the A. H. M. S. desire to present, at each Anniversary, a complete return of the results of their operations during the previous year. To this end, they request each Missionary to furnish them with a list of the particulars enumerated below, and forward it by mail as early as the FIRST DAY OF APRIL in each year.

SEVENTEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

The AMERICAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY held its Seventeenth Anniversary in the Broadway Tabernacle, New-York, on Wednesday evening, May 10th, 1843. HENRY DWIGHT, Esq., President of the Society, took the chair, and the meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. JOEL H. LINSLEY, D. D., President of Marietta College, Ohio.

The Treasurer's Report was read by Mr. JASPER CORNING, Treasurer of the Society.

An Abstract of the Annual Report of the Executive Committee was read by Rev. MILTON BADGER, one of the Secretaries.

1. On motion of Rev. HENRY LITTLE, of Madison, Ind., seconded by Rev. NOAH COE, of Greenwich, Conn.

Resolved, That the reports now read, be adopted and published under the direction of the Executive Committee.

2. On motion of Rev. S. L. POMROY, of Bangor, Maine, seconded by Rev. WILLARD CHILD, Norwich, Conn.

Resolved, That the Gospel of Jesus Christ is adapted to the necessities of nations, no less than of individuals.

3. On motion of Rev. LYMAN BEECHER, D. D., President of Lane Seminary, Cincinnati, O., seconded by Rev. J. K. CONVERSE, of Burlington, Vermont.

Resolved, That among the various forms of human instrumentality, the stated evangelical ministry is eminently the power of God for the conversion of the West.

These resolutions were sustained by appropriate addresses from Rev. Messrs. LITTLE and POMROY, and Dr. BEECHER, setting forth the urgent claims of our own country and her increasing population to the best influences of an intelligent and zealous ministry.

The exercises were agreeably diversified and rendered more impressive by the performance of several pieces of sacred music by the choir of the Tabernacle, under the direction of Mr. GEORGE ANDREWS.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. BAXTER DICKINSON, D. D., of Auburn, N. Y.; after which the Society proceeded to elect officers for the ensuing year.

An executor, on paying a legacy of two hundred and fifty dollars to the funds of this Society, shall be a Member for life; and the payment of a legacy of one thousand dollars shall constitute him a Director for life.

SEVENTEENTH REPORT.

IN rendering their SEVENTEENTH REPORT, the Executive Committee may properly adopt, as an epitome of the Society's history for the past year, the language of inspired song, "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." Such has been the experience of those to whom was committed the anxious trust of guiding the affairs of this Institution since the last anniversary. They went forth, and wept as they went, to behold the harvest so plenteous and the laborers so few. They wept, because, when all the means at their disposal were exhausted, those who were ready to perish still knocked at their door, and there was nothing to give them. They have wept, because the day of our country's probation is so swiftly passing away, and the most thoughtful of her sons lay it so little to heart; while a large portion of the American field is left to him who soweth only tares. But still, having obtained help from God, the Society has gone forward, scattering far and wide the precious seed; and now returns with its annual narrative, to tell how its Great Patron has upheld it amid many trials, and crowned the year with loving kindness and tender mercies. To have been sustained, merely, when the prosperity of the country was so depressed, and the general spirit of enterprise was well-nigh broken, were itself a matter of thankfulness. But to be permitted to go farther, and speak of advances made in the Home Missionary work; to see the public interest in this cause increasing in intelligence and strength; and, above all, to behold the rain of righteousness descend on the thirsty wilderness, and the solitary places made glad—renders this anniversary an eminent occasion for joyful congratulation and praise; and may well invigorate the faith, and brighten the hopes of the members of this Society.*

* Towards the close of the year, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Society, Rev. ALEXANDER PROUDFIT, D. D.—himself an early and laborious missionary to the new settlements—closed a life which had been filled with usefulness and honor.

The details of the Society's operations are embraced in the following.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS.

From the preceding enumeration, the following results of the year are derived.

The number of ministers of the Gospel in the employment of the Society, during the year, has been 848. Of these, 623 were in commission at the time of the last anniversary, and 225 have since been appointed.

The whole amount of labor performed is 657 years.

During a greater or less portion of the year, the Gospel has been preached by the missionaries in 1,047 congregations and missionary districts.

These laborers have been distributed in 25 states and territories of the Union, and in Canada and Texas;—viz.—in Maine, 68; New-Hampshire, 47; Vermont, 53; Massachusetts, 78; Rhode-Island, 3; Connecticut, 39; New-York, 193; New-Jersey, 10; Pennsylvania, 47; Delaware, 3; Maryland, 1; Virginia, 1; North Carolina, 2; Georgia, 1; Kentucky, 1; Tennessee, 6; Ohio, 75; Indiana, 33; Illinois, 65; Missouri, 20; Arkansas, 1; Michigan, 46; Wisconsin, 28; Iowa, 16; District of Columbia, 1; Canada, 9; Texas, 1.

By comparing these statements with the last Annual Report, it will be seen that there have been important advances in the good accomplished by the Society. It has had in commission 57 more missionaries than in any other year of its existence. These have labored in 60 more fields, and 63 years of labor have been performed more than in the twelve previous months. Another fact, which reveals the policy of the Committee, is that 64 more laborers than in any former year, have been stationed in the great valley of the West, towards which our increasing population is forcing its way, with an impetus which no temporal embarrassments have had power to check. In Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, alone, the appointments have been 42 more than in the previous year. When it is remembered, that a mighty struggle for the possession of that rising empire is drawing nigh, and that Romanism and Infidelity are there concentrating their hosts for the coming conflict, the increase of missionary laborers in that part of our country, is a matter of special congratulation.

Increasing attention is given on the fields of this Society's culture, to Subbath school and Bible class instruction. The number of pupils under this species of training is not far from 68,400. Encouragement of important aid in this department is held out to the missionaries, by the liberal offer from the American S. S. Union, and the Massachusetts S. S. Society, of gratuitous appropriations for libraries.

The impulse communicated to the cause of Temperance during the previous year, has extended its influence into the last. The committee are especially gratified to learn from the statements of the missionaries, that among the thousands who so suddenly assumed the vow of total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, the cases of apostasy are exceedingly rare. The number of persons thus pledged, in the communities connected with our missions, is not far from 146,000.

The productiveness of funds invested in the Home Missionary cause, continues to be seen in the returns which are annually made to the treasury of benevolence, from the fields on which they are expended. In 308 of those fields, the aggregate of charitable collections is $13,000—being about 40 per cent. on the sum appropriated to them. This has gone for the spread of the Gospel in heathen lands, for the circulation of the Bible, and for the various other forms, in which the leaves of the tree of life are applied for the healing of the nations.

But the pious heart will inquire for results, which the foregoing statistics but imperfectly disclose. It will ask for the evidence, that One like unto the Son of Man has been seen amid the golden candlesticks, which it is the work of this Society to set up. To this inquiry, the Committee are permitted to respond, that the presence of the Savior with his missionary servants, and his blessing on their labors, has not been so signal in any year, since the revivals of 1831 and 1832. Many of the churches assisted were enjoying a refreshing at the date of the last report; but a still larger number have been visited during the past winter and spring; and the present anniversary finds many of them still under the descending showers of grace. From the reports we learn, that 233 of the churches have shared in these effusions, and that 6,858 souls have been hopefully born again, during the year, in connection with the ministry of this Society.

The number added to the churches on profession of their faith is about 5,853; by letters from other churches, 2,370—in all, 8,223. This number is 2,709 more than the additions of the previous year, and would doubtless have been much larger, but for the brief period which has elapsed since the revivals referred to commenced.

Mere numerical statements, however, convey but a meagre idea of the blessings bestowed on the churches and on the land, by this merciful visitation. There are results which no human mind can compute, or figures express. No eye has seen the whole, but that which looks upon all things—which has followed the steps of every missionary—which has beheld when, in the great congregation, truth, like a strong man armed, has grappled with rebellion, and when, in the closet or in the cabin of the forest, the still small voice has won the heart to love. The Infinite alone, can measure the wretchedness relieved by the reformation of the intemperate, and the happiness secured, when friends, long alienated by discord, were reunited in affection, and desolate homes were cheered again with food and gladness.

Precious beyond conception are the earthly fruits of this work of God's grace. But how much more precious the spiritual results, involved in the surrender of souls to Christ, domestic altars erected, cursing and blasphemy exchanged for prayer, prodigal sons reclaimed, peace unspeakable shed abroad in weary hearts, and churches founded, to keep their places and to repeat and perpetuate all these blessings, until the consummation of the Redeemer's triumph! It is when contemplating such fruits as these, that the Committee feel how imperfectly appreciated is the influence which the Christians of this land, with the blessing of God, may exert, through this Society, in a single year. And never does the preciousness of the trust committed to the American churches appear so great, as when, with endeavors so feeble, God connects such glorious results. Could the souls who have been hopefully led to Christ by the instrumentality of your missionaries, since our last anniversary, be gathered here to night, from the North and the South, from the East and the West, they would be more than doubly sufficient to crowd this vast temple to its utmost extent. And could our ears hear but one note of the song put into their mouths—one burst of their new-born joy—how small would appear all the toil and treasure expended, in pointing them to the Lamb of God! How should we blame ourselves that other thousands still, are not embraced in the same blessed company. The question continually forces itself upon the mind—why should this gracious work have been so restricted? Why should other fields, as inviting and as promising as those that have been blessed, still remain barren? Has no rain nor dew of Heaven descended upon them? Is the Spirit of the Lord straitened? Are these his doings? By no means. That Divine Agent has been moving among the people that sit in darkness, and the destitute have sent to our missionaries, beseeching them to task their exhausted powers still farther, and to visit them in their prairie homes, that, once more at least, they might hear the message of salvation. But there is a point, beyond which the most active zeal cannot go; and in many instances, where all things seemed ready for a spiritual harvest, no souls have been gathered, for there were no reapers there. How could they believe without preachers? And how could they preach, except they were sent? And how could the Society send more, with the means placed at its command?

The Committee take occasion to bear testimony to the laborious zeal and patient endurance, manifested by the missionaries, in the emergencies of the past year. As a class, they have shown themselves worthy of all the confidence, and more than all the aid, which the churches have bestowed upon them. Especially should those be held in honor, who are bearing the burden and heat of the day amid the privations of the new states, and the more destitute portions of the older states. Nobler exhibitions of the spirit, which labors and has patience, and counts all things but loss for the cause of Christ, can no where be found. Although, in general, their lot appears humble to the eye of sense, they have taken large views of their work, and have beheld, afar off, its influence in securing the welfare of those who shall tread this soil, when they themselves are laid in its bosom and mingled with its dust. And for the sake of this joy set before them, they have toiled on, in their dispersion and their solitude—have borne patiently the opposition of unreasonable and wicked men, and shared without a murmur, the privations of the communities where they dwell. During the revivals of the past winter, notwithstanding the extraordinary severity of the weather, they have shown an apostolic zeal in labors, watchings, and fastings, and in journeyings to surrounding regions, where the destitute were desiring to be taught the way of life. Their toil has been blessed, their record is on high, and in the day of the Lord, they will shine as those who have turned many to righteousness!

THE TREASURY.

For the sake of greater convenience in preparing the Annual Report, it is judged expedient that the financial year of the Society should close on the 15th of April, and not, as heretofore, on the 1st of May. In conformity with this arrangement, the present Report embraces the receipts and expenditures of the Parent Society for only eleven and a half months.

The balance in the treasury at the last anniversary was $991 29. The subsequent receipts have been $99,812 84—making the resources of the Society for the year, $100,804 13.

At the beginning of the year, the unpaid claims of missionaries for labor performed amounted to $12,785 25, and there has since become due to them, and for incidental expenses, the further sum of $95,038 26, making the liability of the Society for the year, $107,823 51. Of this sum, $98,215 11 have been paid.

To cancel the remaining $9,608 40 still due to the missionaries, and towards meeting the further sum of $28,341 58 pledged for the coming year, the balance in the treasury is only $2,589 02.

In the history of the period now under review, as well as in all its previous experience, this Institution has seemed to be peculiarly the child of Providence. In emergencies from which man could see no way of escape without disaster, our Heavenly Father has brought relief, and often in such a way, as to show that the hand that supplied the succor was his own. For many months past, the prevailing commercial embarrassment, like the sirocco's breath, has seemed, at times, to dry up the very fountains of benevolence; and when the cause of charity has asked for help—even at the door of the liberal—the answer has been, in the language of the king of Israel, "From whence shall I help thee? Out of the barn-floor; or out of the wine-press?" But God has disposed his people to take larger and juster views of the claims of our own country, and the indispensableness of Home Missions to preserve whatever is valuable in her institutions, and to fit her to bear her part in converting the rest of the world;—so that what has been lost to this cause by the diminished means of its patrons, has been, this year, more than made up by the increase of their number and their self-denial. The receipts of the eleven months and a half covered by the Treasurer's Report, exceed the total receipts of the year preceding by $7,349 20. The Committee express the opinion, that had the business of the country been in a prosperous state, the augmented interest felt in this work, would have enabled the Society to send, instead of 57, at least 100 additional laborers, into the great harvest field. For the advancement actually secured, and for the stronger purpose manifested by a portion of the community, to make this whole land Immanuel's, let devout thanks be rendered to the King of Zion! But still, how far behind the importance of the work, is the largest enterprise of the churches! After all that is done, how much remains undone, and even unattempted! What is a single hundred thousand dollars, in an undertaking to which, perhaps, millions of souls must look for the means of their eternal salvation! Divided among those who should prefer Jerusalem above their chief joy, what a miserable pittance is the proportion of each, to be offered on the altar of HIM, who gave for them his own blood. What is the annual addition of 50 or 60 missionaries, towards supplying a domestic and foreign increase of population of nearly THREE QUARTERS OF A MILLION, since our last Report!

There was one way in which a temporary expansion might have been given to the Society's operations, viz: by resorting to loans for the means of sending laborers into the field. But although the most urgent motives to this course have been concentrated upon the hearts of the Committee, they have felt solemnly bound to restrict their expenditures within their receipts. The time has gone by, when the irregularities of collections might be safely corrected by borrowing. The experience of this and other Societies, in former years, the indications of Providence, and, if we mistake not, the judgment of the christian public, are all averse to involving ~~our~~ benevolent institutions in debt, for the means of proceeding with their work. Accordingly, during the past year, this Society has not borrowed a dollar; nor does it propose hereafter to resort to this expedient. As fast as the churches supply the requisite funds, they will be remitted to the laborers to whom they are due; and when the receipts are inadequate, the payments must be delayed in proportion. It will therefore be seen, that the missionary is brought into a near relation to those who contribute to his support, and is immediately dependent on their prompt and liberal aid. If that aid be withheld or delayed, there is no system of credit interposed for his relief; the only expedient to which the Society can resort, will be to suspend all further appropriations to the destitute, until the laborers shall have received their hire.

AXUIILIARY SOCIETIES AND AGENCIES.

MAINE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The income of this Auxiliary for the year ending April 1st, was $7,397 42,—which is more by $1,580 25, than the receipts of the previous year. The expenditures, including the payment of a debt of $1,500, were $7,777 12. Some further liabilities remain to be discharged, but the Trustees cherish the hope of being able to meet them before the close of the Society's current missionary year.

Sixty-eight missionaries have been under appointment in 84 congregations or larger fields. The blessing which has attended their labors, has greatly animated those by whose bounty the Society has been sustained, in the dark and trying times through which it has passed. The Secretary, Rev. E. GILLET, D. D., in his report, says "The Lord has crowned the year with his goodness. The friends and patrons of the Maine Missionary Society, never had more manifest occasion, since its first establishment, to rejoice in its operations, than during the year now closing—whether reference be had to the fidelity of the laborers, or the results of their ministrations." Many precious revivals have been enjoyed, the fruits of which are seen in the reformation of social evils, and the strengthening of the churches in every good work. "And there are some promising aspects for the future; the chief of which, is the growing conviction, that the cause of Home Missions must be sustained."

This Auxiliary has been for thirty-six years, the chief instrument in the spiritual husbandry of the state to which it belongs. More than four fifths of the churches have partaken of its aid, and nearly half of them still depend on it for the means of retaining the privileges of the Gospel. But the time has come, when its operations should be conducted on a larger scale. More than half a million of people, pressing onward beyond the present verge of organized society, into the bosom of the wilderness, and calling for new churches and more laborers, require an income for this cause, at least double the largest amount, that has ever been contributed by the churches of Maine. Can it be, that an institution so well entitled to their grateful reverence, shall be left to struggle with pecuniary embarrassment? With their enterprising population, their rising institutions and abundant physical resources, it is but reasonable that they depend mainly on themselves, for the means of planting the Gospel over the whole of their 33,000 square miles of territory. If they do not furnish those means to their own children, who will furnish them to the millions of the West? Our hope is sanguine, that the necessity thus laid upon the Christians of Maine, the impulse recently given to the Home Missionary cause, and especially the recent revivals of the work of God, will call out their liberality, so that the domestic field of the EAST may be all cultivated, and the pilgrim spirit of faith and enterprise, be permitted to turn its energies to evangelize the WEST. Thus, eventually, may the extremes of our land combine their efforts with the central portions, and pour their united influences upon the heathen world, and aid to achieve the final victory over the empire of sin.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

During the year ending April 1st, and comprising parts of the 41st and 42d years of this Auxiliary, 47 missionaries have labored in 53 congregations, principally as pastors or stated supplies. The aggregate of labor secured by their appointment is 38 years. Four new houses of worship have been erected, and 4 pastors settled. The last half of the year has been marked by great religious interest, and special seasons of revival have been enjoyed in 11 of the churches.

The receipts of the Society, for the year ending April 1st, were $3,815 98, and the expenditures, $4,060 86. Besides the income of the state Society, individual contributions, including a legacy of $1,000, have been paid into the treasury of the Parent Society, to the amount of $1,315 29—making the whole sum given to the Home Missionary cause in New-Hampshire, during the past year, $5,243 52—which is $828 91 more than the year preceding.

“The possession of a preached Gospel,” says the communication of the Secretary, Rev. BENJAMIN P. STONE, “has seemed so important a blessing, that the Trustees have been unwilling to withhold it in any worthy case of application from the feeble churches. Hence they have increased the liabilities of the Society, for the past two years, somewhat beyond its income. An anticipated improvement in the monetary affairs of the country, led them to rely upon the increased contributions of the friends of the cause, for the means of meeting promptly the claims of the missionaries. But in this they have been disappointed, and now find, that a reduction of the appropriations is absolutely necessary to relieve the Society from debt.”

That reasons for curtailment should exist in a state, where 70 out of the 180 Congregational and Presbyterian churches are reckoned on the list of the feeble, is deeply to be regretted. We trust, that when every consideration of duty to their own waste places, and to the rest of the land, demand enlargement, the Christians of New-Hampshire will not allow the ruinous process of reduction to go on. This hope is based on the increasing numbers and graces of the people of God, and the growing concern manifested for Home Missions. “These,” says the Secretary, “are auspices of the enterprise in New-Hampshire, more precious than gold or silver, and more worthy to be the ground of our encouragement, and the reward of our toil.”

VERMONT DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Vermont suffered largely, in her moral interests, in that, before her own territory could be brought under general cultivation, she was subjected to a drain of emigration, by which many of her able and enterprising sons were removed to other fields. Hence, in the language of the Directors of the state Society, "There are tens of thousands who have not the preached Gospel, or who are dependant on foreign aid to enjoy it."

It often happens in the moral, as in the physical world, where the fields of men lie contiguous to a desert; if energetic culture do not press upon the limits of the barren waste, and win from it new ground, the sands will gradually roll in, and desolate that which before was covered with fruits and verdure. The time must then soon come, when the churches of Vermont shall make a vigorous effort to put the whole state under adequate Gospel cultivation. They must do it, not only as a preparation for sending the light of salvation to the heathen, and as a part of their duty to that "Great West," whither so many of their own sons and daughters are migrating; but they must do it in self-defence. The Committee are happy to learn, that there are recent indications in some sections of the state, that this duty is beginning to be appreciated.

During the year, the vacancy in the office of Corresponding Secretary has been filled by the appointment of Rev. ISAAC R. WORCESTER, who entered on its duties, November 1st, 1842. From the annual returns of the Auxiliary, it appears that 53 missionaries have been under appointment, and the expenses of the Society have been $3,249 23. Several of the churches have shared in the spiritual blessings which have been so extensively enjoyed on other portions of the field.

MASSACHUSETTS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Seventy-eight missionaries, in connection with this Auxiliary, during the year, have ministered the means of grace to 79 churches, containing about 5,000 members, and extending their spiritual oversight to some 15,000 souls. An unusually large number of the churches have been strengthened, so that they cease to depend on the Society for aid. This fact has enabled the Committee to indulge the promptings of an enlarged philanthropy, by diminishing the portion of missionary means expended within the state, and devoting more to the welfare of other portions of the field.

At the beginning of the year, there was a balance in the treasury of $2,024 34. Since that time, up to April 1st, the receipts have been $15,934 78—making the resources of the year $17,959 12. Of this sum, $8,976 04—a less amount than in the preceding year—has been expended for the support of missions within the state; and $5,000—or more than the year previous, has been paid to the Parent Society, in promotion of its general objects. In doing this, the Committee of the Auxiliary identify their interests with those of the remotest sections of the land, and tender their sympathy and their co-operation, with a feeling, that to them, as a component part of the National Institution, belongs the duty and the joy of preaching the Gospel to our whole country. Besides the above, there has been paid, from different parts of Massachusetts, directly into the treasury of the A. H. M. S., the sum of $12,646 66. Included in this sum are various legacies to the Parent Society, amounting to $8,247 40, and also $1,483 56 from the Hampshire Missionary Society. The whole amount for Home Missions received from this state, during the year, is $28,584 44.

Of the good accomplished by the Massachusetts Missionary Society, no adequate impression can be gained by looking back over only a single year. The husbandry of Home Missions has so gradually changed the barren waste into a fruitful field, that the annual progress is scarcely observed; and yet the whole result is one of incalculable value. Says the Secretary, Rev. JOSEPH S. CLARK, in the last Report of the Society, "If 150 evangelical churches in Massachusetts, embracing 9 or 10 thousand members should be suddenly blotted out, and so many fountains of christian charity and moral influence dried up, the loss would seem irreparable—the ways of Zion would mourn; the world would feel the shock. And yet there are so many churches, embracing so many members, and putting forth such influences on the field which the Society has cultivated within the bounds of this state. A large proportion of them would have had no existence, and none of them their present power, had not relief been extended in a time of need. Not a few of them have risen to such stature and strength, that the fact of their missionary origin is generally forgotten, and excites surprise when announced. The course of this Society, like that of the quiet streamlet, is indicated, not by the noise of its impetuous motion, but by the strip of deeper green that it pencils on the landscape; and oftentimes, like that streamlet, is half concealed from view by the exuberance of its own creating."

RHODE-ISLAND HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Secretary of this Society, Rev. M. TUCKER, D. D., reports that the expenditures of the year have been $850. The missions aided have struggled with various and protracted difficulties, which have impeded their success. There is much ground, still needing the attention of the friends of intelligent, evangelical piety. One newly gathered church is about to be added to the 3 assisted last year, and a candidate is preaching to it, with a prospect of settlement. Five hundred dollars of the sum expended by this Auxiliary, were furnished by the liberality of the Connecticut Missionary Society.

CONNECTICUT MISSIONARY SOCIETY, AUXILIARY TO THE A. H. M. S.

The balance in the treasury of this Auxiliary, April 1st, 1842, was $4,373 39. In the succeeding twelve months, the receipts have been $5,240 82, and the expenditures $5,544 76. Of this latter sum, $3,613 were expended for missions in the State, $500 appropriated to the aid of the Rhode-Island Home Missionary Society, and $1,431 remitted to the National Society, to be employed in other sections of the great field. Additional contributions, to the amount of $8,133 57, were also made to the A. H. M. S. from various Auxiliaries, and other sources in the state; so that the whole sum realized from Connecticut for this object, during the year, is $13,374 39—which exceeds the whole amount of last year by $1,282 20.

Thirty-nine missionary fields in this State have been cultivated by the Auxiliary during the year. The labor bestowed has resulted, in an unusual degree, in an increase of the vigor and efficiency of the churches assisted. At a time of so much temporal embarrassment, this happy effect can be ascribed only to the gracious interposition of the Spirit of God, who has not only revived the graces of his people, in the missionary churches, and thus disposed them to greater religious effort, but has also made important additions to their numbers, by the conversion of souls. Several very interesting revivals are reported; and in not a few cases, the “waters of salvation have flowed in the channels opened by temperance.”

But the reclaiming of the waste places within the State, is not all that the Society aims to accomplish. It looks abroad over the whole country, and regarding it as the asylum, where the Great Head of the church is gathering from other lands, those who flee from oppression and want, it proposes to embark, with additional energy, in the work of giving them the light of a Protestant Christianity, as well as civil freedom. "If there is a spot on earth," says the report of the Secretary, REV. HORACE HOOKER, "where mind can be concentrated, with brighter hope than any other of bringing it to the knowledge, belief and practice of the pure Gospel of Jesus Christ, that spot is the United States. If on earth, Christianity, by its institutions and influences can attract the human heart, and win that respect which is so essential to its power, it can do this in the United States. We need not wonder, then, that the Great Head of the Church is gathering minds, from the four winds of heaven, and thick as the leaves of the forest, to our shores. It might be said to be the natural attraction of Christianity, manifesting itself through forms of government and institutions in harmony with the powers and wants of man. Let them congregate in our borders, and while they gaze on the full beauty of the Gospel, bow to Him who is King in Zion. And while our hearts go forth in sympathy towards those who remain in lands of darkness, and we send them the means of salvation, let us cheerfully co-operate in accomplishing the grand design, for which Providence sends these millions to drink with us from the fountain of life."

PHILADELPHIA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The territorial position of this Auxiliary, lying upon and embracing the great channels of communication from the North and East to the South and West, is one of peculiar importance. The states comprised in it—New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland—possess also much intrinsic interest as a missionary field, from the great extent of the work yet to be done, to bring them fully under evangelical influence, as well as from the abundant resources, which, with the blessing of Heaven, they may hereafter develope for the cause of Christ.

The report of the Secretary, REV. E. R. FAIRCHILD, states the receipts of the Philadelphia Home Missionary Society, for the year ending April 1st, to be $7,904 45—or $490 more than was reported last year. During the same period, the expenditures were $7,704 69. Various donations and legacies for the general objects of the Parent Society were paid directly into its Treasury, amounting to $1,657 94—thus making the total of Home Missionary collections on this field, during the year, $9,562 39. That an amount exceeding the receipts of any former year, from the same territory, should have been given amid the peculiar hindrances which have prevailed, is a fact gratefully recognized as evidence of an awakened interest in the condition of the destitute lying at our own doors, and as a pledge, that this still youthful Auxiliary is aiming at the earliest practicable occupancy of its whole field.

Sixty-one missionaries have labored, for more or less of the year, in 78 congregations, in the bounds of this Society. Three of the churches are of recent origin, and two of them have been organized within the year; while no less than 13 are on ground not previously occupied by the Society. Among other facts of interest are mentioned, the commencement of four new edifices for public worship, and the completion of two others. The temperance revival has extended to all classes of society, and been the source of incalculable good. And the breath of the Almighty, which has breathed so extensively upon the slain of our land, and caused an exceeding great army to stand up in the enjoyment of a new and immortal life, has visited with its vital energy 23 of the valleys of vision, where the missionaries of this Society are stationed to prophesy in the name of the Lord. Of the fruits of this divine influence, 579 have already joined themselves to the church of God. The total of additions, by letter and by profession, is 723.

CENTRAL AGENCY, UTICA, N. Y.

Fifty-four missionaries have been in commission, during the year, within the bounds of this Agency, ministering to 61 congregations. Nine of these congregations have never before received missionary aid, and five of them are in places where the Gospel has never before been statedly preached by a Presbyterian or Congregational ministry. Four of the churches, which last year were aided by the Society, have now assumed the entire support of their Gospel institutions, and become our fellow laborers in the good work of elevating other feeble and destitute congregations to the same privilege and dignity. Five missionaries have been settled as pastors, during the year; seven houses of worship have been completed or are in the progress of erection, and several others have been made more convenient, more comfortable and more appropriate places for rendering praise and thanksgiving to the Most High.

Seventeen of the missionaries make mention of interesting revivals of religion, as enjoyed during the year or now in progress among the people of their care. By many of them, the number of hopeful conversions is not estimated; six hundred are, however, reported as having, in the judgment of charity, passed from death unto life, and two hundred have been added to the churches on profession of their faith.

"The number of hopeful conversions, however, gives but a meagre view," says the Secretary of the Agency, REV. ABIJAH CRANE, "of the precious fruits of these revivals. It has been a time of peculiar refreshing to the churches—émphatically a revival of religion—strengthening them, vastly more, by raising the standard of piety and benevolence, than by increasing their numbers. The revivals have all begun under the labors of pastors, each in his own parish, or by an occasional exchange of service with a neighboring brother. An unusual amount of lay service has been performed under pastoral direction. Stillness and solemnity have characterized public meetings, and an importunate spirit of prayer has pervaded the churches. In some cases, there has been overwhelming emotion, but it was produced by the still small voice of the Spirit, rendering the Gospel of Christ quick and powerful. A higher estimation is placed in these churches, on the pastoral office and the ordinary means of grace. There is also an increased consciousness of parental responsibility, and a growing attachment to household consecration."

The happy effects of the outpouring of the Spirit upon the churches within this Agency, has been seen, too, during the last half of the year, in their contributions to the cause of missions. The severe pecuniary distress, experienced on this field, had made the receipts of the first half of the year, exceedingly small; and it seemed inevitable, that they must fall far below those of former years. But as religion revived, contributions increased; few churches now gave less than in former years, some doubled the amount of the previous year, some trebled it, and one gave even four fold;—so that the receipts of the year, amounting to $3,607 94, fall but a trifle short of the year preceding.

WESTERN AGENCY, GENEVA, N. Y.

The receipts from the field of this Agency, during the year, have been $8,395 85,—greater than the amount contributed last year by $2,017 51; "The fruits of more sacrifice and self-denial," says the Secretary of the Agency, REV. JOHN A. MURRAY, "than would have been requisite, a few years since, to secure double the amount to the same cause."

Eighty-six missionaries have been in commission, during the year—thirty of whom were not in commission last year, and twenty-five of whom have never before labored under the direction of this Society. Ninety-six congregations have enjoyed the labors of the missionaries—ten of which are gathered in fields hitherto unoccupied. Fourteen houses of worship have been commenced or completed; others have been repaired and freed from debts, which had long held them in jeopardy and greatly embarrassed the congregations which worshipped in them.

But, the most grateful evidence that the friends of missions have not labored in vain, in this portion of their Master's vineyard, is found in the special blessings of Heaven, which have descended upon the congregations that have received their benefactions. Twenty-six of the missionaries report revivals of religion in their churches; and thirteen of them, 626 cases of hopeful conversion. More than a thousand are reported as having been added to the churches connected with the agency during the year—777 of them, on profession of their faith; and were the returns complete, the number added on profession, it is believed, would appear to be several hundreds greater.

WESTERN RESERVE DOMESTIC MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The receipts of this Society, during the year, have been but $550 81. This diminished amount, as compared with the receipts of former years, is to be accounted for, partly by the increased severity of pecuniary embarrassments, and partly, by the fact that very little direct agency has been employed, for the collection of funds. The REV. MYRON TRACY, the Secretary of the Society, has given his attention to matters of correspondence, and has rendered essential service to the cause, in diffusing information, in encouraging feeble congregations, and in calling the attention of pastors and churches to the importance of systematic efforts for building up the waste places of their Zion, to such an extent as his other avocations would permit. Eighteen missionaries have been in commission within the limits of this Society, during the year. Several of the churches have been visited with seasons of refreshing from on high, the condition of most of them has been improved, and the conviction is every where becoming stronger and deeper, that our own country calls for increased liberality, more energetic effort, and more importunate prayer in the work of giving to her rapidly extending population, the blessings of education, and the hopes of immortality.

MARIETTA AGENCY, OHIO.

Nine missionaries have labored within the boundaries of this Agency, since the last report; $530 have been received by the treasurer of the Agency towards their support, and the balance requisite for sustaining them has been drawn from the treasury of the Society. A general revival of religion, extending into every evangelical denomination, has been experienced in all this region.

The missionary churches are among those upon which the Spirit has descended with great power. Converts have been multiplied, the churches have been increased and strengthened, and the communities, in which they shine as lights in the world, have felt the restraining, sanctifying, elevating power of divine truth.

"One most encouraging feature of the work in this field," says the Secretary of the Agency, REV. HENRY SMITH, "is, that young missionaries, who were born and educated within its limits, who have the entire confidence of the people from the very outset of their labors, whose local and national affections and sympathies are here, and who, knowing before hand our spiritual destitutions, are willing to spend and be spent to supply them—enduring hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ—are just beginning to thrust the sickle into our whitening harvest. What we now need, and what our salvation imperatively demands, is the development of our own resources. We must act ourselves, as well as be acted upon. There is power of muscle, energy of purpose, strength of intellect, ability to do and to suffer, in unfailing abundance, lodged in the cabins which send up their smoke among the wooded hills of this Western New-England—if it can be drawn forth and consecrated to the cause of our blessed Savior—sufficient, not only to redeem the West, but to convert it into a store-house of salvation for the redemption of other lands. Let not our brethren at the East, then, despair. Let them pray for us without ceasing. Let them hold out in their labors of love, a little longer. A little longer, let them send us missionaries. A little longer, let them aid us in raising up and sustaining our own, and the work in the West—at least in this section of it—will be done. The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.

The number of missionaries reported at the last anniversary, as connected with this Agency, was 34. The number has been increased, during the year, to 44. The report of the collections which has reached us includes only eleven and a half months, from the date of their last Annual Report;—up to that time, the receipts had been $2,200, and there was reason to believe, that enough would be received, during the fragment of the year, to leave the sum total but a little less than what was realized the year previous.

"We are constrained," says the Secretary of the Agency, REV. HENRY LITTLE, "to call upon all the friends of Home Missions to give thanks to God, for the success with which he has crowned their labors in this section of the Great Valley. It has been a year of trial and pecuniary sacrifice, both on the part of those who have contributed to the cause, and those who have borne the heat and burden of the day. But present or personal ease is not our motto. No! Our aim is the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom, in this broad and inviting section of our common country. And we think there has never been a year, since the first herald of mercy lifted up his voice in it, in which God has granted such signal success. Almost every missionary on our catalogue has been blessed with a revival; and in many instances, the labors of the missionaries have, in other respects, been wonderfully successful. So that, if it should appear that we have not collected quite as many dollars as in some other years, yet we have never passed through one of such prosperity to the church—a year of mercies, chronicled in heaven to the praise of God's rich grace, to be recounted on earth, with joy unspeakable, when the successes of worldly enterprises, and the triumphs of earthly greatness, shall be remembered no more.

MISSOURI HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

This Society, the organization of which was mentioned in our last report, has been prosecuting its work with great enterprise and with cheering results. REV. DR. BULLARD, the Secretary of the Society, though sustaining the responsibilities of a large pastoral charge, has rendered most important services to the cause of missions in this state, during the year, by his extensive correspondence with institutions at the East, and by the personal survey which he has taken of the most inviting portions of their missionary field. To his zeal and devotedness in this work, it is chiefly to be ascribed, that the number of missionaries in the state has increased, since the date of our last report, from 6 to 20, and that hope has been awakened, that the fifty counties, which were but recently reported as having no Presbyterian or Congregational minister within them, shall not long remain without, at least, one, in the centre of each, to prepare the way of the Lord and make his paths straight. Of the amount paid to the missionaries on this field, $750 have been raised within the state; and the disposition has been manifested, by the few who there enjoy the institutions of the Gospel, to co-operate with their eastern brethren, to the utmost of their ability, in their endeavors to bring that vast and fertile country, so rapidly filling up with immortal beings, under the power of the world to come.

And our brethren there have strong claims on our sympathy, and they need our helping hand. The territory, which they seek to occupy, is larger than the whole of New-England, and as beautiful, in all probability—that portion of it, especially, which lies north of the Missouri river—as any which the sun in his circuit blesses. We know of no portion of the West, that is becoming densely settled more rapidly than this. One county in this district, and that the smallest county in the state, now numbers 12,000 inhabitants; and yet, it is but five years since it was purchased of the Indians, or white men allowed to enter it. Two years ago, steamboats were carrying produce into that county for the sustenance of its inhabitants; now, they return from it heavily freighted with the productions of the soil. Popery, long since foresaw, that the principal city of this state was to be the centre—the commanding citadel of the West; and she has occupied it, and in all the chief places of concourse—on every high bluff, along the banks of the mighty rivers, which give to this state its facilities of communication with every portion of the globe, and on its blooming prairies, spread out like the ocean, inexhaustible in their fertility—she has erected her banner, and bids defiance to Protestantism—to free intelligence, equal rights, and a pure evangelical piety. And shall this fair land be abandoned, without a struggle, to the undisputed and perpetual dominion of the Man of Sin? Shall the many millions, that are here to spend their probation, go to their account unblessed of the pure Gospel of God? Shall the most favored moment we can ever see, for sowing, broadcast, over this exuberant soil the seeds of an immortal harvest, pass by unimproved? Or, will the church awake, and in the very infancy of this rising community, consecrate it, with all its resources and its teeming myriads of intelligent, accountable men to the Lord Jesus Christ?

OTHER AGENCIES IN THE WEST.

ILLINOIS.—The REV. FLAVEL BASCOM, of Chicago, though performing the duties of an important pastoral charge, has generously and largely aided the operations of the Society, in the northern sections of this State, by his correspondence and his counsels, the past year, as he has done in years preceding. In a communication recently received from him, he says—“For ten years, it has been my privilege to witness the toils, the privations and the joyful success of your missionaries in this state. To have had some humble part in these toils, privations and pleasures, is a privilege, for which I thank Heaven. I would exchange it for no earthly distinction. But, how momentous has been this period? Who can bear to contemplate the picture which would have been the sad reality, but for the influence of your Society? Who can estimate the blessings which will flow down to all coming generations, from these humble operations? And who can estimate the evils, which, in many places, it is now too late to remedy, that your Society might have prevented, but for the limitation of its resources? Ten years ago, there was only one Presbyterian and one Congregational church, in all that portion of the state, which lies within a hundred miles of its northern boundary. These, were in a state of feeble infancy, and were sustained by missionary funds. During the subsequent summer, three or four other churches were formed, within these bounds, all of which owed their existence to your Society. On the same field, there are now two Presbyterian and two Congregational Associations, embracing, in the whole, more than 60 churches. All these churches, with not more than two exceptions, have been formed by your missionaries, and fostered by your care. But for the agency of the American Home Missionary Society, many of these churches would never have had an existence. Or, if they had been organized, they would not have survived, unaided, the reverses and embarrassments, which have now rendered them so long dependent on eastern liberality. These churches, though but partially supplied with a stated ministry, are, nevertheless advancing, perhaps as rapidly as their sister churches in any part of the land, in numbers, in spirituality and in strength. The past year, has been a year of special divine favor. Probably this section of the state has never been blessed, in any former year, with revivals of religion so numerous and so powerful."

From other sources, we learn that many of these revivals had their origin in the outpouring of the Spirit upon the brethren of the Synod of Illinois, when—with one accord, in one place—they were beseeching God to give them a fresh anointing from on high, and to send them to their respective charges, full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, to proclaim the Gospel, as it was proclaimed in the days of apostles and martyrs. The same Spirit which had descended upon them, was soon seen to be moving upon the hearts of their people. Those far removed from the sanctuary and unable to attend it, those who were isolated from christian neighbors—in the solitude of their own cabins, felt its power. The single-handed, heavenly-minded missionary told the simple story of the cross to assemblies, still and solemn as the house of death. Christians were humbled in the dust—the infidel trembled before his Maker—the bold blasphemer cried out for mercy—the drunkard abandoned his cups—the backslider returned to his first love—the youth—the child became an heir of life, and the great name of God was glorified! Were the friends of missions to realize no other fruits of their labors than those which have been developed in these revivals, they might well exclaim—"Now lettest thou thy servants depart in peace, for our eyes have seen thy salvation."

It will be gratifying to the friends of Christ to be informed, that the REV. THERON BALDWIN, who served the Society with so much ability and success in this state in former years, has consented to devote what time can be spared from the responsible duties of his present station the coming year, to the furtherance of the same cause, particularly in the central and western sections of the state.

Sixty-five missionaries have been in commission, the last year, within the limits of this state—an increase of fourteen over the number of the year preceding.

WISCONSIN.—The progress which has been made in the establishment of Gospel institutions in this Territory, at so early a period in its history, is matter of devout thanksgiving and praise to the God of missions. Four years ago, and but four missionaries had broken the silence of the wilderness with the accents of mercy. The last year, twenty-eight have proclaimed salvation to the perishing and the lost, and have been hailed by multitudes as messengers of God—as guides to immortal life. The revivals which have been enjoyed under their ministry, in extent and power, are not unlike those which have blessed northern Illinois. In the mining district—in the north-western section of the Territory especially, the ministry of God, through the power of the Spirit of God, has wrought glorious changes in the aspects of society, and the hopes of men for another life, within the compass of the year. A missionary who has labored in that district, in speaking of a particular station, says—"I wish every friend of Home Missions could read a full history of that place—could see it as it was, before the windows of heaven were opened over it, and see it as it now is, since blessings have descended, till there seemed hardly room to receive them, and he would be abundantly repaid for all his contributions, in the good done in that single place. The whole mining region in fact, is an exceedingly interesting field, and the change effected during the year, in the religious aspect of it, is truly astonishing. A little more than a year ago, there were but two ordained ministers of our connexion in all northern Iowa, western Wisconsin, and north-western Illinois, viz :—at Galena and Mineral Point, and scarcely a church besides, that had even a name to live. Now, there are ordained ministers at Dubuque, Potosi, Prairie du Chien, Platteville, Fair Play, Freeport, and a licentiate at Cassville, and seven promising churches, either newly organized or resuscitated from almost utter extinction ; and all this, is the result of the operations of your Society in a little more than a single year."

The churches which have been organized all over this Territory, the houses of worship that have been erected, the children that have been gathered into common schools and Sabbath schools, and, above all, the seal of God so conspicuously set upon the early ministry of his servants here, are most auspicious omens of the highest prosperity and happiness of the people, for this life and for that which is to come.

The REV. STEPHEN PEET, is the general missionary and Agent of the Society, in this Territory.

IOWA.—The missionary field in this Territory, has been greatly enlarged, since our last report, by the rush of our population towards the going down of the sun. Not only have infant settlements grown up into flourishing villages, and new ones been commenced in districts which had already been thrown open, but a recent purchase of Indian lands, comprising more than fifteen thousand square miles, in the north-western section of the Territory—a tract of country more than twice as large as the State of Massachusetts, and unsurpassed in fertility, perhaps, by any on the globe, is—a large portion of it—to be opened for occupants the present spring. Thousands of purchasers have, for months, been standing upon the line. Every main road leading to the new purchase, was, even last autumn, almost literally lined with men women and children, with their flocks and herds, eager to be among the first to take possession. Intelligent men, who have witnessed the preparation which is making for the occupancy of this new purchase, as well as of other sections of the Territory scarcely less inviting, tell us there is good reason to believe, that the population of the Territory will be more than doubled within a single year.

And what are the prospects of these multitudes of immigrants for another life? Who are going out with them to care for their souls? The Mormon with his delusions; the Romanist with his mummary; the Infidel with his deadly poison; the Atheist, bold in his blasphemy; with a host of others of kindred spirit—the spirit of the pit—are competing with each other for the pre-eminence and the mastery, in giving shape and character to the faith, the morals, the hopes, the immortal destiny of the present and future population of this vast Territory. But where are the preachers of the pure Gospel of God our Savior? We have called for them during the last year, almost in vain. And our brethren who are there, thrusting in their sickles and gathering the golden harvest, till they well-nigh faint under their labors, have called for them almost in vain. They say—"Our Master requires no more of us here than we are able to perform. And who, in the East, or in any part of this lost world, would be willing to do less than all he is able, in the service of such a Master? We have no privations, but those to which our fellow citizens are hourly submitting, for the sake of gain. They do this for an earthly reward, while we are anticipating an incorruptible inheritance in heaven. We, indeed, have the extremity of the home missionary field, and inconveniences peculiar to our condition. But we are happy in our work. None of us regrets that he is to see his own New-England—the home of his childhood, and his early friends no more. None of us would exchange the prospects of usefulness that are opening before us, for aught that this world can give of ease or elegancies or affluence, nor for length of days beneath the sun." And yet, but few have been induced to cast in their lot with them. An increase of laborers there has been in other sections of the West—in Michigan, 10—in Wisconsin, 9—in Illinois, 15—in Missouri, 14—while we have to include two, recently commissioned, and now on their way to their respective fields, in order to report an increase of 4 in Iowa, and to make the whole number there 16.

We hope another year will not pass away, without giving to this Territory its full share of the increase of laborers, and making ample compensation to it even, for the deficiency of the past. The hearts of the youthful ministry are beginning to be turned towards this Territory, and sure we are, that if any friend of Christ, would send forward his thoughts over a single century, and fancy himself on some lofty eminence, looking down upon this section of his country and the vast regions beyond it—the dwelling place of millions on millions of Americans, but given up to the dominion of Popery, Atheism, and Sin—immoralities unrebuked by the godly, and crime unchecked by the fear of retribution from earth or Heaven; or viewing it, on the other hand, overspread with school-houses and sanctuaries, communities, enlightened, virtuous, peaceful, sending back the savor of their piety, to cement in perpetual union the brotherhood of the East and the West, and diffusing their charities, without grudging and without measure, over the globe,—that friend of Christ, whether God has given him talents and learning and a holy heart, or silver and gold, sympathies and prayer to consecrate to his service in this portion of his vineyard, would surely feel, that whatsoever his hand findeth to do, must be done quickly.

The REV. ASA TURNER has devoted one half of his time, during the year, to the duties of a general missionary and Agent of the Society in this Territory.

CANADA HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Nine missionaries have been in commission in Canada, since our last report—eight in Canada East, and one in Canada West—five of them sustained by the Canada Home Missionary Society, at an expense of $786 04, and four by the funds of the parent institution.

“The missionary churches in Canada,” says the Secretary of the Society, REV. CALEB STRONG, “continue unbroken, and those situated in the midst of intense excitement on the subject of Millerism, have remained steadfast, while other churches have been painfully convulsed. Some have enjoyed revivals more or less powerful, and have been enlarged and strengthened. And if it is remembered, that there are thousands of American origin in Canada—that revivals have hitherto been very rare, and that there are unfavorable influences to contend with altogether unknown in the United States, it will be seen that Canada still presents a peculiar claim to the sympathy and prayers of American Christians.”

Correspondence has been had during the year, with the Colonial Missionary Society of England and Wales, proposing that, so far as practicable, the responsibilities of this Institution, with reference to the churches in Canada, should be assumed by that Society, in order that our energies may be concentrated upon our own country. The Committee of the Colonial Missionary Society, tender to the patrons of this Institution the thanks of British Christians, for the aid which has been so long and so liberally rendered to the churches in Canada; and while they express their apprehension, that they shall not be able fully to meet the necessities of these churches, they regard the American Home Missionary Society, nevertheless, as fully absolved from all obligation with reference to them, in view of the great work to which we are called in our own appropriate sphere of action. We quote a paragraph of their reply, that it may be seen, by American Christians, how important the evangelization of this nation, in its bearings upon the destinies of mankind, is esteemed to be by intelligent, far-reaching, christian philanthropists on the other side of the Atlantic.

“The Committee,” says the Secretary, REV. ALGERNON

WELLS, "sympathizes with its American brethren, in the views and feelings, under the influence of which, they feel called upon to devote their first and most strenuous efforts to complete the evangelization of their own mighty and growing country. It admits of no doubt, that the first duty of the American churches, is to provide for the religious wants of America—that in fulfilling their duty to their own country, they are most effectually fulfilling their duty to the world. If their efforts shall keep pace with the rapid spread and increase of its population; if they shall supply evangelical truth and power, adequate to contend with the mass of European Popery, vice and infidelity, which their country is required annually to receive and absorb; if they shall imbue all the elements of its mighty freedom, commerce intelligence, with the living power of the Gospel; if they shall exhibit and prove to the world, that free institutions in religion, are adequate to the great work of rendering safe and salutary free institutions in all the other interests of society, then will they have accomplished a glorious triumph for all coming ages of mankind, and British Christians cannot but look on with deep interest and entire approbation, while their American brethren are devoting their resources and energies to their proper dispensation, and cannot but wish them God speed with devout and earnest prayer."

THE PRESENT ASPECTS OF THE MISSIONARY WORK.

The review which we have taken of the year, and of the field which has been committed to our culture, while it calls for gratitude and praise that so much has been accomplished, cannot fail, we think, to impress upon every heart, a deep sense of the entire inadequacy of the instrumentalities and resources hitherto employed to the attainment of the end which we seek to secure—the triumphs of the Gospel over this whole country. Our enlarged offerings for the relief of the needy, have been but as the three loaves and the two fishes, in the presence of an immense multitude. And to the wonder working power of Jesus of Nazareth alone, is it to be ascribed, that so many thousands, on so small supplies, have been nourished into immortal life. But, how many more are the thousands, that have remained unfed—whom no associated action of the people of God—no provisions of the church have ever reached.

It is painful to look over our older states, where missionary institutions have been in operation twenty, thirty, forty years, and find, in any of them, the work yet undone—nay, growing upon their hands—a far greater number destitute of Gospel privileges now, than when these benevolent efforts began. It is painful to see our new states doubling their population in the short period of ten years, and some even in five—that population gathered from the hordes of ignorance and vice and ecclesiastical corruption in the old world, or, going out from the sanctuaries and family altars of the eastern and middle states, and becoming strangers to the house of God and apostates from the faith of their fathers—and to feel, that all we are doing for their salvation, is scarcely sufficient to meet the necessities of a tenth part of their number. It is painful to see our settlements extending—villages and cities springing up as if by enchantment, thousands on thousands seeking their homes for life, far away from the restraining, purifying influences of christian society, there to form and consolidate social organizations, which are to shape the character and seal the destiny of untold millions of our countrymen, and to be able to do almost nothing towards pouring in upon these settlements, at this favored moment, the light of everlasting truth. And yet, such is our condition—such is the disproportion of the means employed by the church to the end to be attained, if our land ever becomes a mountain of holiness. As we look at this glaring disproportion—as we see how inadequate are our plans, how meagre our resources for prosecuting the work which God has given us to do, we should enter upon the labors of another year with desponding hearts, did we not see, in the signs of the times, and in the everlasting covenants of God, sources of encouragement, unfailing as his power and inexhaustible as his beneficence.

We see evidences on every side, that God is moving upon the hearts of his people—that he is giving them more enlarged conceptions of the great work of Missions at Home, and kindling up in their souls a zeal for the honor of his name in their native land, which will not suffer them to rest, until salvation by the blood of the Lamb shall be proclaimed, wherever the voice of a fellow-countryman is heard or his footsteps seen. The conviction, we believe, is fast becoming more general and more deep, that it belongs, by the ordination of Heaven, to THE AMERICAN CHURCHES, TO TAKE CARE OF THEIR OWN COUNTRY—to give heed to the cries of the perishing at their very door—to be drawn out, by the ties of consanguinity, after the wanderer in the wilderness, and the disconsolate in his lonely cabin. We believe the conviction is fast becoming more general and more deep, that the present, is the time of our merciful visitation—that now, our country may be saved—that while it is yet in its youthful vigor, we may throw around it the power of truth and the cords of eternal love, and bind it together as with adamant chains—but that, if we linger in our work, it will ere long put on the inflexible character of manhood—ere long be sinking into that decline, which awaits all nations unbaptized from on high, and from which there is no resurrection! We believe the conviction is fast becoming more general and more deep, that TO TAKE CARE OF OUR OWN COUNTRY IS TO TAKE CARE OF THE WORLD—that to multiply the churches of Christ and the converts to righteousness here—to secure from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the consecration of gold and silver, sons and daughters, sympathies and prayers to the coming of the kingdom of Christ over the globe, is to bring to the work of missions abroad, such reinforcements of talent and enterprize and faith and treasure, as will carry it right on, like the chariots of God, until great voices shall be heard in heaven, saying, “The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ!”

We see evidences on every side, that God is moving upon the hearts of the ministry—imbuing the candidates for temple-service with an apostolic spirit. The message comes to us from our Seminaries of sacred science, as it has not for years gone by—it comes with a tone of sincerity and earnestness that cannot be misinterpreted,—“Here are we, send us. We are bought with a price, and at how dear a price we are ready to testify, by thrusting ourselves, joyfully, into the fore-front of the battle. We can bear privations, we can endure hardships, we can sleep sweetly, in an early grave, till the morning of the resurrection, if we may but preach Christ and him crucified to our perishing fellow countrymen. We crave the privilege of traversing those ocean prairies, though it be in weariness and watchings, in cold and nakedness, if ours may be the blessedness of pointing their inhabitants to the Lamb of God.” One and another much-loved and long-tried pastor, too, is telling us, “I am happy in my present relations, surrounded with comforts, and with every prospect that I might here spend a quiet and peaceful old age. But, a deep concern has been fastening itself upon my inmost soul, for my kinsman according to the flesh, for my native land, at this crisis in her history. God has made me to endure hardness. I can go, where others cannot. For such an object, my people will cheerfully relinquish me. They will follow me with their prayers, and God will give them manifold more in this present time. I will go out, not knowing—not caring whither I go, if so be the Spirit of God, and the benedictions of the people of God rest upon me. I may fall the sooner, but I shall fall the happier.”

Whence, we ask, hath this growing, heart-burdening concern for the destitute in our own wildernesses—for the redemption of our own land, been kindled up in the churches and in the ministry? Hath it not come of Him, who hath engraven our Zion upon the palms of his hands, and who hath her walls ever before him? And hath he not purposes of mercy to accomplish thereby, which his own omnipotence will not suffer to fail? And what mean these wonderful outpourings of the Spirit—these unwonted, unmeasured blessings which descend upon the fields of our labor—the revival of one year joining the revival of the next, and each succeeding one leaving more striking marks of its heavenly origin? Is it not that we are approaching the fulfilment of the promises—the final consummation of the Redeemer's triumphs? Is it not, that the Spirit is to be poured upon all flesh, and the ends of the earth are to see the salvation of God; and that ours is to be the privilege of girding ourselves for conflict with the powers of darkness, amidst such revelations of divine grace as this world has never seen—such as prophetic vision could find no language adequate to describe?

These are the hopes, and this the confidence, with which we enter upon the labors of another year. If the people of God shall but read these signs of his coming, and be moved by them to deeds of sacrifice and self-denial, corresponding to the magnitude of the work to be done, and the encouragements we have to undertake it in the name of the Lord of Hosts; if the burning zeal, which has been kindled up in so many noble spirits in the christian ministry, may but catch from soul to soul, till every herald of mercy shall feel, that it is his highest privilege and his highest joy, to wear out his life where labor is the severest and earthly gratifications few, if he may but know, that there his Master hath most need of him; if every such herald may be sent forth, and comforted and cheered in his toils, by those who would share with him his glorious recompense of reward; if our older communities will but take up that which remains unfinished and unattempted within their bounds, with a zeal and a liberality that shall know no abatement, until the work there is done, and their surplus treasures are poured over the mountains, to make the wilderness a pool of water and the dry land springs of water; if communities of more recent origin, will aspire to the dignity of casting off their dependence, and throwing in their offerings, to swell the streams of benevolence, rolling in grandeur towards the setting sun—like the streams of their own Valley to the Father of Waters; if the whole American church, will but arise in the greatness of her strength, and put her hand, once for all, to the enterprize, and—looking up steadfastly into heaven, and seeing

Jesus sitting on the right hand of power, and saying, "Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, that will I give unto you"—lift up the prayer, THY KINGDOM HERE COME, AND THY WILL BE DONE, AS IT IS IN HEAVEN, then, will the work, which is indeed so vast, and to which our mightiest resources are so utterly incompetent—then, will this work be DONE. OUR COUNTRY WILL BE SAVED! AND THE NATIONS OF THE EARTH WILL RISE IN THE LIGHT OF IT, TO GLORY AND TO GOD!

APPENDIX.

Auxiliary Societies, Agencies, and Committees of Missions, and the nature of their connexion with the A. H. M. S.

State and other large Auxiliaries.

Most of the state Missionary Societies were in existence before the formation of the National Society, and some of them—as the Missionary Societies of Connecticut and Massachusetts—were among the earliest organized efforts in our country for sending the Gospel to the destitute. They have voluntarily connected themselves with the A. H. M. S. from a conviction that greater unity of plan and efficiency in action would thereby be promoted.

The terms by which the Auxiliaries are connected with the Parent Society, are such as to secure the following objects, viz :

First—The Auxiliary is not superseded or overshadowed by the National Institution, but, on the contrary, is invigorated and sustained by connexion with it. This is secured by the provision that the Auxiliary is the sole agency for this cause that operates on its field. It controls all appointments in the state to which it belongs. From it alone the feeble churches receive assistance. Thus a direct relation and strong attachment is cherished towards it, in the hearts of the ministers and churches.

Again—While the local operations of the Auxiliary are thus encouraged and sustained, its connexion with the Parent Society is such as to awaken an interest in the destitute beyond its own limits, and afford facilities for reaching them. It is not only a Society for local purposes, but it is also a branch of the National Society, and as such, has the control of all agencies for the collection of funds within its own field, and can direct the manner in which its surplus resources shall be expended beyond its own limits. Thus the state and other large Auxiliaries are not merely organizations to help the Parent Society ; they are integral parts of it, bound together in one whole by a common interest in, and free access through the Parent Society, to the great field to be occupied, and governed by the same general principles and rules in carrying on their work.

The Auxiliaries holding this relation to the National Society, are the following :—The state Missionary Societies in Maine, Massachusetts, New-Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut and Rhode-Island ; the Canada Home Missionary Society ; the Philadelphia Home Missionary Society, which extends its operations over the states of New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland ; and the Western Reserve Domestic Missionary Society, in Northern Ohio.

Agents.

Besides taking up contributions for Home Missions, the Agents of the A. H. M. S. exercise a general superintendence of the operations of the Society within their respective fields. By correspondence and personal visitation, they ascertain the wants of the destitute ; assist them to obtain the preaching of the Gospel ; and instruct and encourage them to develope their own means for its support. They receive applications for aid, and make such preliminary examination as may be necessary before submitting them for the action of the Executive Committee ; and in other ways, labor to insure a judicious and economical application of the Society's funds.

At present, the Society has in its employ no merely collecting agents, nor any whose services are not required for other purposes in the regions where they labor.

The Secretaries of several of the larger Auxiliaries already mentioned, are also the Agents for this cause in their respective bounds. Besides these, the Parent Society has in commission the following, who devote, some the whole, and others a part of the time, to this work, viz :—

Rev. ASA TURNER, in Iowa, part of the time :

Rev. STEPHEN PEET, in Wisconsin.

Rev. HENRY LITTLE, in the portions of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee and Kentucky, which may be conveniently associated with Cincinnati, as a centre.

Rev. F. BASCOM, in Northern Illinois, performs some of the duties of a voluntary Agent, in connexion with missionary committees appointed by the Fox River Association and the Ottawa Presbytery. Also, Rev. THERON BALDWIN in Southern Illinois, devotes such portions of his time to this work, as can be spared from other duties.

Rev. JOHN A. MURRAY, in Western New-York.

Rev. ABIJAH CRANE, in Central New-York.

In certain districts, where the duties of an Agent are likely to be peculiarly responsible, there is associated with him a board of counsellors selected from the region of his labors, called an Agency. These Boards of Agency differ from Auxiliary Societies, in that they have no independent existence, but are appointed by the Executive Committee from year to year, and are governed by rules which the Committee prescribe. Their duty is to counsel and direct the Agent in carrying out the principles of the Society, and to give advice in relation to such local matters as may be submitted to them by the Executive Committee. The persons composing a board of Agency, are selected for their intelligence and interest in this cause, and their influence in promoting it; and are so distributed over the field as to secure a personal acquaintance with its condition. The Agent of the Society is also the Secretary of the Agency with which he is associated.

The existing Agencies of the Society are the following, viz: The Central Committee of Agency for the Western states; office at Cincinnati. The Marietta Agency, for nine counties lying in the vicinity of Marietta, O.; the Western and Central Agencies in the state of New-York, having their respective offices at Geneva and Utica. Lists of the persons composing these Agencies will be found on a subsequent page.

These boards of counsel might not have been necessary, had the ecclesiastical bodies on the ground been able and disposed to pay sufficient attention to the missionary work, and to act as its directors in their respective bounds. But the ministers composing them are usually scattered over a wide extent of territory, and meet but seldom, and only at seasons when they are much occupied with other business; and accordingly, it has been necessary in some cases to organize agencies for this specific work. But in other cases, Synods, Presbyteries and Associations have chosen to act as Auxiliaries of the Society, availing themselves of the provisions of its constitution, which gives them the general control of missionary operations in their respective churches. Ecclesiastical bodies thus related to the A. H. M. S. act through Committees of Missions.

The A. H. M. S. has ever regarded the ecclesiastical bodies as the appropriate judges of the standing of their own ministers, and of the wants of the churches in their connexion. Accordingly, the commission issued to every missionary requires, that his credentials be acceptable to that ministerial body of his denomination within whose bounds he is appointed to labor. And the various Presbyteries, Associations, &c. are invited to appoint, each, a Committee of Missions from its own members, to receive applications from its churches, and suggest to the Society the action proper in each case. Such a committee constitutes the official source to which reference can be had for information and advice in all matters pertaining to missions in the connexion to which it belongs. This mode of co-operation has been preferred by numerous ecclesiastical bodies, from the first formation of the Society. It guaranties to the churches of each denomination represented in the Society, that their respective claims shall be fairly considered with all the advantage of having the endorsement of the body to which they belong. It also relieves the Parent Society from the responsibility of any error that may be committed in a given appointment, and transfers it to the Committee of Missions, by whom it is recommended, and on whom it properly devolves. The advice of such a Committee is therefore regarded as the highest authority, and has the same influence with the Society as that of a Board of Agency appointed by itself.

There is one limitation to this influence, however, which ought to be stated. Should any ecclesiastical body so far swerve from the principles of truth and Gospel order, as not to be in fellowship with the great body of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in our land, that fact would cause its recommendations not to be respected by the Executive Committee.

As cases may occur in which the feeble churches may not be aware of the existence of any board of Agency, or Committee of Missions, through whom to apply for aid, a general provision is made, that applications may be vouched by any two ministers of known and approved standing, who can certify to the facts of the case. If the information thus given is not sufficient, other facts are sought by the Executive Committee, through private correspondence.

Such, briefly, are the relations of the American Home Missionary Society to the various organs through which the community seeks to act out its missionary feeling. It will be seen that this plan secures the united action, in the missionary work, of those, whose views of doctrine and church order admit of co-operation, and whose interests in the great field are essentially the same. This combination insures a homogeneous policy as to the manner and amount of appropriations, and the qualifications of missionaries; it has discouraged sectional feelings, and diffused throughout each part an interest in all the rest; and thus has formed ties between the West and the East, along which have passed, from the latter to the former a silent and invisible current of moral influences, more valuable, if possible, than all pecuniary grants. At the same time, the connexion of the Parent Society with the various Associations that act with it, is such as to secure to them entire freedom in the missionary work, in their respective spheres, and an influence beyond them, in cultivating the waste places of our common country.

ADDRESS

Of Rev. S. L. Pomroy, at the Annual Meeting of the A. H. M. S.

Resolved, That the Gospel of Jesus Christ is adapted to the necessities of nations, not less than of individuals.

The first inquiry, said Mr. P., which naturally presents itself, is, what are "the necessities of nations?" What are the necessities of France, Spain, England, or any other country? The answer is, the necessities of a nation are precisely those things in which it falls short of attaining or securing the great object of the social compact. The object aimed at, theoretically and professedly, by national organizations, is the security of individual, personal rights. Among these may be mentioned a man's physical rights—his right to life, and to the means requisite to sustain it; his intellectual rights—the right to think, to know, to argue freely according to conscience, the highest and dearest of all liberties; moral rights—rights of conscience—the right to worship God when and where and how he pleases, provided he does not infringe upon the rights of others; domestic rights, the inviolability of the family compact; social rights, the rights of man as a member of human society; immortal rights—his rights as an accountable creature of God, destined to eternity—the right to abandon his sins, to love and serve God, and prepare for heaven. All these are human rights, inalienable rights, DIVINE rights. The nation that should fully secure these individual rights, would accomplish the great end of its existence, and promote the highest welfare of man, as a physical, intellectual, moral, social, accountable, immortal being.

But what nation or kingdom under the whole heaven does thus fully secure the rights, and promote the highest welfare, of its citizens for time and eternity? Not one. Nations are made up of individuals, proud, selfish, revengeful, rebels against God. Can such a people enact laws and administer a government that shall not violate human rights? Judge ye!

How is it with our own beloved country? Are our constitution, our legislation, judicial proceedings, executive administrations, state and national, all "holy, just and good?" Are we, as a nation, doing all we can and ought to do, to promote the physical, intellectual, moral, social, eternal welfare of each and every inhabitant? Are there no physical necessities unprovided for among us? Have the wants of the human mind been every where met? Are there not some 700,000 free white persons in this enlightened land who can neither read nor write? What provision has been made for the moral and spiritual wants of this great community? There are large sections of the country where the Gospel can hardly be said to be preached at all.

That, as a nation, we have not attained the objects contemplated in the organization of nations, is evident enough from various signs which are visible all around our horizon. What, for instance, means that fanatical spirit which pervades the whole country, and which is so easily kindled into a flame?

What is indicated by the existence of that reckless, infernal mob-spirit, which ever and anon stalks abroad, scattering fire-brands, arrows and death? What means that sighing of the prisoner which I hear, that clanking of chains, about which men are afraid to speak, that deep, smothered, yet audible groan which is going up from three millions of abused and crushed spirits into the ear of the Lord God Almighty? What means that dark, fiendish spirit, that may be seen sitting upon the crest, or creeping, like a snake, among the folds of every storm-cloud that passes over the land?—a lying, truckling spirit, with one eye, and that, as Carlyle said of Robespierre, “sea green;” and one object in view, to wit, the next election, which he means to carry by any means, by all means, fair or foul—a spirit that is ready to ally or sell himself to Popery or slavery, to Joe Smith or the Devil, or any other potentate or power that will give him voters and votes.

What means this trembling anxiety which many of our wisest men feel respecting the mighty armies that come thronging the great highway of nations, and pouring themselves upon our shores, and here rearing their citadels, arranging their forces, and preparing, as they hope for the conquest of this glorious land? What is the matter? Where lies the ground of this anxiety? What mean, I say, all these elements of evil at work within the nation with such galvanic power—threatening to tear us asunder, or bury us in the gulf of eternal infamy and ruin? Do they not intimate at least that we have not yet attained the great, benign and blessed objects for which nations were instituted? Is it not clear to a demonstration, that our necessities are great, our iniquities infinite? No man can open his eyes and not see, that we are full of wounds and bruises and putrifying sores, which have not been bound up, neither mollified with ointment, and our disease is not abating—our transgressions are not diminishing. We are daily sinking deeper and deeper in depravity.

Now the resolution, which I hold in my hand, affirms that the Gospel of Jesus Christ is adapted to the necessities of nations. And what, I ask, are the necessities of a nation but the necessities of the individuals who compose the nation? Let the wants of the individuals of a nation, physical, intellectual, moral, social, be fully met; and what can that nation want more? What necessities remain?

And surely, sir, it is not difficult to see how Christianity may elevate and bless a community. Look at its doctrines. Contemplate the character of its great Author, as revealed in the scriptures of truth. What an object to hold up before the mind and heart of a mighty empire!

“Fly through the world, O Sun, and tell How dark thy beams compared to his.”

Consider the character and work of Christ. What an irresistible charm there is in that cross on which he died! The cross is the symbol of the most glorious truth that ever dawned on this benighted world. Christianity also teaches the brotherhood of the human family—a fact of momentous interest and importance.

Look at the precepts of the Gospel—its injunction of supreme love and obedience to God; respect for the magistrate and obedience to the laws; and impartial love to our neighbor.

Look at its institutions—its church organizations, its day of holy rest, its ministry of reconciliation, giving line upon line, precept upon precept.

Now these doctrines, precepts and institutions of Christianity are adapted to enlighten, elevate, purify, and bless a nation, by enlightening, elevating, purifying, and blessing the individuals who compose it.

Let this Gospel with all its benign influences penetrate and permeate the nation—let it have free course; and who can doubt that all our physical, intellectual, moral, domestic, social, immortal rights and interests will be secure? Our fanatical tendencies will be arrested and cured. That fearful mass of brutish ignorance, which now hangs like a millstone about our necks, will be instructed and become instinct with life. The manufacture, sale and use of intoxicating drinks, as a beverage, will come to a perpetual end, and those “breathing holes of hell” be stopped up. Popery will sink like a millstone in the sea and be found no more at all. It is not the Gospel, and cannot breathe its atmosphere without losing its identity. If we had faith as a grain of mustard-seed, we should never, for a moment, entertain feelings of apprehension from this source. God in his providence is bringing these myriads of poor ignorant beings to our shores, and scattering them among our Protestant population, that we may do them good—the good which we either would not or could not do them in their own land. I wish I had five hundred hands, that I might go down to the shore and take by the hand every emigrant as he sets his foot on our shores. I would say to him, brother, walk in. If you are hungry, we have bread enough and to spare. If you are cold and naked, here you will find clothing and shelter. If you are sick, we have physicians and systems of medicine in abundance, and they are at your service. Receive him thus, and you will find that an Irishman has a heart. You will make him believe, that after all there are good people among those Protestants; and will win him at length to the cause of truth. But if you go down to the shore, and double up your fist at him, and charge him with designs of treason and murder in coming hither, you at all events make him an enemy, and shut up the door of his heart against all efforts to promote his spiritual good. The great mass of the Catholic population among us certainly harbor no such designs, and if we would do them good we must treat them kindly. At any rate, if Protestantism cannot cope with Popery on this free soil, in the midst of Bibles, and Sabbaths, and schools, and seminaries; then I say let us give up the contest, and hasten back to Rome and get absolution as speedily as possible.

Let the Gospel have free course, let it be preached in its purity, and its principles be faithfully applied, and it will undermine the great blood-stained citadel of slavery, and send it down, chains, manacles, dungeons and all, like Lucifer and his hosts from the battlements of heaven, nine days deep into the gulf of annihilation; and in its place will spring up a bright and beautiful temple for God and liberty.

That mean, truckling, contemptible spirit of party, that is now corrupting and ruining the nation, will add speed to his flight, like a modern governmental defaulter, and never again set foot on these blessed shores.

The same Gospel, sir, and nothing but the Gospel, can long hold the elements of this nation in union. We are a “mingled people.” Our interests clash—our prejudices in many things are at variance. If the Gospel go not forth in its power into all parts of the land, some who hear me will probably live to see this great nation dashed in pieces like a potter’s vessel, and at the noise and crash of our downfall, every despot of the old world will rise from his throne and thank God that he was not doomed to be the citizen of an American Republic.

The Gospel is what this nation wants, the whole Gospel, and nothing but the Gospel. With this, we stand; without it, we fall. It has already done and is doing a marvellous work in this land; and I trust in God it will yet accomplish its full mission of mercy, breaking down the strong holds of sin, and saving the millions that are ready to perish.

Sir, I cannot but think there is hope for us as a nation. Why was God six thousand years in preparing this rich, beautiful, magnificent country for the reception of our fathers? Why did he plant such a nation here? Why has he intrusted to us such amazing interests? Would he have shown us such great things if it had been his pleasure to kill us? Let us fervently pray, that we may yet be truly regenerated, and that the powers and functions of our government having been properly adjusted, we may move along the bright pathway of our history, dispensing rich and still richer blessings even down to the final consummation of all things.

If such be the destiny that awaits us, we may be quite sure that we have a work and a labor to perform of no trifling importance. Within 25 years a work must be wrought in this land such as we have not seen, and such as will put in requisition the faith, the energies, and all the resources of the church of the living God among us, or we go down—we sink forever.

What then is the conclusion of the whole matter? It is, that every one who has the hope of the Christian, should drink deeper into the spirit of the Gospel, and gird on his armour more firmly than he ever did before. The great want of this age is more piety. We have not religion enough to meet the calls of God and the exigencies of the times in which we live.

We must open our hearts and our hands and give more liberally of our substance. There is property enough in the church, if it were only consecrated to Christ.

We must publish and proclaim every where through all our borders, the unsearchable riches of the Gospel, and lay the offer of salvation at the feet of every man, woman and child in the nation, at whatever cost.

If you have in your possession a golden trumpet, (which few have,) set it to your mouth, and let the message of mercy float on its rich, mellow, subduing, melting tones.

Perchance you have a silver trumpet; if so, blow that. Let its clear, silvery, persuasive notes fall on the ear of dying men. Some will hear; and hearing, their souls shall live.

Or, it may be God has given you a brazen bugle, such as stirs up men's souls, and moves to mighty deeds. If so, set it to thy mouth, and blow the everlasting Gospel. Let its loud, shrill, truth-telling, thrilling notes echo along the hills, and roll over the mountains till they reach the farthest dweller in the wilderness.

If you have nothing better than a ram's horn, blow, blow it with all your might, and if the heaven-defying towers of sin and the bulwarks of wickedness do not come down on the first day, don't be discouraged; but up again on the second day, with the dawning light, and blow loud and long, and on the seventh day, which is the day of the Lord, blow seven times, which is the perfect number, and remember how the walls of Jericho came down.

In a word, if the Christians of this land, or indeed any considerable portion of them, will awake to their duty, and labor and pray, and pray and labor, with an unflinching trust in the great Head of the church, we shall live and not die. Ten righteous would have saved Sodom, or to echo the language of the Report just read, "OUR COUNTRY WILL BE SAVED! AND THE NATIONS OF THE EARTH WILL RISE IN THE LIGHT OF IT, TO GLORY AND TO GOD!"

EXTRACTS FROM THE MONTHLY PUBLICATIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE OF THE A. H. M. S.

From a Speech of Hon. J. C. Calhoun.

Our population is rolling towards the shores of the Pacific, with an impetus greater than what we realize. It is one of those forward movements which leaves anticipation behind. In the period of thirty-two years which have elapsed since I took my seat in the other House, the Indian frontier has receded a thousand miles to the West. At that time, our population was much less than half what it is now. It was then increasing at the rate of about a quarter of a million annually; it is now not less than six hundred thousand; and still increasing at the rate of something more than three per cent. compound annually. At that rate, it will soon reach the yearly increase of a million. If to this be added, that the region west of Arkansas and the State of Missouri, and south of the Missouri river, is occupied by half-civilized tribes, who have their lands secured to them by treaty, (and which will prevent the spread of population in that direction, and that this great and increasing tide will be forced to take the comparatively narrow channel to the north of that river and south of our northern boundary, some conception may be formed of the strength with which the current will run in that direction, and how soon it will reach the eastern gorges of the Rocky Mountains. I say some conception; for I feel assured that the reality will outrun the anticipation. As wise and experienced as was President Monroe—as much as he had witnessed of the growth of our country in his time, so inadequate was his conception of its rapidity, that near the close of his administration, in the year 1824, he proposed to colonize the Indians of New-York, and those north of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi, in what is now called the Wisconsin Territory; under the impression that it was a portion of our territory so remote, that they would not be disturbed by our increasing population for a long time to come. It is now but 18 years since; and already, in that short period, it is a great and flourishing territory, ready to knock at our door for admission as one of the sovereign members of the Union. But what is still more striking—what is really wonderful and almost miraculous, is, that another territory (Iowa) still further west, (beyond the Mississippi,) has sprung up, as if by magic, and has already outstripped Wisconsin, and may knock for entrance before she is prepared to do so? Such is the wonderful growth of a population, which has attained the number ours has, and is still yearly increasing at the compound rate it is; and such the impetus with which it is forcing its way, resistlessly, westward.

Such are the convictions of an experienced and sagacious civilian. And now, we would ask, what kind of government and religion shall the people have, who are to swarm over this yet unmeasured extent? Shall they be a law-abiding people? Shall they have christian institutions—Protestant institutions? Will our children be among them?

And who are to educate and mould those hordes? What generation is entrusted with the charge of giving form to their moral image? There can be but one answer. This generation—our readers among the rest—must meet the responsibility. If we, who live now, omit or postpone this work; if we do it not with all our might, how can those who succeed us do it, when it shall have so greatly increased in magnitude and difficulty?

Facts not to be forgotten.

If the population of the United States shall double every thirty years, (and the President of the United States estimates that it doubles every twenty-three years) it would amount in fifty years to between seventy and eighty millions; and in a hundred years to two hundred and seventy-five millions. Allowing thirty-three years as the age of a generation, the conversion of these millions is (instrumentally) the work for the next three generations! What the last of these shall be, depends, under God, on the second; and what the second shall be depends on that which is now on the stage. How true it is, that the work of the present generation cannot be handed over to the next.

What is the teaching of such facts?

Facts like these admonish us to do what our hands find to do for our country with all our might. There is said to be a hill in Europe, from the top of which bursts forth a spring, and that the removal of a single spade-full of earth may determine whether its waters shall fall into the Rhine, and thus reach the Atlantic; or whether they shall flow in the opposite direction, and mingle with the sources of the Danube, that winds its way through many distant states, and is finally lost in the waves of the Euxine. So diverse are the ends towards which the current of our nation's destiny may be turned; and now is the time, and this the generation which is to determine which way the stream shall run. A few years have greatly altered the moral aspect of the nation; and a few years more will make greater changes still. An era in our history seems to be at hand, and many a heart is failing for fear of the events that will follow. Whatever is done to give an evangelical type to those events must be done soon. A dollar expended for the salvation of the country ten years ago, was worth two expended now; and the same amount now will far exceed in usefulness what it will if not employed until ten years hence. This is the day of our country's salvation; a few thousands of treasure may prevent her ruin; millions might fail to retrieve it!

The West, its present condition and prospective Influence.

Delay is ruin.

The more I ponder upon the subject of Home Missions, and listen to the almost daily recital of new and interesting facts bearing upon it, the more I feel the imperious necessity of the sacramental host's of God's elect coming up now to his help against the mighty. Delay here will not only ruin thousands of souls, but greatly retard the glorious latter day of the Redeemer's triumphant reign on earth.

Every day is here laying foundations for future generations, who are to wield a mighty influence on the destinies of this nation. Not less than three county-seats, within a short distance of this place, are open for the labors of efficient ministers, and which form such points of radiating influence as I have named. O! what results might be expected from the labors of faithful ministers there! Are there none to thrust in the sickle and secure the harvest for the Lord? "The field is white, and the harvest great," but where are the laborers? GLEANNING at the East.

I wish all the candidates for the ministry, in the Theological Seminaries, as well as some of the ministers now in the field, would attentively read, and prayerfully reflect upon a note, contained in the Comprehensive Commentary, vol. 4, page 596, on Luke 24: 36—48, by the late lamented Dr. WISNER. It would aid them in determining their proper field of labor. It is true, he primarily refers to the Foreign Mission field; but, if his principles of reasoning are correct, it is clear, "that it is not, as is commonly done, to be taken for granted by those who come into the ministry, that they are to remain," in the older States, "unless a case of duty can be made out for them," to go to the West; "but it is to be taken for granted, that they are to be employed in preaching the Gospel in the destitute region of the West, and there building up christian institutions, unless a case can be made out for them to remain" at the East, where the institutions of religion are already established.

Perhaps there was never before so favorable an opportunity for exerting an influence in this vicinity in favor of orthodox sentiments. There has been a happy change of feeling in regard to an educated ministry. The more intelligent portion of the community will not attend the meetings of those whose only evidence that God has called them is, "that they can preach so well when so ignorant."

Now is the accepted time!

From Iowa a missionary writes:

"The field is white already for the harvest. There seems to be an increased conviction on the minds of the mass of the people, that 'religion is the chief concern of mortals here below.' I feel that now is the time to gather in the harvest. Sinners are inviting us to preach the everlasting Gospel. The Holy Spirit is inviting us to go out into the highways and hedges, and compel men to come in. I know the number of laborers has increased—almost doubled—in our connection, the past year; but the demand is increased, not diminished. The few that come to our aid seem to be lost, just as the little stream is lost, that makes its way to one of our lakes, or to the Father of Rivers. The state of things in this territory demands a greatly increased number of laborers from the A. H. M. Society—1st. Because immigration is more rapid than ever before; men are pouring in here every day and every hour. 2d. God is holding the pursuit after the world in check; a dark cloud hangs over our pecuniary affairs. True, many are perplexed and troubled, and the minds of many are soured; still the mass begin to feel, that they must lay up treasure somewhere else than on earth. 3d. The Holy Spirit seems to be hovering over the territory. Such times should be improved. If we had five times as many laborers as we have, all filled with the Holy Ghost, they would have enough to do. One year's labor now may be worth more than ten by-and-bye. Such a state of things existed when I first entered Illinois, twelve years ago; but it did not return for years. My prayer is, that you will send us on forthwith some true yoke-fellows."

Changes in twelve years.

I have recently taken a circuit of about 250 miles over the central part of Illinois, and I can assure you, the feelings that were awakened in my mind were indescribable, as I contrasted the populous towns, and thickly settled neighborhoods, broad fields and numerous spacious barns and dwelling-houses, with what Illinois was, when, 12 or 15 years ago, I traversed its wide-spread plains, meeting nothing for a half, or even for a whole day, but the wolf and the badger, and as I thought of the unborn millions that must tread this fertile soil, under the influence of the religious institution we are now establishing, I involuntarily inquired, "who is sufficient for these things?"

Changes in five years.

Not quite five years ago, I first preached in—— neighborhood; then quite a small room, say sixteen feet by eighteen, held the congregation very comfortably; and there were not more than 9 or 10 professors of religion. Now we have a church there of about 50 members; there are 9 or 10 members of the Methodist church there, and 15 or 16 of the Baptist church; so that it is now quite a church going community. The change at—— is almost as great. So that the country over which these churches extend, some 30 miles in length, by 8 or 10 in breadth, is now hardly surpassed in morality and religious influence by any neighborhood of the same extent in the western country; and I hope to see them able, in a very little while, to sustain the Gospel among themselves.

Are the facts known?

Do the churches at the East understand the state of things here? Do they realize the importance of immediate effort? If they do not, the enemy does, and acts upon it too. Let Christians in the East remember that their brothers and sisters, and sons and daughters, are here, and many of them cut off from the stated means of grace, and spending their Sabbaths in silence, while they possess, almost to repletion, the preaching of the word. And often while such mourn in secret, and long for the crumbs that fall from your tables, they refrain to disclose their real situation. I have seen such cases. Some have not had the opportunity of a communion season for five or six years; while their children are growing up without the influence of the sanctuary and the stated means of grace.

No time to be lost.

Truly there is a great harvest to be gathered in, in all the length and breadth of this valley, and NO TIME TO BE LOST. For Mormonism, Romanism, Campbellism and Universalism, are making encroachments every day. Evidently, the church should be on the alert, with regard to the West. Some religion it will have; true Christianity should therefore be presented to every neighborhood speedily, lest while we sleep the enemy sow tares and great evil ensue. May God have mercy on the West, and prepare it to aid much in the conversion of the world to Christ!

How it strikes an Eastern man, after living in the West.

So much are the people discouraged, that there begins to be much inquiry, what can be done here to supply our own wants? The result will be, that, if well educated and qualified ministers cannot be had from abroad, an inferior ministry will occupy the ground, and the consequence I need not foretell. O, if ministers at the East did but know the importance of now occupying this ground, and did but realize the influence they might wield here for the cause of Christ, and if they had withal the spirit of Paul, there would be, to use a western phrase, "a general rush" to the field. If the whole truth on this subject were seen and felt in all its force, it would be difficult to keep ministers enough in the older States, to supply their wants.

Changes in Missouri.

The Platte country, which lies in the N. W. corner of the state, is now more densely settled than any other portion of the state, except St. Louis county. One county in that district, and that the smallest county in the state, now numbers 12,000 inhabitants; and yet it is but five years since it was purchased from the Indians, or white men were allowed to settle on any part of it. Two years ago, the steamboats carried produce into the county, now they visit it with very little freight, and return loaded down with produce. There are three or four county seats, and one large trading town on the river, in the Platte purchase, and yet, as will be seen by the correspondence below, there is only ONE Presbyterian minister in all that country, which is over 100 miles in length by 60 miles in breadth. There are eight or ten county seats in the state, containing each from 500 to 1500 inhabitants, which are entirely without Presbyterian or Congregational preaching. No state in the Union is increasing in population and wealth more rapidly than Missouri. Its principal city, St. Louis, enjoys the pre-eminent advantage of a position in the centre of the great valley of the West, and a direct steam-boat communication North, South, East and West, on some of the largest rivers in the world. What other city can boast of an increase like that which has raised the population of St. Louis, in the last four years, from 12,000 to 32,000? And yet, so less wise than "the children of this world' are "the children of light," that this commanding point and its adjacent territory, are almost overlooked by Protestants, while in the conclaves at Rome and Vienna, all its advantages are discussed and appreciated, and an army of ecclesiastics is poured in to gain and to hold this fair possession for Antichrist. The rich of Catholic Europe buy the liberty to sin, and the poor give the price of their toil and pain, and straightway cathedrals, colleges, nunneries and schools spring up on our soil as if by magic.

The West will govern the nation.

For years, the tactics of politicians have been shaped with a view to gain the favor of the West; this has been regarded as a significant omen of the future influence of the Mississippi Valley. But not until the census of 1840 was it generally supposed that the period of transfer of political power to the West was so near at hand. What shall be the moral training of those men who are to be the future majority in our national legislature? The friends of Home Missions must answer.

The East interested in the character of the West.

Notwithstanding all the reports of missionaries, and the intelligence which is published, there are multitudes of Christians at the East, who have a very defective knowledge of the situation and wants of the West. It seems to me that every patriot, philanthropist, and Christian in this country, has not only some thing, but much to do in shaping, moulding, and building up the moral institutions of the West, for it needs not a prophet's ken, to tell that the balance of power and influence will in a few years be on that side of the Alleghany mountains. Let our population continue to roll its annual tide over the immense regions of the South and West, and this mass of mind be left without the controlling influence of pure moral principles, and soon all the blessings of our freedom will be things that were; and anarchy and misrule will take their place. Whatever, therefore, is done to create a correct standard, must be done soon, for now the foundations are being laid for future generations to build upon.

The East responsible.

O, if the eastern churches did but know the power they wield through you, for the good of our land and for the cause of Christ, you never would, I am sure, want funds to carry out your most extensive plans. They must send us many more able and faithful men, and that too ere long, or it will be too late to save the West; and this opportunity lost, and the sun of our country's glory will set in gloom, and Satan will triumph in the contest he is now waging here for the possession of this land.

But not only must they send us men and money—they must give us their prayers. Queen Mary once said, she would rather meet an army of 20,000 men, than the prayers of John Knox. And I verily believe, that one good praying mother in Israel, on her knees, gives Satan more uneasiness about his possessions here, than all the speeches and flourish of anniversaries. While, then, the eastern churches contribute money and send men to build up religion at the West, let them not forget, that their prayers are not the least powerful instrument which they can wield for the salvation of our land.

New purchase of lands in Iowa.

Our territory is assuming new importance, from the fact, that a treaty has just been concluded with the Indians on our western border, effecting the purchase of all their lands, extending west to the Missouri river, and north to the Neutral grounds; a large portion is to be opened next spring, and we may expect an immense flood of emigration. What shall be done to carry the Gospel with this tide of immortal beings?

The territory here referred to as just purchased, contains ten millions of acres, or more than 15,000 square miles. Thus, a region double the state of Massachusetts in size, is added to this single territory of Iowa, and thousands now stand on the line, with axe in hand, ready to build the log dwelling of the pioneer. Every main road has, the last autumn, been almost literally lined with men, women, children and flocks and herds, intent to be among the first to take possession.

Missions among the Miners in Wisconsin.

square. From 25,000 to 35,000 persons are supposed to be congregated on this tract, a large portion of whom are engaged in raising from the earth, or in smelting the ore of lead. As a general fact, the population is shifting continually. Many who spend their summers in agricultural pursuits, in other sections of the country, come here to employ the winter months in mining, stimulated not merely by the hope of obtaining cash, (which agriculture will not always, in these times, command,) but also by the spirit of speculation which finds ample excitement amid the various uncertainties of the business. Mining almost necessarily begets the spirit of gambling. Every "new discovery,"—i. e. every new place where "mineral" (lead ore) is discovered in a section before untouched, draws together adventurers. Then succeeds a time of speculation in "prospects," as the favorable appearances are called. A few only out of the multitude realize their expectations, as the miner in "prospecting," sinks his "shaft" at random into the earth, risking his time, labor and expense in the uncertain hope of meeting with "big mineral." Should he alight upon "float," i. e. mineral which appears to have been detached and carried away from the mass to which it originally belonged, he eagerly seeks to trace it to its "main body" by "drifting," or digging horizontal galleries, or by sinking new shafts perpendicularly, led on by the hope every moment of "striking a lead" and making his fortune. Hence, throughout the mineral district, the surface of the earth is, here and there, dug up and covered with rubbish, from these shafts, of from 5 to 200 feet deep. Around these unsightly mounds, the inhabitants are clustered, mostly in log or sod cabins, with here and there the framed, brick or stone buildings of those whose success has given them an eminence in the community, or who come to the diggings for the purpose of trading in such articles as miners may require, and too often, to minister that liquid venom which inflames the passions as well as poisons the blood. Almost every portion of the globe has its representatives in such a community. Not only the adventurer from the East or South, but the miner from Cornwall and Yorkshire, and other places in Great Britain; and in all places, the German or Irish Catholic.

A correspondent informs us, that these places are ludicrously named, in a manner which very significantly expresses the position of the mass of the people in the scale of refinement: such as "Pinhook diggings," "Rattlesnake diggings." Others have such appellations as "Hardscrabble," "Fair-play," "Nip & Tuck," &c., &c. Too often, men acquire large sums of money, by setting up what are called groceries, but are in fact gambling establishments, with their invariable attendants, ardent spirits. Hither, at night, on the Sabbath, and at other vacant hours, the miners have been accustomed to resort to lounge, and seek for excitement in the social glass, or the more intoxicating game.

Is there no Brainerd for the miners.

I do not believe there is a more promising and interesting field for ministerial labor than this mining region, embracing the S. W. corner of Wisconsin, the N. W. corner of Illinois, and a small section of Iowa opposite these. The miners have leisure, and will attend meetings in the evening, and are very susceptible to religious impressions; and many points are now presented, where a precious work of grace might be witnessed as the result of faithful preaching. O, I would love to devote myself to labors among the miners, had I not another charge! Would that some Brainerd could be found who would enter this field, and labor from cabin to cabin, as he did among the natives, and break the bread of life—what results would follow! IS THERE NO BRAINERD FOR THE MINERS?

The East—Need of Home Missionary efforts.

Vermont.

"There are in Vermont not far from sixty towns in which are no Congregational churches, and which, so far as our denomination is concerned, are without the institutions of the Gospel. In most of them the regular administration of these institutions is needed, and should be had. To these should be added sixty towns in which are churches without ministers, permanently destitute. And the fact is, a church without a minister, is scarcely, at the best, more than no church, and in truth very soon ceases to be. Very many of those churches in Vermont which have been long destitute of the stated ministry, though they have a name to live, are dead. This calculation gives us 120 towns. Probably it is a little within the truth. It is no doubt safe to throw into this field one half the State. All of half the territory of Vermont is, so far as our denomination is concerned, destitute of the gospel ministry; and one-half of this destitution is without church organization, while in the remaining moiety a large portion of the light that should be, is darkness."

New-Hampshire.

"Though the number of feeble churches has, of late, been considerably reduced, it is still true that the resources of the Society are insufficient to aid all that remain in sustaining the institutions of religion. There are about 15 churches of the more feeble class to which this Society does not, at present, stand pledged. Six or seven of these churches are supplied with preaching either the whole or a part of the time, and no one of them is able, without assistance, to raise the lowest sum adequate for the support of the ministry. And besides, there are not a few towns and places where no churches and no regular christian order exist, that present inviting fields of missionary labor. The obstacles to the success of the Gospel in these places, though peculiar and great, are not perceived to be more so, than those that have been encountered and overcome in many other towns, now comparatively reclaimed from a state of moral darkness."

Massachusetts.

"Good men sometimes suggest a doubt whether there be much need of missionary work in the old State of Massachusetts. But what are the facts? One of your missionaries, located in the midst of a population of 1,400 souls, not more than 200 of which regularly attend any place of worship, thus writes:—"I have heard those who believe in the sanctity of the Sabbath, publicly held up to ridicule, as persons who were attempting to bring into use the obsolete institutions of the Jewish ritual. It is a known fact that a man's practice rarely rises above his belief; generally it falls below it. The statement will not, therefore, be deemed incredible when I say, that I hear as regularly and as constantly on the Sabbath, as on any other day, from early dawn till evening, the sound of the axe and saw, the plane and hammer. I see men performing all manner of labor, both in the field, and on the highways. Some of our stores are regularly thrown open on the Sabbath, and men of reputed respectability visit them for traffic. Our congregation is irregular, varying from 25 to 150. My hearers could often be doubled by going into the bar-room instead of the church—which stand on opposite sides of the street."

"But such wastes as these do not comprise the largest part of the missionary field in this Commonwealth, nor create the strongest necessity for continued effort. During the last twenty-five years, the main object of this Society has been to revive and strengthen churches that have been crushed almost, in their conflicts with religious error; to restore the discarded principles of faith and practice on which the churches of New-England were founded; to rekindle the torch of truth in temples where its light has been put out—an object as important as truth itself. Two-thirds of the whole field now occupied by your missionaries, answer to this description."

Home Missions—their importance and results.

A Home Missionary Motto.

The following is an extract from the "Annals of the Society for Propagating the Faith." "IT WOULD BE BAD ECONOMY TO DELAY THE ESTABLISHMENT OF CHRISTIAN INSTITUTIONS, WHERE THE LAND BELONGS—SO TO SPEAK—TO THE FIRST OCCUPANT." What an appropriate motto for the A. H. M. Society.

Home Missions not appreciated.

It has somehow become impressed on the public mind, that the work of evangelizing our own land is of minor importance, and requires smaller resources than the foreign enterprise. This opinion may have arisen from the greater extent and numbers of the unevangelized nations, or from the fact that various causes early combined to give the work of missions to the heathen a strong hold on the public mind, before Home Missions were attempted on a large scale. But whatever may have caused the existing proportion of public charity to these two objects, we are persuaded it is not according to their comparative demand on the churches of this country. In its just claims on American Christians, the HOME MISSIONARY CAUSE is second to no other.

Our duties modified by our relations.

Whatever duties we owe to the various parts of the world, it cannot be denied that there is a natural order in them. The people of Great Britain, for example, are under stronger obligations to spread the Gospel throughout that island than we are ; and for this plain reason, that it is their own home—they are there, with all their knowledge of the case and their means of influence : we, on the contrary, with all our means, are far removed. For the same reason, American Christians have a paramount duty to discharge to their own country. That those with whom our relations are most intimate, to whom we alone have free access, have the first claim on our care, is a position too plain to need argument. This order of nature we cannot violate, without violating the divine constitution which has given us different relations with different portions of mankind. Moreover, if we do not make adequate exertions for the salvation of our country, who will make them ? Who but ourselves ought to make them ? The duty of laboring for the heathen, we share in common with other christian nations ; the duty of converting our own land, we divide with none. The responsibility of the human agency in this work rests upon ourselves alone.

Facilities for Home Missions.

There are facilities for the successful employment of funds, in which Home Missions have great and unappreciated advantages. For example—the Home Missionary is not compelled to take up his residence in a foreign land, to sunder all the ties of kindred, and become an exile amid associations which, by their strangeness, prevent half his usefulness ; he withers not in an ungenial clime, that enervates his system, and sends him away from his work, or consigns him to an early grave ; but he dwells, comparatively among his own people and breathes his native air. He finds it not necessary to beg from any despot the privilege of laboring for his master. No time-honored barriers of caste oppose his access to the people. He need not spend his best years in gaining a doubtful mastery of different languages, nor in creating the elements of a scholastic as well as christian literature, nor assume the burden of the secular education of those whom he would save. These facilities are all provided ready to his hand ; and he may lay out his whole strength, in direct labor for the spiritual good of men. These facilities are so many talents which God's people are bound to improve. It is not seemly—nay God will not hold us guiltless, if they be allowed to remain buried in a napkin.

What hinders ?

What actually restricts our facilities for Home effort, but a restricted income ? Why is it, that so many heralds of the cross, in our new settlements, labor under disadvantages, that quench their enterprise, impair their usefulness, and cut short their days ? What, but the leanness of the missionary treasury hinders the employment of probably five hundred additional laborers in the next five years ? It is a known fact, that there are scores of unemployed ministers, who, in continuing so, are suffering a living martyrdom ; and yet are prevented by poverty from going where the ripening harvest is perishing for want of their labor. They are in debt for their education ; or they have families or other dependants who cannot dispense with their presence and support ; or that make their necessary wants too great to be met by the limited salary which missionaries receive. But the present restricted income of Home Missions almost compels the Society to pass by all these men, however varied and rich their qualifications, and to select chiefly young men, or those whose domestic relations admit of their being appointed at the minimum cost. Now, what a fact is this to be told of the church in this country—that a leading qualification of the agency she employs must be its cheapness ! and if her waste places cannot be built without more expense, they must still lie desolate, and the laborers must stand idle !

An aged Missionary's Testimony for Home Missions.

My feelings with regard to the importance of effort for the spiritual welfare of this great valley, are stronger than language can express. There is, in my view, serious danger that Romanism, will have a predominant influence in this valley. I have in view some reasons which I have not seen stated, and which it perhaps would not be expedient to state publicly. We need not, however, despair of Zion's ultimate triumph, for her King is on the throne. If faithful in his service, we have individually, nothing to fear ; and if the church as a body will be faithful, she need not fear. The hopes of millions hang on the A. H. M. Society, and the blessing of God attending her efforts.

Testimony of a Pioneer.

It is now more than thirteen years since I arrived in Michigan, under commission from your Society. There are now only three Presbyterian ministers here, who were then in this field. I have witnessed great changes. The population has increased from less than 30,000 to more than 200,000. Large villages now exist, where then was an unbroken wilderness. More than 100 churches now exist; then there were not more than 10 of our order. As a pioneer, I have struggled with difficulties and privations—but have never regretted that I came to Michigan. I thank God for sending me here, and permitting me to labor so long on this field. I have had the privilege, in my feeble measure, to aid in laying the foundations for many generations. I have had the privilege also of seeing the superstructure going up, and the wilderness blossoming as the rose.

Shall I then regret that my lot has been cast in these ends of the earth? Here I may feed those who are hungering for the bread of life; instead of expending my little energies upon those already surfeited. I rejoice then in my field of labor—I do not wish to exchange it. Here I have spent my best days of labor. Here I am willing still to endure privation, until my Master in heaven shall say, "It is enough," and call me to his rest. Here I expect to die, and hope to rise and joyfully meet some who, through my unworthy instrumentality, have been led to the Savior, and who shall be welcomed to his glorious rest.

Facts for Contributors to Home Missions.

Our church now numbers about fifty; of whom there were but twenty-five at the commencement of the year. Our prospects were never better, provided the ordinances of the Gospel can be sustained. This church owes its existence, under God, to your Society, and it now rests with the friends of Home Missions to say whether this field, with a vast many others, are to be left to be overgrown with briars and thorns. The people in this county are church-going; ministers they will have; and if not supplied by the church, the devil will supply them with something under the name of ministers.

Home Missions, or no Churches.

Ministers could not live here and preach the Gospel, without the aid which they receive from your Society. I have received during the last year thus far, from my society in cash, five dollars only, and that would not pay my postage; and my people are willing to do what they can. Some of my church have scarcely seen a dollar in money for several months. Lands around us are now in market. And one of my elders told me yesterday, that he should not attend the sale, for he could not get money to pay, and must let it rest and run the risk of losing his farm. And there are many in this situation in this section of the country.

Results.

A missionary says:—

Under missionary labor, within the past year, in this one church, God has brought into the kingdom near fifty souls; a neat brick church sufficient to contain a congregation of 350 or 400, has been erected; two students have been sent forth to prepare for the ministry, one of whom, we doubt not, has gone to glory. And an influence for good has been sent out all around.

Missionary aid indispensable.

I am distressed to hear of your empty treasury, for sure I am that neither churches nor ministers can live at the West without the aid of your Society. With all the economy and self-denial we can use, without your aid I could not stay here.

Encouraging.

Last season, a preacher was driven away from this place—and when I first began to hold meetings there, the conduct of many was quite disorderly—they seemed to spurn at the truth; but the Lord enabled me to preach fearlessly, and now I have not a larger or more still and attentive congregation in any place. I trust the way is preparing for a glorious revival. The impenitent seem troubled that there are so few professors of religion among them. The fact has particularly attracted their notice and they begin to inquire why is it so? I put up with a man, a few weeks since, who has recently built a frame barn. As there was only one room in his log-house, I went to the barn to study on Sabbath morning—he followed me, and seemed much affected at his condition, as an impenitent sinner.

A great Change.

The Washingtonian Temperance cause is going on finely. The public mind became aroused to the subject, and the cause asks no more. We had a meeting in our village a few nights ago, at which there was supposed to be five or six hundred persons, and but very few went home without having signed the pledge. I do not know that a half pint of spirits could be found within fifteen miles of us.

Visible improvement.

Both churches united now number about 100 members; whereas two years ago they numbered only 50. Then, each church had but a skeleton of a meeting-house, now one is fully completed, except painting, furnished with slips sufficient to accommodate 300 people, and in pleasant weather is filled with an attentive audience, while the other is completed, except the pulpit and slips. Then, neither church had a choir of singers; now, each have a respectable choir. Then, the Sabbath schools in both congregations, were mere cyphers; now, each has one, averaging, in favorable weather, 40 scholars; while most of the adult members form themselves into Bible classes in union with the Sabbath schools. But for the Home Missionary Society, these churches would have been without the means of grace, and probably soon without a name on earth.

A daughter of the Pilgrims comforted.

Early in the spring of 1842, I was called to a scene of this kind. The day was very hot; the roads extremely bad; the distance, 10 miles out, and my health quite poor. I wished to be excused; but the messenger was importunate. "Indeed," I said, "I do not think I can go; and besides, your people (he was a Catholic,) do not like to attend funerals where Protestant clergymen officiate." "Well," said the man, "but do come, if it is only for the poor old woman's sake. She is a Yankee, and feels dreadful bad. In a moment, the scene was before my mind—a widowed mother, in a land of strangers, weeping over the lifeless body of a beloved child. I accompanied the messenger to the house of mourning. Around the miserable log-cabin, were gathered some fifty Irish Catholics. As many more had crowded within. In the coffin lay the lifeless form of a female, whose sun had gone down while it was yet noon. On one side were ranged four little, weeping orphans, almost too young to realize the greatness of their loss. On the other side sat "the poor old woman," with her face hid in her handkerchief. Her frame shook violently; her heart was ready to burst. Her neat and genteel appearance indicated that she had not always lived in those associations. I took my place by her side, and in a low voice, said, "Mother, why weepest thou?" "Who calls me mother?" said she, hastily removing her handkerchief. "It's the clergy," whispered one of the women. The load was half removed. What followed, of unburdening her overladen heart, and of efforts of consolation, need not be detailed. She had indeed passed through deep waters. This was the last of her children. Acquaintance and friend had been put far from her. She was left with four helpless grandchildren. But she would not repine—the Lord gave, and the Lord had taken away, and "blessed be the name of the Lord." The services proceeded; the physician, one or two contractors, and perhaps half a dozen others, were Americans; the rest were Roman Catholics. Seldom have I enjoyed such freedom in speaking of the love of Christ to a perishing world. Many of my hearers were bathed in tears. I returned home, filled with peace and joy, and thankful that I had been permitted to dry that "poor old woman's" tears, and testify of the grace of God.

Diversity of Materials.

A minister serving those whose parents were served by his father, may not conceive of diversity so great as that which here exists. Our members (not over twenty in number,) come from Vermont, Massachusetts, New-York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky. In one family of three individuals, the father is from Pennsylvania, and the mother from Ohio; while the son is an Illinoisian.

On temperance, something may be added to my last report. No intoxicating drink is now sold within a circumference of one hundred miles.

Grateful retrospect.

In looking back to the beginning of last year, and tracing events along to where we now are, I can say, that in no year of my ministry, have I seen a change, that looked so much like new moulding the very foundations of society, as in the year just closed. And I rejoice and bless God, that he has enabled me to continue in this field, and to bear a part in this so glorious a work. Since I first came into this field, I have seen an entire change in the character of the population, over a district of 6 or 7 miles, by 15 or 18.

Indebtedness.

Our indebtedness to God is infinite, and we have nothing to pay. To the A. H. M. S., under God, we owe our very existence as a church, and we esteem it our duty and privilege to acknowledge it. May God bless our benefactors and enable them to go forward in the good work of clothing the naked, and feeding the hungry. In this way our brethren in the East are preparing a diadem for the Son of God in this far West. May they abound more and more in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as they know this work is not in vain in the Lord.

Progress sure though silent.

Those conditions of the physical nature which are most desirable, are the most gentle in their coming and their changes,—such as the lapse of the seasons; the silent growth and ripening of the grain and fruits; the unnoted circulation of the blood, and other functions of the body, which attract attention only when they become disturbed and painful. Something like this is true of the spiritual world. Often, where no progress is reported, there is a quiet growth of grace in christian hearts; a silent extension of the sway of truth over individuals, families and neighborhoods of the impenitent; a gradual increase of what may be called the fixtures and machinery of a well ordered congregation, as Bible classes, Sabbath schools, benevolent associations, libraries, accommodations for preaching, &c. These things occurring in steady succession, especially when attended by conversions, more or less frequent, prove that truth is doing its work, and that “the kingdom of God is” indeed “like leaven,” silently pervading the mass in which it is hidden. Such is the operation of the Home Missionary Society.

Hungering for the word.

Recently I have occasionally been out eight miles, where is a little handful of Christians, whom I helped to organize into a church last winter. They rejoice to see a minister of our order come and speak to them the words of eternal life. I often have families come eight, ten, and even twelve miles, and sit, and listen, and weep for joy, at the privilege of hearing the Gospel.

O, brethren, it would do your hearts good to feed these hungry sheep and lambs! Think not we have no sweets in the midst of our privations. O, we find a table in the wilderness! Manna is gathered in our log school-houses!

Privileges remembered.

While we have had some additions to our little church, our pecuniary ability is diminished—produce is so low, and the market is so far distant. Christians at the East do not know the value of their privileges. When comfortably seated in their commodious temples, let them think of their brethren crowded into log-cabins for worship, and they will, at least, offer thanksgiving for their own distinguished blessings; and it will be strange if they do not ask God to bless the means in use to provide their destitute neighbors with similar privileges.

New Church formed.

T. is a little village which formerly had the name of being one of the most wicked places in the country. There were some respectable people there, but they were covered up and hidden by a gang of dram-drinkers and gamblers, that collected in from the surrounding set-lements, and gave character to the place. The Washingtonians, however, had been there, and had been successful. They prepared the way for the Gospel, so that when I commenced, the people were ready to hear; although we had no house in which to hold a meeting. I commenced preaching in a grove, but it was soon too cold to sit out door at night. A gentleman invited us into one of his rooms, but it was soon found that this was quite too small to hold the congregation. The people then procured a house where liquid fire used to be sold. They cleared out the counters, shelves and a partition, fixed seats and a pulpit; and thus soon had a comfortable meeting-house. Some of the people in the vicinity, when they heard what was going on, said if they had heard that T. was burned up, they should not have been much surprised, for they had been expecting the judgments of God would come upon it, for its wickedness. But to hear that it had a meeting-house and a protracted meeting, and that souls were converted there, was to them truly astonishing. On the second Sabbath in October, assisted by brothers L. and B., I formed a church at this place consisting of 13 members.

Scenes of blessing.

Here were seen sisters and brothers, wives and husbands, parents and children, all ages, from the child of ten to the hoary headed. The scene in the inquiry-room was also deeply impressive. One of the elders of this church has for years enjoyed the privilege of going to the Lord's table with all of his children, seven in number. A son of another elder was hopefully converted. A son of another entertained a hope and united with the church; likewise a son of another elder. Three sons of another, professed to have passed from death unto life. Four children of a member of the church, united with the church. At least five or six wives, who had long prayed for their husbands, were made to rejoice in their hopeful conversion. Twenty-two united with the church, thirty-five or forty hopefully experienced religion.

A beautiful sight.

We think there are not many congregations in the most favored parts of our land, that can present a more interesting spectacle, on the Lord's day, than the one exhibited in a missionary church, as described below.

Our Sabbath school is increasing in interest. This is especially the case with the adult classes, belonging to it. The elderly men have a large class, taught by an elder in the church. The elderly women also have one, taught by Mrs. M. or by one of their own number; while I have under my care at the same time a Bible class, of from 20 to 30 of the youth, who are, I trust, studying the Holy Scriptures with interest and profit. Other youth still, who do not come into the class, come so near as to hear all that is said. A large portion of my congregation on the Sabbath are youth, a few of whom have of late made profession of religion, and a few others have entertained hope.

Delavan, (Wis.)—No rum there.

This place and vicinity have never known much of the sin of intemperance. In fact, it is considered a temperance community, almost every individual belonging to the temperance society. The little village of Delavan never contained a rum tavern or store, and there has never been a glass of intoxicating liquor either sold or drank in the place. The people are generally intelligent, and manifest a disposition to hear the truth.

How the People regard the Gospel.

It has not been mine to witness special outpourings of the Spirit of God, but I have found, every where, kind treatment, an attentive hearing, and, in some instances, anxiety for the welfare of the soul. Christians who have left the regular means of grace at the East, value the gospel as they should, and multitudes favor it under the impression of its importance to the civil and social interests of the community. This impression, I labor assiduously to strengthen. And here I may say, that every month's residence in the West tends to deepen my own impression, that all the funds expended by your Society would be well employed, if we regard only the temporal advantage conferred on these new and rising settlements.

Importance of a first impression.

I have found this to be a fact in a new country, that the people who are not pious become attached to the denomination that first comes among them. This is not often spoken of, nor duly appreciated. When individuals become pious, they already have their predilections, and their homes previously chosen. This I have observed, and it may be of use to you in sending out your laborers.

Spirit of the Missionaries.

It is our conviction that if any class of laborers in the great harvest of the world, more than another, calls for the daily prayers and constant sympathy of the people of God, it is a portion of our Home Missionaries at the West. Poor in worldly goods, charged generally with the support of young and increasing families, the interests of Christ's cause and the sentiments of the churches alike adverse to their engaging in secular pursuits for a support, receiving oftentimes but the merest pittance from the people to whom they minister, (the amount actually subscribed remaining not unfrequently in whole or in part unpaid,) and deriving in many cases from the Missionary Society a sum entirely inadequate, with their other actual receipts, to support them comfortably—they have suffered, they do suffer, and they must continue to suffer, for the love they bear to the cause of the dear Redeemer,—to the precious souls whom he has purchased with his blood. Still they are regarded as being on christian ground, as sustained by christian sympathy, and are therefore too often, in their labors and trials and faintness of heart, though pressed out of measure, above strength—forgotten by the people of God, not indeed in their annual contributions, but in their daily sympathies and petitions at the throne of grace. [Marietta Agency.]

Fragments from reports.

We speak of the labors, but not of the trials of a new country. For although we have many privations, yet we have never tasted the luxury of doing good, as we have here; and after riding with my wife four or five miles, in a rude conveyance, over a road scarcely passable, and finding at length the desired habitation, which most would pronounce quite unfit for the abode of human beings, we are more than repaid, by meeting perhaps a poor, isolated, neglected disciple of Christ, who is overjoyed to behold the man of God come to administer consolation, and express sympathy under her trials and bereavements. O, it is good to give but a cup of cold water to a disciple, in the name of Christ! It brings a present reward. It is good to carry the lambs of Christ's fold in the bosom, to support the weak, and to raise up the bowed down.

It gives me great pleasure to go to such new places, and take my stand in the centre of one of those log school-houses, with an attentive crowd of immortal souls gathered around, and there point to "the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world;" and especially, if I can meet a little band of Christians, rejoicing again to be permitted to hear the truth from a minister of their own denomination, and sitting with tearful eyes and open hearts, devouring every word, and being carried back, in imagination, to their eastern homes with all their spiritual privileges. O, let not our eastern brethren think that if we do want temporal comforts and luxuries, that we lack spiritual enjoyments to overbalance all our privations!

The sober truth in regard to many of us is, we have adopted this country as our home under a deep conviction of duty as servants of Christ. We understand Him to require us to live and labor here where we must literally "endure hardness as his good soldiers." And the longer we endure the evils incident to such a choice or perform the duties assigned us, the more we feel the importance of the arrangement, and the more firmly have we resolved to abide the consequences, rather than abandon fields that have already nearly gone to waste for want of earlier cultivation. And could we command pleasant locations, or such as would be even more desirable, in some respects, in older sections of the country, I do not believe our ranks would be thinned by the hope of better society or more conveniences. So long as we can be sustained in such a manner that we can "give ourselves wholly to our work," I hope we shall feel most cordially disposed to do so.
